CITIZENS ENDORSE COUNTY ROAD PROGRAM IN MASS MEETING

To Let Present Bond Issue Stand and Spend all Available Money on Roads

RESOLUTION ASKED FOR A COUNTY ROAD SUPERVISOR

In response to the call formerly issued and published by the commissioners court of Chilton County, a large and representative gathering of citizens from every section of the county assembled at the court house Tuesday morning to talk over the road situation with the commissioners present, and the two new commissioners who will take office the middle of this month.

Many expressions were made by a great number of citizens on all phases of the county road working system. From the standpoint of an interested listener, we would say that the outstanding thing in the minds of the people present was that Chilton County should press forward with all zealousness to the attainment of better roads. To this end the meeting passed two resolutions which we consider of great moment:

One resolution was in the form of a request to the commissioners court that they do not at this time attempt to lay aside any money to pay off the bonded debt of the county, but instead, use all the money available for the rapid improvement of the roads.

Another resolution was in the form of a request that the commissioners court employ a man for the job of county road supervisor, upon whose shoulders should rest the entire responsibility of properly performing the road work of the county as outlined and required by the commissioners court.

The attendance at the meeting was, we might say, far beyond our expectations. The interest shown in the subject of roads was such as to speak most highly for the citizenship of the county. It was truly a gathering representative of the county. Every beat in the county was represented; and as Mr. F. A. Gulledge expressed it, it was a gathering of the brawn and sinew of the citizenship of our county.

Judge Reynolds, chairman of the board of county commissioners, acted as chairman of the meeting. To begin with, he read the call for the meeting as promulgated by the commissioners court. After a short and very impressive talk he declared the meeting open for discussion from anyone who desired to say anything on the subject of roads.

A motion was made and carried limiting the speeches to five minutes each unless by unanimous consent to speak longer.

The first man to take the floor was Rev. M. J. Parrish of Beat 16, who remarked upon how good it is that the people of Chilton County, regardless of political and other differences, have come to the place where men

CALL PIANO MEET AT FRIENDSHIP

The members of Friendship church are asked to meet at the church on Friday night, January 7th at 7 o'clock. The purpose of the meeting is to discuss and decide whether or not the church will buy the piano which is at the church. A representative of the Starr Piano Company will be present to discuss his plans to the church. It is hoped that all the members who can will be present at this meeting.

F. A. GULLEDGE AT THE ROAD MEETING HERE ON TUESDAY

Hon. F. A. Gulledge of Verbena was a prominent figure at the citizens' road meeting at the court house on Tuesday. Mr. Gulledge is one of the largest property owners in our county and his interest in movements for progress and development always brings him to a public expression on important questions.

In his speech at the meeting Tuesday he appealed to the people of the county to uphold the county officials and help them to solve their road problems. He especially complimented the work which the county has recently done for the roads in Beat 5.

He discussed the proposal to use the county funds to create a sinking fund for the payment of the county bonded debt. He advocated letting the bonds float as originally intended and using the current funds of the county to improve our roads. In line with this discussion he introduced a resolution instructing the commissioners to use the county funds for improving the roads and not to attempt the payment of the bonded debt until 1935, when one-third of the debt should be paid; another third to be paid in 1940, and the last third to be paid in 1947. This resolution was adopted unanimously by the meeting.

Mr. Gulledge advocated another step in furtherance of our road improvement, which he termed the employment by commissioners of a general superintendent of our county roads. When this proposal was put to a vote it was carried without a single dissenting voice.

It has been stated recently that one-half the taxes of Chilton County are paid by the Alabama Power Company, one-fourth by the railroads and other corporations, and one-fourth by the individual citizens of the county. Last week the Alabama Power Company paid their taxes for the year 1926, by a check to Collector Tom Rockett for the amount of $142,-786.85.

Judge E. H. Foshee of Jemison was in attendance at the county road meeting here Tuesday.

CULP AND MURRAH WILL BE COLLIN'S DEPUTIES

Sheriff-elect, J. Dudley Collins, has announced the selection of Will G. Culp as his chief deputy and George W. Murrah as second deputy. Mr. Culp is well known in the county, having served as chief deputy under Sheriff Littlejohn the past four years. He was a candidate for Tax Collector in the primary last year and was defeated by only a very small margin.

Mr. Murrah has never held a public position before. He is a brother-in-law of Mr. Collins, and has lived in the Collins Chapel settlement all his life.

Sheriff Collins will live in the house close to the jail. Mr. Culp will move back to his home near the Grammar school. Mr. Murrah will live on the Lock 12 Road, about a mile from town. The present home of Mr. Collins on his farm near Friendship will be occupied by Mr. James Gillespie.

Mr. Collins will take over the duties of the sheriff's office on January 17, at which time his force of deputies will also be sworn in.

F. B. TICKNOR WRITES FROM SARASOTA, FLA.

Sarasota, Fla., Jan. 5.—When I last wrote you I was expecting to spend the winter in Key West. But I found that while the climate was "frostproof," it was too damp and changeable and my cough, instead of getting better was aggravated. I disliked to leave the little island because there was so much to see along the waterside by my health demanded a change.

I then thought of the splendid climate I had once found in Sarasota and decided to try it again. I first took the pains to write to some old friends there and find out if prices had come down from the extravagant figures of last year. They assured me that the city had got over its craze and that living was at normal figures.

So I went by a fine steamer up the Florida coast to Tampa. It was a beautiful trip through the moonlit seas most of the way.

I had several hours to wait in Tampa, but was not much impressed by that city, as it had an unfinished, ragged appearance.

I knew that there had been great changes in Sarasota, but I was not prepared for what I found—miles of paved streets, well lighted; several grand "million dollar" hotels, skyscraper business buildings, many fine business blocks, many fine residences, and a multitude not so fine, lots of large apartment houses, and a thousand or so "rooms for rent" signs. The Ringlings had built a fine cement bridge across the bay a mile and a half to a key which they are developing. This key used to be a wild jungle of cabbage palm, saw palmetto, and mangroves—now it is laid off in beautiful parks and building lots on which millionaires are expected to build fine winter homes. Oh, there was ever so much of great improvements. The one thing that I could readily recognize was the climate, which for the 10 days I have been here has been simply perfect. Sunshiny and bright all the time with just a nice little breeze. My cough has left me, and I think I will soon be all right.

I found plenty of fish waiting for me—have been out twice in a little boat, and caught loads of them.

But all this rush of grand improvements was sadly overdone in the speculative craze which came to an end last spring. The place was wild last year and it was nothing but a gambling spree. Real estate changed hands at absurd prices, and people would buy anything at absurd prices, hoping to unload it on someone else at a still higher price. There were 500 real estate agents here on the alert to rope in some sucker. Most of these sales, however, were on paper—that is, a small sum was paid down with the rest to come in installments, and when the boom "busted" many of the buyers defaulted in their payments and the sellers find themselves with property on their hands for which now there is no sale whatever and which will never reach boom prices again. Many of the large fortunes

PAY CENTRAL FEES NOW!

Subscribers of The Peoples Telephone Company may pay their central fees for 1927 to Mr. G. O. Foshee, secretary-treasurer. The amount is $5 for residence phones and $7 for business phones. The time for paying central fees will be out January 15, after which no one will get central service unless the central fee has been paid.

PLEASANT VALLEY

Farmers are beginning to talk about preparing their lands for the next crop.

Rev. J. D. Hughes of Cooper filled his regular appointment here last Saturday and Sunday. Two very forceful sermons were delivered to the attentive congregations.

We feel proud of our church and Sunday school. The Sunday school is given up to be one of the best local Sunday schools in the county.

The church is in its infancy, but is already spreading a bright light about it.

We have decided to take a step toward the upbuilding of the community around us. To do this we will have to strengthen the environment of the church, and make it more attractive and entertaining.

We have decided what it will take to do this—a good, lively singing society, and we take this means of inviting everybody who is interested in their church and community to be with us at Sunday school next Sunday morning at 10 o'clock, and after Sunday school we will organize the singing society.—A. D. Huett.

R. H. GRANT PREDICTS GOOD BUSINESS FOR 1927

By Roy C. Hayes

Increasing good business for the first half of 1927, is forecast by R. H. Grant general sales manager of the Chevrolet Motor Company, who declared today that there is every reason to believe that the country will continue to enjoy the even prosperity that has attended general business in the last twelve months.

"There is no evidence on the industrial horizon that would indicate anything but a promising outlook for the early months of the new year," Mr. Grant declared. "Labor continues to be well employed, the national per capita wealth is the greatest on record, the agricultural outlook is improving and banks are acknowledging more cash than ever.

"The motor industry is preparing for an unusually active year. The recognized advantages of automobile ownership and the fact that today's motor car offers the greatest dollar value in the history of the industry, are giving a constant impetus to sales. As a result, production this year should compare favorably with the output of 1926.

"Replacements of old cars in the United States will require approximately 2,000,000 units in 1927. Export markets bid fair to take close to one million cars and trucks of American manufacture. New owners coming into the market in this country during the next twelve months, will require a million cars or more. In addition, there is a rapidly growing tendency toward the ownership of two or more cars in the same family.

"Reports from the Chevrolet dealer and field organizatons, from all quarters of the United States, reflect the optimism, which we at home, hold for the early new year. Acting on the belief that the year will be a highly profitable one for American business, the Chevrolet Motor Company is planning a further increase over the record production of 1926, which exceeded the company's best previous performance by more than 40 per cent.

"Extended plans, which the organization has arranged for the year, are based not on enthusiasm alone but on the well founded conviction that the new Chevrolet car will make a very strong appeal to the public and that conditions will remain stabilized and show a steady upward movement in the first six months of 1927."

BILLY FOSHEE NOT IN RAID

Last week the Union-Banner stated that Billy Foshee participated in a raid in the southern part of the county in company with Federal officer Gillespie. Mr. Foshee informs us that this is an error, and we are hereby offering our apology for the mistake. Mr. Foshee was not with the officers who made the raid, as we stated in last week's paper.

THREE ARRESTED BY FEDERAL OFFICERS IN COOSA FRIDAY

Federal officers, making a raid in Coosa County last Friday, arrested Frank Calloway, his son, "Buck," and Therel Bates, as they were engaged in moving a still.

From the report we gathered that the officers had gone into the region about the mouth of Hatchett Creek and located three stills. After watching for some time they decided that the owners of the stills were not coming to them, so they determined to destroy them and leave. They are said to have destroyed two of the outfits, and when they came to the third one they found the two Calloways and Bates engaged in moving it away.

The men were carried to Montgomery where they made bond to await action in the Federal Court.

DR. WOOD OPENING OFFICES IN NEW MULLINS BUILDING

We welcome Dr. Wood to Clanton, and hope that his coming here may be profitable and pleasant.

SINGING AT WALNUT CREEK NEXT SUNDAY AFTERNOON

We have been requested by Mr. Johnnie Johnson to announce that Prof. Devaughn will be at the singing at Walnut Creek next Sunday afternoon. Mr. Johnson extends an invitation to all singers and listeners to come and take part in the program.

TREASURER'S REPORT

The report of the treasurer of Chilton County has been filed by Miss Genie Collins in the office of the Judge of Probate, and is now in the hands of the printer. It will appear in next week's issue of the Banner. The report covers the finances of Chilton County, received and paid out, for the six months period from June 30th, 1926 to December 31, 1926.

G. W. Fox of Maplesville was among the visitors to Clanton Tuesday, attending the road meeting at the court house.

NEXT MEETING IS CALLED FOR SATURDAY, JAN. 15

Eighteen citizens became the charter members of the Chilton County Co-operative Association which was organized at the county court house last Friday, when they signed the constitution and by-laws which were unanimously adopted at the meeting.

Those signing the constitution at that time were J. N. Dennis, O. H. McDowell, B. Lawrence, C. J. Patterson, Dr. T. J. Marcus, J. W. Cooper, W. I. Lessley, E. H. Mims, A. F. Mims, T. F. Patterson, J. R. Holley, O. R. Robinson, E. E. Plier, J. H. Benson, H. B. Glenn, D. O. Manning, W. P. Lowery, and C. E. Marcus.

More than a dozen other citizens have signified their interest in the organization by stating they wish to become members and will sign up some time before the next meeting on January 15.

Plans are constantly going forward toward getting the organization into operation in order that immediate results may be realized.

Those who have been active in initiating the movement say there are no reasons why several carloads of poultry could not be shipped from the county by spring, and many other profitable activities launched which would be impossible without the operation of a co-operative organization in the county.

It has been pointed out many times by many of the citizens of the county that one of the greatest needs of the county is a marketing association. If this be true, such a project will not be successful until the farm products of the county are standardized.

Standardization of the products grown in a community requires a common understanding and concerted action by the farmers of that community, with the result that the products may be placed on the market after careful grading and inspection, so that they may be uniform in quality and condition.

The farmer is frequently criticized for lack of attention to the uniformity and quality of his products. As an individual he is powerless to remedy this weakness. A multitude of other duties require his attention; he does not have an opportunity to become intimately acquainted with the demands of the trade, and his production is too limited to attract much attention, even though he uses a great deal of care in the handling and preparation for market of his products.

Intelligent marketing is impossible without information concerning crops and marketing conditions. It is comparatively easy to secure information regarding marketing conditions, by taking advantage of the already existing agencies, but without organi-

Bibb Graves Address To The Special Session of The Alabama Legislature

An address delivered by Governor-Elect Bibb Graves at a joint session of the Legislature of Alabama at noon, December 29, 1926:

Gentlemen of the Legislature:

In the providence of God, the people of Alabama have intrusted to us their state affairs. Throughout our stewardship it behooves us to be mindful of the lesson taught by the Great Galillean in the parable of the talents. It will be well that we bear in mind that in all state affairs, our only master is the people of Alabama. Those are the people who had abiding faith in us, a faith that withstood every attack. These are our masters, who, though absent, trust us to do the things which we said we would do. Let us be mindful that all our powers of office are the talents of those masters to be used by us in their interest. Nor should we forget that it is the failure to use the talent for the benefit of the master which brands the unprofitable servant with the stigma of the outcast.

To you and to me is presented the greatest opportunity for service that has been given to any group of Alabamians in our time. With divine help we can do the duty of each hour as it comes.

I thank you, gentlemen, for this privilege of appearing before the Legislature. I shall not anticipate those matters which our time honored customs assign to inaugural addresses and executive messages. However, inasmuch as the Governor has convened you in this extra session at my request, it is fitting that you be informed as to the reasons which prompted me in asking that you be assembled.

At the outset, it is proper that I express to you, and through you to those whom you represent, the obligation felt by me, not only as an individual, but as the incoming chief executive, to Governor Brandon for the whole-hearted cooperation and sympathy which he has given me as his successor. In his own gracious way, he has freely used the powers of his office to enable his successor to carry out the policies pledged in the late campaign. His calling of this extra session at the time and for the purpose asked of him by me is one of the many efforts on his part to insure the success of the next administration.

Governor Brandon was requested by me to call this session now, for the purposes set out in his proclamation, because:

First, I believe that, without any cessation, and with every available resource, Alabama should "keep on keeping on" building, maintaining, and preserving its roads and bridges until that day when an adequate system of roads and bridges shall have been provided for this state. I am convinced that it is the will of our people that this be done. The outstanding legal obligations against the road and bridge building funds, provided for by existing laws, will exhaust those funds and there will be no means whereby the incoming administration will be able to continue a constructive program, unless and until provision is made for new funds.

Second, the prompt, practical and profitable reformation of our convict system is, in large measure, dependent upon road building. Convict leasing must stop and convict coal mining must stop. The labor of most of these convicts, now leased to the mines, can be satisfactorily used in road work. To so use this labor, it is necessary that we continue our road-building program, which means, of course, that we must procure new road-building funds.

Third, Alabama must be abreast of the foremost states in this as well as in other developments. Many of the progressive states which adopted a progressive road - building program years before we began, have marched so far in advance of us that not only will we be unable to catch step with them, but we will lag farther and farther behind unless we secure building funds by the prompt use of every available means. We should secure such funds from the sale of bonds, as well as from such current income as may be derived from gasoline tax, convict labor, bus and taxi licenses. The continuance of a building program, commensurate with our urgent need, is dependent upon a bond issue. Unless provision is made for an issue of bonds, in advance of your regular session, approximately a year's delay will most positively result. Because of the urgency of this matter, the extra session became necessary. It was called primarily for the solution of our road problem, but also for a solution of our convict problem, for the reason that the two can be best worked out together.

The extra session was not asked for prior to the November election because it was not thought desirable that a part of our road program should be handled by the old Legislature and another part by the newly elected body. Therefore, you were called on a date which would afford ample time for the determination of this matter, and which would permit the making of the preliminaries of organization for the ensuing regular session.

In asking the Governor to convene the Legislature, I suggested that the call be limited to the submission of a $25,000,000 road and bridge bond issue amendment, together with the levying of a two-cent gas tax to amortize the bonds, the amendment to follow the provisions of the former amendment except for the substitution of a gas tax for a license tax to provide means for paying interest and sinking fund. It is in keeping with this suggestion.

The suggested levy of the two-cent gas tax at this time follows the precedent established in the former bond issue. The tag tax was levied before the bond election. For this course there are two good reasons: (1) Before the people should be asked to authorize the issue of bonds, they should be informed as to the provision made for their payment. Bond buyers would also be more favorably inclined to buy carefully issued bonds; (2) The income from a gas tax for a few months in advance for any bond issue will enable the Highway Department to secure necessary equipment and to arrange for the use of convict labor.

It will be noted that the gas act bill introduced yesterday makes the amortization of the bonds the primary charge upon all funds raised by it. Thereafter, it provides for construction and maintenance of roads and bridges either by convicts or otherwise.

Inasmuch as this gas act is to raise the funds for amortization of the bonds, let me urge that there be no riders.

I most earnestly ask that you enact these two measures, the bond amendment and the gas tax.

There are two other matters to which I should like to draw your attention at this time because delay might make more difficult such action as you might determine upon later.

I desire to direct your attention to the cost of our school books, and to ask that you raise a joint committee to investigate this matter. I have had made a study of the cost of the basal textbooks of the seven primary grades, the investigation including the states of North Carolina, South Carolina, Georgia, Florida, Alabama, Mississippi, Louisiana, and Tennessee. This study discloses the name and cost of every basal textbook in every primary grade in every one of these states. There is a greater number of such basal textbooks used in primary grades in Alabama than in any of the other states named, there being approximately 46% more in use in Alabama than is shown by the average of the other states. Furthermore, the cost of these basal texts for primary grades in Alabama is greatly in excess of the cost of any of the other states named. This cost in Alabama aggregates approximately 158% of the average cost of the other states. This situation is serious, and, I think, justifies the raising of the joint committee which I have suggested. I am glad to assure you that the incoming Superintendent of Education is not only willing but anxious to cooperate with us to the end that this textbook expense be lessened.

It seems that the Congress is undertaking to dispose of the Muscle Shoals water power without due consideration of the rights of the State of Alabama. The state, as well as the nation, has rights both legal and ethical in Muscle Shoals power and in Wilson Dam. Each sovereignty should respect every right of the other. Neither has the right of sole disposition of this property and in any arrangement with regard thereto neither should act independently of the other. While limitations in law do not run against a state, still, by sitting idle while conflicting interests vest in good faith, a state may morally estop itself from asserting its rights. Hence, I believe that we should ascertain, declare, and undertake to assert the rights of our state in the premises before any bona fide purchaser, lessee, or grantee from Congress shall acquire any interest therein that might be adverse to the rights of the State of Alabama. Since there seems to be no definite power in the hands of the Governor or any other state officer to assert these rights, I suggest the raising of a joint committee which shall ascertain the law and the facts in this case and report back to you for such action as you deem right and proper. I believe that Wilson Dam belongs at least in part to the State of Alabama. I am convinced that the bed of the Tennessee River on which this dam is built is the property of the State, that not only the dam, but the water in the river and the power in the water is on our land, subject, of course, to the Government's power to regulate navigation, and subject to easements of riparian owners. I have made some investigation but have not found that any steps were ever taken to divest the State of Alabama of its title to the land on which Wilson Dam is built. The original Government grants to the lands at the abutting ends of this dam extended to only low water mark of the river. When these abutting lands were acquired, the acquisition could not extend beyond the limits of the original grants. Hence, the land included in the bed of the river on which this dam is built, is the property of the State of Alabama. Our State Supreme Court has consistently held that the bed of navigable streams belongs (subject to navigation control and to easements of riparian owners) to the states. Our Federal Supreme Court has consistently upheld right of the state to declare the law within such state relating to this matter. There is much involved and there is sufficient reason to justify your investigation. I earnestly recommend that such a committee be raised, charged with ascertaining and reporting back to you what are the state's rights in the premises, together with such recommendations as it may see fit to make as to necessary procedure to protect the rights of the State of Alabama.

I deeply appreciate your patient attention, and I am thankful for the many expressions of personal good will. Above all else, I am grateful for your assurance of official cooperation. That, with God's blessing, insures us a great administration.

Let me add a word upon a matter very personal. Some friends, with the highest motives, have started a movement to increase the salary that I would receive as Governor. With all my heart I thank them, but I do hope that nothing of this kind will be done. I sought the office and most gladly accepted it, knowing its compensation. This is no time to unnecessarily add to any state expense.

W. J. MOATES SUFFERS PAINFUL ACCIDENT

In a very unusual accident on New Year morning, W. J. Moates, of the New Cedron community suffered a fracture of his right ankle.

Mr. Moates was riding on his wagon over a woodland road in the rear of his farm when a plank he was using for a seat slipped down inside the wagon body and in some manner caught his foot under the improvised seat. His weight as well as that of his wife, who was riding in the wagon with him being thrown on the plank, broke one bone in the ankle and severely sprained it also. He was brought to Clanton by C. D. Foshee and after receiving treatment by a local physician, returned to his home, where it is reported he is improving.

Ala. Power Co. Paid Largest Amount Tax

Tax Collector, J. Tom Rocket last week received from the Alabama Power Company a check for $142,786.85 which is in payment of taxes on the company's property in Chilton County for the year 1926. There is no other concern in the county which pays such a large amount of taxes.

The power company pays taxes in this county on two of their largest hydro-electric generating plants, Lock 12 and Mitchell Dam, in addition to many miles of high tension transmission lines and other properties.

Chilton County is very fortunate in having the properties of this great company centralized here. The contribution which has been made to the industrial development of our water powers by the Alabama Power Company has brought Chilton County out of obscurity as one of Alabama's "small counties" and placed us close to the top of the list in property valuation.

Chilton County indeed has received much for which we thank the Alabama Power Company.

CITIZENS ENDORSE COUNTY ROAD ROGRAM IN MASS MEETING

are big nough and broad enough and good enough to come together in unity and counsel for our common good upon vital public questions.

Brother Parrish was followed by short speeches from G. W. Wilson, J. N. Scott, Oliver Mullins, W. H. Wilson, O. O. Calfee, Rev. E. A. Norris, J. R. Short, R. N. Wilkins, Dr. C. N. Parnell, Hon. F. A. Gulledge, and Mr. B. M. Killingsworth.

Every speaker was enthused over the great progress that has been made in our road improvement during the past years. Some of the older ones reviewed briefly the period of our progress from the time when the roads wre so narrow that you could scarcely pass between the trees with a wagon to the present day when one could crank up a tin lizzie and cover the county in a few hours. Mr. Oliver Mullins in particular drew an interesting word picture of road conditions at the time the court house was placed at Clanton by vote of the people. He said the people of his section wondered how they would ever get to the new court house, as it was impossible for anything to cross Goose Pond Creek (where the Lock 12 road now is) except a feathered fowl.

Mr. F. A. Gulledge offered a resolution directing the commissioners court to use all available road money for the rapid improvement of our roads, and not to lay such money aside to create a sinking fund for the payment of the bonded debt. His resolution went further and asked that the first payment on the bonded debt be made in 1935, at which time one-third the debt should be paid. Then another third to be paid in 1940 and another third in 1947. The resolution was adopted by unanimous vote.

Judge Reynolds stated that he was willing to recommend to the commissioners court that they employ a road supervisor for the entire road system of the county. Whereupon Mr. Gulledge, speaking further upon that subject, closed his remarks with a motion for a resolution by the assembly directing the commissioners to employ such a road supervisor. The motion was seconded and unanimously adopted.

Afternoon Session

The meeting was called into session again at 2 p. m. All the rural mail carriers in the county had been invited to attend the meeting, and it was arranged that the afternoon session should give them a chance to speak on the road matters.

Mr. B. J. Sessions, carrier on Route 7 from Clanton was the first one to speak. He said he had no particular complaint to make; that he had some bad places in his roads, but that he had found the commissioners and the probate judge always ready to do their best in keeping his roads in a passable condition.

Dr. C. N. Parnell said he had no complaint to make; that there were splendid men in charge of the road work; but that he thought they should not drag fresh dirt into the roads in the winter time.

J. N. Scott made some suggestions for the betterment of the roads and spoke strongly in favor of employing a county road supervisor.

W. J. Armstrong, rural carrier on Clanton Route 4 spoke of the problems of road work at length. His address showed that he has a good practical knowledge of the great problems of road work. He said that the commissioners have come to his assistance every time he has called upon them. He stressed the importance of doing permanent work on the roads, and drew some comparisons showing how greatly the roads have improved in the 23 years he has been in the mail service from Clanton postoffice. Mr. Armstrong advocated strongly the necessity of raising the fill on Yellow Leaf Creek at New Salem so that the high waters will not block passage on that road.

F. A. Gulledge made another good speech in the afternoon advocating again the appointment of a county road supervisor. He said he was in favor of putting all the money we can on the roads and not to pay off any of the bonded debt at this time. He argued that money on the roads of the county was worth more than five per cent, and that $100,000 put on the roads will be worth a great deal more than the $5,000 interest we will pay on that much bonded debt. Mr. Gulledge said he wanted roads while he is living.

E. L. Glasscock, rural carrier at Jemison, spoke of road conditions in his section of the county.

G. W. Melton, Mr. Lake, C. T. Walker and Jonah Mims said 8 hours a day is long enough to work road hands.

J. E. Wallace said the roads around Maplesville have been so much improved that it is hard to express it. He said when their mail carrier and school trucks go into Bibb County it is almost impossible for them to travel. He appealed to the commissioners court to see if they could get the Bibb County officials to work the roads these routes had to travel in that county.

W. H. Conway spoke of the great improvements he has seen on the public roads. He said he was in favor of a road supervisor and also in favor of putting the county money on the roads now instead of paying the bonded debt.

Rev. E. A. Norris spoke of the great improvement that has been made on the roads in Beat 5.

B. F. Rasberry spoke of the improved condition of the roads in Beat 14 and adjoining territory.

J. E. Dennis said that eight years ago when he started carrying the mail from Maplesville there were holes in his roads that you could bury a mule in. Now he uses a car winter and in summer, and if he had a few more of the bad places graveled he could go every day in his car without trouble. He said the improvement of the roads was wonderful to him and that the Maplesville people appreciate what has been done over their way.

Mr. Vest said the improvement in the roads was more than anyone had expected and that he did not see anything to kick at.

The afternoon meeting voted unanimously not to pay any more on the bonded debt now and to put all the money on the roads; also voted unanimously to employ a county supervisor of roads. There were 170 men in the afternoon meeting. It is estimated that there were as many as 250 in the morning session.

The following resolution was offered by Mr. S. E. Rudd, who lives in the northwest corner of the county, and was adopted by the meeting:

Resolved, that we, the citizens in this meeting, appreciate the action of our probate judge and commissioners in giving us this opportunity to meet with them and express ourselves on the manner and methods of working the public roads of our county. We guarantee them our cooperation.

The above resolution was passed by a unanimous vote.

H. G. BOYD IS NEW PRESIDENT OF PEOPLES SAVINGS BANK

Mr. H. Glenn Boyd of Montgomery has accepted the presidency of the Peoples Savings Bank of Clanton, succeeding Mr. Frank J. Callen, who resigned recently. Mr. Boyd was elected to this important post by the board of directors of the bank on last Saturday.

Concerning the past experience of Mr. Boyd as a banker and business man, the following expression clipped from the Montgomery Advertiser will be of interest:

> H. Glenn Boyd of Montgomery, who for the past several years has held an important position with the Alabama State Banking Department, has resigned to accept the position of president of the Peoples Savings bank at Clanton, to which he was elected at a meeting of the board of directors of the bank Saturday.
>
> Mr. Boyd, who is a native of Montgomery, has a reputation of being one of the best qualified and most efficient experts in Alabama on the banking business in all of its phases. In his work for the state, which was both important and valuable, and which involved great responsibility, he has a splendid record to his credit.
>
> Mr. and Mrs. Boyd will make their future home in Clanton.

Mr. Callen is not severing his connection with the Peoples Savings Bank entirely. He will continue as a member of the board of directors, and for an indefinite time will give his usual close personal attention to the affairs of the bank.

The Union-Banner joins the citizenship here in extending a hearty welcome to Mr. Boyd. We recognize him as one of the outstanding bankers of Alabama. He is certainly coming to one of the best banks in one of the best towns in Alabama; and we hope his new connection will be both profitable and pleasant.

Everybody Invited

Thorsby Institute opened after the Christmas vacation with a full faculty and practically all the old students and two new ones, at 8:30 a. m., Tuesday. Miss Iris McGee of Waynoka, Okla., succeeds Miss Barbara Hastings as Science teacher. Miss McGee has had four years teaching experience in the public schools of Oklahoma, and two years in the Hawaiian Islands. We gladly welcome her as a member of the T. I. family.

Arthur Johnson, Jr., son of Dr. and Mrs. Arthur Johnson, of Clanton, is a new member of the student body. Another one is Rev. J. R. Helms, recently appointed Methodist pastor on the Clanton circuit. It has come to be quite regular of Thorsby Institute to have among its students one or more students actively engaged in the ministry, seeking to obtain some phases of their necessary education to qualify for their duties, of which they have been deprived while growing to manhood. In this T. I. is by no means peculiar, because almost any good school or college throughout the land has on its rolls men or women, many of them gray-haried who are seeking instruction which they were not permitted to get in youth.

The Helen Keller Literary Society will hold its annual social for members and graduates of Thorsby Institute next Saturday night in T. I. dining hall.

Miss Helen C. Jenkins returned from St. Louis, Mo., Monday morning. While there, in addition to visiting with her parents, Rev. and Mrs. Frank E. Jenkins, D. D., she had a visit with Mrs. George E. Bates. Mr. Bates, who, in 1905, was pastor of Plymouth Congregational Church in Birmingham, was a frequent visitor to Thorsby, had a large part in the organization of Thorsby Institute, and was president of its first board of trustees. He was a young man of unusual attainments and a forceful character. In the early fall of 1907 he was stricken with typhoid fever and died within a week, leaving a widow of lovely character and a beautiful baby daughter. Mrs. Bates returned to the home of her parents at or near St. Louis, and is now engaged in Y. W. C. A. work in that city, and the daughter, Ruth, grown to womanhood and a college graduate, is studying law at Washington University in St. Louis.

Mr. and Mrs. Clyde A. Mead entertained at a little party Saturday evening in honor of several young people who spent Christmas holidays with friends in Thorsby.

Mr. Waldemar Lefstead left Friday morning to take up his work as a theological student at a seminary in Columbia, S. C., where he will graduate with an M. A. degree in June.

Miss Alma Lefstead, who has been spending the holidays with her mother, left Sunday morning for Marengo County, where she is teaching, and Palmer Lefstead went to Birmingham Sunday night to resume his work as a student at Birmingham-Southern College.

Mr. and Mrs. J. O. Johnson entertained for dinner Sunday Mr. and Mrs. M. J. Soberg and their son, Arnold, Messrs. John and Claus Carlson, and Miss Pearl Carlson, Mrs. John Johnson, daughter Beatrice, and son, George, the last three coming from Ensley.

Mr. and Mrs. Chas. S. Howard entertained at a dinner Friday night Mrs. Jhanna Lefstead and daughter, Alma, and son, Palmer, Mrs. Hattie M. Gerald and her young folks. They watched the old year out and the new year in.

Cecil, Alta, and William Each were hosts at a party Monday night which was comprised of their young friends in Thorsby. New games were played which were admired by the guests, and refreshments added to the social features of the occasion. Everybody seemed to have a good time.

Miss Giula Williams returned on Monday night after spending Christmas vacation with her sister, Mrs. James Keeton at Baston, Ala. Miss Margaret Williams arrived Tuesday night.

Mrs. Anna Parnell and son, Eugene, and Mr. Clyde Robinson, all of Birmingham, spent the week end with Dr. and Mrs. Wood.

Mrs. Relius R. Franklin an d Mrs. Jim Pate have been sick for several days with 'grippe.

Mr. Charles Spivey has gone to Birmingham, where he has obtained employment.

Mrs. Bill Hayes is reported to be quite sick.

Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Each entertained at dinner New Years Day, Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Goddard, and Mrs. H. H. Dahl.

Cecil Each returned from Headland, Ala., Saturday. He reports having "the time of his life" among the Thorsby Institute young people and ther folks who live in that vicinity.

Mrs. S. P. Franklin returned from Birmingham where she spent the holidays with the L. C. Robinson family.

Mr. J. T. Hughes with his wife and two children from Anniston are new arrivals in Thorsby. They occupy the cottage at the southeast corner of Michigan Avenue and Jones Street. Mr. Hughes is engaged in upkeep work on the highway.

The spirit of Christmas remains long after some people have passed their youth or even the allotted three score and ten. Last Wednesday Mr. Krahman, father of Mrs. L. E. Diefenderfer, even at 88 years of age, resolved to celebrate and share the festivities of the season with his friend, Eric Sundeen. So, with a well filled basket, provided with care by his daughter, and ensconced in a Ford sedan with Mr. Lloyd Howard in charge, set out at an early hour over the hills to the west of Thorsby, and soon drew up in front of the chateau of his friend. Here the two were left to themselves to enjoy stories and eats and reminiscences until the day waned, when the coach was again in service, and he returned to his home delighted as a kid with his adventure.

Mrs. Clarence Bice and daughters returned to Palatka, Fla., after having spent the holidays with Mrs. T. W. Robinson.

Tom Robinson of Birmingham is spending a week with his mother, Mrs. T. W. Robinson.

Miss Elba Taylor of Helena was a guest of Mary Sue Robinson during the holidays.

Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Karlsin entertained at dinner New Years Day Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Thomsen, Mr. and Mrs. J. P. Sorenson.

All the Gerald young people have returned to their respective places of employment after spending a strenuous week or more at their homes and among their friends in Thorsby.

The Congregational Ladies Aid Society held their annual meeting Monday afternoon at the church. Election of officers resulted as follows: Mrs. E. W. Butler, President; Mrs. J. E. Each, Vice President; Mrs. S. E. Norton, Secretary; and Mrs. Car C. Petersen, Treasurer. On Thursday of this week this society will hold their monthly sosial at the home of Mrs. E. W. Butler.

you hear of are of that description—on paper—and the sellers now find themselves with property on which they are hard pushed to pay the taxes which are very high.

There were also a lot of people who rushed in here to set up business who "busted" with the boom, so that there are a great many vacant stores to rent.

To give you a concrete instance of the movement in real estate I will mention a little experience of my own. Seven years ago when I was living here, a real estate agent took me to see a little farm on the edge of town, out in the woods, with a rather tough neighborhood near by. It consisted of five acres, with a neat cottage on it, about 100 orange and grapefruit trees, a flowing well, a good garden place and a fine place for chickens. He offered it to me for $2,500—$1,000 down and three years on the rest. I was so delighted with the place that I put down a small option to secure it and took my wife out to see it. She agreed that it was a fine place, but said that she was not willing to live out in that rough neighborhood, so far from everybody; that if I moved there I would have to stay at home with her all the time—couldn't go fishing!—and that I was not strong enough to do the work the place would demand, so I had to give it up. It was just at the beginning of that fatal illness which took the dear one from me, so it was all for the best.

Last week I went out that way to see if I could locate it again. I found it—not out in the woods—but on the corner of Thirteenth Street and Gillespie Avenue, with a fine park in front of it and two fine large apartment houses near by, and several fine residences close. The streets were paved, with cement sidewalks. The property had not been divided, but the fruit trees were gone. The cottage was in good shape. I inquired about its sale history—it had passed through several hands, the price going up each time and the last sale being made at the price of $160,000—but—a big but—the last buyer who had bought as a speculation had defaulted in his payments and it had gone back to the last seller, who now had a property on his hands which he could not sell right now at any price, and probably will never get half the amount he sold it for. This is a fair example of many of the big deals down here.

The 500 real estate agents cleared out, and nobody seems to be trying to sell property. The apartment house and rooming houses have all come down on their prices to fairly reasonble figures.

This time last year the town was overrun with "tourists"—so far this year they are very few, although the people hope they will come after Christmas. I think there will not be so many, as the high prices that prevailed last year antagonized many and gave the place a bad reputation. They are trying to overcome that now. I find living in most instances to be as easy as in any up-country town.

I do not wish you to understand that the place is by any means down and out. There are a great many people who have nice winter homes here, and there are a number of not so rich people who have been coming here for many winters and could not be induced to go anywhere else.

On Christmas Eve there was a community sing and Christmas tree in the park by the bayside, and there were over 3,000 people in attendance. It was a balmy night, and ladies in flimsy garments and bare-legged children were out in perfect comfort.

I repeat—the climate here is about perfect and will always draw people who can afford a winter home.

And the country round about does offer good opportunities in the way of truck farming to those who have money enough to get started and brains and energy enough to go at it and stick to it.

But don't buy anything down here until you have seen it and know that it is what you want. And don't be tempted to buy Florida property on speculation. That day has happily passed, and the state is in much better shape in consequence. And don't come down here looking for work just now. More than 1,000 workmen who made enormous wages last year have left, and there is little building going on. This will gradually better itself, but not right away.

And I'm going to say again—the winter climate down here is just delightful.

With good wishes to all my friends,
Yours truly,—F. B. Ticknor.

Miss Gena Gardner of Verbena visited relatives here for a few days last week.

Dr. C. N. Parnell of Maplesville struck the keynote of the road meeting Tuesday when he took the floor for a five-minute talk. He suggested that the commissioners use the available road money for the next three months in graveling the red hills and filling up the mud holes and bad places in our roads which the machines can not work. The suggestion took well with the crowd and brought forth some amens. J. C. C. Woolley, rural letter carrier from Stanton, followed Dr. Parnell with the statement that the county ought to side-tract the road machines for a while and get some trucks and haul gravel and fill up some of the mud holes.

Mr. Oliver Mullins of Jumbo, one of the oldest and most honored citizens of our county, was in attendance at the road meeting Tuesday. In his brief address to the assembly he stated that the faithfulness and good purposes of our commissioners court in road matters has left little room for criticism. He paid a fine tribute to his friend, Mr. Thomas Dorminey, who thus month vacates his office as county commissioner and turns its duties over into the hands of Mr. John Bean.

"Doctor Ignorance Drops" Scott of Jemson attended the public roads meeting here Tuesday. His talk befort the meeting was expressive of some fine thoughts on the road question. He said he thinks the machines ought not to be used in public road work at this time of the year; better fix the bad places in winter by using trucks to haul gravel and put in them, thereby getting the roads fixed so that the machines can work them to advantage from one end to the other.

Squire Waldrop of Jemison attended the road meeting at the court formerly a member of the commishouse Tuesday. Mr. Waldrop was sioners court and always manifests a profound interest in our county affairs, particularly our road questions.

Rev. M. J. Parrish of Beat 16 made a splendid talk at the road meeting Tuesday. Brother Parrish stated afterward that this was the best meeting of citizens he has ever seen in Chilton County, and his opinion is that men have grown bigger and better and broader in their views than they used to be. We agree with him, and would like to add that we regard this as a very good omen for better things in Chilton County.

UNITED SINGING SOCIETY

The United Singing Society met at Thorsby Baptist church Sunday afternoon. Directors for the afternoon were Akins Collins, Mr. Glasscock, Olen and Hudson Williams, and Mr. Oaks. Pianists were Miss Genie Collins and Mr. Hudson Williams.

We were glad to see so many present, and hope to have a large crowd next 1st Sunday afternoon.—Emmett Billingsley.

Mrs. Nannie Crichton was in Clanton this week visiting her many friends, who are always glad to see her.

SOME STATEMENTS OF JUDGE REYNOLDS ABOUT OUR ROADS

As presiding officer at the road meeting Tuesday, Judge Reynolds called the assembly together with a short speech of much interest concerning the roads of the county and the attitude of the commissioners in working the roads and handling the road business.

After reading the call for the meeting, Judge Reynolds said:

"This meeting is no cut and dried affair. We have no set speeches to make and no set resolutions prepared to boost anybody. This was intended as a meeting of the people where you folks can come together with your commissioners and say just what you think. If you feel like criticising the commissioners and your probate judge, you have that privilege here today. We want you to speak frankly; tell us of the weak places in our road work and suggest something better if you can. We need your advice and help. It is your roads, your money, and you have a right to say how it is to be spent. We are your servants. We want no politics in the road working in this county. No good citizen will try to put politics into the road business, because they know it will not help the work but hinder it.

"We do not ask what a man's politics is when we employ him to work the roads. We only want to know his ability to work the roads.

"We have a great county, my friends. We have improved the roads more than we thought we could have done in this length of time. We want to keep on going forward, and that is the primary reason we have called you citizens into this meeting. We want to get your views upon the tremendous problems of conducting the road business which is in our hands.

"We congratulate you people who have formed such a splendid assembly here to-day. The very best of our citizens are here represented. In fact, I will go far enough to say that I have never before seen such a splendid representation of citizens in this court house.

"The commissioners realize that it is no small job to work the roads of this county. Do you know that we have about 600 miles of rural mail routes and 200 miles of school truck routes. This means about 700 miles of roads that have to be traveled practically every day in the year. Now, we want your help. Will you help us? When you find anything wrong, tell us. Write us about things that are being done wrongfully or unnecessarily. I will gladly present any complaint to the court for you.

"The meeting is yours, now gentlemen. You may say and do what you please. Let us hear from anybody and everybody who has anything to offer or suggest."

WEST CHILTON

The old year sleeps with its predecessors, never to return, so we will have to write it 1927.

Youth looks forward to bright new years, while age looks backward to bright New Years in the past, and it is a question in so doing which has the greater enjoyment. But both can look down the fair vista of the coming year and see the dawn of the beautiful Sabbatic year.

The holidays were real quiet in West Chilton, and we believe enjoyed by all. Beautiful presents and good wishes came pouring in, which makes us forget trials by the way, and wish Christmas would last all the year.

Dewey Pate of Montgomery visited his mother here during the holidays.

There was quite a bird shooting near H. W. Gibson's last week. Leighton Gibson and several others came in for the sport.

Miss Tabor Atchison, one of West Chilton's accomplished young ladies, returned on Christmas Day from an extended visit to her sister in Atlanta. While there she visited the southern branch of the World's Largest Store, Sears, Roebuck & Co.

A letter from Prof. M. M. Jones of the high school at Lebanon, Ind. After expressing love and admiration for southern people and our neighbors among whom are Mr. and Mrs. H. H. Armstrong, Mr. and Mrs. T. J. Hubbard, Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Redding, John S. and Isaac Waldrop, and others, whom he enjoyed during a visit to the writer in August, says, after all his study of geography, he knew nothing of the South until that visit, and since then has been pleased to tell the Indiana people in his public addresses of what fine people he found in the South, and their wonderful hospitality. But he discovered the importance of some economical adjustments among the farmers if southern life is to appreciate what the present age has to offer. How true!

David Waldrop and Miss White of Randolph were married on December 22nd.

Mr. and Mrs. George Brockmeyer of Atlanta visited at J. S. Atchison's Christmas; Mrs. Brockmeyer was formerly Miss Norene Atchison.

Joseph Headley of Birmingham visited at J. P. Gentry's Christmas.

Mr. and Mrs. Clayton Kincaid of Empire visited at D. H. Hodgens' Christmas.

Mr. Newt Atchison and Miss Belle Goode of Birmingham visited at J. S. Atchison's Christmas Day.

F. C. Gibson of Birmingham came down Christmas.

The holidays opened up here with an interesting concert and Christmas tree at Freeman, under the auspices of Miss Fraulein Cobb, teacher. Miss Cobb is having success in her school there.

Macedonia had a Christmas tree on December 23.

We learn that William Jackson, one of Randolph's merchants, will move to Fairfield.

We learn that Mrs. M. V. Lawley died at her home in Shelby recently; she was known in Chilton, being the wife of Prof. M. V. Lawley.

Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Crumpton have moved back to Bibb.

Mr. Will White of Randolph is moving to Westover.

Long live The Union-Banner.—Z. J. Jones.

SINGING AT COURT HOUSE

Editor Union-Banner:

Please give a little space in our good paper to say a few words in regard to our second Sunday singing at the court house in Clanton next Sunday, January 9. We want all singers and lovers of sacred music who can possibly do so to be present on that day and spend the day in singing the good old songs of Zion.

Sacred song holds such a prominent place in Christianity, and is such a useful element in Christian worship, and exercises such an effectiveness in Christian experience that it seems that we should be greatly interested in promoting it. Let us start with the first of the year and make some of the best singing organizations we have ever had.—A. A. Jackson.

BOX SUPPER

Come to Concord on Saturday night, January 15, where you will have lots of fun. Pretty boxes and girls. Boys, bring plenty of cash. Proceeds go to school.—Leo C. Langston, Principal.

EIGHTEEN CITIZENS FORM COUNTY FARM ASSOCIATION

zation in the county there is no way possible in which the other important information may be acquired.

It is hoped by those sponsoring the organization that a large and representative crowd will attend the meeting on January 15.

Citizens from the entire county are urged to attend the meeting, because the organization is designed to cover the entire county and plan are being made to set up precinct organizations so that every section of the county will benefit from the operation of the organization.

The meeting will be held at 10 a. m. on January 15, at the county court house.

On of the greateest needs in Chilto County was realized last Friday, December 31, when more than a score of citizens met at the County court house and formed a co-operative association for the fostering of the agricultural and industrial interests of the county.

NOTICE

To C. B. Brown, Take Notice:

That whereas on the 15th day of December, 1926, F. J. Callen, as president of the Peoples Savings Bank, a corporation, complained to me, as Clerk of the Circuit Court in and for Chilton County, Alabama, that, C. B. Brown was justly indebted to Peoples Savings Bank, a corporation, in the sum of $438.54, which affidavit was made as required by law in such cases.

And, whereas, on said 15th day of December, 1926, there was issued out of the said Circuit Court of Chilton County, a writ of attachment in said cause directing the Sheriff of Chilton County, Alabama, to attach so much of the estate of said C. B. Brown, as would be sufficient to satisfy said demand and costs.

And, whereas, on said 15th day of December, 1926, the sheriff of Chilton County, Alabama, did levy said attachment on the following described property, to-wit:

Beginning at a point on the North side of the Montgomery and Birmingham Highway where said highway crosses the line dividing the lands now owned by C. R. Mullins and P. D. Wilson and running thence in a Northerly direction along said line a distance of 200 feet,, more or less, to the North line of the NW 1-4 of the SE 1-4 of Section 35, Township 22, Range 14, and running thence East along said line 75 feet; thence in a Southerly direction and parallel with the line between the land of C. R. Mullins and P. D. Wilson to the Birmingham and Montgomery Highway; thence in a Westerly direction along said highway 75 feet to the point of beginning. Said lot of land being and lying in the NW 1-4 of the SE 1-4 of Section 35, Township 22, Range 14. Also Lots No. 1 and No. 2 in Block No. 1, of the J. W. P. Murphy addition to the Town of Clanton, Chilton County, Alabama, as the same appears of record in the office of the Judge of Probate of said county, and lots No. 1 and No. 2 in Block No. 2 of the above described addition to the Town of Clanton, situated in Chilton County, Alabama. One red Mare eight years old, named Maude.

And, whereas, on said 15th day of December, 1926, the said Sheriff did make return of said writ and levy, as required by law.

The said writ is based upon a claim for money loaned and the writ of attachment is issued on the ground that the said defendant C. B. Brown, is a non-resident of the State of Alabama, and said writ was issued without bond.

Witness my hand this the 21st day of December, 1926.

J. Z. MIMS,
Clerk Circuit Court, Chilton County Alabama. 12-23-3tch.

A Word With the Old Folks

Elderly People Are Learning Importance of Good Elimination.

IN the later years of life there is apt to be a slowing up of the bodily functions. Good elimination, however, is just as essential to the old as to the young. Many old folks have learned the value of Doan's Pills when a stimulant diuretic to the kidneys is required. Scanty or burning passages of kidney secretions are often signs of improper kidney function. In most every community are scores of users and endorsers who acclaim the merit of Doan's. Ask your neighbor!

A. S. GWATHNEY ATTEMPTED SUICIDE BY CUTTING THROAT

A. S. Gwathney, farmer, age 60, attempted to take his own life at his home near the gap of the mountain on the Lock 12 road early Tuesday morning. According to our information, the man slashed his throat with a knife and stabbed himself near the heart.

He was brought to the Central Alabama Hospital, where at first little hope was held for his recovery. Reports Wednesday said his condition is improved.

Mr. Gwathney was found almost dead near his house by his wife. She missed him and failing to locate him she suspected trouble as she recalled threats that she had heard him make against his own life. Continuing her search she found his almost lifeless body near the house.

Mr. Gwathney is the man who saved the life of Mr. W. W. Fox when his automobile overturned in Madison County a few years ago. The wreck pinned Mr. Fox underneath it and but for the thoughtfulness of Mr. Gwathney the accident would most certainly have been fatal to him as it was with his wife who was with him.

Mr. Fox brought Mr. Gwathney to Clanton from Madison County and gave him the little home and farm where he has since lived.

JUDGE JAMES J. MAYFIELD DIED SUDDENLY LAST SATURDAY

Hon. James J. Mayfield, foremost jurist and lawyer of Alabama, died suddenly at the home of a friend in Montgomery late last Saturday afternoon as he was listening to the returns from the Alabama-Stanford football game over the radio.

Judge Mayfield has had a long and useful career in Alabama. He has been legal advisor to three governors and his work in compiling and interpreting constitutional law will place him in the foreground when history shall have recorded the lives and deeds of the great men of his time. He was a judge of the Supreme Court of Alabame for many years.

In the last election in Alabama he was a candidate for United States Senator to succeed Oscar W. Underwood and was defeated by Hugo L. Black.

Judge Mayfield was truly one of Alabama's greatest men. Great and powerful in mentality, yet he was as tender and lovable in spirit as a little child.

FOR RENT—One-horse farm five miles south of Clanton on B. & M. highway. Will rent for fourth or for standing rent. See J. C. Looser at Clanton. 1-6-1tpd.

CAR RAN OVER MULE ON HIGHWAY LAST SUNDAY P. M.

A mule belonging to Mr. Tom Daniels just above Lomax was run over by a big automobile from Birmingham last Sunday afternoon. The mule was loose and going alongside the road, and becoming frightened by a passing train dashed into the highway in front of the car. The driver of the car put on the brake and stopped the machine with the mule pinned underneath. The mule succeeded in extricating himself but showed signs of being very badly hurt.

IN MEMORY

Dear mother, you have left me,
And your smiles I see no more;
My heart is filled with sadness,
For no time can heal the sore.

More and more, each day, I miss you,
Friends all think the wound has healed;
But they little know the sorrow
That is in my heart concealed.

I often sit and think of you, dear mother,
When I'm all alone;
For memory is the only friend
That grief can call its own.

What is home without a mother?
All the things a world may send—
For when I lost my dearest mother,
I lost my dearest friend.

She wore the crown of patience;
Through the years she struggled on,
And those hands that rest forever
Are the hands that made my home.

Soft and bright the stars are shining,
Spreading o'er a lonely grave,
Where lies the one I loved so dearly,
Whom I tried so hard—but could not save.

—Mrs. O. K. McSwain, a daughter.

Help Is Needed to Restore Your Wasted Strength and Energy.

"Flu" leaves the body weakened and rundown. In such cases, a tonic is clearly indicated. Restore the appetite and rid yourself of that let-down feeling.

"Flu" is a very enervating disease. It leaves its victims so weak and debilitated that there is as much danger from the after-effects as from the disease itself. In other words, after an attack of the "flu," you need a selective tonic to rebuild the system so that you may have your old-time strength and energy restored.

S.S.S. is unequalled for restoring strength and vitality.

You owe it to yourself and family to give S.S.S. a trial. It helps Nature build up red blood corpuscles. It improves the processes by which the body is nourished. It is time-tried and reliable. CHEVROLET PRESENTS NEW LINE, WITH LOWER PRICES

Surpassing all its former achievements as the world's largest manufacturer of 3-speed transmission cars, the Chevrolet Motor Company, today, announces an entirely new line of automobiles, heralded as the most beautiful in Chevrolet history.

Embodied in the new line, which goes on display throughout the country this week, are hosts of improvements, many of which were found hitherto only in larger and more costly cars. The economies of tremendous volume production have made possible the marks of distinction which individualize the new line, according to a factory statement.

The new cars are mechanically finer, entirely new in body lines, smarter in appearance, complete in equipment and outstanding in the display of colors. Seven models, five closed and two open cars, comprise the line. One model, a rakish, beautiful sport cabriolet, has been added.

Some of the new models are as follows—AC air cleaner, AC oil filter, balloon tires, bullet-type head-lamps and cowl-lamps, newly designed radiator shell, one-piece full-crown fenders, heavier running boards, larger steering wheel, new instrument panel, new tire carrier assembly and co-incidental ignition and steering lock.

Beauty and refinement has been stressed in the design. Appointments have been catered to with a thoroughness that promises to please the most fastidious motorist. Succeeding the smoothest Chevrolet, the new line has been built to establish a new standard in the low price field.

All closed bodies are by Fisher and finished in Duco. The 7 models finished in 5 smart color combinations, with contrasting color stripes emphasize the body bead. "Fish-tailing," a crowning achievement of the designer's art, hitherto employed only on the more expensive cars, lends a striking appearance to the rear deck of the Coupe, Sport Cabriolet, and Roadster. A reduction in the "over-all" height of the cars without sacrificing head room, makes for a more racy contour.

The radiator of polished airplane metal follows a new design. It is longer and larger, and with the centrifugal water pump, provides for high cooling efficiency. Sweeping 1-piece full-crown fenders are topped off by bullet-type head-lamps with cowl-lamps to match.

Steel disc wheels in colors are standard equipment on all models. Natural wood wheels are optional at a small additional cost.

The Chevrolet motor has been made even smoother, and its efficiency further improved by the use of a new and improved oil pump. Another advance on this year's car is the use of an AC air cleaner, which supplies clean, filtered air to the carburetor and prevents dirt and grit from getting inside the motor and damaging moving parts.

Greater mileage, fewer oil changes, and a minimum of motor wear is promised as a result of the adoption of an AC oil filter which removes impurities and dirt from the oil supply.

A new and larger steering wheel, 17 inches in diameter, provides for easier handling and adds to the appearance of the car as well. The new tire carrier is mounted on the frame, entirely free from the body, and is braced in a vertical position by heavy steel brackets. A new gasoline gauge and a combination stop and tail light are standard equipment.

On closed models new and narrower windshield pillars greatly improve the vision, permitting a commanding view of the road. Doors are equipped with remote control handles, making it unnecessary to turn far to the side in opening or closing the doors.

The new instrument panel includes a co-incidental lock that automatically locks both steering gear and ignition. Speedometer, oil, gauge, ammeter, carburetor choke, and dash light, are also placed on the panel. The windshield is of full vision, 1-piece VV Fisher design with automatic wiper, and rear vision mirror standard equipment on all closed models.

Detailed description of the 7 new models indicates the thoroughness which the Chevrolet designers have shown in introducing the new line.

The Sport Cabriolet which has been added this year, has a 4-passenger carrying capacity, with a spacious rumble seat. It his a tan whip-cord top, and tan upholstery of grain leather. The body is Fisher-built and finished in Royal Oak green Duco. The landau irons, window frames, ledges, windshield frame, and automatic wiper, are finished in nickel. Bullet-type head-lamps, 1-piece full-crown fenders, tan textile leather visor, and polished radiator shell combine to give the new model a smart appearance. Other interesting items of equipment on the Cabriolet are the 1-piece tilting windshield, large 17-inch walnut finished steering wheel, front door pocket, remote door control handles, co-incidental ignition and steering lock, gasoline gauge, and new tire carrier.

The Landau is finished in Biege brown Duco on the body, window mouldings, and wheels, with chrome yellow striping on the streamline moulding. The roomy interior is upholstered in brown plush. Oval plate glass windows in the rear may be opened, assuring clear vision and ample ventilation. One-piece windshield with narrow metal corner posts, automatic windshield wiper, sun visor, rear vision mirror, dome and dash lamps, automatic stop light, smoking set, and new tire carrier are among other items of equipment.

The Sedan is finished in Marine blue Duco with gold striping on the body moulding. The interior is upholstered in blue corduroy. The Coach has a new streamline moulded body, finished in St. James gray Duco, fashionably striped in pistache green. Upholstery is in green corduroy. The two doors are unusually wide, providing for easy entrance and exit.

"Fish-tail" modeling, emphasizing the streamline effect, is also used on the 2-passenger coupe. The body, window moulding and steel disc wheels of the Coupe are finished in Biege brown Duco, with light chrome yellow striping. Blue corduroy upholstery harmonizes with the exterior finish. A spacious ledge is provided behind the seat for carrying small parcels. The rear deck is arranged into a compartment large enough to carry a full-sized steamer trunk.

An equally generous compartment space is available on the Roadster on which the "fish-tailing" effect is also emphasized. Finished in Falmouth gray striping, it discloses an interesting advance over the preceding model.

The new 1-piece full-crown fenders and bullet head-lamps give the touring car a distinct appearance of newness. Like the roadster, it is finished in Falmouth gray Duco.

The Chevrolet factories are now in production on the new models, with record shipments leaving every day for various parts of the country.

Co-incident with the introduction of a new line of cars, the Chevrolet Motor Company announces a substantial price reduction, effective immediately. On the closed car line, the reductions range from $20 to $50. The new open car price is $525, with balloon tires and disc wheels as standard equipment, whereas the former open car price was $510 without balloon tires and disc wheels.

New and old prices of Chevrolet cars are as follows:

Model	Old	New
Coach	$595	$645
Coupe	$625	$645
Sedan	$695	$735
Landau	$745	$765
Touring or Roadster, with Balloons and disc wheels	$525
Touring or Roadster without Balloons		$510
Touring or Roadster with Balloons		$535

A seventh model, the Sport Cabriolet, equipped with a rumble seat, and added to the line this year, is listed at $715. The half-ton truck price is now $395; last year, without balloon tires and other advances made this year, the half-ton truck price was $375. The 1-ton truck price remains unchanged at $495. All prices are f. o. b., Flint, Mich.

The new truck line incorporates the same improvements that have been embodied in the passenger car line, including the addition of an air cleaner and an oil filter

LOCAL U. S. MARINE IS GUARDING MAILS

Quantico, Va., Dec. 5. —Among the U. S. Marines who were first selected to guard the mails against possible attacks by bandits is Austin Edgar Mims, of Clanton, Ala., who was stationed here prior to his assignment to this important duty.

He is one of several picked men from Quantico who began their duties as mail guards immediately after President Coolidge had given his approval. They are now furnishing protection to the mails in transit, guarding important postal centers, and insuring the safe delivery of valuable mail packages. They may not return to this post for several months.

Austin is 19 years old and was born in Clanton. He lived at the home of his father, Harve L. Mims, Rural Route 8, Clanton, before he joined the Marine Corps at Birmingham, in October 1925. It is the first time Marines have guarded the mails since Nov., 1921, when they were assigned this task for about four months. During this period no mail robberies occurred.

"Cotton Tawm" Gives Plain Bill the Hoss-laff

Senator Heflin, when shown the press dispatch from Montgomery, Alabama, today to the effect that Governor Brandon's friends would run him against the Senator in 1928, said:

"If Governor Brandon's friends don't know any more about politics than they do about the time for the next Senatorial primary in Alabama, they are in a bad fix. The knowledge that my race for re-election does not come off until 1930 will no doubt be disappointing to some of these little fast fading, self-appointed politicians. Their threats amuse me and I am reminded of the scripture which says, 'Let the heathen rage and imagine a vain thing.'"

JUST FROM LOMAX

Editor Union-Banner and Readers:

As we enter into the new year we farmers begin to make plans for a new crop. So let's not forget to grow plenty of corn and other feed stuffs, have a good garden, plenty of chickens and milk cows, and a pig or two.

The biggest trouble with most of us Southern farmers, we get up before daybreak at the alarm of a Connecticutt clock. We button our Chicago suspenders to Detroit Overalls and wash our faces with Cincinnati soap in a Pennsylvania pan, sit down at a Grand Rapids table and eat Chicago meat and Indiana hominy, cooked in Kansas City lard on a St. Louis stove. Put a New York bridle on a Kentucky mule, fed with Iowa corn and plow our farms covered by an Ohio mortgage with a Moline plow.

When bed time comes we read a chapter from the Bible printed in Boston and say a prayer written in Jersulem, and crawl under blankets made in New Jersey, to lay awake all night listening to the howl of our dog, our true friend, the only home product on the farm and then wonder why we cannot make more money raising cotton.

Yours for a happy new year.

J. RILEY SCOTT

ALABAMA FORESTRY LETTER

Montgomery, Ala., Jan. 5—The unpicked cotton with which many Alabama fields are still white affords a close parallel to much of the so-called waste in lumbering, says the Alabama Commission of Forestry In either case there is apparently a loss of valuable material. Moreover, the economic principles involved are the same in both instances.

Forest landowners have long been the target of individuals and agencies desious of regulating the forestry progress of the country without incurring risk or obligation on their own part. Often the farmer, suffering under adverse economic conditions which would not warrant marketing a cotton crop at a loss, the digging of potatoes that would not pay for the labor of shipping peaches that would not pay the freight charges has found it necessary to permit these products to go to waste. Under such circumstances he has been the object of sympathetic effort on the part of legislative bodies and the general public to remedy conditions.

The forest owner, however, under similar circumstances, when only the best grades of lumber could be marketed, the remaining material being left to rot in the woods, was for many decades viewed in an entirely different light. Enthusiastic faddists demanded that he do with his timberlands substantially the same thing that was being done in Europe under radically different conditions. His refusal to be swept off his feet into bankruptcy by such propaganda aroused bitter ire.

Constructive cooperation, made possible by changing economic conditions and a more general understanding of the basic principles of timber production, has of recent years brought about a fairly definite policy as to reforestation and other forestry practices on the part of many of the forest landowners of the country. While this favorable outcome was delayed for many years by ill-advised propaganda, nevertheless timberland owners by doing most of their thinking themselves have reached the point where forestry is no longer a fad to be played with by amateurs and dilettantes, but is fast becoming an integral part of American industry.

B. M. SMITH SERIOUSLY WOUNDED IN SUNDAY AFFRAY

B. M. Smith, an employee of the American Telephone and Telegraph Co., was seriously wounded as the result of a cutting affray with Armon Wagoner, which occured on the streets of Clanton Sunday afternoon, according to the report of officer Curlee.

Smith is said to have been near the Ellis Filling Station engaged in a friendly scuffle with Kimmie Easterling, when Wagoner came up and began to slash him (Smith) about the face with a knife. Officer Curlee says the action of Wagoner took Smith by surprise, with knocked Wagoner down and administered a severe beating with his bare fists.

Officers Curlee and Roper broke up the fight by separating the two men. Smith was carried to a doctor where the cuts were dressed. It re-required 25 stitches to sew up the gashes in his face. It is said that the wounds are very dangerous and that either of the two gashes would have caused him to bleed to death if he had not received immediate attention.

Wagoner was placed in jail on a charge of assault with intent to murder. His bond was placed at $1000 which he has not made at the time of this writing.

Officer Curlee found a bottle of liquor in Smith's pocket and entered a charge of violating the prohibition law against him. Smith is now at the Central Alabama Hospital.

The officers state it as their opinion that both Wagoner and Smith were under the influence of liquor at the time of their difficulty. Several spectators witnessed the fight.

ROBERT LEWIS ARRESTED ON LAST SUNDAY

Robert Lewis of Coopers was arrested by Sheriff Littlejohn last Sunday on a charge of violating the prohibition law. He was released on bond. The sheriff was going down the highway and saw a car parked near Ramblers Rest. Four men men were in the car. Lewis was one of them, and had a bottle of liquor in his pocket.

LOUIE ALLEN SURRENDERED TO OFFICER CURLEE

Louie Allen of Coopers, charged in the city court of Clanton with public drunkenness, came up Monday and surrendered to officer Curlee. Allen had been arrested about three months ago and made bond, but failed to appear at Mayor's court at the proper time.

Mayor Atkinson disposed of the case on Monday, assessing a fine of $25 and costs. Allen will work on the streets to pay his fine and court costs.

DOCK GENTRY MOVED TO THORSBY

Mr. D. H. Gentry has moved to Thorsby where he will be engaged in business with his son, Dolphus Gentry, in operating the Thorsby Planing Mill. Mr. Gentry has bought the interest of W. H. Goodgame in the planing mill.

Phonographs and Victrolas repaired right. Bring your motor here for springs or other adjustments.—Jesse French & Sons Piano Co., Clanton.

PAY YOUR POLL TAX NOW—FEBRUARY 1ST IS LAST DAY

It is now time to pay poll tax again and it seems that very few people are concerned about this very important matter. Tax Collector Tom Rockett informs us that the total number of poll taxes paid so far is only about 700.

All poll taxes must be paid by February 1st in order to entitle you to vote in elections this year, and it is only about two weeks from now until the time will be out. Better get busy.

There is already one very important election in sight for this year—the $25,000,000 bond issue, which is to be voted upon April 12th. There may be other elections before the year is out. Every citizen ought to be able to express his or her opinion and cast a vote on the bond issue. Many will be denied that privilege unless they pay a poll tax by February 1st.

FRED & SPURGEON CALLOWAY BUY CHILTON MOTOR CO.

Briggs Crumpton has sold out the Chilton Motor Company to Fred and Spurgeon Calloway, who will continue to operate the business at the same place as Calloway Brothers. They will do a general automobile repair business. The location of the business is in the Fox Building, which was occupied by Lawrence Garage for a long time.

"DICK'S PLACE" IN HANDS OF BANKRUPT COURT

A sign on the door of "Dick's Place" in Clanton gives notice from M. Hugh Stuart that the affairs of J. W. Hayes are in the hands of the bankrupt court for disposition. The notice is dated January 7, 1927.

BAKER & TAYLOR HAVE CLOSED THEIR STORE

The store of Baker & Taylor next to The Union-Banner office was closed this week, and their stock of goods was moved to The Baltimore, next to Johnson Drug Co. The Baltimore is a new concern which has been recently organized, and which bought out the Baker & Taylor stock as well as the Del-Monte stock, which was already in the building now occupied by The Baltimore.

Mr. Jesse Baker is the manager of The Baltimore, and he invites all his friends and former customers to come to see him. The Baltimore will have one of the best stores in Clanton. The building has been remodeled to accomodate the new business and the store will present a very attractive appearance.

MAN WILL ATTEMPT TO DRINK 100 CUPS OF COFFEE

Fergus Falls, Minn., Jan. 11.—The world's coffee drinking championship, whatever its importance, was at stake today as Gus Comstock prepared to down 100 cups of the breakfast brew and thus lift the coffee crown from H. A. Streety, of Amarillo, Texas.

Comstock is no novitiate in coffee cuming, having to his credit 62 cups in 10 hours flat. Streety, however, has downed 71 cups in eight hours and a half.

Comstock will do his drinking in the window of a hotel. He said 10 hours will be enough time for 100 cups.

12,126 ARRESTS BY STATE FORCE IN LAST FOUR YEARS

During the four-year period ending with January 1, the state law enforcement department made 12,126 arrests for various offenses and destroyed 7,546 stills, according to the report filed with Governor Brandon by Walter K. McAdory, chief supervisor of the department. Total fines assessed during the four years were $646,318.83, while total expenses were $376, 425.89, leaving a net profit to the state and counties from cash fines alone of nearly three hundred thousand dollars.

Chief McAdory declared that a law should be enacted which would set aside a portion of the fines for the enforcement of laws, and stated that this would relieve any necessity for an additional appropriation. He also recommended that the legislature provide 20 additional officers for the department, 10 of whom would be motorcycle scouts on the highways of Alabama.

MIDDLETON WILL BE HERE EVERY WEEK

John (Oce Webb) is the dominating force in his suburban bungalow; while Mollie (Miss Thelma Guy) is a loving, obedient little wife, of the clinging vine variety.

"Dad" Carmichael (Jack Wade) comes to the city to visit his two sons, and leaves his wife at home on the farm. He is highly entertained in the One Room—Plus, and also is amused by Barbara's modern ideas. Come and see the play, and discover how "Dad" helps solve the troubles that arise in the two homes.

8. The carrying capacity of all vehicles will be limited for the protection of highways and for the protection of other vehicles.

Duties Outlined

Not only did the association adopt the tentative measure and urge the legislature to enact it into a law, but it charged its special legislative committee with the duty of presenting the matter to the attention of the measure through the legislative channels.

The determination of the Association of Mayors to present the traffic bill and urge its enactment into law followed a long discussion, which began Wednesday morning at the opening session and continued through Thursday afternoon.

Commissioner Taylor, of Birmingham presented the appeal of the association with the declaration that the time has come for some drastic action if the reckless drivers are to be taken from the highways and the highways made safe for all classes of traffic. He said accidents are increasing each day and that many of them are directly attributable to reckless, intoxicated and narcotic crazed drivers.

Issuing of license will be in the hands of the state highway commission under the proposed bill. Gov. Bibb Graves will designate one member of the commission as vehicle commissioner. Any court will have the right to suspend a driver's license and to report the matter to the highway commission which must take final action. A tentative program required the payment of a fee of one dollar for the license and the highway commission may revoke all license at the end of five years and require all aminations. This is for the purpose of eliminating those who may have become disqualified since they passed the examinations.

Many complaints of speed traps have been received at the capitol during recent months. Particular complaint has been made against the action of the town councils of Jemison, Chilton County, and Calera, Shelby County, which adopted stringent speed limits and employed motorcycle officers to arrest persons who ran beyond the speed limits. Another complaint had come from Falkville, Morgan County.

The speed limits established by the proposed law would be as follows: Thirty-five miles an hour on the open road; 20 miles an hour in residential sections; 15 miles an hour in a business district; 20 miles an hour in a business district when traffic is controlled by traffic officers or stop and go signs; 15 miles an hour around curves or when view is obstructed within a distance of 100 feet ahead; 15 miles an hour when approaching a school during school recess, or when children are going to and from school; 15 miles an hour when approaching within 50 feet of a railroad crossing.

A severe penalty is imposed on persons who drive automobiles while intoxicated or under the influence of narcotics. For the first offense the penalty is a fine of not less than $100, and not more than $1,000, or a prison term of from 30 days to one year, each or both. On a second conviction a person must be imprisoned for not less than 90 days nor more than one year, and may be fined not more than $1,000.

A. S. GWATHNEY DIED IN TUSCALOOSA TUESDAY

A telegram to Mr. W. W. Fox from Tuscaloosa Tuesday about noon stated that Mr. A. S. Gwathney died in the hospital for the insane on Tuesday morning. Mr. Gwathney attempted to take his own life last week, inflicting wounds so severe as to make it necessary to place him in the hospital at Clanton. His mental condition was such as to make it necessary to take him to the insane asylum last Saturday.

A. H., W. J., and C. I. Gwathney, brothers of the deceased, and Jack Gwathney, a son, from Jackson county were in Clanton Tuesday at the time of his death. They stated that funeral arrangements had not been made, but the body would probably be buried at Tuscaloosa. Mr. Phillips from Madison county, a friend of the Gwathneys, was also here on Tuesday.

Mr. Gwathney is survived by a wife and ten children, eight at home. His home was on a farm near the gap of the mountain on the Lock 12 Road.

About two years ago Mr. Gwathney came here from Jackson county, and has been living on a farm which was given to him by Mr. Fox.

HARDEST FREEZE OF THE SEASON HERE

Alabama experienced the coldest weather of the season early Tuesday morning, when the mercury dropped to 21 degrees, the lowest since December, 1925, when it went to 12 degrees. Tuesday morning at 6:30 the thermometer dropped to 21.4 degrees and remained there for about 15 minutes. It began to rise after that time, and at 11 a. m., was 31 degrees.

A hard freeze attended by frost was also reported, and autoists had no little trouble getting their machines going. Water pipes were reported frozen, and in some places bursted.

Nearly all sections of the state were in the grip of the cold wave. Gadsden, Eufala, and Birmingham reported snow flurries, and even Mobile experienced a low temperature. Florence reported 16 degrees.

ALABAMA POWER LEASE PROFITABLE TO U. S. A.

Washington, Jan. 11.—Uncle Sam is receiving a neat income from his plants at Muscle Shoals through the temporary leases given the Alabama Power Co., pending congressional action to dispose of these properties.

According to a statement made public by the War Department, the Alabama Power Co., during the calendar year 1926, paid the government $872,617.47 for the 428,265,885 kilowatt hours of electric power the company purchased from Wilson Dam hydro-electric plant. The cost to the government for maintenance and operation of this water-power plant was $173,777.53, leaving Uncle Sam a net operating revenue from Wilson Dam of $698,839.94.

In addition, the Alabama Power Company paid the government $120,000 rental for its lease of the steam plant.

The total net operating revenue of the hydro-electric plant and the steam plant at Muscle Shoals thus brought Uncle Sam $859,210.67 last year, the report shows.

DELAY EXPECTED ON SECOND DAY OF NORRIS TRIAL

Austin, Tex., Jan. 11—Doubt as to the continuance of the murder trial of the Rev. J. Frank Norris for the killing of D. E. Chipps, lumberman, in Ft. Worth, last July, was dispelled when the defense announced ready for trial at the opening of the court here today. Judge James R. Hamilton then announced the case on trial and examination of veniremen began.

Absence of several defense witnesses today threatened to delay the trial. The prosecution announced readiness to proceed when the case was called before Judge James R. Hamilton in district court here yesterday, but defense counsel withheld a direct statement pending the location of witnesses, some of whom were reported ill. The defense was instructed to proceed with the case today or file a motion for continuance.

In explanation of its action, the defense announced a new eye witness to the shooting of Chipps in the study of the Ft. Worth Baptist church last July. Miss Jane Hartwell, personal secretary to Dr. Norris, was in a room adjoining the study when the shooting occurred, the pastor's attorneys said. She was reported ill at Ft. Worth.

L. H. Nutt, an official of the church is the other purported eye-witness. He claims to have been in the study when Chipps called to protest attacks by Dr. Norris on Mayor H. C. Meacham, of Ft. Worth. Nutt also was detained at his home.

The first session was devoted mostly to examination of prospective jurors. Upwards of 100 of the 350 summoned were excused. Dr. Norris sat with his attorneys, and spent part of the time writing letters to friends.

THREE-MILLIONTH CHEVROLET

By ROY C. HAYES

Marking the latest spectacular achievement in its history as the world's largest builder of three-speed transmission cars, the Chevrolet Motor Company today, announces the production of its 3,000,000th car. The epoch-marking model, which happend to be a coach, was driven off the production line at the Flint plant by W. S. Knudson, president of the Chevrolet Motor Company. The first passenger was C. F. Berth, vice-president in charge of production.

Finished in St. James gray Duco and fashionably striped in Pistache green, the milestone car flashed off the production line with scarcely more formality than attended the debut of number 3,000,001, which, followed nine seconds later.

Immediately after the final inspection, Mr. Knudson stepped on the starter and the princely 3,000,000th car purred away to give room to the long line of sedans, coaches, roadsters etc., that were moving up with clock-like precision to the final inspection post.

Equipped with balloon tires, steel disc wheels, one-piece full crown fenders, bullet-type head lamps, streamline beaded Fisher body and other improvements incorporated this year, the coach displayed a distinct advance over its most illustrious predecessor, the 2,000,000th Chevrolet.

The 2,000,000th model was built after 14 years of production and the 3,000,000 only 14 months later, an indication of the rapid growth of the company, which now has production facilities prepared to build 1,000,000 units a year. Commenting on the achievement, Mr. Knudson declared that the Chevrolet Motor Company was grateful for the ever increasing public confidence in the company and its product, which made the feat possible.

"We are entering on what promises to be again our greatest year," he said, "and with a greatly improved product, I am sure that the motoring public will demand the 4,000,000th Chevrolet before 1928 is many weeks old."

Too Much "Acid?"

Excess Uric Acid Gives Rise to Many Unpleasant Troubles.

AUTHORITIES agree that an excess of uric acid is primarily due to faulty kidney action. Retention of this toxic material often makes its presence felt by sore, painful joints, a tired, languid feeling and, sometimes, toxic backache and headache. That the kidneys are not functioning right is often shown by scanty or burning passage of secretions. Thousands assist their kidneys at such times by the use of Doan's Pills—a stimulant diuretic. Doan's are recommended by many local people. Ask your neighbor!

" ONE ROOM PLUS"

The Clanton Dramatic Club presents "One Room Plus" at Chilton County High School on Friday night, January 14, at 8 p. m.

The contrast of two types of married life is the theme.

Fred (Frank Mullins) and Julia (Mrs. Norman Roberts) are living a life of gayety in a 1-room apartment plus kitchen and bath.

Barbara McCord (Miss Louise Nichols) a young woman troubled with advanced ideas, has influenced Julia in living her individual life, with her husband playing second fiddle. Julia holds a good position in order to have the luxuries she desires.

John (Oce Webb) is the dominating force in his suburban bungalow; while Mollie (Miss Thelma Guy) is a loving, obedient little wife, of the clinging vine variety.

"Dad" Carmichael (Jack Wade) comes to the city to visit his two sons, and leaves his wife at home on the farm. He is highly entertained in the "One Room Plus," and also is amused by Barbara's modern ideas

Come and see the play, and discover how "Dad" helps solve the troubles that arise in the two homes.

And Worth the Money Too!

A noted lawyer down in Texas, who labored under the defects of having a high temper and of being deaf, was trying a case in a courtroom presided over by a younger man, for whom the older practitioner had a small opinion.

Presently in an argument over a motion there was a clash between the lawyer and the judge. The judge ordered the lawyer to sit down, and as the lawyer, being deaf, didn't hear him and went on talking, the judge fined him $10 for contempt of court.

The lawyer leaned toward the clerk and cupped his hand behind his ear.

"What did he say?" he inquired.

"He fined you $10," explained the clerk.

"For what?"

"For contempt of this court," said the clerk.

The lawyer shot a poisonous look toward the bench and reached a hand into his pocket.

"I'll pay it now," he said. "It's a just debt!"

Pimples, Boils, Skin Eruptions

Skilled physicians recognize the appearance of pimples, boils and other skin eruptions as being an indication of an abnormal condition of the system. This is why so many thousands have been enabled to free themselves of these unsightly blemishes and painful annoyances by taking a course of S.S.S. You owe it to yourself to try S. S. S. It helps Nature build up red corpuscles. It improves the processes by which the blood is nourished. It is time-tried and reliable.

"I suffered from impure blood—was weak, and I had lost so much weight, I didn't look natural. I had pimples and was also bothered with a breaking-out that itched terribly. I also had boils one after another. I tried different kinds of remedies, but nothing did me any good until a friend advised me to take S. S. S., which I did. This was some time ago. Now I feel well, and I am getting along fine. S. S. S. stopped the itching and it cured me of boils. I advise all weak and run-down people to give S. S. S. a trial. It clears up the skin and makes you strong and fills you with energy." Mrs. J. W. Barker, 1337 Walnut Street, Cincinnati, Ohio.

S.S.S. is made from the fresh roots of medicinal herbs and plants and is prepared in a scientific way in a modern laboratory.

S.S.S. is sold at all good drug stores in two sizes. The larger size is more economical.

Thorsby Fruit and Truck Growers Association held their annual meeting at the public school building last Saturday afternoon. There has been a healthy growth in membership during the past year. The membership fee has been raised up to $10.00, and the Association is in a healthy and prosperous condition, with upwards of 250 members, scattered over a wide area extending from north of Jemison to below Clanton, and about the same distance east and west. More than 300,000 new strawberry plants were set out last winter and spring, which, with those fields left undisturbed, make by far the largest area in strawberries ever held by members of the Association. Up to the present writing there is a fine stand of plants, and promise of a bumper crop. Officers of the Association are estimating a great increase in carload shipments next spring, barring late frosts to take the first berries. The affairs of the Association, involving more than $100,000 a year, run so smoothly, that there is little disposition to change its officers, as in many organizations, the members (stockholders) elect the directors and the directors elect the officers. The voting at Saturday's meeting resulted as follows: For Directors, Carl C. Petersen, M. J. Soberg, T, J. Martin, W. A. Hayes, and G. S. Burnett; for Officers—Carl C. Peterson, president; M. J. Soberg, Vice President; J. Monroe Smith, Manager and Treasurer; and H. E. Robinson, Secretary.

Mr. Vastine Stabler, oldest son of Dr. and Mrs. L. V. Stabler, former residents of Thorsby, while passing through last Sunday, attended services at the Congregational Church, of which he was once a member. He left so soon after the service that few had opportunity to speak to him.

The Helen Keller Literary Society held its annual social last Saturday night in the dining hall. Miss Gerald and a committee of students had charge of the party. A short program was given consisting of a song by the Chorus, and three of Edgar A. Guest's poems, recited by Hudson Williams, Pauline Bean, and Addie Brown. After the program various games were played, which everyone seemed to enjoy. Sandwiches, cake, and cocoa were the refreshments served. The party was concluded with the singing of the Alma Mater.

Miss Mabel Craig, a former teacher at Thorsby Institute, has announced her engagement to Rev. J. E. Bryant of Texas. She met him while studying abroad this past year.

The C. E. Society was led Sunday night by the Prayer Meeting Committee. The subject was "What confession of Christ includes," a report of the Executive Committee Meeting was read. The Executive Committee meets once a month, generally on the first Sunday.

Miss Anna Lou Arthur, a student at Thorsby Institute, who recently had an operation for appendicitis, from which she made a rapid and satisfactory recovery, is again so ill from other causes that she has been obliged to give up her work and go home for the present.

This Frock Orders Plenty of Scallops

WHEN this frock had reached the bottom of its scalloped bertha, it was so pleased with the effect that it added one scalloped tier after another to the skirt, stopping its merry career only for the sake of brevity. And since berthas, tiers and scallops are all extremely smart this year, the frock emerges at the end with much chic. Above we see it all of silk crêpe, though it may also be made with the picoted bertha of Georgette or lace. For dressy occasions or for warm-weather wear the frock is very pretty made without the long sleeves.

CHILTON BANKS SHOW GOOD CONDITION IN REPORTS

Reports of the condition of the five banks in Chilton County at the end of the year 1926, as published in this week's Union-Banner show a very pleasing financial condition.

A total of money on deposit in all five of our banks is $1,019,453.18. The total resources of the five banks is $1,457,128.48. In spite of the depressed spirit of our agricultural interests, it is encouraging to note the splendid condition of our banks.

Chilton County is not gone to the bone yard yet. We will come it all right if we just keep scrapping. Just a little more business in our farming is what we need.

CAMPAIGN CONTRIBUTIONS

Thoughtful persons will stop, in this time of a general outcry against campaign expenditures, to distinguish between money given for illegal purposes, and money given legally and in good faith for the carrying on of the proper activities of political campaigns.

So much criticism has been directed recently against the spending of money for political purposes, and the newspapers have so gotten into the habit of calling all political funds "slush funds" that the public is in danger of being misled into the belief that it is immoral to donate money to a political party, and immoral for a political party to spend money.

Nothing could be farther from the truth. All good Americans, regardless of party, disapprove of money given or spent for corruption in politics. On this point there is no argument. But because some money has been used corruptly does not mean that all money donated for campaign purposes and spent by the great political parties during the campaign, is "slush" money.

It is to be remembered that the two great political parties are made up of the rank and file of our people everywhere. They are a part of our representative system of government and without them we could not have a real republic. The Republican Party and Democratic Party have stood for certain well-defined principles since their organization. These principles embrace certain differences of opinion between groups of honest Americans. And there are constantly new problems coming up on which the two parties must make a stand.

It is not only the right, therefore, but the duty of the Republican and Democratic organizations, to present their side of the case to the American people. And aside from the outcroppings of a few demagogues here and there, occasionally, they perform their tasks pretty well.

If the voters are to make a proper decision on public questions they must know what it is all about. And the principal duty of the Republican and the Democratic committees is to educate voters so they will know what it is all about. The committees do this by publicity—stump speakers, radio speakers, newspaper articles, and pamphlets. Each committee is working for what it regards the best interests of the country as well as the party, and doing this both are performing a real service for the nation.

Now to do all this costs money, and plenty of it. It costs more money than it used to, for various reasons. In the first place there are more people to reach, and more pamphlets and more speakers are required. And again, the general cost of living has risen greatly during the past generation, and this has effected legitimate political living expenses as well as legitimate private living expenses. When we read an ordinary political pamphlet it doubtless strikes us as an inexpensive bit of information. Yet to send such a pamphlet to every voter in the United States would cost either of the national committees a million dollars.

The man or woman who honestly believes in the principles of his party has a right to contribute to the campaign expenses of his party. The party has a right to accept the contribution and to use it for legitimate campaign expenses. Even large sums spent in this way are spent patriotically and not corruptly as the ribald demagogues of both parties would have us believe.

By all means let us stop the use of corrupt funds by corrupt politicians. But let us be careful that at the same time we do not do an unconscious injustice to the Republican or Democrat who contributes to his party because he thinks it is doing a constructive patriotic work—and there are thousands of them.

OUR IMMIGRATION LAWS

Now that Congress is in session again we will hear more about various proposed changes in our immigration laws. But the American people will be slow to approve any radical alterations, especially any designed greatly to increase the tide of immigration.

The present immigration act has worked pretty well, and it is meeting the general approval of the great mass of our people who think as Americans and not as transplanted Europeans or Asiatics. Of course some modifications may be necessary but these ought to be handled with the greatest care so that the floodgates will not be broken down.

It is difficult to picture what might have been the situation in America by this time had the restrictive immigration law failed to pass. A great many of the countries of Europe have been passing through very hard times and a cossiderable percentage of their people, attracted by the stories of wealth in America would have set out across the Atlantic. The influx of labor might have become so great that we would now be dealing with an unemployment problem in spite of our general prosperity.

In restricting immigration Americans are not casting disparagement on the people of any country in Europe. They realize that humanity is pretty generally the same everywhere and that there are good people and undesirables in every country. They realize too, that each country in Europe has given us elements which have gone to make up some of the finest parts of our citizenship. But we are looking at the question from the standpoint of what is best for America, and best for the immigrants who get to our shores. We do not want more foreign population than we can assimilate. Neither do we want to create an unemployment problem of our own. That would injure us without helping Europe.

There are a great many people who see some danger in the great flow of population which is now coming to us from across the Rio Grande. Here is a phase of the situation that will bear real thought. If Mexico finally becomes a communistic government, the problem will be all the more serious.

NATIONAL AFFAIRS

Nearly every day now we get some evidence of the changing lines on the protective tariff sentiment in America. It used to be that we could regard the Southern States as steadfastly committed to the doctrine of free trade, and the northern commonwealths as firmly convinced of the policy of protection. But times have changed. Protective tariff sentiment has increased nowhere faster during the past 10 years than in the South. At the same time there has grown in some of the influental financial centers of the north, a sentiment looking toward free trade.

To indicate the direction in which the wind is blowing in the South is the recent statement of Sen. George, of Georgia, a representative Southern statesman who has been mentioned as a vice-presidential possibility in the Democratic national convention of 1928. Listen to these words of the Senator from Georgia:

"The doctrine of free trade, if it ever existed in the South in practice has long since passed, and while we believe in a tariff for revenue adjusted to invite commerce with other nations, it is recognized that the necessities of government make possible the adjustment of tariff duties with a reasonable regard to the American standard of living. We are now producing certain croops which may be marketed at home and the producers of these crops are demanding protection for their products against foreign competition. The textile industry, now firmly established in the South, is, of course, demanding protection."

In summing up, Sen. George says: "The cost of government running from $3,500,000,000 to $4,000,000,000 annually makes tariff for revenue necessary, and this fact is fully recognized. So that the dominant thought of the South today is for the reduction and scientifi adjustment of the tariff to a truly competitive basis which will guarantee our industries a fair and equal opportunity to control the home market, but which will not guarantee industry an absolute monopoly of the home market."

It has been a long time since statements on the tariff, of a similar nature, have come with anything like regularity from representative statesmen of the South, and Sen. George's words, which place him certainly near the protectionist camp, indicate the trend of the best thought in the South. There was a day, of course, when leading Southerners leaned toward protection, among them Jefferson, Jackson, and even John C. Calhoun in his earlier days. So the South, if it again veers toward protection, will not be inconsistent — merely returning to its original position.

The fact that protectionist sentiment is growing in the South does not mean that the free traders are routed. The anti-protectionists are finding recruits in powerful international circles in the North. As American investments in Europe continue to grow, there will grow along these the demand that we lower our tariffs and take more European goods so that Europe can repay these investments. This demand will not take into consideration the fact that such a lowering of the tariff will injure the American producer and American prosperity. It will be the demand of the foreign investor and not the American producer, and it will command powerful influences. At such a critical time, when it comes, the American protectionists of the North and West may well indeed welcome support from the growing school of protectionists in the South.

GOOD SINGING AT WALNUT CREEK LAST SUNDAY P. M.

The Walnut Creek singing was called to order last Sunday afternoon by Mr. Johnnie Miner of Refuge, the local chairman being absent. A program committee was appointed by the chairman, and the committee turned in the following list of directors, who came forward and led in the singing: W. F. Gilliland, M. Lockhart, Jesse Baker, T. E. Wyatt, O. R. Robinson, W. G. Culp, and Prof. W. M. Devaughn. Organists were Miss Aleene Baker, Mrs. Annie Robinson, Mrs. Jesse Baker, and Prof. W. G. Culp.

The weather was rather disagreeable, but the crowd was fair and the singing was very good. Prof. Devaughn has promised to meet with the Walnut Creek class every second Sunday afternoon.

I. T. Garner, optometrist, will be in Thorsby on Friday before the fourth Saturday in every month, and in Clanton over Tom Kemp's store the fourth Saturday in each month. All work guaranteed. See him if you need a pair of spectacles.

WHERE DID YOU MOVE FROM?

If you want your Union-Banner changed to some other address, and write here about the change, always tell where the paper is to changed from. It is just as important to give your old address as it is to give the new one.

There may be another fellow by the same name on our list somewhere and unless your old address is given we don't know which fellow to change. And, too, it is hard for us to find your name among our list when your old address is not given. So always state your old address when you want your paper changed.

We request that each Church in this association send delegates to this meeting. Remember this is the time to elect officers for your W. M. U. work. If you are interested in the work you will be there. Your present superintendent resigned; be thinking who will fill her place. The program will begin at 10 o'clock. THE BEAR CREEK PHILOSOPHER

"Mr. and Mrs. Coolidge certainly get along well together," remarked Uncle Billy Gamester, when he read that only three dishes had been broken at the White House in the past four years.

Henry Martin, who attended a New Years' party in Chicago, is going back to the city to enter a hospital and have his stomach relined.

The new milliner at the Boston Store says that the average young man's affection doesn't last much longer than the jewelry which he sends out on Christmas.

Most of us are starting the New Year with a bank account that looks like it had been given a boyish bob.

The laziest person in our county is Tom Minnow. As soon as Christmas is over he begins to dread the spring plowing.

Wonder if Santa Claus had to get a license from Mussolini to operate in Italy this year?

"Saint Nicholas sure is popular, but I doubt whether he could be elected in Pennsylvania on the Democratic ticket," said Uncle Billy Gamester last evening.

Henry Martin, who had a silver dollar, that sounds flat, worked off on him at Bluntsville last week, is thinking about sending it to the Senate for investigation.

The old-fashioned man who made New Year resolutions that lasted for three weeks now has a son who doesn't make any at all.

Enos Tuttle expected to go to the hospital next week to have his tonsils removed, but since he drank a pint of Christmas gin the doctors can't find 'em.

Several people from Mitchell Dam were shopping in Clanton last Saturday.

VALVE-IN-HEAD Buick MOTOR CARS A24-13

Buick Ahead Again in the Yellowstone!

Again in 1926, more Buicks toured through Yellowstone Park than any other car except the one of lowest price.

Buick has held this same honor every year since the Park was opened to automobile travel.

This year there were 4,756 Buicks in a total of 44,472 cars registered. 101 different makes were represented in the registrations. One in every ten was a Buick.

Here is convincing evidence of Buick reliability—striking proof of the faith which Buick owners repose in their car.

They know Buick will take them and bring them back comfortably, safely and splendidly—across the Continent—or around the World.

Bread—1¢ a Loaf

IF AMERICAN food prices had followed the same scale of reduction that has characterized its power charges, you could buy bread for 1 cent a loaf today. Instead bread costs more today and the 5-cent loaf weighs less, because the baker must pay more for all materials except electricity. In all commodities there has been a 65 per cent increase in cost since before the war, while electricity is LOWER.

America's electrical pioneers have worked unceasingly on electrical problems. They have developed new methods, new machines and new ideas. In the home, in the factory and in transportation, electricity is doing work that was not dreamed of 30 years ago. And yet the cost has gone down. Remember this the next time you pay your grocery and electric light bills.

BRED
to go a distance

Through years of careful breeding a great horse is developed . . . . one that can carry weight and speed a distance, when other horses falter. Half a century of refining experience has enabled the Standard Oil Company to develop in CROWN GASOLINE a great motor-fuel . . . one that like the thorobred horse will go the longest distance, and give you more miles for your money. But other qualities have not been sacrificed to give more mileage. CROWN GASOLINE is an all-round, balanced motor fuel. You can depend on an easy start, and quick pick-up as well as more mileage.

Look!
Don't let your Oil run too low. Crank Case should be Drained every Five Hundred Miles.
POLARINE
Oil or Grease
Is much cheaper than
New Bearings

FARMERS ASK ABOUT MAKING TRUCK CROPS

Gibbons Advises Precaution Before Planting On a Large Scale

Auburn, Ala., January 12.—Based upon information received from several different sources, there is an unusual tendency on the part of Alabama farmers to try truck crops this year on a commercial basis as part of diversified farming. S. H. Gibbons, extension horticulturist, is receiving requests for information about the production and prospects of sales of different truck crops, and the county agents too, are receiving similar requests.

Before attempting to produce truck crops on a commercial scale Mr. Gibbons is advising farmers to determine if they know how to produce these crops, if their land is suitable, if they are accessible to market, and if there is reasonable assurance that there will be a satisfactory market when the products are ready for market.

"Truck crops," said Mr. Gibbons, "require rich land and special attention. Poor land and ordinary production methods are not sufficient. A successful trucker must know what to plant, the variety to plant, when and how to plant it, how to fertilize, how to cultivate, when and how to harvest; and he must have arrangements for selling, because truck crops are perishable and must either go to market when ready or go to waste."

Mr. Gibbons added that it is not possible to apply the same answers to all questions regarding truck crops but that certain fundamentals apply to all. He said that the production and marketing of truck crops has many hazards and advises farmers to study it thoroughly before going in for truck crops on a large scale. "Although successful production of truck crops is more difficult than other crops it is frequently much easier to produce than it is to sell," he added.

The Trifles of an Earlier Day

In the great Meuse-Argonne advance two doughboys were squatted in a shell hole for shelter. In another minute or two they expected an order to go forward again against the German positions. The enemy was pouring everything he had in their direction. Machine-gun bullets were whining by just above their heads. High explosives and shrapnel shells were bursting about them. Hundreds of guns, big and little, roared and thundered.

One of the soldiers turned his head toward his companion.

"Buddy," he said, "I've just been layin' here thinkin'."

"H—l of a time to be thinkin'," said his pal: "What were you thinkin' about?"

"I was thinkin' how a fellow's feelin's get changed in this war."

"What do you mean—get changed?"

"Why, once upon a time, back home, a fellow with a thirty-eight caliber pistol run me plum' out of town."

AMERICA HAS ALWAYS expected great things from its greatest industry. But the announcement of the Most Beautiful Chevrolet has been the automotive sensation of all time! Here is a car which in beauty, luxury, quality and modern design challenges the costliest creations of the day

Here, in a price class where average standards have been the rule, is now offered a car so far beyond all expectation that comparisons cease to exist.

Seven superb models styled as low priced cars were never styled before and offering such marks of fine car distinction as: full crown one-piece fenders, bullet type lamps and "fish-tail" rear deck modeling! New and supremely beautiful bodies by Fisher! And, above all, infinitely finer quality—the result of a host of additional improvements such as AC oil filter, AC air cleaner, co-incidental steering and ignition lock, larger 17" steering wheel, gasoline guage and many, many others!

All this is combined to a supreme degree in the long famous leader of the Chevrolet line—the Coach. It would be a brilliant achievement for any manufacturer merely to design such a splendid car to sell at ANY reasonably low price. But to sell it at the amazing price of $595 is a feat of history making proportions. This one price reduction alone would suffice to center worldwide attention on Chevrolet. But due to economies of tremendous production plus the vast resources of General Motors, Chevrolet also announces striking price reductions on other models.

For years Chevrolet has led the world in providing Quality at Low Cost. But now with a new and more beautiful car—with a car infinintely finer in quality and greatly lower in price, Chevrolet stands supreme and unchallenged in dollar-for-dollar value!

No matter in what price class you intend to buy or whether you plan to spend more or less than the price of a Chevrolet, come in today and see the most beautiful low priced Coach ever designed. Admire its marvelous style and grace! Mark its many new fine-car features! Learn for yourself by personal inspection why, at its new low price, it is the greatest sensation of America's greatest industry!

Child-birth

THOUSANDS of mothers for over three generations have praised Mother's Friend for relieving them of unnecessary pains during expectancy.

"Everyone was surprised how well I got along," writes Mrs. Alfred E. Ammon, Muncie, Ind. "My pains disappeared after using Mother's Friend and I was sick only an hour and a half at baby's birth."

Mother's Friend is the formula of an eminent physician. It is made from a combination of highly refined oils and other wonderful ingredients and is for outward application. Mother's Friend aids the skin and muscles to expand more easily during the constant readjustment of expectancy, month after month, right up to childbirth.

Mother! Insist on Mother's Friend—the same as used by our mothers and grandmothers—don't wait—start using tonight—and meanwhile write Bradfield Regulator Co., Dept. 33, Atlanta, Ga., for free valuable booklet "Motherhood and the Coming Baby" (sent in plain envelope). It tells how Mother's Friend can help you during expectancy and at childbirth. This booklet also tells you many other things you want to know. At Ye Sign Of Mellie's Fiddle

REMEMBER readin' about Mellie Dunham, the veteran Maine fiddler whom Henry Ford brought to Detroit to fiddle for him? Well—Mellie's back home again. Taking life easy. He made enough on his stage tour after leaving Detroit to both pay the mortgage on his dwelling at Norway, Maine, and to keep the home fires burning for the rest of his days. Photo above shows his home—with a large fiddle over the door—and Mellie and "Gram" on the doorstep.

My Favorite Stories

By IRVIN S. COBB

Narrowing Down to the Facts

There were two brothers; a truthful brother and a brother who was the most incorrigible and persistent liar in the county. As a result of the latter's chronic embellishments of facts the whole family was getting a bad reputation.

The truthful brother took him in hand.

"Look here, Bill," he said, "you're disgracing the name. This thing has got to stop. The next time you start in to exaggerate just keep your eye on me. When you begin to go too far I'll give you a hard look and that'll be a signal to you to begin soft-pedaling."

The very next day the two brothers were in the company of a group of their fellow citizens. The talk drifted to the subject of big city hotels. This was a cue for the liar.

"Speakin' of hotels," he said, "I know a hotel out in Californy that is twenty-two stories high, has a thousand rooms in it, eight dining-rooms, fourteen bowling alleys, twenty-two swimming pools, thirty soda-water fountains, forty-eight billiard halls and—" here he caught a hard look from the good brother—"and is three feet and a half wide."

COOLIDGE'S SALVO AT MEXICO MAKES CONGRESS WAVER

Washington, Jan. 11—The statement that President Coolidge's Nicarauguan-Mexican message to Congress was a delicate affront to Mexico was made in the House Tuesday by Representative Huddleston (D), of Alabama.

He reiterated his charge that America "deliberately and consciously" is drifting into war with Mexico, and declared the president had brought Mexico into his message Monday for the deliberate purpose "to put her in a bad light."

Mr. Coolidge sent the message to Congress, he said, to back up the charge "that Mexico is a Bolshevist government."

Huddleston added that as he listened to the reading of the message, he felt sorry for Mr. Coolidge. He believed "a Hughes, a Root, or someone else" could have sent a communication to Congress that would have displayed more tact. The president had had poor advice, he said.

Twenty-fours of reflection over President Coolidge's message found Congress gravely considering Tuesday what steps, if any, it should take to give the administraton the benefit of its advice.

There were few recurrences of criticism of the president's course.

Wednesday seems likely to bring a sharper definition of the issue, as between the administration and its assailants. The House foreign relations committee decided to consider a batch of pending resolutions bearing on the Nicaraguan situation, together with the statements made by the president in his message. At the same time the Senate foreign relations committee will be hearing Secretary Kellogg explaining the diplomatic background of the whole Nicaraguan tangle.

The president asserted in his message that the government was acting only to preserve American lives and property in the internal warfare in Nicaragua, where it has recognized the Conservative regime of President Diaz.

He condemned the Liberal government set up by Juan B. Sacasa, with Mexican recognition, terming this act of President Calles as "outside interference."

He said he had the most "conclusive evidence" that arms and ammunition in "large quantities" had been shipped on several occasions to the "revolutionists;" that boats carrying these munitions were fitted out in Mexican ports.

Senator Willis (R), of Ohio, while not commenting on the message, declared in a speech in Philadelphia that England, France, and Italy had appealed to the United States to protect their citizens in Nicaragua, and if the latter did not agree to do this, "they will do it themselves, especially England, for that country will see Englishmen protected wherever they may go."

Meanwhile, reports from Managua say that Sacasa is reported to have refused a request for mediation allegedly made by Liberal adherents there.

Democrats Lose Fight To Impeach Reynolds

Efforts of certain democrats of Chilton County to bring impeachment proceedings against L. H. Reynolds, republican probate judge, failed last Thursday when the supreme court denied an application for rehearing of the case in which it was requested to issue an order directing the attorney-general to bring the impeachment proceedings. This ends the case as no further request for consideration can be made under the rules of the supreme court. It can be reopened in only one way—by motion of members of the court.

Many charges of irregularities were made against Judge Reynolds, the chief being that he padded the election rolls of Chilton County, that he retained names of dead men on the polls and that he cut off the names of some persons who had opposed his political aspirations in the past.

The appeal to the supreme court was made after Governor Brandon and Harwell G. Davis, attorney-general, had refused to start impeachment proceedings. Governor Brandon and Attorney-General Davis stated that they were not convinced that the evidence against Judge Reynolds was sufficient to warrant impeachment proceedings. The same view was taken by the supreme court, which denied the application several weeks ago. From this order an appeal for rehearing was filed.

If the Democrats of Chilton County want to retire Judge Reynolds from office they must defeat him in the general election in November, 1928. At that time he will come before the voters for reelection, provided he obtains the republican nomination in the primary which will be held prior to the general election. Reports from Chilton County are to the effect that Judge Reynolds will have opposition in the Republican primary. J. O. Middleton, assistant district attorney at Montgomery, is reported as a probable candidate for the probate judgeship on the Republican ticket.—The Montgomery Advertiser.

Jordan's head was crushed and attending physicians at Hill hospital in Montgomery, where he was taken, said he had no chance for recovery.

The boys were members of the industrial school band, which was to take part in the inaugural parade is the state capital Monday.

Ambulances from Montgomery rushed them to the hospital there. Physicians said that all of the injured would recover except Jordan.

A later report from Montgomery Tuesday night stated that Mr. Jordan is improving and will possibly recover.

CLEBURNE DEPUTY SHERIFF KILLED

Anniston, Ala., Jan. 17.—W. B. Burton, Cleburne County deputy sheriff, is dead, and Ed Burrow, chief of police in Edwardsville, was in a serious condition at the home of his brother, H. M. Burrow, in Oxford, today, as the result of a shooting affray which occurred in Edwardsville.

Burrow is said to have used 2 guns to fire 12 shots, 8 of which took effect in Burton's body. Burrow was wounded in the right hand and the left arm, and battered over the head with a club. Young Burton is said to have wielded the club while the shooting was going on.

VERBENA P. T. A. TO SPONSOR SHOW FRIDAY NIGHT

The Clanton Dramatic Club, which put on its big success play, "One Room Plus," in Clanton last Friday night, has been asked to bring this 3-act comedy-drama to Verbena Friday night, January 21, under the auspices of the Verbena P. T. A.

Everyone who saw this play has praised it as never before. It is without doubt one of the best acted, as well as best gotten up plays that has ever been shown in Clanton. It is produced by special arrangement with Walter H. Baker, Boston, Mass.

The play brings out the modern apartment life in contrast to that of a suburban home. This play is well acted—every member takes his or her part as they should be taken.

Last Friday night was bitter cold, but not quite cold enough to keep the Clanton folks away from this performance. They knew that if they stayed away they would miss a real treat, so they turned out and spent a real, sure-enough enjoyable evening in a well heated building — the Chilton County High School.

So, folks, if you were one of the unlucky ones who missed this play last Friday night, come to Verbena Friday night, January 21, and gain that back which you might have lost, and also help a worthy cause, the Verbena P. T. A.

If you are the least bit in doubt as to the merits of this play, just ask someone who saw it—then we know you'll come out. There will be a crowd from Clanton to see it all over again, as many have requested that it be shown again in Clanton. Come early and get the pick of the seats. No reserve seats.—Clanton Dramatic Club.

TAKE HEED !

There will be a B. Y. P. U. council meeting of Unity Association at Mt. Creek church Sunday afternoon, January 23, at 3 o'clock. All Associational officers, Presidents of Senior Unions, and Leaders of Junior and Intermediate Unions, please be there. There is some important work to be discussed. Back up the Associational work!—Katie M. Cobern, President of Unity Association.

"HIS UNCLE'S NIECE"

Well, folks, here's for another treat. The Dramatic Club is putting on in the near future one of the funniest plays ever shown in or around Chilton County. This is a 3-act play —it can't be called a comedy, because the word comedy does not do it justice. It is a scream from beginning to end. Laughs are good cures for just any kind of troubles, and if you are troubled in any way just come out and see this play and forget 'em.

As you have already seen — the Clanton Dramatic Club can put over a play, and you can be assured this one will go over big. The date has not been decided upon.

If you have seen any of our plays you know what we are turning out, and you will not be disappointed in this one—"His Uncle's Niece." We have had special scenery made for this play; scenery which speaks for itself. You are bound to spend and enjoyable evening. It will be given at the Chilton County High School and you can be assured of comfort, as the building is steam heated.

There are six men and three women, and last but not least a "woman impersonator"—that's the catch, and we must add—he certainly can impersonate a member of the fair sex. Watch for announcement of the date of this play.—Clanton Dramatic Club.

SENATOR HEFLIN REPLIES TO SENATOR EDWARDS' ATTACK

"Mr. President, I regret that the Senator from New Jersey, Mr. Edwards, saw fit yesterday to drag into his speech an unpleasant newspaper reference to Governor Brandon of my State. The unfortunate occurrence to which he referred is greatly regretted by the people of Alabama as well as by the Governor himself.

"It is my understanding that the court held that the Governor had nothing to do with the ownership and was in no way responsible for the presence of the whiskey found in the fishing camp. And I wish to say in passing that the Senator from New Jersey was in sore need of speech material and distressingly hard pressed for argument when he brought this regrettable incident to the floor of the Senate.

FIXING UP JAIL PROPERTY

Sheriff Dudley Collins reports that the County jail was delivered over to him empty and wide open Monday by Sheriff Littlejohn. Painters are now busy putting on a new coat of paint inside the big stone house, getting everything in good shape for those whom Mr. Collins may take in to the toils of the law.

The residence in which the Sheriff lives next to the jail is also being repainted and otherwise spruced up. Mr. Collins will move in some time right soon.

FARM MEETING SATURDAY

Farmers are reminded this week that the meeting which was to have been held last Saturday has been set for next Saturday. The execessive cold weather of last Saturday prevented attendance by those who are interested in the co-operative movement.

If the organization is to be set up in time to do any good this year it is time it was being done. The next thing we know it will be time to plant our crops.

PHONE SERVICE IS BETTER

Patrons of the Peoples Telephone Company have noticed a decided improvement in their phone service since the first of the year. Lineman George Culp has succeded in getting many of the lines in working order. He reports that over 400 phones have been restored to service after being out of commission last year.

VOCATIONAL TEACHER NOW ON JOB AT JEMISON

Prof. J. P. Montgomery, a vocational agricultural teacher of wide experience and recognized ability has been employed to take charge of the vocational department of the Jemison High School, and is now on the job.

Mr. Montgomery comes from Shelby County, where he has won high honors in the last few years by the establishment of a milk route by which the rural sections of that county have come to reap fine dividends by selling milk and cream in the city of Birmingham. He is a native of Mississippi and a graduate of the Mississippi Agicultural and Mechanical College. He is recognized as one of the best vocational men in the State, and we consider it fortunate for the agricultural interests of Chilton County that his services have been secured for the Jemison school and community.

MULBERRY - ISABELLA

There will be a negro minstrel put on at this place by the students and teachers of Isabella school, Friday night, January, 28. There will be plenty of good music furnished by the Northrup Band from Maplesville. Arrangements have been made for all kinds of refreshments. Come and bring a friend. Admission will be 15 and 25 cents.

Prof. Earle Thomas attended the teachers conference in Montgomery Friday and Saturday.

The W. M. S. will meet with Mrs. J. D. Griffin Saturday, January 22. It is hoped that all the members will be present and take a visitor.

Mrs. C. N. Parnell of Maplesville is teaching music at Isabella now with about 15 pupils.

SCHOOL CAUGHT ON FIRE

Last Monday, presumably from a faulty stove flue, the Rocky Mount school house caught on fire. The fire was extinguished after some damage was done to the roof. The building will be repaired and used right on.

The school at Rocky Mount is reported to be exceptionally good this year, the teacher being Miss Lois Primm.

C. R. and H. I. Sewell of Lawely Route 1 were visitors at The Union-Banner office Monday.

BRANDON TO BE APPOINTED AS TUSCALOOSA JUDGE

William W. Brandon, former governor of Alabama, will be appointed probate judge of Tuscaloosa County. His commission will be issued as soon as Judge Woolsey Finnell, who will retire from the probate judgeship, takes his oath as chairman and chief engineer of the state highway commission. This fact was established at Montgomery late Monday.

Governor Graves made the statement during the day in the presence of former Governor Brandon, that he will make the appointment in recognition to the service of the retiring governor in calling the extra session of the legislature at the request of Governor Graves and in acquainting Governor Graves with the important duties of his office.

For many weeks the report has gone over the state that the appointment would be tendered by Governor Graves and accepted by Governor Brandon. Governor Brandon vacated the office when he became chief executive. A section of the constitution says that a retiring governor cannot accept a position under the state government for one year after he has retired. Governor Graves and former Governor Brandon are of the opinion that it does not apply to a county office.

The probate judgeship of Tuscaloosa County is supposed to yield an annual income of from $12,500 to $15,000. Governor Brandon received $7,500 as chief executive.

CHILTON SWAMPS Y. M. C. A. OF MONTGOMERY

Chilton County High's basketeers traveled down to Montgomery last Saturday night and defeated the Montgomery Y. M. C. A. basket ball team by the lop-sided score of 41 to 13. All the Chilton second string men got a chance to show their 'stuff' and put up a fine defensive game. The "Y" team couldn't stem the hurricane of the Chilton attack however, and scoring was done by Chilton men almost at will.

THREE ARRESTED FOR PUBLIC DRUNKENNESS

Crawford Williams, Ulus Foshee, and Virgil Headley were arrested this week on warrants charging them with public drunkenness at Pleasant Grove, near Mt. Nebo. They made bond. Some others are said to have had a part in the violations of the law at the same time and other arrests will be made soon.

LAWERENCE WILL SPEAK TO CONGRESS OF P. T. A.

County superintendent of Education, Buford Lawerence, has accepted an invitation to attend a conference of the Alabama Congress of Parent Teachers in Montgomery on January 29, and make an address on the subject of "How the Parent Teachers Association Aids the County Educational Program."

Bring your cotton seed to us; we pay the best price for them. —J. A. Maddox, Clanton, Ala.

Farmers Meeting To Be Here On Next Saturday

Due to the cold weather that prevailed last Saturday, the meeting of the newly organized Chilton County Co-operative Association which was scheduled to meet that day was postponed for one week.

The association will meet at the county courthouse at 10 o'clock Saturday, January 22, and the entire citizenship of the county is invited to come and help make this meeting a success.

Crop planting time is rapidly approaching and if the marketing division of the association is to function for the betterment of the farmers this year, the association will of necessity have to know what the county is planning to produce this year, both as to the variety of crops and the probable yelds. One of the first things that has to be taken into consideration when seeking a market for the products of the farms of the county is:—what are we going to have to sell? "It is going to be impossible to get this information unless we get it from the farmers themselves," C. E. Marcus, who is now acting secretary of the association, said, "and the only way we can get this information is through organization."

Already there has been enough of our people who have signed up for membership to assure the organization of the association, but before it can function for the general benefit of the county, a majority of the citizens must cooperate with the organization. This does not mean that every member of the association must be a farmer. The Chilton County Co-operative Association is not designed for the benefit of the farmer only, but for the benefit of the entire citizenship of the county, therefore the business men of the county are invited and strongly urged to attend this meeting on next Saturday. The farmers of the county need your help, and it is a foregone conclusion that without the help and business of the farmers of the county, the business men are not going to succeed.

The committee to nominate officers of the association has already met and made their nominations, which will be announced at the meeting Saturday; they of those nominated from the floor will be elected, and suggestions and discussions for an annual program of work will be made at the meeting. Those who have made the organization this far possible can not go much farther with the organization without the assistance and cooperation of large numbers of the citizens, therefore a large and enthusiastic crowd is expected to be present at the meeting Saturday.

HOW TO STUDY THE BIBLE

The study of the Bible is very important, and a subject that we should take much care and time with. The Bible is God's great text-book for man. It is His lamp to our feet and light to our path in this world of sin. The value of Bible study cannot therefore be overestimated. It's interesting stories, deep wisdom, dignified language, and its elevating themes that make it worthy of universal reading. The Bible has a wonderful educational power. Nothing so broadens the vision, strengthens the mind, and elevates the thoughts as does the study of the Bible. As a guide it is without a rival. It solves the great problems of life and destiny. It fills the heart with love for God and a desire to do good for others. It lights up the dark valley of death. and points to an unending life. It leads to God and to Christ, whom to know is life eternal. In short—It is the one book to live by and die by; but the question is—"How should we study the Bible so that we may accomplish more by so doing?"

We should read the Bible prayerfully, thoughtfully, and slowly, so that we do not misunderstand it. Little benefit is derived from a hasty reading of the Scriptures. One passage studied until it is thoroughly understod is of more value than reading many chapters with no definite purpose in view and no positive instruction gained. To obtain a comprehensive knowledge of the Bible, Scriptures must be compared with Scriptures, and there should be careful research and prayerful reflection. It is one thing to read the Bible through, and another thing to read to learn and do.

Some read it with design to learn to read,
But to the subject pay but little heed;
Some read it as their duty once a week,
But no instruction from the Bible seek;
While others read it with but little care,
With no regard to how they read—or where;
Some read to bring themselves into repute,
By showing others how they can dispute;
While others read because their neighbors do,
To see how long 'twill take to read it through;
Some read it for the wonders that are there—
How David killed a lion and a bear,
While others read it with uncommon care,
Hoping to find some contradictions there;
Some read as if it did not speak to them—
But to the people of Jerusalem.
One reads with father's "specs" upon his head,
And sees the thing just as his father said;
Some read to prove a pre-adopted creed,
Hence, understand but little that they read;
For every passage in the Book they bend
To make it suit that all-important end.
Some people read, as I have often thought,
To teach the Book instead of being taught;
And some there are who read it out of spite,
I fear there are few who read it right!
But read it prayerfully, and you will see.
Although men contradict — God's words agree;
For what the early Bible prophets wrote,
We find that Christ and His Apostles quote.
So, trust no creed that trembles to recall—
What has been penned by one, and verified by all. —Glois Manning.

Rheumatism can't be rubbed away

Are you one of those unfortunates who suffer with pains in your muscles and joints, making you miserable, less efficient, interfering with your working hours, ruining your sleep?

You may have tried many things without relief. Why not try S.S.S.? For more than 100 years it has been giving relief in thousands of cases, as testified to in unsolicited letters of gratitude.

"I suffered from rheumatism for a good many years. At times my joints would swell so, I couldn't walk. I tried most everything. Went to Hot Springs and finally I decided to try S. S. S. I took a course. In a short time the rheumatic pains entirely left me. I also had a breaking out on my hands for years that nothing would heal, but now this has disappeared, and I am sure that it was S. S. S. which removed the cause. I am now in perfect health, and want to add that I have tried all kinds of medicines but I think S. S. S. is the best." Carl C. Campbell, 115 West Main Street, Johnson City, Tenn.

S.S.S. is purely vegetable. It is extracted from the fresh roots of medicinal plants and herbs and gives to Nature what she needs in building you up so that your system throws off the cause.

S.S.S. is sold at all good drug stores in two sizes. The larger size is more economical.

ALABAMA PRODUCTS FIND HOME MARKET

The movement launched a little more than a year ago by several big industrial concerns of Birmingham to specify Alabama farm products in buying has succeeded beyond the expectations of the leaders, according to a survey of developments made by Extension Service specialists at Auburn.

Investigation revealed that hay, butter, turkeys, preserves, honey, canned goods, beef cattle, eggs, corn, oats, syrup, black-eye peas, and many other Alabama farm products have found satisfactory demands in Birmingham with present indications that larger quantities will be sold this way in 1927.

Among the big industrial centers demanding Alabama farm products are—Tennessee Coal, Iron & Railroad Co., Alabama Power Co., Schloss Co., Woodward Iron Co., Republic Iron & Steel Co., DeBardeleben Coal Co., Alabama By-Products Corp., and others. Feed mills of Birmingham are buying Alabama corn and oats and grinding it into mixed feed or into meal.

Hay has been a leader. A large portion of it has been handled by the Alabama Farm Bureau Federation. A few of these big corporations requested that all their hay come thru the Farm Bureau channel.

At present much attention is being given to the marketing of corn and hay, of which north Alabama farmers produced a surplus last year. Some of it is being bought in the ear, although the biggest demand is for shelled corn, bagged in 2-bushel bags. There is also a big demand for more eggs, butter, and syrup, of the right kind. One big refinery is ready to sign a contract for 200,000 gallons of sorghum syrup annually. This company also uses ribbon cane syrup in large quantities.

Sports Frocks Say Style With Flowers

THE flowers we're wearing this Spring, tra-la, have nothing to do with the waist. But poised boldly on the shoulder or coyly on the cuff, a chrysanthemum, rose or dahlia is now just as much at home on a sports frock as ever it was on an evening gown. Sometimes it is different from the frock in color and fabric; often, as in the case above, it is made of the dress material. This simple two-piece frock takes no other trimming than the stitching in silk, wool or metallic thread around the neck and cuffs. The inverted plaits also are stitched at the top.

MARINES MOURN PASSING OF "JIGGS"

Washington, Jan. 11.—"Jiggs" is dead, and the U. S. Marines mourn.

Ugly of feature, but amiable of disposition, the bulldog mascot tugged mightily at the hearts of the leathernecks while he lived. His passing saddened the sea soldiers, who grieve as they would grive for the death of a buddie.

Dog mascots and dog heroes have long been pets of the marines. Many a barracks or navy yard, at home or abroad, bear markers that note the passing of a canine pal. A monument will mark the last resting place of Jiggs.

Jiggs held his place in the hearts of the leathernecks by virtue of being a "good fellow." He looked hard-boiled. In reality he would lick the hand of any Marine who would give him a friendly pat.

The mascot had one weakness. He couldn't pass up a choice tid-bit when it was offered him. The doctors agree that too much food and poor mastication led to his death.

Jiggs spent most of his six years of life riding in airplanes, traveling with the Marine football or baseball teams, and accompanying the Marines on their jaunts here and there about the country.

He was hostile only to mufti-clad civilians who ventured too close to government property when he was on guard. In the language of the leathernecks, Jiggs led the "life of Reilly." His rank of sergeant major was conferred upon him by Secretary Wilbur.

Jiggs died in Washington, where the best medical attention could not save him. His body was sent back to Quantico, Va., the Marine Corps post, by airplane. Prior to his burial in the stadium there today, his remains lay in state in the post gymnasium. His coffin was fashioned from his kennel.

Jiggs had a pedigree equal to the best in canine society. The collars of his forebears were replete with blue ribbons. His registered title was "King Bulwark." But to the Marines he was just Jiggs—canine soldier of fortune, buddie, and pal.

That's why the leathernecks mourn.

Pan-Am Opens Southern Territory With 450 Bulk Plants

Pan-Am tanks on cars at Birmingham ready for shipment

NEW ORLEANS.—What was the outstanding construction program in the South during the year 1926?

Look at the records of the Pan-American Petroleum Corporation for your answer to that question. For during eight months of last year this company erected and placed in operation 450 bulk plants in the states of Florida, Georgia, Alabama, Mississippi and Louisiana, at an expenditure of millions of dollars. A truly southern program, too, for the materials for this gigantic enterprise were bought in the South and the plants were erected by southern workmen.

The Pan-Am program was easily the biggest undertaking ever assumed by an oil company in the South. For before the distributing plants could be built, the sites had to be selected, ground bought, and a general plan formulated for an organization of state managers, bulk station managers, gasoline pump lessees and attendants, truck drivers and the detailed force necessary for the efficient distribution of gasoline, kerosene and motor oil.

Pan-Am started this immense undertaking in March of 1926. Today over 450 bulk plants are in operation. Pan-Am tank trucks can be seen on any southern highway. Thousands of Pan-Am pumps line the highways. Practically every city, town, hamlet and village in the five southern states has its Pan-Am representative. And back of this whole development are the resources of a $300,000,000 organization—a solid guarantee of gasoline, crude oil and lubricant supply for many years to come.

That Pan-Am's faith in the rapid development of the South is justified is shown by the thousands of motorists who are taking advantage of the service rendered by Pan-Am dealers. Officials of the company are proud of the record-breaking program carried out during 1926, and are already busy with plans for extended development.

TOM LITTLEJOHN, RETIRING SHERIFF—

On Monday of this week Tom Littlejohn completed his term of four years as Sheriff of Chilton County and delivered his office into the hands of his successor, J. Dudley Collins.

The manner in which Tom has conducted the affairs of his office is such as to bring the highest conmmendation from all good citizens. We feel safe to say that Chilton County has never before had a better Sheriff than Tom Littlejohn. In fact, it would not be amiss to say that we have never had an official in any office in the county who made a better record for the faithful and proper discharge of his duties.

Mr. Littlejohn has been clean, honorable, high-minded, and fearless in the discharge of his duties and the enforcement of the law with due consideration for everybody.

While holding this office Tom has really been the Sheriff himself. He has conducted his official business according to his own ideas of what was right and proper and legal. He has made few, if any enemies, which is a record seldom enjoyed by a man who serves four years in the office of Sheriff. He and his work as Sheriff has been commended by practically every grand jury that has assembled during his term. The straightforward manner in which he has gone before the courts with his testimony in law violations has brought terror into the ranks of the evil doers.

We may expect that the mark set by Tom Littlejohn shall stand in future years in this county as a criterion for the conduct of the Sheriff's office. He has set a pattern which may well be followed, but which few will equal. May it be our good fortune to have more officials like him.

Tom is a big, outspoken, openhearted honest man. He has proven himself abundantly capable of filling any office in the county. He seems to be glad to get back into private life. He is young and in the prime of his usefulness and we should not be at all surprised if the people of the county should demand that he again serve them, but probably in a higher capacity.

We are glad to have Republicans who can make such records as Mr. Littlejohn has made in office. While he has been true to his political views yet in the conduct of his office he has not been partisan, and he has not allowed his politics to deter him in any way from the proper discharge of duty and law enforcement toward every citizen. Republican officials who make such records as Tom Littlejohn has made are the greatest assets to their party.

If anything ever convinces us that the theory of evolution is correct it will be reading one of Tom Heflin's speeches in the Senate.

If the farmer ever gets finally relieved, there are a lot of politicians who will be wondering what to do next.

A scientist at Philadelphia traces man back to a primitive fish. And sometimes we think that most of us haven't got far away from the home plate even yet.

The only fellow who can afford to drink bootleg liquor is the one who has seen all there is to see anyhow.

Farmers around Guntersville, Marshall County, have bought 7,000 onion plants for planting this season. They are growing other truck crops also, thereby adding other money crops to cotton.

Southern farmers are doing a lot to improve the cotton situation by demanding cotton bags for fertilizers, feeds, cement, and other products.

Two million of the 6,500,000 farmers in the United States are doing business cooperatively.

The world is full of faint hearts; and yet every one has courage enough to bear the misfortunes, and wisdom enough to manage the affairs of his neighbors.—Poor Richard.

If you want your Union-Banner changed to some other address, and write here about the change, always tell where the paper is to be changed from. It is just as important to give oyur old address as it is to give the new one.

There may be another fellow by the same name on our list somewhere and unless your old address is given we don't know which fellow to change. And, too, it is hard for us to find the name among our list when your old address is not given. So always state your old address when you want your paper changed.

LOCAL DEMOCRATIC POLICIES

Beginning on the day when Judge Reynolds was elected as Probate Judge in 1922, a few penny-wise and pound-foolish Democrats of Chilton County set out upon a relentless scheme to oust him from office because he was a Republican.

Scheme after scheme was undertaken in rapid fire order. Charge after charge was made; and every time their straw man was knocked down by the light of truth, they always had one set up in another shady place by the next day.

Last week the final effort against Reynolds was sent skyward with those which had gone before when the Supreme Court of Alabama for the third time passed upon the matter as being without foundation.

But this same little crowd of so-called Democrats are not yet satisfied. They have an insatiable desire to taste blood, whch drives them further and further into desperation. They have failed to reach Reynolds with their poison darts, and now they have turned their artillery and poison gas upon the Commissioners Court of Chilton County. They have a plan to place a bill before the legislature of Alabama to abolish the Commissioners Court of Chilton County, and set up in its stead a Board of Revenue consisting of five members. Three members of this board would be appointed by the Governor, and the other two members would be T. A. Maddox and J. P. Bean, who were elected as Commissioners last November. Ultimately the Board would be composed of a member elected in each of the five districts, one of whom would be chairman of the board. Elsewhere in this paper we publish the full text of the proposed bill in order that our readers may be fully informed on its contents.

It is interesting to observe the craftiness that is used in this proposal in laying out the Revenue Districts of the county. By the Gerrymander method the scheme is laid out in such a manner as to guarantee as nearly as possible that none but Democrats can be elected in each district. The framers of the bill therefore seek to accomplish by legislation that which they have failed to do by election in Chilton County.

The plan of these few Democrats in reference to abolishing the Commissioners Court and establishing a board of revenue is in line with the ordinary policies of this little disgruntled bunch of politicians. They have found out that they can do nothing in Chilton County by means of popular elections conducted fairly and honestly. The people have repudiated them at every turn of their malicious political madness; so they are resorting to the legislature of Alabama to "trim" the Republicans of Chilton County. They have adopted the slogan enunciated by the gentleman from Jefferson in the legislature four years ago: "If the Democrats of Chilton County can't vote 'em out, the Democrats in the legislature will legislate 'em out."

They may be able to influence the legislature of Alabama to stoop so low as to do this job for them, but we doubt it. And if they do, it is woe unto Chilton County and her road and financial system. People who will employ unjust and undemocratic means to get into office can not be trusted when they get there.

Much fine political intrigue has been employed in drafting the proposed Board of Revenue bill. Notice that they provide for the two Republican Commissioners elected last November, T. A. Maddox and J. P. Bean to be retained as members of the proposed Board of Revenue. This is a ruse with which they hope to placate the Republicans and chloroform them so that the amputation of their political rights may be made without so much kicking.

But what does this mean after the terms of these two men have expired? The coast will then be clear for the Democrats and by means of the Gerrymandered districts in which Democratic beats have been so grouped and distributed into the districts, they will be able "to show the Republicans a few things."

The Republicans of Chilton County and the Democrats who believe in fair popular government must awaken to the present critical situation and see that such a measure is not foisted upon the people of our county. Why should Chilton County be subjected to the tyranny of a few politicians who can not submit to their defeat by the people, and all the rest of the world go free in the exercise of political self determination?

Will the Democratic legislature of Alabama, which boasts of its democracy, stoop so low as to inflict upon the people of a sovereign county a measure that unquestionably takes away from us the one great privilege that is guaranteed to every citizen of our great Republic—the free and untrammeled right of franchise in electing officials to administer the public business?

In the last campaign both the Republican and Democratic candidates for the legislature declared their opposition to this measure which is now being proposed to abolish our commissioners court and set up a Board of Revenue.

WHY THEY DON'T VOTE

The National Civic Federation, according to a recent statement, has reached the "unpleasant conclusion" that apathetic voters cannot be "hurrahed" into going to the polls. The federation has come to this conclusion after a diligent and non-partisan research into the results of the recent election, and it announces further that the total vote in the off - year election of 1926 was less than the total vote in the 1922 off-year election in 24 states, while in 41 states the figures for 1926 fell far behind the figures for the presidential election. So it appears that when it comes to voting, we are still slipping in America, in spite of the many appeals which have been made during the past few years, urging the sovereign citizen to "come out and vote."

In an effort to get out the vote in 1926 there was cooperation among a number of national civic organizations of the highest standing. That these efforts failed is evidence of the fact that there is something seriously wrong with the American voter or with the conditions surrounding him.

Many reasons have been given for this steady decline in the vote, but the chief reason is not hard to find. The apathy of the voters has increased in proportion as the partisanship and interest in party principles among the voters has decerased. In other words, as our party spirit declines, and our people have put before them personalities instead of principles, the interest in voting subsides.

Many of our older voters can well remember the days when party spirit ran high. There was interest in the principles of the two great political organizations. The voters discussed these principles, argued them back and forth, and then when election day rolled around they came out and voted their convictions at the polls.

Then came the day of the primary. Principles were lost sight of and the personality of the various candidates became the interesting issue, not only in the primary but in the election too. The whole basis of our elections changed. Instead of voting for principles we began voting for the fellow who had the best voice, the fellow who talked the loudest, or the fellow who promised us the most—and generally delivered the least.

As a result our political campaigns, primary and general, began to be filled with bitter personalities, with petty bickerings of a personal nature. Instead of one election every two years we began to have four or five, most of them full of bitter personal quarrels. Our political demoralization became complete and remains that way. If you don't believe this just look over the present situation in some of our chief governing bodies and become convinced.

As a result a great many people have become disgusted and formed the habit, in increasing numbers, of washing their hands of the whole political situation and remaining away from the polls. Unfortunately the people most easily disgusted with politics are people of the conservative or constructive type of mind, with the result that the political atmosphere has suffered accordingly.

The real reason, therefore, for the apathy among voters is the substitution of political personality and demagoguery for political principle, a condition which the party primary has been the chief factor in bringing about.

BILL PROPOSED TO ABOLISH COUNTY SUPERINTEDENT

Abolition of the office of County Superintendent of Education in all counties of the state is proposed in a bill to be introduced in the Legislature of Alabama by T. J. Johnson of Clarke County. In the place of the superintendent the bill sets up the office of Secretary to the County Board of Education, and that such secretary shall be elected by vote of the people.

Such secretary shall be charged with the same duties as now required of county superintendents of education, subject to such laws as apply to such offices.

The Confusing Geography of Jersey

Years ago, when I earned my daily bread and occasional beer on Park row, one Andy Horn ran a cozy bar in the shadow of Brooklyn bridge. All sorts and conditions of men frequented the saloon—sailors, newspaper men, rich men, poor men, policemen off duty, artists and commuters from over the river.

A grubby person known as Smitty was a fixture at Andy's. He cut up food for the free lunch counter, did odd jobs and in rush hours helped to serve the trade. Smitty was to Manhattan what a cockney is to London.

He had been born on Cherry hill, right around the corner; he had been reared on the Bowery and he had never ranged further than Coney Island or Far Rockaway. Greater New York city was all the world he knew or cared to know.

His sister married a German market gardener over in New Jersey, and when his summertime vacation came Smitty went to visit her for two weeks. His new brother-in-law had bought a car and had promised to tour Smitty about over the state and show him the sights.

At the end of a week Smitty was back at work. One of the regular patrons hailed him:

"Hey, Smitty, I thought you were going to stay longer. Didn't you care for country life?"

"Nix on dat stuff fur me," said Smitty. "I'm offen it fur life. Say, dat Joisey soitinly is one funny place. Why, all dem towns over there is got different names!"

It is time to see about good seed for planting.

In the meantime the advocates of other proposed federal activities such as national child labor and national educational control, who had been somewhat discouraged by the apparent trend toward states' rights are taking on renewed courage and preparing to redouble their activities. The new status of the struggle between the states' rights and the federal control forces is an interesting one, and unless all signs fail, whatever ultimate blame or praise there is in the result will go to those statesmen who have shifted their position on the doctrine of the federal control of state elections.

NATIONAL AFFAIRS

One of the most significant political changes in the past few months is the apparent shift of a number of leaders on the question of states' rights. In the past few years there has been apparent trend all over the country toward the maintenance of the rights of states against alleged federal encroachements. Public men of both political parties have issued statements setting out that we needed a return to local government thru the states; that the taking over by the national government of functions formerly performed by the states is contrary to our constitutional theory of government, and will ultimately unless checked create a bureaucratic government at Washington.

But there has been a noticeable change in the atmosphere in Washington recently. This change has come about through the challenge of the right of Senator-elect Vare of Pennsylvania, Senator-elect Smith of Illinois, and Senator-elect Gould of Maine, to take their seats in our national upper - legislative body. The charges were made against Mr. Gould that he had, earlier in life, sought to influence a Canadian official with money; charges against Mr. Smith were to the effect that his primary campaign committee had accepted contributions from public service interests in Illinois; in Mr. Vare's case it was alleged that too much money was spent in the Pennsylvania primary.

In Illinois, in Maine, and in Pennsylvania, these charges were used freely in the campaigns preceding the general election of 1926, but in each instance the candidate against whom the charges were made was elected by the voters of the state.

In the Senate, however, a formidable movement was put on foot to reject three senators-elect. In the case of Mr. Smith, who was subsequently appointed by the Governor of Illinois to fill out the unexpired term of the late Senator McKinley, it was proposed that the appointee be rejected and not be permitted to qualify. The most noteworthy fact about the situation from the standpoint of the political observer is that this move to set aside the "will of the people" as expressed in three states, and the appointive action of the governor in a "sovereign state" has been generally supported by many statesmen at Washington who have hitherto been on record as endeavoring in every way jealously to guard the "sovereign rights of the states."

Those advocates of states' rights who oppose the proposed senatorial action, declare that the Senate has no right to reject a new member if he possesses the qualifications set out in the Constitution, and was not elected or appointed through fraud, and allege further that if the Senate takes the action contemplated this will be the most serious blow the principle of states' rights has received since the Civil War. The right to run their own elections has been the fortress in which the states' rights advocates have made their last stand against the friends of centralization of power in the federal government. And it would appear now that even this citadel is about to fall.

This apparent change of opinion on the part of certain statesmen has greatly encouraged those who have hitherto earnestly advocated election reform and advocated it in vain. They assert that the Senate is now about to establish a precedent which will, in the future permit them to open up alleged illegal and unconstitutional election practices in the South which, they charge, have resulted in various irregularities and the disfranchisement of thousands of voters, both white and negro. All efforts to go into this situation hitherto have been blocked by the assertion of the states' rights men that the states and not the Senate or any other federal agency had the right to control the elections. If the Senate now repudiates this theory, so the election reform advocates declare, the way will be opened for a sweeping probe into election conditions everywhere, but especially in the South.

THORSBY BANK DECLARES 8 PER CENT DIVIDEND

The annual meeting of the stockholders of the Bank of Thorsby was held in its banking house Tuesday and a very successful year was reported and a dividend of 8 per cent. was declared and a nice sum placed to the surplus account.

The same officers were again elected to serve the bank for the year of 1927.

Thorsby Public School now has an enrollment of 245 pupils, about ten of them come from outside the Thorsby district. There has been quite a number of additions recently, coming from families of comparatively young farmers who have lost out on cotton and are getting, mostly by lease, farms in or near Thorsby where they can have advantages offered by membership in Thorsby Fruit and Truck Growers Association, diversified crops and good schools for their children.

Miss Mamie Sue Stewart spent the week-end with friends in Marbury.

On account of removal from Thorsby of Mr. and Mrs. A. K. Horn on Thursday of this week, the clothing sales room in basement of Tower Cottage, which has recently been in charge of Mrs. Horn, will now be in charge of Mrs. J. E. Each.

The annual Declamatory contest among Thorsby Institute students will be held February 26, notice of time and place will be given later.

This event is always preceeded by a try-out contest of all T. I. students who desire to enter. The judges at this try-out contest, which occurred last week, decide which four boys and four girls out of all entries are most worthy, as Declamiers, to make up the eight contestants at the final contest. The following students were winners for the finals:

Girls—Willie Littlejohn, Dera Rowell, Gertrude Steiner and Frances Wilson.

Boys — Lloyd Howard, Wendell Johnson, John Van Deveer and Hudson Williams.

A prize of $5.00 in Gold will be given to the winner among the girls and another of like amount to the winner among the boys.

The Ladies Guild of Thorsby will hold their monthly social Thursday afternoon, Jan 27, at the home of Mrs. C. R. Foss.

Mr. and Mrs. A. K. Horn were dinner guests last Sunday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. S. E. Norton

Mr. and Mrs. Horn will be entertained Wednesday night at the home of Rev. and Mrs. J. E. Each. On the 20th they will go to their new home in Montgomery.

A group of Thorsby ladies are holding "Spend the Day" parties where they engage in making quilts. On Monday of this week they met at the home of Mrs. Pete Franklin and worked off two quilts. On Tuesday they were at Mrs. Relius Franklins We are informed that they have already finished 15 quilts, and are just getting fairly warmed up for the work. This business seems to us a lot more sensible and worth while than "Bridge Parties." Those "enlisted" so far are: Mesdames Pete Franklin, S. C. Wood, Relius Franklin, Spivey, Jim Pate, Martin, J. E. Each, George Mims, Robert Davenport, C. C. Driskill.

Dr. Wood and Relius Franklin enjoyed hunting Tuesday.

Mr. Luther Chauncey was a guest of William Each at dinner Sunday.

The Y. W. A. will meet with Mrs. T. R. Burdett Tuesday afternoon, January 25th.

Mrs. S. C. Wood and son, Frank, will spend the week-end with friends in Birmingham, where the boy is taking weekly treatment for some ear trouble.

The Lutheran Ladies Aid Society will meet this week, Thursday afternoon, at the home of Mrs. Thomas Baake.

The Christian Endeavor Society met at the Cnogregational Church Sunday evening. The subject was "How to Develop our Devotional life." Luther Rowe was leader and every member was present and participated.

It is said that the government will add benzine to all garin alcohol. This ought to make some of the boys start quicker on a cold morning.

FOR SALE—One eight room house and 12 acres of land. Good well water. One acre in strawberries, 1-2 mile from two good schools, one public and one high school. Can give possession at once.—Grover A. Bice, Thorsby, Ala. tf.

A Word With the Old Folks

Elderly People Are Learning Importance of Good Elimination.

IN the later years of life there is apt to be a slowing up of the bodily functions. Good elimination, however, is just as essential to the old as to the young. Many old folks have learned the value of Doan's Pills when a stimulant diuretic to the kidneys is required. Scanty or burning passages of kidney secretions are often signs of improper kidney function. In most every community are scores of users and endorsers who acclaim the merit of Doan's. Ask your neighbor!

INAUGURAL ADDRESS OF GOV. GRAVES

New Chief Magistrate Asks Divine Guidance and Dedicates Himself to the Services of All the People of Alabama.

Montgomery, Ala.—Amid impressive ceremonies Governor Bibb Graves was inaugurated as Alabama's Governor Monday, January 17. The incoming Governor, after taking the oath of office, delivered his inaugural address wherein he dedicated himself to the service of the people of Alabama, in a short but most impressive twenty-minute address.

The complete text of Governor Graves' address was as follows:

Fellow Citizens:

There was divine guidance of those that made the constitutions and molded the customs of our God-fearing people.

Before one can assume the duties and powers of the Chief Magistracy of a Sovereign State of this Nation, he must under solemn oath enter into a covenant with its people that he will support the Constitution both of the Nation and of the State, and that he will faithfully and honestly discharge the duties of the office, and to this oath, we reverently ask the aid and witness of Almighty God.

A willing instrument in His hands to do His will, I have come to dedicate myself to the services of all of Alabama.

I know that there is nothing good unless God be in it, and that He has let me be here now because our people think it will be well for them for their Governor to do the things that I said I would do, and because He gave this people faith in me that if I were Governor those things that I promised would be done. This faith of this people fills my cup and there is no more to ask for me except that He give me the head and the heart to hold that faith.

Upon taking the wheel, let me again point out a few of the guide-posts that will mark the way we are to go.

I stand four-square for the Constitution, for order and for law—for a determined but tolerant enforcement of all of the laws on all alike, and for that enforcement by legally constituted authorities and for every officer to personally practice law observance.

In the first clause of the oath of office which our Chief Justice has just administered, I have sworn "to support the Constitution of the United States". That Constitution, together with the treaties made, and the laws enacted under it, are the "supreme law" of this land. None of our supreme law will be nullified in Alabama. The crying need of the Nation for a Jackson to handle the nullifiers of today as did old Hickory a century ago, will not extend to this Commonwealth.

As her Chief Magistrate, I will to the utmost of my ability and with every power in my keeping, uphold the faith and the credit, and the dignity and the honor of the State in all of its majestic sovereignty.

There is a legal fiction as old as Anglo-Saxon law to the effect that a Sovereignty cannot permit the doing of a wrong either by itself or unto itself. As far as is humanly possible, I shall try to make this old time fiction a present day fact in Alabama. To keep the faith of the State, I will try to see to it that all her obligations are discharged unto whomsoever they may be due. To protect the interest of the State, I will be equally exacting in requiring the discharge of all obligations to the State from whomsoever they may be due.

I appeal to every officer in Alabama to help me make team-work the slogan of our official family throughout our administration. Team-work is indispensable to efficient public service. Only team-work ever wins a game worth playing. The grandstand player that tries to "hog" the game never fools anyone worth while. I expect to secure co-operation by deserving it. Paraphrasing the saying of Admiral Nelson at Trafalgar, Alabama, expects every officer to do his duty, not some other officer's duty, but his duty.

As far as in me lies, I am going to be Governor, no more, no less. To be Governor will require every ability I have, and will leave no time or energy for anything else, and while I guard with jealous care every prerogative of my office, I shall be especially considerate of every other officer and department. I shall be content to do my part towards the accomplishment of results in which there will be "glory enough for all." If we to whom the people of Alabama have delegated their powers will but work together and accomplish the results needed now, when our tour of duty is done, we can say as did Commodre Schley at Santiago, "There is glory enough for all."

We know that we are in nature's richest storehouse; that the whole world needs and demands Alabama's treasures. We know that the development of our natural resources means an era of solid prosperity for us and for ours the like unto which we have never seen, and we know that the time for this growth and development is now.

No Macedonian cry to outsiders to come in and help us in this development will avail so much as will a fostering care unto our own who are already doing this developing. If we will show that fostering care unto our own, those outsiders whom we desire will glady come in and be of us, and they know that our people will keep their faith. The men who direct the big things of today see far enough ahead to know that the only sure foundation for any security in the future lies in the spirit and principles inherent in the people who will exercise future control. Such men know that the current of American blood runs purest here in Alabama in the heart of Dixie. They know that American ideals are most firmly rooted here. Those who looked beyond the Constitutions and laws of today unto the foundations upon which rest the constitutions and laws of the future, know that the children of our pure American stock will keep on keeping the faith of their fathers, and this is the surest security under the sun.

Our soil and climate are as good as the best. Alabama can be the garden spot of the world. But today our agrcultural interests are sorely depressed. While this is temporary, it is very acute. There must be no new burden added here and we must lessen those already borne.

Our raw materials, fuel, power and economic living conditions all grouped together are the very best of all. This should be the industrial workshop of our electric iron age. Let's make it be so.

Our port and rivers, nature's gateway and highways, actual and potential guarantors of cheap transportation which is the basis of great commerce, surpass those of any other state. With these we can be a great commercial people. Let us be.

GOV. BIBB GRAVES

New Governor of Alabama, who was inaugurated the thirty-ninth governor of Alabama Monday.

Above all these material assets are our human assets, our people, strong in body, mind and soul, a God-fearing clean living people, potentially the greatest wealth producers of today, fit and worthy heirs of this wonderful heritage; with these we can and should be the happiest, the most enlightened and the most prosperous of all people. Let us be.

To reap our harvest we must realize that our sovereign state is one united whole, that the interest of each and every part of our state and people is the interest of all. I bespeak a spirit of all Alabamians for all of Alabama.

We must conserve and develop our human resources. Humans are the only geese that lay golden eggs. We must save Alabamians to Alabama and must develop the earning power of our whole people. Five hundred and fifty-two thousand Alabamians, mostly white, have emigrated to other states, and for this loss there is not even an approximate compensation in immigration. It has cost us more in dollars to produce these Alabamians that have left their home state to build up some other state than is the assessed value of all our property. This must stop, we must keep our own at home and we should try to regain those we have lost.

To save Alabamians to Alabama and to increase the earning power of our whole people, I would protect their health, physical and moral, give them education, of head and of hand, give them transportation and put the powers of their government in their hands.

Our health must be protected. It is not only better, but it is cheaper to keep people well than it is to cure them.

There is no other thing that would immediately add so much to our earning power as protecting the health of our people. I would not use the power of government to impart health but I would use the power of government to destroy disease. Likewise, I would not use the power of government to impart morals but I would use the power of government to destroy vice, those things we include in the term "commercialized vice."

Nothing will do more to bring homemakers to any community than for it to afford them a healthy, moral and social environment.

Education must advance all along the line, developing our whole system harmoniously. In the struggles of peace as well as in those of war, the trained force wins. The equipment of a generation ago will not suffice now. My father as a Confederate soldier made good with a muzzle-loading shot gun but to have sent me to France with such a blunderbus would have been a crime. The children of Alabama must be trained and equipped to win in competition with the whole world. Children's heads are the world's best savings banks; sense put in children's brains is worth more to the race than dollars put in safety vaults. The best sinking fund we can provide to care for the debts we are passing on to coming generations is to bring up to the top the earning power of those generations. This necessitates training of both head and hand.

Here let me say of the whole sys-

B. Mauney, who has been the teacher of the class for several months and also served for some time as the president. The love and esteem held by the members of the class prompted this affair for Mrs. Mauney, who is leaving soon to make her home in Birmingham. She has been a most faithful and excellent teacher and it is with regret that the class must pass her on to some one else. A feature of the afternoon's entertainment was doing some particular act by which the member wished to be remembered by the teacher. Mrs. S. J. Ezell read a very unique story written by herself, the characters being those interested in the organization.

A number of dainty handkerchiefs were presented to the guest of honor, who responded in a beautiful manner, wishing for the class every success.

From this mill stone grew the present great Cole Milling Company. In 1837, Nathan Cole moved to Chester, Ill., setting up a sawmill and, incidentally, a stone for grinding corn. But the demands for corn-meal promised to eclipse that for lumber, and the far sighted pioneer, recognizing the great future of the flour industry that part of the country must have, began the establishment of an industry which has grown with the years to its present size and enviable reputation.

When a Fellow Has a Friend

FARMERS MUST DEMAND THAT THEIR INTERESTS BE PROTECTED AT MUSCLE SHOALS

CONGRESS AT LAST HAS BEFORE IT A GENUINE FARMERS' BILL, CARRYING BONA FIDE GUARANTEE OF LOW-PRICE FERTILIZER.

Sponsored by Farm Leaders—"Write Your Senators and Representatives" Is Suggestion—No Longer Any Excuse For Delaying Proper Action.

The farmers of America must rise at once and demand that Congress lease Muscle Shoals on terms that will safegnard their right to low-price fertilizer. Unless they do, there is grave danger that this great project on the Tennessee River in Alabama, which already has cost approximately $150,000,000 of the taxpayers' money, will be sold out for a song to the power and fertilizer trusts.

This warning is sounded by John W. Newman of Versailles, Ky., one of the incorporators of the proposed Farmers Federated Fertilizer Corporation, an organization, headed by farm leaders, that has just submitted a "farmers' proposal" for the leasing of Muscle Shoals.

The outstanding feature of this new bid is a guarantee that fertilizer will be manufactured and sold at absolute cost of production.

Mr. Newman points out that although Congress for more than four years has refused to approve the power trust's bid, a final showdown is likely to come at the present session of Congress and the farmers of the country should be on their guard to see to it that the attempted "grab" of Muscle Shoals is again defeated. "The strongest sort of politcal pressure is being brought to bear," he declares, "to slip over the power companies' outrageous leasing proposal, and shut the farmers out of their right to get cheaper fertilizer, as was promised them when their tax dollars were dumped into Muscle Shoals. The farmers cannot afford to relax vigilance; in fact, it is necessary that they let Congress know at once that they will not stand for any disposition of this project that does not provide in a genuine way for fertilizer production.

"If every farmer who wants to force down the price of fertilizer would write to his Senators and Congressmen demanding his rights in the Muscle Shoals matter, the problem would be solved before Congress adjourns in March, and fertilizer prices would tumble. Congress at last has before it a proposal fully protecting the farmers' rights, and there is no longer any excuse for delaying proper action if the farmers will simply force the issue."

Mr. Newman is a Kentucky farmer and was formerly commissioner of agriculture of his State. He has been prominent in farm movements for years. Associated with him in the Farmers corporation offer to Congress are A. P. Sandles, of Ottawa, Ohio, and A. L. Sponsler, of Hutchinson, Kansas, each, likewise, a former agricultural director of his State.

These men have [illegible]fied the first genuine farmers' [illegible] Muscle Shoals—the only one that carries a bona fide guarantee of fertilizer production. Heretofore, lack of adequate financing has been the chief stumbling block in the way of farmers' bill. This difficulty has now been overcome, and a reputable New York engineering firm has agreed to finance operation of Muscle Shoals for the production of low-price fertilizer, provided the company be allowed to take a fair profit out of the sale of by-products and excess electrical power. The financiers of the proposition do not profess to be philanthropists, but they have satisfied themselves that they can make fertilizer and sell it to the farmers at cost and at the same time obtain an 8 per cent return on their investment. They could not, however, take more than an 8 per cent profit. Under the bill, if their earnings at any time should mount above that figure one-half of the additional income above 8 per cent would be turned into the fertilizer fund and a proportionate reduction made in the price of fertilizer.

Sponsors of the Farmers corporation say that if their offer is accepted by Congress it will mean a reduction of millions of dollars in the annual fertilizer bill of the American farmer, and thus will strike a decisive blow at one of the main causes of existing agricultural depression. At the same time, the great plants on the Tennessee River in Alabama would be operated upon such a basis that they could, overnight, be converted to the manufacture of nitrates and other ammunition bases in time of war. Thus, both the peace-time and war-time purposes of Muscle Shoals would be safeguarded. The project was established by the Government with two primary objectives—low-price fertilizer for the farmers in time of peace, and munitions for the Government in time of war.

Neither of the other two leasing bills before Congress carries anything like a satisfactory and genuine fertilizer guarantee; but, on the contrary, each so hedges this phase of plant operation with provisos and ambiguous clauses that it is extremely doubtful if any fertilizer at all would be produced, or, that if it were produced, the price would not be just as high as that asked in the commercial fertilizer market.

In any event, the power and cyanamid corporations seeking control of Muscle Shoals would, under their proposals, obtain a profit of 8 per cent on any fertilizer they manufactured, and with the corporations themselves deciding what the "cost" amounted to. Under the Farmers corporation bid the manufacture and sale of fertilizer at cost is not only guaranteed, but the cost figure would be determined by a farmers board in no way connected with the corporation. This board would be composed of the Secretary of Agriculture, as chairman, and representatives of the leading national farm organizations.

A comparison of the three proposals will prove to any one that beyond question of a doubt the Farmers Federated Fertilizer Corporation offer is the only one providing any genuine prospect of relief to the farmers from present exorbitant fertilizer prices. The Farmers corporation estimates it can cut $20 a ton from the commercial price of fertilizer. Individual farmers could order the ingredients in concentrated form, if they desired, have them laid down at the front door by parcel post, and do their own mixing.

From the Government's standpoint, also, the Farmers corporation offer is far superior to others in practically every important particular. If the lease is made on the basis of existing water facilities, the Farmers proposal would pay the Government a total of $156,546,493 for the fifty-year period, as compared with $83,800,000 under the bid of the associated power companies. If headwater storage is provided, the Farmers corporation agrees to pay the Government $214,597,693 as compared with $131,800,000 offered by the power companies. For the completed project, the Farmers bill offers the Government $221,226,000 income, as against $148,728,000 under the power bid, and $135,188,341 under the Cyanamid bid. The Cyanamid corporation did not make a bid based on anything but the completed project.

The rate of interest offered the Government by the Farmers corporation is 6.771 per cent as compared with 4.432 per cent by the power companies and 2.828 by the Cyanamid corporation.

Right in line with this wide advantage offered the Government on interest rates, is the provision in the Farmers bill that if the Farmers Federated Fertilizer Corporation refuses or fails to make good on its contract the entire plant is to revert, bag and baggage, to the Government, with the corporation standing the loss of its entire investment. The other bidders demand that in case they fall down on their contract and the Government takes over the plants, the Government must reimburse them for the entire amount of their investment. Not only that, but the other bidders demand bonuses as they go along for carrying out their contractual duties. These bonuses take the form of a gradual reduction in the price the bidders must pay for electrical power, and thus would amount in the end to an increase in the price of fertilizer and a penalty on the farmers, while at the same time constituting an easement in favor of sellers and users of electric power. These and other differences show plainly that the Farmers Federated Fertilizer Corporation proposal is the only one submitted in the interests of the farmers.

The farmers, staggering under the necessity of raising larger and better crops without any increase in the cost of operating their farms, at last have a weapon with which they can fight in their battle to secure the rights at Muscle Shoals to which they are entitled. The Government established the plant for the making of cheap fertilizer, and now for the first time a sincere proposal for bringing this about has been presented. The farmers of America should see to it that Congress delays no further, but takes the proper action at the present session.

THAT HOLE IN THE FARM POCKET

TIME TO QUIT "BLOWING IN" OUR HARD-EARNED MONE FOR BOUGHT FOOD.

Atlanta, Ga.—(Special.)—"There is a great big hole in the South's farm pocket that lets out our farm money as fast as it comes in," said H. G. Hastings, recognized farm authority, and President of the Georgia Association, a state-wide development organization that has for its major object the betterment of farm conditions.

"So far as we know, no other farm section or country in the world has ever been able to stand such an enormous and steady drain of its money life-blood for food and grain as has the South, without complete farm bankruptcy and collapse for the last fifty or sixty years.

Our farm pockets have had just as big holes at the bottom as they have had at the top, so to speak. As fast as our money for cotton, or other cash crop, went in at the top of the pocket, just so fast did it slip through that hole at the bottom for bread and meat and grain.

A lot of our good folks are looking to Washington for government help, which probably won't come. No use to look that far away. The source of most of our trouble is right at home. It's the empty corn crib and oat bin, the empty hog pen and smoke-house, the lack of hay and forage in barn or stack, milking tin cans of condensed milk instead of a good cow; few eggs, few chickens, and eating New Jersey, Michigan or California grown vegetables and fruits via the tin can route instead of from the home orchard and gardens.

Some food items we necessarily must buy, coffee, salt, sugar, etc., but there is absolutely no sense in the way we do on this food question. It's so foolish and unnecessary, this 'paper bag farming," as someone called it. Some of our farm folks are more guilty than others on this particular brand of poverty - producing foolishness, but every one of us is guilty in greater or less degree.

Diversified farm operations, at least to the full extent of home needs from home acres, is the first step away from present bad farm conditions to permanent farm prosperity. Reverse the present way of taking the wagon or truck or automobile to town empty and bringing it back full. Town is the place for you to sell food items instead of the place to buy most of them.

Grain, meat, hay and forage from home acres, fresh vegetables and fruit from your garden and orchard or in cans on closet shelves pay no long line of wholesale and retail profits and railroad freight rates. Every farmer in the South has his and his family's salvation in his own hands this spring. Sew up that hole in the farm pocket beginning now.

STRENGTH OF CHEVROLET CLOSED CAR BODY TESTED

The strength and sturdiness built into the Chevrolet closed car bodies was strikingly proved recently when 5,000 pounds of steel frames fell five floors from the roof of the Great Western Freight Depot in Minneapolis, Minn., to the top of a Chevrolet sedan. The body of the car was uninjured.

The radiator, however, was smashed in one place and the springs of the car broken, while the body was not even scratched. The steel frames 50 feet long, 25 feet wide, and 10 feet high, were being hoisted to the top of the building by a derrick when a strong blast of wind tipped the mass of steel downward with several tons of bricks.

Large crowds assembled at the scene of the accident were strongly impressed with the Chevrolet body. Had anyone been in the car at the time, they would have escaped uninjured, experts said. Another car standing a few feet away was brushed by one of the steel girders and completely demolished, its whole side being torn off.

REDWOOD TREES TO BE PLANTED IN ALABAMA

The giant redwood trees of California are to be given an opportunity to show what they can do in Alabama, according to a statement issued by the Commission of Forestry. A number of young redwood seedlings have been received from a west coast lumber company for experimental planting in this state. The young trees will first be set out in the State Nursery in Sumter County and after they have made another year's growth they will be transplanted to the most suitable sites that can be found.

The redwood is a tree of very ancient lineage, the species dating back through known geological records to the Jurassic period in the era of reptiles. Formerly this tree was widely distributed over four continents, but at the present time there remains only a small area in western North America where it still survives the vicissitudes of past ages.

Ordinarily a tree native to a certain locality can hardly be expected to do well in a strange territory. However, there are exceptions to this rule, as in the case of the Monterey Pine. This pine, which in its native habitat of California is a very inferior tree for lumber purposes, when transplanted to New Zealand acquired valuable growth characteristics far in excess of those it possessed at home. As a result it has developed into a splendid forest tree in its new location and is becoming a considerable factor in timber production. It is hoped that the big tree of California may do likewise if adaptable sites can be found for its growth.

HOOKWORMS AMONG CHILDREN

During the recent health survey that was made of the pupils of the Clanton Public School by the State Board of Health, about 150 specimens were submitted for examination for hookworms. As a result of this examination it was found that exactly 25% of the pupils were infected. At this rate it would mean that there were about 80 pupils in this school who are being retarded in their clas swork and their health injured by not having this information sooner. In several instances it was found that an entire family of children were infected.

The treatment for hookworms is simple and inexpensive. Its prevention calls for the best possible disposal of sewerage and the safeguarding of children against walking upon damp or wet ground barefoot. It is a danger that might easily be stamped out of any community by taking proper precautions.

GOT "BUMPED" BY COTTON AGAIN

SAME OLD STORY OVER AND OVER IN EVERY COTTON STATE.

Atlanta, Ga.—(Special.)—"We invited the present unsatisfactory cotton price situation when we failed to take notice of the danger signals flying on every hand at planting time last spring," declared H. G. Hastings, widely recognized agricultural authority and President of the Georgia Association, a statewide development organization with the avowed purpose of breaking up the slavery to cotton that exists so largely in Georgia and other cotton states.

"It looks as if our cotton farmers enjoy having the very life 'bumped' out of them ever so often the way they come back and invite 'bumping' every period of high priced cotton. It's a mystery the way they keep coming back for more punishment in the face of repeated 'bumps.'"

Our farm folks, our country bankers, supply merchants, etc., must all get it through their heads that the rules of the cotton growing game are changing. One-third to one-half bale per acre is a money loser on any price that is in sight. Low yields per acre always means high cost per pound.

There is one answer, and one answer only, to the cotton-growing problem, and that is less acres in cotton and more cotton per acre. As the yield per acre goes up, the cost of making it per pound automatically comes down. We can't have much control over selling price, but we can keep production costs down.

Less acres in cotton means more acres available for food and grain crops, cows, hogs and chickens. Cost of making cotton is largely a food and grain cost, food for the family and food for the working live stock. Corn, oats, hay and forage for the mules, horses, cows, hogs and chickens; meat, meal, fresh and canned vegetables and fruits for the family table are made at half the cost or less of what is paid for same to merchants or dealers.

In almost every cotton growing community there are one or more farmers "sitting easy" right now. The secret of their easy posture is that they own their cotton instead of owe it for food or grain or borrowed money. They are not pinched. They have corn or other grain in the crib, hay or forage a-plenty in stack or barn, meat either in smokehouse or on hoof, milk and butter from the cows and plenty of chickens for regular use, as well as when the preacher comes around. Most of if not all the year round there are fresh vegetables from the garden and home-canned goods from their own shelves instead of the merchant's.

The safe way, the only way to make you "sit easy" in times like this is to "live at home and board at the same place."

The Growth of an Error

Since Charles M. Schwab fell from grace and became a semi-professional after-dinner speaker, he has been retailing across banquet tables an incident which he claims figured in a personal experience. Still, it is well to view with suspicion the alleged reminiscences of any after-dinner speaker. It may be that the thing didn't happen to him at all. Perhaps he only heard it somewhere.

Be that as it may, Mr. Schwab states that during one of his trips to Europe he met a gentleman whose breast was almost entirely covered with decorations bestowed by various Continental governments.

"Tell me, sir," said Mr. Schwab, "the story of the heroisms or the achievements, as the case may be, for which you were awarded this extraordinary number of honors?"

"I shall be perfectly frank with you," stated the other man. "This large medal here—the one containing the pigeon-blood ruby in the fringe of amethysts—was the first to be bestowed upon me. I received all the others as a result of having received that one."

"And for what were you given the first one?" inquired Schwab.

"Oh," said the European, "that one was given to me by mistake."

POOR ORIGINAL

500% INCREASE in Railroad Taxes Since 1905

It is an economic fact that taxes must go on forever, but for American railroads, taxes go on forever increasing.

During the past 20 years, the taxes on the railroads have increased from $63,474,679 in 1905 to $366,200,109 in 1925, or practically 500%; and from 3.04% to 5.87% of the gross earnings. Assessors may come and go, methods of taxation may change, deficits may follow dividends into the pits of receiverships and reorganizations—but taxing the railroads never stops.

While there is much talk at present about reducing Federal taxes generally, railroad taxes, the bulk of which is collected by the states, are increasing more in 1926 than in any other year in history, excepting 1917, in which this Country entered the World War, when Federal taxes were so largely increased.

Railroad taxes in 1926 will, for the first time, approximate $400,000,000; and will consume a larger percentage of gross earnings than in any previous year. Not only will they exceed the dividends paid this year, but they will exceed those paid in any past year, excepting perhaps 1911.

Railroad taxes in the first nine months of 1926 have shown an increase of almost 10% over the corresponding period of last year—while gross earnings during these months have increased but 4.7% and operating expenses have increased 2.7%. The increase in taxes was, therefore, almost twice as great, relatively, as the increase in earnings, and almost four times as great, relatively, as the increase in operating expenses. In 1911, railroad taxes in the United States were 3.6% of gross earnings; in 1925, they were 5.9% and in 1926, they will be about 6.1%.

It is doubtful if there is any other country in the world in which so large a part of railroad earnings is paid out in taxes as in the United States — for instance, railroad taxes in Great Britain, in 1925, were only 3.5% of their gross earnings.

While, in years of general prosperity and large earnings, the railroads may be able to stand these tremendous increases in their fixed charges, including taxes, they were almost bankrupted by them in 1921 and 1922—and the question of what will be the effect of the increases in taxes now going on at the rate of 10% a year, is one to be seriously considered.

LOCAL HIGH SCHOOL GIRLS MAY ENTER NATIONAL CONTEST

Local high school girls are to be given an opportunity to win a university scholarship through competition in a national meat story contest, according to formal announcement of the event which has just been sent out to home economics teachers by the National Live Stock and Meat Board. Several scholarships are being offered, it is said. It is the 4th annual contest to be sponsored by this institution of research and education.

To compete, a student must write a story or theme on some phase of the subject of meat or the live-stock industry. The stories are to be judged by a committee of home economics authorities. Dr. Louise Stanley, chief of the Bureau of Home Economics, United States Department of Agriculture, who has been chairman of the judging committee for the 3 previous contests, will again serve in this capacity.

The Board gives as the reason for this annual competition for scholarships a desire to stimulate a greater interest in the study of home economics, a subject which is considered of great importance in the coming generations of housewives. It is pointed out that today education is playing a most important part in the soluion of the housewife's many problems. More than 10,000 girls competed last year, it is said, and the contest directors express the belief that even more will enroll for the present contest, which will come to a close on March 15.

The contest has been most successful due to the fact that teachers have found it especially valuable as a class project, the Board's statement says.

Heavy Cornice--In Six Story Drop --Crashes Through Sidewalk!

1926 WEATHER REVIEWED BY FEDERAL BUREAU

In summarizing weather conditions for the United States for the year 1926, the Weather Bureau of the United States Department of Agriculture says that, for the country as a whole, no marked abnormal features affecting agricultural interests were experienced. Conditions were rather unfavorable for development of some of the major crops, but were unusually favorable for others, with the general result as to yield satisfactory. Wheat came through the mild winter with no material harm, which, together with subsequent favorable weather, resulted in an unusually good crop of the winter type; likewise, the general absence of damaging frosts was responsible for one of the largest fruit yields in the history of the country, and the widespread favorable weather in the South gave an unprecedentedly large crop of cotton. Conditions were less favorable for corn, while heat and drought materially reduced the yield of spring wheat.

The temperature for the year was below normal in most parts of the country from the Mississippi River eastward, and generall above normal to the westward, with an unusually warm year in the northwest where in some districts the temperature averaged nearly 3 degrees a day above normal. Approximately two-thirds of the country had a year warmer than usual.

Unfavorable conditions of drought prevailed during part of the year in some northwestern States and locally in the southeast, but otherwise no wide-spread harmful drought occurred. Floods caused some local damage in the interior and southeast, and too much rain occurred from time to time in more or less restricted areas, but, in general, moisture conditions were satisfactory. A little more than half the country received less than the normal rainfall for the year.

There was very little frost damage, except some harm to the corn crop just before maturity in the northwestern portion of the belt. The growing season, or period between the last killing frost in spring and first in fall, was somewhat shorter than usual in most of the south and in some north-central States, but otherwise it was generall longer than normal. In about 60% of the country, crops in 1926 had a longer growing season than usual.

In general, the weather fluctuations of 1926 differed in no important particular from normals established by more than 50 years of record, with the tendency to slightly warmer conditions than usual. In most of the country the growing season was also slightly longer than the customary season. Such variations from the established normals are expected by meteoroligists, and many years, since the Weather Bureau records began, could be selected showing greater variations than were observed in 1926.

LAST CALL FOR FRUIT TREES

Peaches 17c, apples 22c, pears 30c, and 5 to 6 ft. budded paper shell pecan trees at $1.00. Strawberry plants at $3.00 per thousand. Orders for trees and plants will have to be placed from five to ten days before delivery can be made.

The above prices are wholesale and are being made to help farmers diversify and get away from so much cheap cotton. Fruit tree agents prices are at least double these for the same trees. If you need trees and want to take advantage of this money saving price just mail me your order before February 1st for such trees as you ne d with check or money order for same and you will be notified when you may call for the trees.—J. N. DENNIS, Clanton, Ala. adv.

Stone Mountain As It Looks Today

Atlanta, Ga., Jan. 17—There has now been removed from Stone Mountain, in the carving of the great Confederate Memorial, a total of 400,000 cubic feet of granite, according to a progress report just issued by J. J. Haverty, chairman of the construction committee of the Stone Mountain Memorial Association.

Mr Haverty stated that the first operation, consisting of the removal of superflous stone, is almost finished, and that the roughing out of the figures of riders and horses, which will be the second operation, will commence in the latter part of January.

The carving contractor, Mr. Haverty stated, continues to run at least three months ahead of schedule, and the officials of the Association, as well as the sculptor, Augustus Lukeman, are delighted over the rapid progress and the economical cost of the operation.

COLLINS CHAPEL

The Untied Singing Society met in regular session here Sunday afternoon, with a good attendance for a cold day. E. L. Glasscock acted as chairman, T. P. Gore as fireman, and Miss Genie Collins as organist. Prayer was offered by Rev. W. P. Lowery, followed by one of the best singings we have had in a long time, with the following as directors: Akins Collins, Olen Williams, A. H. Glasscock, Jasper Oaks, and E. L. Glasscock, three songs each, with the society's quartet rendering a beautiful selection after each director, which pleased the people so well and who cheered so that the singers were called back the second time. This quartet is composed of Akins Collins, A. H. Glasscock, Olen and Hudson Williams but Hudson being absent, his place was ably filled by Mr. David Childress, one of the society's best singers.

The society will meet again at Oak Hill next Sunday afternoon, January 23, at 2 o'clock. We are expecting some of the best singers of the county to be with us, and we invite all our friends to be there, whether you can sing or not. Your presence will be appreciated, and we are sure that the quartets alone will be well worth your trip up here. Come and hear them next Sunday afternoon at Oak Hill Methodist Church, 2 miles northeast of Jemison.—E. L. Glasscock.

WEST CHILTON

The late freeze moves fuel with accelerated speed.

Everything very quiete over here. People are at a stand-still, not having reached the hour of decision yet as to how or what they will do this year. The slump in the cotton market during the past season has somewhat dulled the aspirations of the agricultural people. It seems they have produced too much, but under-consumption is hurting as well as overproduction. The president of the South Dakota State College says it will take years to learn to produce in accord with the demand of the market, and that we are all somewhat in the dark. We remember M. L. Cleveland, one of the most successful business men who ever lived in Randolph. His motto was—"make your food crops sufficient for all your needs, and then raise all the coton you can." Who can beat it?

D. H. Hodgens has had an attack of bronchitis.

J. P. Gentry has been quite feeble for several days.

Mrs. T. J. Hubbard made a business trip to Centerville last week.

Relius Smitherman and Rollie Waldrop have gone to Bessie, Ala., where they have employment.

H. H. Armstrong and W. R. Redding made a business trip to Montgomery last week.

Briggs Hodgens motored to the courthouse singing on the 9th inst.

The Banner items of 25 years ago are interesting features, bringing to mind many reminiscenses of the past.

Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Waldrop visited near Randolph on the 9th.

From all reports it seems the road conference on the 4th was quite a success, so we are looking for fine road work over in West Chilton. We need more of it.

Mr. T. J. Hubbard has been sick for several days.

The school at Freeman has been temporarily closed on account of the measles.

The Jackson's Chapel class met with us Sunday afternoon, and a nice little program was carried out. Several visitors were present. Directors were R. E. Jones, S. M. Yates, Riley Scott, Enoch Traywick, Enoch Foshee and Miss Zula Willis three songs each. Organists were Mrs. Belle Dorminey, Misses Lillie Mae Weldon, and Zula Willis.

This class meets in regular session here every third Sunday afternoon. Visitors are always welcome.

The regular session of the Cane Creek class meets next first Sunday and we expect to have visitors from the surrounding classes.—Nora Miner, Sec'y.

INAUGURAL ADDRESS OF GOVERNOR BIBB GRAVES

tem that I am unalterably oppsed to factional control of our public schools; that I am against religious, fraternal or class hatred being injected into our public schools or into any other part of our public life.

It is better and cheaper to maintain our own institutions of higher learning than to send our young people away, thus spending our money abroad and taking the greater chance of permanently losing them to the State. Especially must the extension work of these higher institutions be developed. I would stress bringing useful knowledge to those who will use it now. The additional appropriations necessary to equip these institutions to fulfill their mission and keep them abreast of the times must be forthcoming.

The money we spend on our teacher-training schools, normal schools, brings greater immediate returns to the state than any other educational expenditure. We must destroy ignorance through the best methods and with the best teachers. Alabama in the Indian tongue means "Thicket Cleaners," the best investment a "thicket cleaner" can make is to buy good axes and keep them sharp. The money we need to spend on these normal schools, which are the grindstones that sharpen these axes, will be forthcoming.

All our high schools must keep growing, especially stressing vocational training and domestic science, thus fitting their pupils for actual life.

Surely those children who keep in the straight and narrow path should be given as good preparation to earn a living as are the delinquent children who are committed to training schools.

An emergency appropriation to secure a seven months session for the current term of our common schools is well on the way of passage, and I hope will be quickly put through, but this is only a temporary relief. In our permanent plans appropriations for common schools must be increased. This means more money for the teachers, but they must earn it by touching longer terms. The State, to secure its own future, should see to it that every normal white child is put through the grammar grades.

I stress first the care of our normal law abiding citizens, whether men or women or children, for I believe that their needs have been most neglected. We will also do our duty to the under-privileged unfortunates, dependents, subnormal, abnormal, delinquents, and criminals, and adequately support our State agencies and institutions devoted to their care.

Being the son of one who served four long years in the Confederate Army, I must be true to the "Soldiers of the Sixties"—to that brave and gallant few of the "thin gray line" of whom so soon there will be none. Alabama will not fail her own in this hour of their passing.

I am glad that our transportation problems are well on their way to solution.

The passage of the Port bill will open wide our gateway to the world.

The passage of the gasoline tax act insures a continuance of road building and will enable us to add our convict labor as an additional asset, not as a burden, to our road building. This also makes possible a speedy removal of convicts from coal mines in compliance with the will of our people. When the people ratify the proposed road and bridge bond amendment, we will be able to close most of the gaps in our system, and supply the state's pressing needs for roads and bridges.

To pay for these necessities will require as much as three millions of dollars of new revenue. Alabama can afford all the millions of dollars that her necessities demand, but she cannot afford one penny that is not necessary.

Before closing, I must again voice my deep obligation to Governor Brandon for the many, many things he has done to make possible this auspicious beginning of our new administration.

I believe that unto me is now given the greatest opportunity for service that can come to an Alabamian. I enter upon that service free and untrammelled, neither having nor fearing any hate, and without bias for or against any person, class, or interest.

In all humility and devotion I pray that God continues to give me the good will of the mass of our people, the generous confidence and harmonious, whole-hearted co-operation of our Legislature, the aid and comfort of my life-mate, and to make me worthy of all these things.

Moses Robinson Died Saturday Night, Jan. 22

Moses Robinson, age 81 years, died about 11 o'clock last Saturday night at the home of his son, W. C. Robinson, in Clanton, following a long period of illness and general debility from old age.

"Uncle Mose," as he was affectionately known, has for the past half a century occupied a prominent place in the esteem of his fellow men. For 32 years he was a member of the Court of County Commissioners of Chilton County, to which office he was eight times elected by the people of the county. He served his county faithfully and ably in this important capacity. He lived in Beat 16 in the eastern part of the cnunty until a few years ago he moved to Clanton after the death of his faithful and devoted lifemate, "Aunt Sarah."

He was born August 28, 1845. During the Civil War he spent four years of service in the Confederate army. He was married March 7, 1867, to Miss Sarah Jones, to whom were born three sons, W. C., J. M., and J. E. Robinson, all of whom survive him. W. C. lives in Clanton, J. M. at Deatsville, and J. E. at Havana, Florida.

One of the outstanding characteristics of the life of this honored man was his devotion to his church. He was a member of the Baptist church for 55 or 60 years. On Monday his remains were conveyed to Providence church where the funeral was conducted by Rev S. J. Ezell, assisted by Rev. M. J. Parrish, after which he was laid to rest beside his wife who had preceded him to the other world some years ago. For many long years old Providence was the shrine of his worship, and now he sleeps there peacefully to await the dawning of that bright day which was above all things else the goal of all his ambitions.

A great number of his friends, relatives and loved ones attended the funeral to pay their last respects to one whom they loved and honored in life. His son, J. E. Robinson, Miss Margaret and James Robinson, Miss Zona Robinson and Mr. L. A. Calloway, all of Havana, Florida, were present at the burial.

"Uncle Mose" will be greatly missed. But it is a most noble thing to say of him that by his life of service he has made the world better for his having lived.

TO ALL P. T. A.'s OF CHILTON COUNTY

At a recent meeting of the Clanton Grammar School Parent-Teacher Association, it was decided that all Parent - Teacher associations in Chilton County be invited to meet in a joint session Saturday, February 5th at 2 o'clock, at the court house, in interest of obtaining a health unit for this county. There will be a representative from the health department present, who will speak and give any information needed. Every officer of the associations, every teacher in the county and anyone interested, is especially requested to be present.

SHERIFF COLLINS NOW IN HARNESS

Sheriff Dudley Collins is getting things lined up in good shape for the handling of business that may come under his department of law enforcement in the county. He requests The Union-Banner to say to the people that he is ready and prepared to enforce the laws of the land, and he solicits the support and co-operation of the good citizens of the county.

Mr. Collins recognizes the fact that no man can take care of the situation unless he can have help and co-operation from the people. The Sheriff must have information and assistance. And it is one of the paramount duties of a good citizen to help the officers in working out cases of law violations. If the good people of this county did not take a hand in the matter of law enforcement and did not help the officers, the bootleggers would take the county in a short time.

Mr. Collins intends to be Sheriff to the very best of his ability. And we say without hesitation that he is able to make a good Sheriff if the people will help him as they should.

ERNEST THRASH ARRESTED BY DEPUTY GEORGE MURRAH

Ernest Thrash was arrested by Deputy George Murrah last Saturday night on a charge of violating the prohibition law. The arrest was made in the Union Grove cemetery.

There was a dance in progress at a house across the road from Union Grove, and Deputy Murrah was scouting around the place. He saw some boys and men making frequent visits to the grave yard, and suspected their purpose. At an opportune time he went into the graveyard and hid. Pretty soon a young man came close to him and pulled a bottle out from under a cape jasmine bush close to a grave. When he did this Murrah halted him, and instead of halting he ran. As he went out at the graveyard gate he got his foot hung in something and fell, whereupon the deputy took charge of him, and found it was Ernest Thrash. The bottle of whiskey was broken, but not until Murrah had succeeded in catching him. Thrash was arrested, but later made bond.

It was 40 degrees below zero in Moscow last week, so you can't blame the reds for trying to get into Mexico and Central America.

DICK HAYES JOINS THE CHEVROLET SALES FORCE

J. Wilburt Hayes has joined the selling force of Polk Bros. Motor Co., Inc., local Chevrolet dealers. People in Clanton and Chilton County, some of them, may not know J. Wilburt Hayes, but they all know "Dick" Hayes, and that's just who it is.

Dick is widely known throughout the county and has a host of friends, so we predict a great success for him in selling this very popular and fast selling car.

Dick invites you to call on him and let him demonstrate to you "The Most Beautiful Chevrolet in Chevrolet History," which has just recently been announced by the Chevrolet Motor Company.

CITIZENS OPPOSE LEGISLATIVE EFFORTS TO ABOLISH THE COMMISSIONERS COURT

Since the advertising of the proposed bill to abolish the Commissioners Court of Chilton County and set up in its stead a Board of Revenue, the question has been reviewed and discussed very generally among the citizens of the county. It is now apparent that opposition to the measure is widespread. Many phases of the proposed bill as advertised have drawn some very pointed objections from prominent men who declare that its provisions are not at all in keeping with the best system of government for our county.

The creating of new offices, that of chairman and clerk of the proposed Board of Revenue, and the additional expense necessarily arising from the creation of these new offices, are the first objections to be pointed out. Shrewd students of our county governing system see in the bill many other provisions that would most likely make great cracks in the county strong box where many, many dollars might get away without bringing their just portion of good to the greatest number of our people.

Discussions heard at random concerning the proposed change in our county system of government reveals that the opposition to the measure is not confined to one political party alone. There are many Democrats as well as Republicans in the county who conclude that the bill as proposed would be bad legislation for the interests of our county.

The manner in which the proposed bill lays out the five revenue districts of the county does not meet with the approval of the citizenship. It is admittedly an effort to accomplish by high-pressure legislative methods that which never would meet with the approval of the people of the county. It is not a fair distribution of the citizenship into the several districts. It is not anything like an equal distribution of the road mileage of the county into the different districts. It is simply nothing more than grouping together the Democratic beats of the county and the Republican beats of the county so that three of the districts would elect Democrats as members of the Board of Revenue, and two of the districts would elect Republicans.

Particular objection is voiced against the manner in which the bill provides for the selection of chairman. It says that the five men who are elected in their respective districts as members of the Board of Revenue are empowered to select one of their number as chairman. Again there appears shrewd manipulation to cinch an important office for a Democrat. The fathers of this proposed bill calculate that they have it fixed so that certainly three Democrats will be elected on the Board; and of course those three could guarantee the selection of a chairman who is a Democrat.

The most general objection to the proposed bill is that it is an example of littleness in politics, and a total experiment by unexperienced men who seek thereby to gain control of our county financial affairs. There are many Democrats and many Republicans in Chilton County who do not and will not endorse such methods, because they know it is not fair. They know that such experimentation is most likely to bring our county into the hands of men who would not and could not get the endorsement of the majority of our citizenship for places of such blanket authority as they would have under the proposed bill. Therefore, on the whole, we would say that a great majority of our citizens, both Democrats and Republicans regard the matter as a dangerous proposition for Chilton County.

Since the matter has become agitated there have been numerous expressions that indicate a widespread sentiment for the election of County Commissioners of the county by districts. But very few people seem to be willing to go as far as the proposed bill does in abolishing the Commissioners Court and establishing a Board of Revenue, and legislating out of office some of those who have been elected by the people.

We believe that the election of county commissioners by districts is fair and would give every citizen of the county due exercise of his rights. Such a plan would undoubtedly result in the election of some Democrats on the board of commissioners; but if a district is constituted so as to represent a correct proportion of the citizenship of the county and an average of our road mileage, and is a majority Democratic, certainly no one could then say that a Democrat should not be allowed to represent such a district.

EXAMINATION OF PROBATE JUDGE'S OFFICE COMPLETED BY JUDGE EVANS LAST WEEK

The examination of the office and accounts of Probate Judge L. H. Reynolds was completed last week by Judge Evans, state examiner of public accounts. The examination covered the financial operations of the Probate Office for the period from June 1, 1924, to January 1, 1927.

Judge Reynolds, as shown by the report, was due the county $6.43 on mortgage and deed tax, and was due the state $15.02 on mortgage, deed, and motor tax. The state and county was due Judge Reynolds $16.56 on land redemption. Taking all the figures into consideration Judge Reynolds owed the state and county only $4.89, for the entire period under examination.

This is an excellent record for accuracy, as it represents an error of only $4.89 in the handling of between $150,000 and $200,000 over a period of two and a half years.

FINE TURNIPS

Mr. Charlie Duke of near Walnut Creek brought to the Banner office Saturday two fine turnips. One was 12 inches in length, measured 18 inches in circumference, and weighed 3 3-4 pounds. The other was 7 inches in length, 20 inches in circumference and weighed 4 pounds. They are both of the white globe variety.

Mr. Duke said that both turnips together with their tops when first gathered weighed exactly 12 pounds.

BILL WILL ASK FOR THE ENLARGEMENT OF CLANTON

Notice has been given by publication that a bill will be introduced in the Alabama legislature seeking to enlarge the corporate limits of the Town of Clanton. Under the proposed bill much territory adjacent to Clanton will be brought inside the city limits.

FINEST COW IN THE COUNTY

Uncle Jim Mims of Collins Chapel who retired from the office of County Commissioner last week, was a visitor to The Union-Banner office Monday. Mr. Mims told us about a cow he has on his farm, which he believes to be the best one in the county. He even went so far as to say that he would put her up against anything in the state.

Uncle Jimmie is mighty proud of this animal and will probably let us have a picture of her and her calf to put in the paper right away.

SPRING WEATHER IN WINTER

The weather we have had for the past few days has fooled the weather man and the frogs. The former has been predicting another freeze every day and the latter have been hollering like they knew rain was near. Some enthusiastic gardeners will perhaps get fooled a little later on when another cold snap gets the early plants. Some of our local fishermen took advantage of the fine days and report successful ventures on the lakes near by.

BRIGGS CRUMPTON GOES TO LOCK 12

Briggs Crumpton has accepted a position with the Alabama Power Company at the Lock 12 plant, and will remove his family there in a short time.

LEE ODEN, NEGRO, ARRESTED FOR STEALING

Lee Oden, negro, was arrested by city police officers last Thursday on a charge of petit larceny in connection with stealing some automobile accessories from Canton Motor Car Company. At the trial of the case in Mayor Atkinson's court Oden was given a sentence of three months labor on the streets of Clanton.

ACREAGE BURNED OVER HAS 100% DROP DURING YEAR

Auburn, Ala., Jan. 22.—In 1925 forest fires burned over 22,000,000 acres of forest land in 9 Southern states, of which 3,395,887 acres were in Alabama, according to information received from the forest service of the United States Department of Agriculture, by Otto Brown, extension forester of the Alabama Polytechnic Institute. In the 9 Southern states these fires inflicted a loss of $18,000,000, of which $3,920,987 was in Alabama.

STILL DESTROYED BY SHERIFF COLLINS MONDAY

Sheriff Dudley Collins and Deputy George Murrah destroyed a wildcat still near Smith Schoolhouse in Stumps Hills Monday. It was a complete 200-gallon box outfit with six fermenters. The thing was not in operation, and no arrests were made.

KEEN OPPOSITION TO THE APPOINTMENT OF BRANDON

Tuscaloosa, Ala., Jan. 25.—Opposition to the appointment of former Governor W. W. Brandon by Governor Bibb Graves to the office of probate judge of Tuscaloosa county has developed, it was learned Monday, and quo warranto proceedings will be taken out by S. G. Swain, prominent lumberman, under Section 116 of the Constitution of Alabama of 1901, which says: "The governor shall hold office for four years after the first election under this constitution, and the governor shall not be eligible to election or appointment to any office under this state, or to the senate of the United States during his term, and within one year after the expiring thereof."

It is contended by the opposition to the appointment of Governor Brandon that this section will prevent him assuming the duties of probate judge. However, there is a conflicting opinion as to whether any office under the state includes a county office.

A petition is being circulated to be presented to Probate Woolsey Finnell asking him to reconsider his resignation and remain in office the rest of his term.

DOTHAN FARMERS SELL MANY HOGS

Dothan, Ala., Jan. 22.—At the sale of the Dothan Cooperative Hog Marketing Association Wednesday, 342 hogs brought $5,680 for 49 farmers. The T. E. Hatcher Livestock Company of Dothan bought the hogs. The income to Houston county farmers for the past two months has been $2,500 per day, says Henry Witherington, county agent. Forty cars of hogs have been shipped from Dothan this month. J. H. Fohan, of Dothan Route 3, has sold 42 hogs this season which brought him more than $1,000. Mr. Fohan has several more of his stock from this year's broods for sale. The hogs averaged 260 pounds each.

NEGROES ARRESTED FOR INTERFERING WITH SCHOOL

Last Thursday two negroes, Jack Johnson and Vinson, went to the negro public school in West Clanton and raised a disturbance. City police officers answered the call and took charge of Johnson and Vinson.

The cases were docketed in Mayor Atkinson's court, and upon disposition Johnson was sentenced to 30 days on the streets. Vinson, being under 16 years of age, was sentenced to 3 months in reform school.

TOM SIMS ARRESTED CHARGED WITH PRESENTING FIREARMS

Tom Sims near Jemison was arrested last week on a warrant charging him with presenting firearms. The warrant was sworn out by Monk Scott.

Reports from the Sheriff's office say that Sims and Scott had had some trouble concerning a house which Scott had rented, and that Scott claims Sims drew a gun on him. Sims denies that he drew the gun on Scott as alleged in the warrant. Sims has made bond.

FARM COOPERATION GROWTH SIGNIFICANT

The greatest agricultural movement in the United States today is the movement directed toward co-operative effort, according to W. M. Jardine, Secretary of Agriculture, who has an interesting article on Co-operation and the American Farm in the current issue of the National Republic.

"Agricultural co-operation is a going concern," Mr. Jardine declares. "Its progress in the last few years has been truly remarkable. In 1920, the Department of Agriculture received reports from 8,449 active co-operative associations; in 1925, 9,966 active organizations were heard from during the year, an increase of 1,515. Reports of failures during the same period ranged from 194 in 1923, 1.9% of all co-operatives reporting that year, to 277, less than .3%, in 1925. There are approximately 12,000 co-operative associations in the United States at the present time. We do not have a record of all active organizations, nor of all that have gone out of business, but our information regarding failures since 1920 is fully as complete as that regarding active organizations. Consequently, the figures quoted give a true picture of the situation and show conclusively that co-operation is a permanent factor in American agriculture. During the same period, the co-operatives have increased greatly the volume of business which they handle. Conservative estimates, based on reports from over 60% of all the associations in the United States, place total business of co-operatives at $1,600,000,000 in 1921, and $2,500,000,000 in 1925.

"The record of co-operation since 1920 is proof that the members and officials of the associations are gaining in co-operative experience. But further than this it is a demonstration of the inherent soundness of the movement, if such a demonstration were necessary to those who have followed co-operation thrugh the various stages of its development."

MORE MUSICIANS THAN CLERGYMEN

Musicians in the United States considerably outnumber the clergymen and lawyers, according to a statement coming from the Conn Music Center. There are almost three times as many people earning a living thru music as there are drilling teeth or playing behind the footlights. These figures are for people entirely dependent on music for a livelihood. It does not include the tens of thousands doing part-time work teaching, singing in choirs, or earning extra dollars on the side with violin or saxophone.

Of later years, however, school bands and orchestras have been greatly on the increase and the economic value of giving any apt pupil the foundation of a musical education is being more clearly recognized each year.

FORESTRY COMMISSION IS GOOD STATE DEPARTMENT

During the past 3 years over $11,000,000 in forest values has been added to the wealth of the citizens of the state, over and above what would have accrued without adoption of forestry methods, according to the compilations completed by the State Commission of Forestry. In arriving at this conclusion the Commission in its computations has used conservative figures throughout. The result announced, therefore, is to be regarded as minimum rather than maximum.

Prior to the active interest aroused in growing timber through the informational work carried on by local rangers and other agents of the Commission of Forestry, the prevailing annual average of forest land burned over amounted to about 36%. Most observers placed the proportion at much higher than this, but in order to be on the safe side the Commission has taken this figure which was verified for 1923, notwithstanding that it is probably a low rather than a high estimate.

There remained, therefore, an annual average of 64% of unburned land prior to the initiation of forestry work. In 1924 only 34% was burned over, leaving a gain of 2% in unburned woodland. There being about 22,000,000 acres of forest land in the state, this 2% amounted to 440,000 acres, which for that year was allowed to produce forest values instead of having these inhibited by fire. Such values amount to not less than $1 per acre per annum; they are usually rated at a much higher figure.

In 1925 the gain over the old average was 20%, or approximately 4,400,000 acres, and in 1926 the gain on the same basis amounted to not less than 29%, or about 6,380,000 acres, which, under old conditions, would have burned over, but which under forestry methods produced actual values.

In terms of $1 per acre per annum, the saving to the citizens of the state for the 3 years amounts to $11,220,000. The Commission regards it as not unreasonable to expect a continued increase in forest values, especially in young growth.

WOMAN MAKES LOW COST RECORD WITH CHEVROLET

Driving a Chevrolet car daily in the rough, hilly districts of Missouri for a total repair cost of $23.85 for 20,000 miles of driving over a period of six years is the record attained by Mrs. Olen Gentry, of Mill Grove, Mo.

The sturdy endurance of the Chevrolet never was attested better than through its popularity among those who live in the mountainous localities, according to Mrs. Gentry.

In August, 1920, Mrs. Gentry purchased a Chevrolet touring car and in December of 1926, the owner figured that it was about time to buy a new model. "Although my old car is still giving excellent service, I expect to turn it in soon on a new 1927 Chevrolet Coupe," Mrs. Gentry said.

The old car which she is now driving was purchased only after an earlier model Chevrolet had given her steady service from 1916 to 1920. Rough, rocky roads feature the mountain country, and only cars with powful motors, combined with staunch construction, are able to withstand the terrific grind of daily use, the owner says.

A successful farmer is one who makes his farm feed the people and livestock on it, and return an income so that he and his family can have those things which money will buy.

MOORE WILL HELP MARKET PRODUCTS

J. D. Moore, the new marketing specialist for the Extension Service of the Alabama Polytechnic Institute, Auburn, will devote his best efforts to selling those products produced in diversified farming, according to the plans outlined since Mr. Moore began his work early in January. His work will include livestock and livestock products, corn, hay, oats, eggs, poultry, potatoes, peanuts, syrup, canned goods, and any other product for sale on farms or in farm homes.

An incomplete survey shows that Alabama farmers have many products for sale in addition to cotton, and that the extent of diversified farming will be determined in a large degree by the success they have in marketing the products on hand.

In north Alabama farmers are offering corn and hay; in south Alabama they are offering hogs; in central Alabama they are offering hay and other products in addition to livestock products, including poultry and eggs going on the market thruout the state. Meantime, farm women are increasing the production of preserves, canned goods, and other things which they have made with a view to turning them into money and increasing cash incomes.

Working in co-operation with livestock specialists, county agents, and district agents, Mr. Moore will assist in buying livestock, for which there is a demand in every section of Alabama. Relatively high prices for livestock and livestock products and relatively low feed prices have stimulated stock production and brought a good demand for livestock for breeding purposes.

UNITED SINGING SOCIETY MET WITH OAK HILL CLASS

On last Sunday afternoon representatives from six or eight different communities of the county met at Oak Hill near Jemison, and joined with the local class in singing. The singing lasted for about two hours, and was just as fine as anyone could wish for. A quartet was sung following each director, by the United Quartet, composed of Messrs. A. H. Glasscock, Akins Collins, Olin Williams, and Hudson Williams, The quartets were splendid, but the class singing wasn't to be sneered at either. In fact they were both just as fine as fine could be.

Mr. E. L. Glasscock presided, and he called out the following directors: Jasper Robinson of Verbena, T. E. Wyatt of Clanton, S. V. Miller of Concord, W. G. Culp of Clanton, Olin Williams of Thorsby, G. C. Powell of Clanton, Hudson Williams of Thorsby, and A. H. Glasscock of Oak Hill. Besides the directors mentioned there were visitors from Providence, Beat 16, New Salem, Friendship, Temple, and all the closely adjacent communities to Oak Hill.

Organists for the afternoon were: Misses Genie Collins, Lois Glasscock, Jewell Bean, Aleen Baker, Emma Campbell; and W. G. Culp.

Too much cannot be said regarding the quality of the singing. The huge class just entered right into it with the singing, ringing spirit which makes one think that he can simply feel the rhythm tingling in his bones and that nearly lifts the shingles off the roof.

The United Society meets next Sunday afternoon with New Salem, southeast of Thorsby.

UNITY

The success of the Unity B. Y. P. U. meeting on January 23 proved its young people to be no slackers. They were ready for work—ready to push Unity up the track. The future holds great things for them. We are not only going to do better associational work, but we will purchase a Mentone lot to help us spiritually, for Mentone means much to one's spiritual life. Men and women, back up your young folks!—Katie M. Cobern, President of Unity Association.

OLD TIME SINGING

There will be an all day singing in the old Christian Harmony books at the Chilton County court house in Clanton on the fifth Sunday, January 30. Everybody invited to be present and take part in the singing. —J. N. Scott.

FRIENDSHIP CHURCH

The pastor, Rev. W. P. Lowery, was present at his regular appointment at Friendship last Sunday, but he did not preach but turned over the pulpit to Rev. T. J. Deason at the 11 o'clock service Rev. Deason preached a very forceful sermon. The pastor preached at the evening service.

At the morning service, two members were added to the church, Rev. T. J. Deason and his daughter. At the night service another member was added, Mrs. Henry Hand.

There was no singing at this place Sunday afternoon, the class giving way to the regular monthly singing at Oak Hill. But it is hoped that a good singing will be had next Fourth Sunday afternoon. Other announcements will be made later.

ISABELLA HIGH SCHOOL

An entertainment will be given by the P. T. A. of our school on Friday, January 28, at 7:30 p. m., in interest of the school.

The school is enjoying one of its best years. Prof. Smith has been added to the faculty as teacher of science and coach of athletics for the boys. Mr. Smith is an experienced high school teacher and coach, having coached some of the leading high school teams of the state.

Last week our basket ball team won from Maplesvilleby the score of 22 to 2, and defeated Chilton County High School 30 to 17. We now have the best team the school has ever had and would like to schedule a few more games for the season.

OFFICERS CHOSEN FOR COUNTY CO-OPERATIVE ASSOCIATION

Rev. W. P. Lowery of Thorsby was elected president of the newly organized Chilton County Co-operative Association at the first regular meeting of the organization which was held at the court house last Saturday. Other officers elected at this time were: Sidney J. Weldon, vice-president; Claud E. Marcus, secretary; Jasper N. Dennis, treasurer.

Following the election of officers, an executive committee was elected and instructed by the body to formulate a definite program of work. The executive committee is composed of the officers of the association and five other members who were elected at large. They are as follows: E. E. Plier, T. W. Wilson, H. B. Glenn, R. F. Atkinson and D. O. Manning.

The executive committee will function as a controling body until there has been a director elected in at least nine precincts of the county.

Realizing that immediate action is necessary if the operation of the association is to benefit the citizens of the county this year, the Executive Committee held their first meeting last Saturday afternoon and unanimously adopted a very practical and constructive program of activities. It was pointed out by the committee that the program of work for the organization would of necessity have to be confined somewhat during the next few weeks due to the limited number of members, but that as the planting season and other activities of the year advance, the activities of the association would broaden.

Summarizing the program adopted we find that it is planned to immediately conduct a complete survey of the resources (both actual and potential) of the county, which will be used as a basis to carry out the other immediate activities of the association somewhat as follows:

To provide a steady market for all products of the farms of standard quality at the highest market price.

To co-operate in the standardization and marketing of all farm products.

To provide adequate marketing and grading facilities for economic marketing.

To co-ordinate every available and practical means in the county for the successful promotion of every phase of community life necessary for a bigger and better Chilton County.

For the purpose of further acquainting the public with the functions of the association and to stimulate interest in the movement the executive committee has arranged as far as possible meetings to be held on tonight (Thursday) at 7 o'clock at the following places—Enterprise, Isabella, Jemison, Fairview, Verbena, Collins Chapel, Concord, Mt. Pleasant, Baker Schoolhouse, Maple Springs.

While this is being written (Wednesday) programs for these meetings are being worked out and speakers well versed in the plans of the organization are being assigned to these various sections of the county. Those having the arrangements in charge ask the citizens of these respective communities to give these meetings as much publicity as possible, in order that representative crowds may be had at each place. Men, women and children are all invited to attend these meetings.

NO PREACHING AT BAPTIST CHURCH NEXT SUNDAY A.M.

There will be no preaching at the Clanton Baptist church next Sunday morning, on account of the Fifth Sunday meeting at Concord, which is two miles east of Clanton.

Sunday school will be held at the usual hour, as will also the night service. Rev. D. F. Green of Montgomery will preach Sunday night.

Mr. M. L. White, for many years telegraph operator at Clanton, went to Birmingham Monday night to attend the annual meeting of veteran employees of the L. & N. Railroad. Mr. White has been in the service of the company for 27 years, most of which time he has been on the same job in Clanton.

Farmers Meeting Here Monday, January 31st

The next general meeting of the Chilton County Co-operative Association is to be held at the county courthouse in Clanton on Monday afternoon, January 31, at one o'clock.

Aside from the activities reported elsewhere in this issue of the Union-Banner, several important proposals county-wide interest are to be made by the executive committee at the meeting Monday. It is for this reason that every citizen in the county is urged to attend.

As the association is a county-wide organization and plans are being formulated especially in the marketing division for the benefit of the citizens all over the county, citizens from Maplesville, Verbena, Thorsby, Jemison, and other sections of the county are especially invited to attend the meeting. Shipping points for farm products are to be established at all places where the volume justifies it.

As has already been pointed out, the association is very desirous of the hearty co-operation of the business and professional men and interests of the county, therefore, they too are urged to come and take part in the establishment of the organization.

"I feel so happy for what S. S. S. has done for me that I want others to know about it. I suffered twenty long years from eczema. At times the itching was unbearable. During that time, I used all kinds of salves without receiving any real benefit. After taking six bottles of S. S. S., I was cured of this dreadful disease. I recommend S. S. S. to anyone suffering from eczema, because I cannot praise it enough for what it has done for me." Cleophas Forte, Soldiers and Sailors Home, Quincy, Ill.

BACK TO THE FARM

In spite of many gloomy predictions about the farmer, made in some instances by professional political reformers, there is an apparent trend toward return to the farm on the part of country folks who have been drawn toward the city during the depression in the farming industry. This is the information which reaches us through the National Association of Real Estate Boards which recently completed its fourth annual survey of farm market conditions in the United States. The results of the survey are based on reports of 127 communities in the United States and Canada. The report shows among other things, that prices of farm lands, though having a tendency to advance, are fairly stable at a level below 1920 but above the farm price level of 1914. It is stated that there is a greater optimism among the farmers than was evidenced at this time last year with a corresponding increase in credit facilities.

Of the 127 communities which replied, according to the farm report, 56% reported the farm real estate market more active than last year; 28% reported the market about the same, and only 16% reported that the market was not so good as a year ago. The best farm markets were reported in the North Central and Central Eastern sections of the country, and the Mountain and Pacific states.

The report adds that the greatest reason given by the purchasers for buying farms was the purchase for a home and the carrying on of the farming business, while the second most numerous reason was the expectation that farm land values are going to increase and that the purchase of farm lands now is a good investment.

We have had all sorts of opinions on how the farmer is getting along and whether his condition is improving or declining. This report on the sale of farm lands ought to furnish pretty good evidence. If the buying of farm lands is on the up-grade, as the report seems to find, then there is good basis for the reports that the condition of the farmer generally is improving. Nothing succeeds like success and people will not be returning from the cities to the farms unless they believe there is a better chance to succeed in rural communities.

THE MONROE DOCTRINE

Critics of the present policy of the administration in some instances seem to have a mistaken idea of the purpose and application of the Monroe Doctrine. This doctrine was not promulgated and has not been used solely for the protection of the United States and it has never been used to promote American commercial interests in the Western hemisphere.

The Monroe Doctrine has been of considerably more benefit to the people of the other American republics than to the citizens of the United States. This republic would have grown and developed along its present line whether there had been a Monroe Doctrine or not. But the case of other American republics might have been different.

For instance, if Mexico had been left open to exploitation by the more progressive nations of Europe the native Mexican would not be the sovereign Mexico of today. It will not be seriously denied that the average inhabitant of the principal countries of Europe is more enterprising, more efficient, and better educated, if not more intelligent naturally than the average Mexican.

Without the Monroe Doctrine there is little doubt that Mexico would have been colonized by enterprising nations of Europe in such force that Mexico, as such, would have lost its sovereignty. Indeed while the United States was occupied with its Civil War, Europe succeeded in forcing on the Mexican an Austrian emperor, who might have stuck had it not been for the application of the Monroe Doctrine.

Without the Monroe Doctrine Mexico would doubtless be today a European controlled country, either divided into European colonies, or ruled by a European monarch.

Of course it may be argued by some that the Mexican would be better off had he benefitted by European control and the influx of enterprising European stock. But this is beside the question. The Mexican believes in Mexico as it is and wants to retain his sovereignty, and develop or fail to develop the country in accordance with his own inclinations. He, and his brother in the other Latin republics, have only been able to do this through the application of the Monroe Doctrine, a doctrine which has been of far greater political benefit to him than to the United States.

IT PAYS

Three of the things which the public seem to be buying now in almost unlimited quantities are automobiles, motion picture tickets and soft drinks. It is more than a coincidence that the three busy industries which put out these commodities are three which do a very great amount of advertising. Just look at any newspaper or any other periodical and count the amount of advertising devoted to automobiles, to moving pictures, and to soft drinks. Then you will understand why the business is continually growing.

At a recent banquet of the American Automobile Chamber of Commerce, Merle Thorpe, editor of Nation's Business, declared that the present great prosperity in the automobile business is due in a great measure to the amount of advertising which the automobile industry does.

"The automobile industry was the first to appreciate national advertising as the economic force it is," Mr. Thorpe declared. "It used a page in a national magazine or a newspaper to supplant thousands of salesmen. It short cut the whole distribution process, supplementing and complementing mass production by mass selling."

Just gaze over the amount of automobile advertising which is used daily and you will begin to understand why everybody wants a new car, or two of them.

According to members of the industry, it would take a 65,000,000 gallon tank to hold the carbonated beverages which the people of the United States drank last year, an increase in consumption of 2,000,000,000 half pint bottles over 1925. And officials say that this increase is due to proper advertising. In 1926 the industry spent $3,000,000 in national advertising in the newspapers and magazines of the country, an increase of 20% over the year previous, with the above noted increase in the consumption of the product.

Everyone is of course familiar with the amount of motion picture advertising which is carried in the metropolitan and the local newspapers, and that it gets results is evidenced by the steady increase in the business. Imagine how effective a motion picture theater business would be without newspaper advertising.

The lesson learned by the three great industries above noted is one which should be taken to heart by every enterprising business man, for what is true of industry on a national scale is true of local business. The people will not know about your product unless you tell them about it, and the proper way to tell them is thru good consecutive newspaper advertising. The way to succeed in business is to have the best goods and then let the people know you have them.

NATIONAL AFFAIRS

While foes of the protective system are proposing the overthrow of existing protective barriers between the American market and foreign invaders given an undue advantage by lower wage scales and standards of living, Representative Will Woods, of Indiana, one of the real leaders in the House of Representatives, calls attention to the fact that the only menace to American prosperity today, which has already caused some disarrangement of industry, is an excessive importation of articles of foriegn production which can profitably be raised or made on American soil.

Congressman Wood declares that there is food for thought in the fact that during the last half of 1926, the balance of trade in favor of the United States, because of rising importations, sunk to negligible proportions, and that in the last two months of the year there was a slight recession in manufacturing production which would have been necessary if a larger percentage of American production was of articles of American manufacture.

Congressman Wood called attention to the fact that American capital is being exported for investment, mostly in Europe, at the rate of two billion dollars a year. No small amount of this money is being invested in indrustries which operate on a wage scale far below that prevailing in America, and which are seeking and will continue to seek an increasing outlet for their output in the United States. The Indiana member puts up a danger signal of which Americans thoughtful for the future prosperity of their country would be well to take note.

The battle in our market invaded by foreign production, Representative Wood points out, is essentially a battle between standards of living. The American living standard must go down in cases where the existing tariff is insufficient to meet the difference between American and foreign standards or American industry must shut up shop.

This growing unfair competition in American markets, Congressman wood points out, is an important factor to the American agricultural problem. American farmers are facing the difficulties attendant upon having a domestic surplus. If a larger proportion of the products made abroad we could just as well make here, were being produced in the United States, this surplus could be absorbed here. On the other hand if this displacement should continue to the point of absorbing ten per cent more for market, the surplus of the farmer would rise from ten to twenty per cent and the effort to market abroad would be futile.

The American consumer, Representative Wood points out, is getting little or no benefit from these excessive importations, for the foriegn made goods are sold at just enough below the American production price to take the market. If our indrustries are thus destroyed or hampered, the foreigner will have our market and can charge what he chooses.

Congressman Wood points out that with our condition of inflated personal credit, a period of unemployment in the United States would bring serious consiquences. Concluding Congressman Wood says:

"The American people should not wait until depression has come up on them before realizing and finding means to avert this growing danger. The American people can not afford to let this condition drift to the point where an industrial an financial depression has been brought upon them.

"No one can study the growing rising tide of importations in its relationship to loss of capital and loss of employment in many American industries without being aroused to the gravity of this situation, and the imperative neccessity of doing something about it.

"Is it not well, therefore, for us to consider the importance of further protecting the American market for the American people?"

This is good, old fashioned, horsesense economic doctrine of the sort American people used to hear from William McKinley and "Pig Iron" Kelly, the famous protection Democrat. It would be well if the analysis and warning put before the house of Representatives and the country by the able Congressman from Indiana, were to command serious attention and effect an early remedy.

STAND BY YOUR GOVERNMENT

The strength of foreign propaganda in the United States is again indicated by the echoes in the American press and on the floor of Congress of the outcry of alien elements against the protection of American rights and just interests in Nicaragua.

The Monroe Doctrine stands in the way of the Balkanizing of Central and South America by the European powers. If the Monroe Doctrine is to be maintained, the United States must continue to take an interest in the maintenance of orderly constitutional government in the republics of this hemisphere. Failure to do this would mean failure of the Monroe Doctrine. Hence every newspaper in the United States which customarily stands for European as opposed to American interests is today joining in the European chorus of detraction against the United States.

Another element of alien inspiration is that which has shown itself to be in sympathy with Soviet Russia. The same men in public life who advocate closer relations with Moscow communism are naturally enough protesting against interference with the effort of Moscow communism to extend the area of its influence to this hemisphere, by the use of the communized government of Mexico as a cats-paw. The Daily Worker, Chicago national organ of the Communists, prints an article by the notorious "Bill" Dunne, outlining world-wide communist strategy and pointing out the interest the communist movement has in the creation of hatred of America in this hemisphere through the cry of "imperialism," and in the success of the Mexican program in Nicaragua.

Attention is called to the fact that hatred of the United States is growing throughout Latin America. This hatred has been created by an appeal to the prejudices of the people of these republics by European trade rivals. They were on the job before the World War, and they are at it again now. It has been fanned by European radicals under Moscow direction in the hope of attaining the bolshevist objective of overthrow of the government of the United States. It is as unwarranted as the hatred created by Demagogues in Europe, assisted by the type of American who engages in anti-American propaganda under alien inspiration, on the ground that the United States has played the Shylock in the settlement of European debts.

Hatred thus created and stimulated by designing anti-American interests at home and abroad cannot be allayed by any sign of weakness. The actual purpose and performances of the United States have nothing to do with it. The United States has at all times since the Civil War had the power to take anything it wanted in this hemisphere. It has taken nothing from any American sovereignty. We did buy the Panama Canal Zone for the construction of a great engineering work even more valuable to the Central and South American republics than to the United States. We freed Cuba and turned the island over to its people, and have ceded to Cuba the disputed Isle of Pines. These facts do not count with the American-haters of this hemisphere. We cannot gain the friendship of this element. But if we cannot secure the affection of those determined to hate the United States, we can prevent that hatred from eventuating in war by a firm policy in Nicaragua which will prevent the possibility of attack by a Latin combination under Mexican and Moscow direction. We can at least demand respect.

These critics of alien inspiration have much to say about the domination of Central and South America by American "capitalism." Central and South America have vast undeveloped resources and little capital of their own. Foreign capital is required in order that the industrial status of these nations, including the standard of living, may be raised. This capital must come either from the United States or from Europe. It will not go into these countries unless it be guaranteed some degree of protection. That the American capital invested in the other republics of this hemisphere has been a curse rather than a blessing to them is a claim utterly without justification. That the confiscation of this capital would be helpful to the masses of these republics is a theory equally without justification.

In their efforts to uphold American rights, defend just American interests, and thwart the unfriendly designs of anti-American elements in this hemisphere, President Coolidge and Secretary Kellogg deserve and will receive the undivided support of genuine Americans, despite the outcry of elements and interests naturally disloyal to the American government or naturally loyal to some foreign interest or group of interests. The extent to which this opposition has been able to get its propaganda before the American people is astonishing, but as the dust kicked up by these pseudo-American interests has lifted, and the people have begun to see the real situation clearly, American patriotism is again rallying to the support of an executive who has the wisdom to see his duty and the courage to do it.

Some of our enlightened statesmen seem to think it's all right for Mexico to do as she pleases with Nicaragua, but terribly wicked for Uncle Sam to even protect his people's interests there.

A Word With the Old Folks

Elderly People Are Learning Importance of Good Elimination.

IN the later years of life there is apt to be a slowing up of the bodily functions. Good elimination, however, is just as essential to the old as to the young. Scanty or burning passages of kidney secretions are often signs of improper kidney function. In most every community are scores of users and endorsers who acclaim the merit of *Doan's. COLLINS CHAPEL VS. ENTERPRISE

One of the best games of the season was played on the Collins Chapel court last Friday, January 21, at 3 o'clock, when Collins Crapel defeated Enterprise 22 to 14. Much enthusiasm was manifest by both teams. Many visitors were present to see the game, and rooted for their team during the battle. We believe this will prove to be one of the best games of the season. We welcomed Mr. Weldon and his splendid team, and we now hope to be able to schedule another game with them for this season. These are the kind of teams we like to play with—fair and sportsmanlike players.

CHILTON'S POLITICAL SPELL

An Editorial

Chilton county is about to be treated to its regular quadrennial siege of political tomfoolery. Every time the Alabama legislature convenes there is dragged down to Montgomery some kind of a local bill that advertises to the world that our county is seething with political hatred and jealousy. All of the modern civilized places in the world seem to have a spirit in politics that enables the losing party to accept its defeat with grace and gumption; but not so in Chilton. When a political campaign fails to shake down the desired plums of county office, the next effort is to legislate them down to the faithful apostles of "democracy." A political truce in Chilton County would pay us well if we would exercise wisdom enough to take advantage of the opportunity to get together enough to do something for the good of our county. There is some local legislation that Clanton needs at this session, some legislation that does not concern one political interest, but the interest of every citizen. Will we be able to get the strength of our citizenship together and behind such legislation? Not hardly. We seem to be destined to spend our energy in pulling against each other for or against a pernicious local bill that is nothing more than pure and unadulterated political venom.

Many Smart Figures Take Up Long Division

WE HAVE always believed that "a house divided against itself can not stand," but we are learning from many of the best houses this Spring that a frock thus divided can not fail. Black and white are a stunning combination for a frock of this type, while a smart contrast is also achieved by using light and dark shades of some rich color, or by combining a blouse of a metallic fabric with a skirt of satin crêpe or velvet. But though divided in shade or material, this gown is united in chic. For the uppper part boasts the stylish dolman sleeve, while the skirt has both smart tiers and front drapery to proclaim it newest of the new.

The Prudent Mr. Finnerty

The lawyer picked his way to the edge of the excavation for the new terminal station and called down for Michael Finnerty.

"Who's wantin' me?" inquired a deep voice.

"I am," said the lawyer. "Mr. Finnerty, did you come from Castlebar, County Mayo?"

"I did."

"And was your mother named Mary and your father named Owen?"

"They was."

"Then, Mr. Finnerty," said the lawyer, "it is my duty to inform you that your Aunt Kate has died in the old country, leaving you an estate of twenty thousand dollars in cash. Please come on up."

There was a pause and a commotion down below.

"Mr. Finnerty," called the lawyer, craning his neck over the trench, "I'm waiting for you!"

"In wan minute," said Mr. Finnerty. "I just stopped to lick the foreman!"

For six months Mr. Finnerty, in a high hat and with patent leather shoes on his feet, lived a life of elegant ease, trying to cure himself of a great thirst. Then he went back to his old job. It was there in the same excavation that the lawyer found him the second time.

"Mr. Finnerty," he said, "I've more news for you. It is your Uncle Terence who's dead now in the old country; and he has left you his entire property."

"I don't think I can take it," said Mr. Finnerty, leaning wearily on his pick. "I'm not as strong as I wance was! and I'm doubtin' if I could go through all that again and live!"

She wrote to the company on the matter, and the foreman was asked to report.

MULBERRY - ISABELLA

The Isabella P. T. A. invites everybody to come to Isabella Friday night, January 28, at 7 o'clock. There will be an interesting and humorous program rendered by the faculty and the students of the school, including a pantomime, mock faculty, jokes, songs, and a number of quartets. Mr. Marvin Davenport will sing and act as a comedian. There will be refreshments for everyone. Come and enjoy the evening. Admission 10c and 15c. Proceeds go for benefit of the school. The place is 6 miles from Maplesville and 11 miles from Clanton, on the main road.

Mulberry was represented by 11 members at the quarterly meeting of the W. M. U. at Thorsby last Thursday, and they captured the membership banner; also the mileage banner, of which we are proud. Our next quarterly meeting will be in April at Mulberry. Those who attended the meeting at Thorsby were Mesdames J. D. Griffin, T. L. LeCroy, D. O. Manning, S. J. M. Webb, and Earle Thomas; Misses Lona Manning, Emmie Jean Griffin, Jewell Wright, Dorothea and Glois Manning, and Mr. S. J. M. Webb.

Bro. Grady Williams filled his regular appointment at Mulberry Sunday and Sunday night.

Mr. D. O. Manning went to Birmingham on business Tuesday, returning Tuesday night.

The Mulberry W. M. U. met last Saturday afternoon with Mrs. J. D. Griffin; the missionary program was very interesting. It was on "Prayer." We will meet next with Mrs. D. O. Manning February 5.

Miss Wilma McGraw, who has been in training at the Baptist hospital in Selma, is visiting home folks now.

Mr. and Mrs. Vernon Cummings have moved into our community from Coosa recently.

There will be preaching at Mulberry next Sunday at 11 o'clock by Mr. Homer Carrol, and let's everybody go out to hear him.

Mulberry Sunday School is putting on a series of programs in connection with the regular Sunday School lesson. Mr. T. L. LeCroy's class has had charge of the program for the past two Sundays. He appointed Miss Glois Manning to discuss "How to study the Bible." She had a splendid paper on the subject. Last Sunday he asked Miss Lillie Burk to discuss "prayer." She had a paper on what prayer is, Jesus' example of prayer, and our privilege of prayer. This was followed by silent prayer by the audience while Miss Gladys Sexton played softly "Sweet hour of prayer." Mr. T. L. LeCroy closed the prayer. Mr. D. O. Manning's Bible class will have charge of the program next Sunday.

Our varsity boys' basket ball team won a good clean game on the home court from Chilton High's second team last Wednesday afternoon. On Friday they played Mt. Pleasant and lost the game. Our team is a splendid one; it has played some good games already this year, and hopes for more during the season.

Miss Nora Wood spent last week end with Miss Claudie Smith.

Stock Law Now In Effect In Beat 12

Stock law in Beat 12 of Chilton County went into effect on January 1st, as a result of the election which was held in that beat on October 1st of last year.

A contest of the result of the election was instituted by citizens of Beat 12, which was heard in the Probate Court of Judge Reynolds on October 19. The court proceeded to count the votes and determined the following results:

Box 1, Mineral Springs: there were voted for stock law 48; against stock law 31.

Box 2, Robinson's Store: there were voted for stock law 31; against stock law 24.

Total for the entire beat: for stock law 79; against stock law 55.

Being a majority of votes cast for stock law, the court thereupon decreed and ordered that stock law is established in said Beat 12, as provided by law.

The law says that in such cases the provisions for stock law shall become effective and in force on the first day of January following the holding of the election.

My Favorite Stories

By IRVIN S. COBB

A Voice From the Void

Once upon a time I was asked what I considered to be the funniest short story in the English language. After due thought I decided on this one:

A group of big leaguers on their spring training trip were marooned by rain one morning so that they could not go to the ball field for practice. They sat under the portico of the Texas hotel where they were quartered and swapped small talk. An admiring ring of villagers surrounded them.

A languid, ragged negro drew near, anchoring himself at the outer edge of the audience. He laughed with loud appreciation at every sally from this or that visiting notable. He had the look about him of one seeking a suitable opportunity to solicit the gift of a small sum from some generous white stranger. But hour after hour passed with no proper opening until the forenoon was spent.

Suddenly the whistle on the canning factory across the street from the hotel let go with a blast and the hands came trooping out bearing their lunch pails.

"Uh uh, dar she goes," said the darky, as the siren voice died away. "Hit's dinner time fur some folks—but jes' twelve o'clock for me."

BOULDER DAM TO BE WORLD'S LARGEST

Boulder Canyon on the Colorado River, where the Federal Government plans the construction of a gigantic flood control and water storage dam to be financed from the sale of hydro-power it will make available.—Southwest News Photo.

Adoption by Congress of legislation that has been favorably reported out by committees in both Houses will authorize the construction of the world's largest dam at Boulder Canyon on the Colorado River, dispatches from Washington point out.

Boulder Dam, as planned by engineers in the United States Reclamation Service and approved by Secretary of the Interior Hubert Work, will be 550 feet high—more than twice as high as the highest dam now in existence.

Planned primarily to protect California and Arizona territory against devastating Colorado River floods, Boulder Dam, in addition, will create a site for the development of 1,000,000 horsepower of hydro-electric power.

This colossal dam will create an artificial lake 80 miles long and 30 miles wide in the midst of the Great American Desert. Water from the reservoir will be available for domestic use by a large number of cities in Southern California, now launching an aqueduct to bring them water from the Colorado River.

Boulder Dam, according to legislation now pending in Congress, is to be self-financed and pre-financed. The Swing-Johnson bill provides that the Government is not to make any expenditures on the dam until the Secretary of the Interior secures sufficient contracts for power and water from the dam to repay the Government, with interest, all money spent in the construction and maintenance of the structure.

More than fifteen billion dollars in new industrial and agricultural wealth will be created by the electric power and water from Boulder Dam within ten years after its completion, it has been estimated by Government surveys. This new wealth will return, from the Southwest, more than $100,000,000 annually in additional taxes to the Federal Government, it has been pointed out.

Situated 150 miles south and west of the Grand Canyon, the site of Boulder Dam is in that section of the Colorado River which forms the boundary line between Nevada and Arizona.

FROM FORMER CHILTON TEACHER

Do you remember F. B. Williams? He was for 13 years a school teacher in Chilton County; during that time he taught at Union Grove, Rocky Mount, Jemison, Mt. Carmel, Isabella, Smith Schoolhouse and Concord near Montevallo. He was a student of Prof. Rascoe. Prof. Williams is now teaching at Ebenezer school near Montevallo in Shelby County. Many people in Chilton County know Prof. Williams and will be glad to hear of him again.

Mr. J. R. Mullins spent the week end with his family in Montgomery.

Mrs. L. F. Gerald spent Monday shopping in Birmingham.

Child-birth

THOUSANDS of mothers for over three generations have praised Mother's Friend for relieving them of unnecessary pains during expectancy.

"Everyone was surprised how well I got along," writes Mrs. Alfred E. Ammon, Muncie, Ind. "My pains disappeared after using Mother's Friend and I was sick only an hour and a half at baby's birth."

Mother's Friend is the formula of an eminent physician. It is made from a combination of highly refined oils and other wonderful ingredients and is for outward application. Mother's Friend aids the skin and muscles to expand more easily during the constant readjustment of expectancy, month after month, right up to childbirth.

Mother! Insist on Mother's Friend—the same as used by our mothers and grandmothers—don't wait—start using tonight—and meanwhile write Bradfield Regulator Co., Dept. 33, Atlanta, Ga., for free valuable booklet "Motherhood and the Coming Baby" (sent in plain envelope). It tells how Mother's Friend can help you during expectancy and at childbirth. This booklet also tells you many other things you want to know. "Mother's Friend" is sold by all druggists—everywhere.

OVERHEAD IN SCHOOLS

NOTE—This is the third and last of a series of articles on overhead cost in the schools, by R. W. Cowart, Secretary of the Alabama Education Association.

Overhead in the schools is not necessarily different from overhead in other fields of work. Without exception, within my knowledge, all business of any consequence invests a considerable portion of its operating costs in overhead. If good business men consider this expenditure a wise investment for their businesses, would it not be folly to expect so large a concern as a county or city school system to operate successfully without a similar expense? The antagonist of overhead expense in the schools claims that this money could be used to lengthen school terms so badly needed. It is true that the terms could be lengthened some if overhead money were released for that purpose. Business houses could increase their stock too or make other investments by diverting their overhead costs, but they do not.

How much could terms be lengthened? If all overhead for public elementary and high schools were abolished, the sum, approximately $522,000, would purchase about 6 more days of schooling a year. If the cost of supervisors, not generally looked upon as overhead cost, which amounts to approximately $150,000 annually, were released for lengthening the term, a little over one and a half days per year could be added. This last item is not an expenditure in all counties, as only 31 counties and a few cities have supervisors.

The cost of the State Department of Education is an overhead expense serving the whole school system. This amounts to about $123,000 per year and is paid by the state with the aid of certain philanthropic agencies. If this fund could be released for lengthening terms, only one and a half days could be added.

Taking the whole sum spent for county and city superintendents' offices, the state department of education, and the cost of supervisors, $794,575, and applying it to lengthening of school terms, about nine and one-half days could be added.

Of course no one really concerned for the best interests of the schools would recommend any such procedure. The loss would be greater than the gain. At least, the best practices in business and in education tell us that it would be unwise and undesirable to cut out all executive and administrative management—in other words, overhead expense. To reduce the cost is hardly possible, for the compensation paid individuals in the work is low. The same executive and administrative officers, however, could administer a great increase in school expenditures without increasing the overhead expense materially. Teachers' salaries could be doubled or trebled, and this item alone takes 80% of all school moneys, without increasing overhead a penny. All school terms could be made 9 months in length with but little addition to overhead costs.

We desire and must have wise executive and administrative officers to head our schools. The cost in each community will depend on the type of service it wishes to buy. Overhead cost is a local matter anyway, as the amount spent for this service is determined locally. The state has nothing to do with it. Relief in our schools, then, cannot be found in the overhead costs. We are being misled when we think so. Let us face the issue squarely and seek equitable sources of revenue to finance the school system we need and must have.

Everybody Invited

Mr. and Mrs. A. Amundsen and Mr. Amunsen's niece, Mrs. Leque, all living in or near Chicago, arrived last Tuesday for an extended stay in Thorsby. The Amundsens were some of the pioneers of Thorsby, but for several years past have lived on a farm in Wisconsin. They are living temporarily in a part of Mr. and Mrs. Soberg's residence.

Mr. Martin Dryhovd, nephew of E. N. Dyrhovd, returned to his home in Illinois last week after making an extended visit in Thorsby. During the recent cold snap he was obliged to purchase heavy underwear to keep warm, something he never wore in his northern home.

There will be preaching in English at Thorsby Lutheran Church next Sunday morning.

The Ladies Guild monthly social will be held Thursday afternoon, January 27, at the home of Mrs. C. R. Foss, on Montgomery Road.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Petersen and little daughter of Oxmoor, and Mrs. Bennett Forsman of Birmingham spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Petersen.

Miss Anna Werness motored from Birmingham in her new car to spend the week end with her mother, Mrs. Martha Grothe.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Villadsen motored in from Talladega to spend the week end with home folks in Thorsby. Mrs. Villadsen has had as her guest for several days at her home in Talladega, and also while in Thorsby, Miss Maragret Fryer, who left Sunday for her home in Nashville.

Messrs. John and Claus Carlson and Miss Pearl Carlson had as dinner guests last Sunady Mr. and Mrs. M. J. Soberg, Mr. and Mrs. E. G. Hansen, Mr. and Mrs. E. E. Hansen, Mr. and Mrs. J. O. Johnson, and Miss Edith Lucile Johnson.

Mr. and Mrs. S. E. Norton entertained last Friday afternoon Mrs. Martin Petetrsen and her son, Leo M. Petersen, and wife. Mr. Petersen had a lot of interesting photographs of scenes and incidents which he had taken while on the Richard E. Byrd polar aerial expedition last summer. He also had some fine medals that had been presented to him in token of his efficient service on that epochal adventure.

Misses Bernice Williams and Pearl Steiner, school teachers at Lock 12, were visitors at their homes in Thorsby last Sunday.

Mr. Henry and Miss Mary Sue Robinson spent the week end in Helena visiting Mr. Wm. Howard and Miss Elba Taylor.

Rev. J. E. Each and son, William, and Ronald Lucas, and brother, Elbert, went to Union Church Sunday evening. This church is one where Mr. Each has a regular monthly appointment, and is located 7 miles east of Mt. Creek.

Mr. and Mrs. T. W. Robinson went to Birmingham Monday evening to attend the Veterans Club Banquet. This club is composed of employees of the L. & N. R. R. Co., who have been in the serivce 25 years or more. They returned Tuesday morning.

The Parent - Teachers Association of Thorsby met Tuesday afternoon of this week at the home of Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Thomsen. This body of workers have made themselves responsible for the payment of a lot of new desks for Thorsby Public School, at a cost of upwards of $200.

Mrs. L. E. Diefenderfer and children, Helen and Milton, and Mrs. C. S. Howard and children, Loyd and Ella, spent last Saturday in Birmingham, having their eyes attended to.

Mr. R. G. Stubbs of Ensley, driving a new Nash car northbound last Sunday night, got off the pavement near Thorsby Gin, and skidding to the edge of the shoulder, turned turtle into the ditch. He had two or three other men with him, but none were seriously hurt. E. N. Bentley, assisted by T. R. Burdette, soon arrived with a wrecker and hauled the car out of the ditch and took it to Thorsby Garage about 10 o'clock that night. A curious incident of the affair was that Mr. Stubbs, while turned upside down, lost a valuable watch, but no trace of it could be found. Just for luck, Mr. Burdette went to the place Tuesday morning and found it just showing a bit of one edge above the mud.

Next Sunday night at the Congregational Church Rev. Each will give his second stereoptican lecture on "Religions of the World;" the subject this time will be "Buddhism." A collection will be taken to cover expenses.

Roy Raybon returned to his work in Birmingham Tuesday.

Miss Lois Leech, matron at the dormitory, has a new boarder. We have not yet learned the name.

Friday, January 21, Thorsby Institute basket ball team lost a game to Siluria. The game was close until the last 5 minutes, when Siluria ran away for a big lead. Lucas and Taylor played best for Thorsby, while Postell's work enabled his team to win.

On Thursday of last week at T. I. chapel, Marcelle Wilder was presented with a silver medal emblem. This was given by the Underwood Typewriter Co., for writing 50 words a minute for 15 minutes. He made 53 words a minute. His teacher, Miss Odie Lee Arthur, has just received the expert teacher's silver medal emblem.

Semester examinations will be given on Thursday and Friday of this week. The new semester will begin January 31.

The topic of the Christian Endeavor meeting was "Service." The leader, Gertrude Steiner, opened the meeting with a song, "Watching and Working," and announced that the regular order of the meeting would be changed. The business session was held first, and the rest changed accordingly. Some special music by Miss Ruth Gerald, followed by another song, and dismission.

The Spirit of '76—With Improvements

A New York East Sider met a friend on Third avenue and told him he had quit the buttonhole making trade.

"I'm in the art business now," he said, proudly—"such a fine business, too! Lots of money in it!"

"What do you mean—art business?" demanded his friend.

"Well," explained the East Sider, "I go by auction sales, and I buy pictures cheap; then I sell 'em high. Yesterday I bought a picture for twenty-five dollars and today I sold it for fifty."

"What was the subject?"

"It wasn't no subject at all," said the art collector—"it was a picture."

"Sure, I know," said the other. "But every picture has got to be a subject or it ain't a regular picture, you understand. Was this here picture a marine, or a landscape, or a still life, or a portrait—or what? What did it represent?

"How should I know?" said the puzzled ex-buttonholer. "To me a picture is a picture. This here picture now didn't have no name. It was a picture of three fellers and one flag. One feller had a fife and one feller had a drum and one feller had a headache!"

U. S. POPULATION GAINS 12,918,000 IN SEVEN YEARS

Census Bureau Gives Country 118,-628,000 People, With New York Leading

Washington, Jan. 31. — If the United States keeps up its present rate of growth, the country will have a population of well over 226,500,000 in the year 2000.

This estimate was based upon the announcement Monday by the Bureau of the Census that by July 1 the population will have passed 118,628,000, a gain of 1,492,000 in a year and 12,-918,000 since 1920.

The Census Bureau's estimate gave the population of each state except those which had showed a decrease between 1910 and 1920, or from 1920 to 1925.

Pennsylvania gained 1,109,993 in population between 1920 and 1927. New York increased 1,037,773 in the same period and California 1,006,139. New York led in population with 11,423,000, followed by Pennsylvania with 9,730,000.

Must Utilize Raw Materials

In order to support the vast future population Secrtary of Commerce Hoover believes that greater utilization of raw materials, elimination of industrial waste, development of water and power resources, in science and other fields, that living standards may be maintained. He belives that the progress of scientific and industrial achievement will so increase productivity that living standards not only will be maintained but greatly improved with the growth of the nation.

Public health reports show that the average span of life is increasing, partially from greater progress in medical science and sanitation, and partially from elimination of devitalizing manual labor possible through labor saving devices.

WALTER CAMPBELL ARRESTED WITH BOTTLE LIQUOR IN CAR

Walter Campbell was arrested by Sheriff Collins last Sunday near the Wash Sammons place in Stumps Hills, on a charge of violating the prohibition law. The Sheriff reports that Campbell was in a car and had a bottle in which there was a small quantity of liquor; and that there had been some liquor poured out on the floor of the car. It is supposed that Campbell made an effort to pour out the contents of the bottle when he found out the presence of the Sheriff near him. Walter is a son of Geo. Campbell.

EMMETT THOMAS ARRESTED BY SHERIFF COLLINS SAT. NIGHT

Emmett Thomas was arrested last Saturday night by Sheriff Dudley Collins, on a charge of violating the prohibition law. The arrest came as a result of developments from a trip which the officers made to the home of Thomas south of Clanton.

Sheriff Collins reports the circumstances as follows:

"We had been watching Mr. Thomas for several days. He had told Deputy Murrah that he kept whiskey and was selling it and that it was up to the officers to catch him if they could. We know of other statements which he made in which he declared that he kept whiskey all the time and sold it, but that if any officer ever got him for any it would be taken off his dead body.

"Deputy Murrah and I went to Thomas's home late Saturday night and were watching the place. Soon a car came up close to his house and stopped. A man got out of the car and went into the house. As this man came out of the house he ran into me at the steps. Thomas saw me at the steps and slammed the door and locked it. When I demanded that he let me in the house he refused to do so. I told him that if he didn't let me in, I would come and get a search warrant, and he replied that that was the only way I could get in.

"By the light of my flashlight thru the window I could see in the house, and his actions furnished me sufficient proof that he had liquor in the house. I left Deputy Murrah to guard the place and I came to town and got a search warrant and Deputy Culp. We went then to Mr. J. L. Wilson, justice of the peace, and got the warrant signed. When I got back to Thomas's home and went in, the only thing I could find was evidences that a quantity of liquor had been destroyed in the house.

"We arrested Mr. Thomas on a charge of violating the prohibition law and brought him to town. He made bond and was released."

TOM McKEE BACK FROM TRIP TO SOUTH TEXAS

Tom McKee and his family have landed back in Clanton after a trip through the Rio Grande valley of Texas. Mr. McKee says he had a fine trip, with no trouble, making the whole distance in his Buick car with only twenty-five cents repair bill. He says he expects to locate in some kind of business in Clanton; but if he can't find anything to do here, he is going to stay here anyhow. He is living in the new Sid Plier house on First Avenue. We welcome Mr. McKee to Clanton. Here's hoping that he sticks with us.

DANGERS OF CHILDREN SKATING ON STREETS

City police officer, Harvey Foshee, points out the dangers that are encountered by children skating on the paved streets in the business section of Clanton, and urges all parents to cooperate in the effort that is being made to put a stop to the practice. As suggested by Mr. Foshee, it would be better to stop this skating now, rather than wait until some child has happened to some serious accident. His suggestion is a good one, and it would be a good move on the part of parents to see that their children cut it out.

Farmers Seeking Co-operation Of Business Men of the County

"One of the greatest indications that Clanton and Chilton County needs organized effort in solving the many economic ills now confronting you is the apparent lack of interest in such important matters on the part of your business men," was one of the most outstanding statements of Mr. J. H. Frazier, Secretary of the Selma Chamber of Commerce, who delivered the principal address at the meeting of the newly organized Chilton County Co-operative Association held in the Courthouse last Monday, January 31.

When at the conclusion of probably one of the most interesting, matter-of-fact and convincing addresses ever delivered to the citizens of this County, Mr. Frazier said he was not surprised when only three hands were raised when he asked how many business men were present. "Until the business men realize that successful agriculture is the only thing in this county that will keep up a continuous ring on theirecash registers and that without active co-operation and leadership of the business men, the farmer is seriously handicapped in conducting a program of diversified farming and co-operative marketing."

Mr. Frazier said that if Dallas County had the advantages that Chilton county has that it would be the leading county in the State in every phase of agriculture. Relating many reasons why Chilton County should be the outstanding county in the State, Mr. Frazier said probably the greatest was rhe large number of thrifty white farmers in the county, its stragetic location with reference to large consuming markets and its ideal transportation facilities, both highway and railroad.

The speaker quoted from statistics showing the great advantages that have come to Dallas County during the past two years, principally thru the employment of a Farm Demonstration Agent, Home Demonstration Agent, part time Poultry Specialits and the operation of dairy farms and poultry farms. "Selma has one of the largest creamerys east of the Mississippi River and south of the Ohio River," said Mr. Frazier, and that it was made possible solely thru the activity and capital of Selma business men. "Selma has a well equipped and profitably run canning factory," Mr. Frazier said, and that he was of the opinion that the reason the Clanton Canning Factory went to the "Bow-Wows" was not the fault of the farmers of Chilton County, but the fault of the business men of Chilton County, simply because they failed to take the lead and bring about a condition whereby the farmer could produce tomatoes, beans, potatoes, okra, corn, beets, figs and practically every other kind of products that are usually put in tin cans.

After summing up in a most convincing way the many things that have taken place for the financial and social betterment of Dallas County and pointing out the many advantages that would be bound to come to Chilton County if properly approached, Mr. Frazier said that none of these things would have been possible in Dallas County and that it would be impossible to do anything in Chilton County without organized effort. In Selma, he said, the Chamber of Commerce has been the moving spirit in all of their activities and that a community without an organization such as a Chamber of Commerce or an organization such as the Chilton County Co-Operative Association was like a ship at sea without a rudder.

"All political and social opinions and differences must be laid aside in carrying on a community program if it is to succeed. Regardless of political affiliations, the only time that politics should be determined is at election time," Mr. Frazier said.

At the conclusion of Mr. Frazier's address, Mr. Hayes, editor of "South and North," the Louisville and Nashville Railway publication which is devoted to Industry and Agriculture, made some very important remarks along agricultural lines and offered the aid and co-operation of the agricultural department of the L. & N. in putting into practice the program of the Association.

Organization to Incorporate

After the addresses of these two gentlemen, the following resolutions were unanimously adopted:

Whereas, After due and careful study and consideration it is the unanimous opinion of the executive committee that it would be to the best interests of the Association if it should operate under charter as a corporation instead of a mutual organization as now organized,

Be It Resolved, That the Executive Committee be authorized to apply to the Probate Judge of the County for a charter, embodying in its application, articles of incorporation, constitution and by-laws, all articles now contained in the present constitution and by-laws, with the exception of Article Three of the present by-laws, regarding membership fee which shall be reduced to Three Dollars per year. With a further clause that a commission be charged on all products marketed through the association, said commissions to be determined by the Executive Committee or board of directors from time to time as conditions may warrant.

Thorsby Association Endorsed

Whereas, The Chilton County Co-operative Association is organized for the purpose of fostering the economic betterment of the citizens of our county and is always anxious and willing to take advantage of every opportunity of accomplishing that end, and

Whereas, There is in operation today in our county an organization with headquarters at Thorsby, Ala., known as the Thorsby Fruit and Truck Growers Association, which has been highly profitable to the members of that association and in turn to the entire county, now

Therefore Be It Resolved, That we, the members of the Chilton County Co-operative Association in regular meeting assembled, hereby heartily endorse the Thorsby Fruit and Truck Growers Association, highly commend its directors, officers and members for their progressiveness in promoting the economic good of our county and that we hereby authorize our Executive Committee to confer with the officers of the Thorsby association and offer our associations services and co-operation in any manner whereby each organization may be mutally benefited. Also that there may be no overlapping or duplication of effort in serving the best interests of the citizenship of the county.

Be It Further Resolved, That this resolution be spread on the minutes of our association, that a copy be sent to the Secretary of the Thorsby Association and that a copy be furnished the press of our county.

Aid of Business Men Solicited

Whereas, The Chilton County Co-operative Association is organized for the Agricultural, Commercial, Civic and Social betterment of the entire county, and

Whereas, This cannot be successfully done without the aid, co-operation and good will of our entire citizenship especially that of the Banking, Business and Professional interests of the county, therefore

Be It Resolved, That we, the Chilton County Co-operative Association in regular session assembled, hereby offer the services of the Association and influence of its members to the bankers, business and professional men of the county and hereby seek their active co-operation in return for a bigger and better Chilton County.

Be It Further Resolved, That this resolution be spread on the minutes of our association and that a copy be furnished the press of our county.

Next Meeting Wednesday, Feb. 9

It was announced that the next meeting of the Association would be held at the County Courthouse, Wednesday, February 9, at one o'clock p. m., and that an invitation was extended to the entire citizenship, both men, women and children to attend this meeting.

"HIS UNCLE'S NIECE" TO BE PRESENTED FEBRUARY 25

That is scheduled to be the Big Night in Clanton. The Clanton Dramatic Club is earnestly at work on this big comedy-hit, and it is assured you will enjoy every minute of the play. It is due to be the funniest play ever put on in Clanton. That is it furnishes more laughs than any play ever put on or shown in Chilton County.

It is guaranteed that you will come away laughing and will laugh for weeks afterward every time you happen to think of the comic situations that arise in this great comedy. It is a sure cure for the blues.

The cast is made up of the best comedy talent that the dramatic club has. You know from past experience that the Dramatic Club has talent and can put on a high class performance.

Why go elsewhere when you can see just as good if not better shows right here at home? The Clanton Dramatic Club is striving for bigger and better things. Every play put on by them has gone over big, and the last one is always just little better than the one just before it. And remember, too, "His Uncle's Niece" is the very latest, the season's hit. Don't miss it!

Remember the date, February 25, at 8:00 o'clock, p. m. at the Chilton County High School Auditorium. Be there with a friend.

SINGING SOCIETY TO MEET

COPPER STILL FOUND NEAR THE HAMP BUSBY PLACE

Sheriff Collins and his deputies were in the northern part of the county last Wednesday looking for a still. They found where it had been in operation, but had been moved. While searching the woods they found the copper kettle hid in a pile of brush near the Hamp Busby place. The still was brought to town by the officers. No arrests made.

JOE HILYER AND GEORGE PLIER CHARGED WITH POSSESSION OF LIQUOR

Sheriff Collins was passing along the road by the McKee old grocery place last Saturday night. By the lights of his car he noticed two men running away from an old house near the road. They came into the road directly ahead of him where there was a car stopped in the middle of the road. The Sheriff stopped and ordered the two men to remain until he could look over the situation.

When he went to the old house away from which he saw the men running he found therein some cans containing 15 gallons of liquor. While the Sheriff was searching the old house the men cranked up their car and went away; but they had already been identified as Joe Hilyer and Geo. Plier, Jr. The Sheriff went back Sunday and arrested the two and put them under bond on charges of violating the prohibition law.

IT PAYS TO ADVERTISE— IN A PAPER THEY ALL READ

For the past few weeks The Union-Banner has been carrying a small advertisement for Mr. Jasper Dennis advertising fruit trees for sale. Last Friday Mr. Dennis received an order from a man by the name of Shanks in Houston, Texas, stating that his advertisement had been seen in The Union-Banner, and asked Mr. Dennis to send him 200 of his peach trees. Mr. Dennis filled the order and said: "It pays to advertise."

SINGING AT CONCORD

Mr. S. V. Miller of Concord announces that the regular monthly singing will be held at that place 2½ miles east of Clanton next Sunday afternoon, February 6. Service will begin promptly at 2 o'clock. All singers are invited, and the public has a cordial invitation.

AUTO TITLE LAW IS ABOLISHED BY LEGISLATURE

By the first of next week the automobile certificate of title law enacted in 1923 will cease to exist and motorists of Alabama no longer will have to pay $1 for a slip of paper certifying that they are car owners.

By a vote of 27 to 4, the senate Tuesday passed the house bill by Representative Poole, of Butler, abolishing the act. It will reach Governor Graves' desk within a few days, and he already has announced his intention to sign it. Probate Judge J. P. Stiles of Jefferson County and the various automobile organizations of the State have waged the fight for repeal of the law on the ground that it is a nuisance and offers no safeguard against automobile thefts. Representative Poole, author of the repealing act, sponsored the bill four years ago.

Repeal of the bill will deprive the State of approximately $100,000 a year in revenue. In most counties the probate judge retains half of the title fees.

EUELL DOBBS ARRESTED IN CLANTON LAST SATURDAY

Euell Dobbs, son of Henry Dobbs of Mineral Springs, was arrested in Clanton Saturday afternoon by Sheriff Dudley Collins, on a charge of violating the prohibition law. Young Dobbs dropped a bottle of liquor out of his pocket on the sidewalk in front of the court house. When the attenion of the Sheriff was called, Dobbs ran up the street and down the alley back of the court house and came back around to Ellis Filing Station, where the Sheriff took charge of him and placed him in jail. He was released on bond Monday night.

TWO BOYS ARRESTED BY OFFICERS CURLEE AND FOSHEE

City officers Curlee and Foshee, while out taking in the town Sunday afternoon, came across a car parked by the side of the road near the north city limits. In the car were two boys, Magnus Taylor and Arthur Edwards, who were drunk. Upon investigation by the officers it was found that there was a quart fruit jar in the car in which there was about a pint of liquor. The boys were arrested and brought to jail. They made bonds Sunday night.

When the cases were called in Mayor Atkinson's court Monday the boys paid fines of $57.50 each. The car in which the liquor was found was not molested by the officers, as it was standing still beside the road.

OFFICERS DESTROY STILL ON BIBB COUNTY LINE

Sheriff Dudley Collins and deputies Culp and Murrah, with city officer Harvey Foshee, destroyed a still Tuesday near the Bibb County line beyond Shoults Tuesday.

When the officers approached the place they heard somebody leaving the still, and Deputy Culp went around and headed off a negro and a white man coming in the direction from the still. No arrest was made.

The officers went to the still and destroyed it together with two barrels of beer.

CHEVROLET COMPANY TO HOLD NATION-WIDE MEETINGS

One of the most significant events in the automotive industry today is the series of nation-wide sales meetings of the Chevrolet Motor Company now in progress. They are destined to reach 15,000 dealers, associate dealers, and bankers, in 21 of the largest cities, before their close in April.

Sales plans of the company for what is expected to be the greatest year in its history are outlined at these meetings by officials of the sales, advertising, and service divisions. As the world's largest makers of 3-speed transmission cars the company is looking forward to 1927 for a measurable increase over 1926, when production records for the previous year were exceeded by more than 40%. Recently announcement was made that the company's facilities had been expanded to make possible production of 1,000 000 units a year.

R. H. Grant, vice president and general sales manager, will direct the meetings and outline the most comprehensive sales campaign ever attempted by a manufacturer of automobiles.

The meetings will be held from coast to coast and will place the entire dealer organization in personal touch with company officials and will give first hand information on the workings of the sales plans. A graphic presentation of these plans will feature the afternoon sessions at the meetings. Playlets will demonstrate new policies of sales, advertising, service, and used car merchandising under the 1927 program. Dealers will be guests of the company at banquets following the meetings.

Approximately 3,000 bankers will attend the meetings, reflecting their interest in Chevrolet's position and influence in the automotive industry today.

There will be a representative from the health department present, who will speak and give any information needed. Every officer of the associations, every teacher in the county and anyone interested, is especially requested to be present.

POULTRY FIFTH BIGGEST FARM LINE AND STILL GROWS

Who eats all the poultry and eggs produced on our farms?

You cast your eye over the statistics of output, and find that it runs about three-quarters of a billion chickens and two billion dozens of eggs yearly.

And you say to yourself, "Why, it just isn't possible! Along with stacks of other viands, the country couldn't eat such hordes of hens and their fruit!"

It does seem to call for gluttonous powers of deglutition (that's a word I got out of a $4 book, and must use it once in a while if the price isn't to be a total loss).

Of course, as all right-minded folks know, there are no finer foods than chicken and eggs. But also, the human stomach has its limits. Like Cousin Egbert, it can be pushed just so far. There comes a time when the huskiest consumer calls a halt and reflects thus: "For the present I have had enough chicken and eggs. My stomach doth protest. I will desist now, lest a worse thing come upon me." Yet, this being true, the fact remains that we annually mop up enough eggs to reach 40 times around the earth, if placed end to end, and enough chickens to ruin a 40-rod wide strip of vegetables extending from Hastings, Neb., to Hawkinsville, N. Y.

The answer to this riddle, of course is a vast poulation. Our mountainous output of poultry products figures out only about 30 fowls and 80 dozen eggs a year for the average American family. You see, we aren't such gluttons after all. Then, another thing, our city population has been growing by leaps and bounds. This means that more and more people are turning from hard labor to lighter indoor jobs and naturally they want lighter food, such as poultry and eggs, and dairy products.

A man or woman who is parked beside a desk all day simply doesn't yearn for copious intakes of pork and beans. In fact, the unbridled use of such fare by an office worker will eventually undermine his personal department of the interior.

And so the use of poultry products has nearly doubled since 1880. Our per capita consumption of eggs, for instance, was a little over 9 dozens then, and is about 17 dozens now.

The rising cost of meat has also helped to boost poultry products. So, too, no doubt, has the falling off in size of city families, and also the decline there of old-fashioned kitchens. It's so much easier to fry eggs and bacon, or ham, or to fry a chicken, in one of the toy kitchens that go with modern city apartments.

Thus the poultry industry has grown up to billion dollar status. Its products now occupy fifth place in all our farm lines. Only dairy products, corn, cotton, and hogs are worth more.

If poultry and its steady dribble of income were removed from our farms thousands of country merchants would think that a buying drouth had hit town. For poultry buys most of the living for millions of farm homes.

And the factors above mentioned that have made this industry great, will make it greater. Every year increases the number of indoor workers, while meat, on the average, grows dearer.

Moreover, 1,500,000 new mouths are added to our population every year. That's equivalent to another city like Detroit to be egged and chickened, every 12 months.—John Williams, in Farm Life.

NEW FORESTRY DIVISION ESTABLISHED

A new state forestry division has been established in Bullock and Macon Counties, according to information issued by the State Commission of Forestry. An examination of the soils of these two counties, and the U. S. Census data compiled by beats with reference to the amount of wild or unimproved land show that timber production will always be a material ecinomic interest inthis territory.

During the recent dry spells numerous fires occurred in this locality arousing to action the landowners and the community residents. Local cooperation with the State work of advancing reforestation throughout the commonwealth appears definitely assured in this locality.

Cooperation among landowners and local residents is the foundation of all advancement in forestry. Unless the individuals whose interests are most vitally affected exert themselves in their own behalf, there is little that can be done by the State or Federal Governments. However, it appears that the situation in Bullock and Macon County areas is such that the State, the Federal Government, and the community residents, by working together, will be able to accomplish material good. Mr. J. M. Stauffer, State Forest Agent, is assigned to the new division.

LESS FERTILIZER IS 1927 FORECAST

Auburn, Ala., Feb. 1.—The amount of commercial fertilizer used by Alabama farmers in 1927 will show a substantial reduction as compared to 1926. Based upon past performances under similar conditions present indications are that the reduction will be at least 30%, and it may run as high as 40%. Since Alabama farmers paid last year approximately $20,000,000 for commercial fertilizers, a slump of 30% will be equivalent to $6,000,000, and 40% will be equivalent to $8,000,000.

While admitting that this reduction is in sight, Prof. M. J. Funchess, Dean of the Agricultural College at Auburn, and Director of the Experiment Station, says that at current prices of fertilizer and cotton, a dollar spent wisely for fertilizer will return $2.50 to $4. His conclusion is based upon thorough experimental work covering Alabama and continuing over many years. This is the main reason why the county agents and Auburn specialists are advising farmers that it is unwise and uneconomical to use less fertilizer per acre under cotton this year, but to plant fewer acres.

The situation this year was brought on by the low price of cotton, which is now approximately two-thirds of the price a year ago. This brought a demand for less cotton and farmers automatically decided to use less fertilizer, knowing that this is an effective way to reduce the cotton crop, but overlooking that it is uneconomical, and that it will result in a very low return on labor for making and gathering cotton.

Another reason is that fertilizer prices have not kept in line with cotton prices. Instead of falling with cotton they have remained steady and are now approximately where they were in the spring of 1926. Perhaps farmers would be encouraged to use more fertilizer if prices were in line with what they have to sell.

Mrs. Magne Anderson, of Boyles, Ala., was in Thorsby for the day, last Thursday, superintending the erection of a tombstone at the grave of her husband, in Concordia Cemetery.

Miss Agnes Leary, a student at Howard College, is spending several days at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Leary, in Thorsby, while recovering from an attack of influenza.

Mrs. James Bosworth, assisted by the Fosses and Reagins, celebrated her birthday anniversary last Sunday.

The Congregational Ladies Aid Social will be held Thursday afternoon of this week at the home of Mrs. Chas. A. Peterson.

Mr. Dewey Collins has bought a piece of ground at the south east corner of Ed. Piper's ten acre tract, abutting on the road that runs north on the west side of Mrs. Gerald's home tract, and expects to build a new house there in the near future.

Mr. Palmer Lefstead, a student at Birmingham Southern college, spent the mid-term vacation at the home of his mother, Mrs. Johanna Lefstead, in Thorsby last week-end.

Mr. Erlich M. Eiland, a student in Chemical Engineering at Auburn, visited the home of his parents, Dr. and Mrs. R. J. Eiland, in Thorsby.

Misses Helen C. Jenkins, Lois Hawkes and Margaret Williams spent Saturday in Birmingham.

Mr. Charles M. Williams, who is teaching at Camp Hughes, in Bibb County, spent the week-end with his family in Thorsby.

We are pleased to learn that Helen Diefenderfer was able to return to public school last Monday, after a week in bed with Flu.

A notable improvement in Thorsby business section is under way. Mr. W. H. Goodgame, in company with Mr. Hugh Thompson, of Dadeville, have bought an ice making outfit of eight tons daily capacity. They have also bought from E. N. Bentley the building 50 X 100 feet, which he now occupies as Thorsby Garage. They will proceed at once under contract with Nelson and Larsen, to put down two four inch bored wells at the rear of the building to furnish the necessary supply of pure water. Mr. Goodgame and A. E. Reagan went to Birmingham Wednesday of this week to procure equipment for these wells. The concern will be known as Thorsby Ice Company, and it is expected to have it in commercial operation in about sixty days.

E. N. Bently will make hasty preparation to tentatively consumate a purpose that he has long had in mind. And one he has been preparing for. Having acquired title to all the land fronting on the highway between the Town Hall and Five Points Service Station, he will in a measure remodel and add to what is known as the Eiland Building and move his garage into it in about thirty days. He will then have the only garage in Thorsby that is on the highway, and it will be located on the best site for the purpose in Thorsby.

Miss Muriel Carden and Mae Parker and Master Eason Parker, spent the week-end with relatives at Jemison.

Last Monday night Mr. and Mrs. Charles A. Peterson gave a farewell party to their daughter, Ethel, who will soon leave for Birmingham to begin her training for a nurse, under auspices of the Baptist Hospital located in that city. The evening was spent in enjoyment of a series of games, followed by serving refreshments. Those present were Misses Dorothy Butler, Babel and Lucille Howard, Elinore and Dera Rowell, Edna Raybon, Gertrude Steiner and Eethel Peterson; Messrs. Roy Raybon, Ronald Lucas, Kendall Franklin, Grady Roberts, William and Cecil Each and Marcelle Wilder. Every one seemd to enjoy the party.

Mrs. Belle Whaley of Birmingham is visiting Mr. and Mrs. E. N. Bentley.

Mr. Henry Robinson motored to Birmingham last Sunday.

Mrs. C. C. Taylor, of Helena, was a guest of Mrs. R. M. Smith last wek.

Mr. R. M. Sorrell is preparing to greatly enlarge his sweet potato plant beds. He will in fact increase them to four times their present capacity. He has now had enough experience to feel safe in enlarging them as fast as possible.

Mrs. Jim Mims, of Collins Chapel, entertained at her home the Thorsby Quilting Club, for a spend the day party. This does not mean that the members of this organization simply meet to talk and look at each other, when the day ends, they have something tangible to show for it, sometimes one quilt, sometimes two represent the result of their industry in addition to the social enjoyments of the meeting. Mrs. Pete Franklin had them at her home on Tuesday of this week, and last Sunday they presented to Mrs. R. L. Primm, who has been ill for more than a year, a sample of their handiwork.

Mrs. S. C. Wood, Mrs. Carrie Martin and Mrs. R. R. Franklin spent Wednesday visiting in Selma.

Mrs. Wright, mother of Mrs. D. L. Ward, has been quite ill for some time, but is improving now.

An open meeting of the Helen Kellar Literary Society will be held at 7:30 p. m. Saturday of this week in Helen Jenkins Hall Auditorium. An interesting program will be given to which the public will be admitted at the regular fee of ten cents.

In addition to the program, and without extra charge, Rev. Neil McQuarrie will give a short Bible lecture illustrated with some fine stereopticon pictures.

On Friday night, February 4, and Sunday night following the Christian Endeavor meeting, Rev. Neil McQuarrie will give, each night at the Congregational Church, one of his very interesting illustrated Bible lectures, showing stereopticon pictures to assist in making scenes and incidents realistic. Thorsby people know Bro. McQuarrie. They also know that he always brings a stirring message. There will be no admission fee, but at each lecture at the church a collection will be taken.

Almost sixty were present at the Christian Endeavor meeting last Sunday night. The subject was "How can Christian Endeavorers Help the Church?" Miss Bertha Kirkland was the leader. The young people all took part very promptly.

A Christian Endeavor Social was held last Saturday night at the home of Mr. and Mrs. E. W. Butler. A variety of games were played and every one seemed to have a good time.

Miss Bertha Littleton has returned to Birmingham to take up her duties at the First National Bank, after being at home for two weeks recovering from an operation for the removal of her tonsils.

Sunday afternoon, Mrs. J. E. Each took Miss Lois Prim back to her school at Rocky Mount. She had been spending the week-end with her parents in Thorsby.

DAY FOR ANNUAL RABBIT HUNT IS NEAR—FEBRUARY 22

Tuesday, February 22nd is the day for the big annual rabbit hunt in Chilton County. So far, we have heard but little of plans for the affair. What is going to be done about the big hunt this year? There is lots of fun in this thing, and somebody had better get busy and get it started. The officers elected last year had better get busy and make their plans known. Let The Union-Banner know and we will be glad to publish whatever is decided upon.

GROUND HOG DIDN'T SEE HIS SHADOW

Yesterday (Wednesday) was, according to the old adage, ground hog day; and if the little animal come out of his hole at 11 o'clock, and if his hole was anywhere near Clanton, no shadow was there to frighten him. Some of our old prophets claim that there is lots truth in the ground hog story. We are not saying about that. We will leave that part of the consideration to our gentle readers.

Mr. and Mrs. T. E. Wyatt motored down to Lock 18, near Wetumpka, last Sunday afternoon.

Malley Armstrong of Birmingham was in Clanton visiting relatives and friends last week.

COMMITTEE OKEHS COOLIDGE POLICY

Washington, Feb. 1.—Over the protest of its Democratic members, the house foreign affairs committee today reported the Fairchild resolution proposing that the house endorse President Coolidge's Nicaraguan-Mexican policy. The vote was 10 to 5.

Representative Connally, Democrat, Texas, voted with the Republicans for the announced purpose of moving to reconsider the action. This he did, after nearly an hour's heated debate, only to lose, 8 to 6, on a strictly party vote.

The committee rejected, 8 to 7, a proposal by Representative Moore, Democrat, Virginia, to call Secretary Kellogg for questioning on the subject. On this motion, Representative Fish, Republican, New York, joined with the Democrats, who supported it.

Action on the Fairchild resolution climaxed a series of stormy meetings during which Republicans accused Democrats with attempting to inject politics into international affairs, eliciting vigorous denials from the latter.

Just before today's session broke up, Moore carried, 9 to 5, a motion to print a stenographic report of the entire proceedings.

What has become of our county farm demostration agent proposition? It looks like everybody has forgotten it. Yet it is the most important posible step in the direction of bringing better conditions to our farmers. But nobody is going to force us to have a county agent. We can have one for the asking. Will we say the word?

A New York ice man who once peddled ice is now head of a ten million dollar merger. There is nothing more profitable than a pair of ice scales.

If we were appointed to the Senate and the Senate refused to seat us we wouldn't worry any, because we have been thrown out of better places than that anyhow.

The French government has just perfected plans for mobilizing the entire nation in case of war. Evidently the French, although they claim to have faith in the League of Nations intend to keep their powder dry.

Springling flaked naphthalene freely in the harness room will keep mice out.

The farm inventory should by now be in the farm record book for this year's business.

In addition to being a self-supporting business as it was 50 years ago, agriculture must now be a money-making business.

A small group of farmers of Chilton County have been seeking for several years past to organize a county-wide co-operative marketing association. It remains yet to be seen whether or not they shall be successful. The movement has not recieved the consideration which it deserves at the hands of our business men and bankers.

There were three business men in Clanton in attendance at the farmers meeting at the court house Monday afternoon. It looked bad for an expression of the attitude of Clanton business men upon a question that so vitally concerns our own future prosperity.

Speaking of China, what is the League of Nations doing about it?

One thing that doesn't worry us in the least is what effect the trouble in China may have on the chop suey market.

Remember the good old days when cotton stockings were used for something else than hanging by the fireplace on Christmas eve?

The prosperity and progress of Clanton is going to be measured by the prosperity of people who live on and operate the farms around here. Then why should we people in Clanton show any indifference to the movement seeking to better the conditions of the farmers? We are as vitally concerned as the farmers themselves, but we don't seem to realize it.

An anti-Volstead advocate in Washington declares that a lot of senators wink at drinking. You can't help winking several times after you take a swallow of the stuff they sell nowadays.

The business men, bankers, lawyers, doctors, merchants and everybody in Clanton would be greatly benefitted by a proper co-operative marketing association among our farmers. Recently the farmers have been trying to organize such an association. They need the help of our business leaders; but they have not been getting it.

Everywhere you turn in seeking a solution for our farm troubles in Chilton County, the first thing you meet is the dire need of a County farm demonstration agent.

Occasionally farmers are criticized for riding in automobiles, but the fact remains that a farmer has as much right as any other person to own a car and ride in it.

It costs very little to have running water in a home when a farmer does the installing himself, making it necessary to pay out money for material only.

We have been told that our people ought to be ashamed of themselves for letting the canning factory go dead in Clanton. That is perhaps true. If we had a canning factory in operation here it could be running every day right now operating on the surplus sweet potatoes in this county. A canning factory in Clanton, backed by local business interests, would be a fine thing if we could have the right kind of a method to keep our farmers producing stuff to can at a profit. This is another of the many profitable possibilities which cannot be solved without a county farm demonstration agent.

Organization may improve the quality of farm products and make payment to the producers on a quality basis.

When planting any seed at this season of the year they should be covered very shallow—left almost on top of the ground, in fact. Otherwise you will have a poor stand.

Do not farm all your life on money that is borrowed.

A recent paper in the Southern Ruralist showed that about one-half of the commercial strawberry interests of the United States were located in the South. Few people realize the importance of this fruit, and publications on it are always of interest. A recent one recommends the use of only 1-year plants for setting; it recommends frequent cultivation and the use of fertile land for the crop. This is Bulletin No. 242 from the University of Missouri, at Madison, Mo.

Talk about Big Business—farmers have some of their own! Last season the California Fruit Grower's Exchange marketed 20,000,000 boxes of oranges and lemons for $97,662,552.

PLAYING WITH FIRE

CLANTON LOCAL BILL WILL MEET OPPOSITION

The proposed local bill to be introduced in the legislature of Alabama enlarging the city limits of Clanton, seems to be destined to stir up no little opposition among those whom it will concern, principally with those now outside the city limits, who would be brought into the city area by the new bill.

Some very vociferous talk has been heard on the streets offering extended arguments against the bill. It is evident that the lines proposed in the bill will make citizens of Clanton out of many people who do not want to "live in town" and reside in the country.

It seems to us that it is very reasonable to propose and ask for an enlargement of the area of Clanton. Many things might well be undertaken to advance the interests of the town, which could be done in no other than to make the town include certain property not now within the city. But the question arises as to how far out it is reasonable to make this extention. There is some property adjacent to Clanton that ought to be included in the town for many reasons; and there is other property a little further out which perhaps would be served an injustice by the incorporation in the town area.

As proposed in the new bill the center of the town would be the section and township corner which is under the old Chilton Warehouse where Robinson's planing mill is now located. The area would lie in a square three mile each way, extending a mile and a half north, south, east, and west from the said section and township corner. Some have suggested that it would be more, reasonable to stop at a mile in each direction from the center, making the town into a square two miles wide each way.

Now, of course, in this matter it is like everything else—impossible to please everybody. And every man who attempts to offer any argument for a proper solution is right away charged with some personal or political motive, or alleged to have an axe to grind.

Here's hoping that the angels of fate will guard our destiny and bring out in the end such a solution as will be best for Clanton and best for the majority of the people concerned.

A. B. Manning of Mulberry was in Clanton Monday attending the meeting of farmers at the court house.

SAD BUT TRUE

After God finished making the rattlesnake, the toad and the vampire, He had some very undesirable substance left with which He made the knocker.

A knocker is a two-legged animal with a corkscrew soul, a water-sogged brain, and a combination backbone made of jelly and glue. Where men have their hearts he carries a tumor of decayed principles. When a knocker comes down the street, honest men turn their backs, the angels in Heaven weep, and the devil shuts the door of hell to keep him out.—Boston News Bureau.

The kind of seed planted in the spring has much to do with the yield in the fall, and the wise farmer will get busy now and get good seed if he does not have them already.

A list of bulletins available for those interested in poultry has been sent by G. A. Trollope, extension poultryman at Auburn, to Alabama county agents. The list includes government bulletins, and among them are bulletins covering every phase of the poultry business. They are free.

LINCOLN WAS AGENT OF THE DIVINE PLAN

An eloquent and at the same time unique tribute is paid to the great Emancipator in the February number of the National Republic by Dr. Hubert Work, Secretary of the Interior, in an unusual article entitled "Lincoln—An Agent of the Divine Plan." It is probable that Dr. Work had his inspiration from the beautiful Lincoln Memorial, which is within plain view of his office window in the city of Washington. In conclusion, Secretary Work says of the great War President:

"It may be that we are purposely limited in vision so that we may only measure that which is human. Our minds wander if we attempt to discover the border line of the spirit as they do when we for ourselves approach it. Otherwise we might attribute to Abraham Lincoln a divinity designed as an instrument to meet human needs. Or it may be we are yet so near to him that we cannot see him. Or because the manner of his death, although it broke the heart of a nation, was less tragic than a crucifixion. I do not know. But he did implant beliefs in immortality in the human heart as no other man save that of the lowly Nazarene.

"Perhaps it was his likeness to our human equation, and because of its limitations, that we cannot understand his spiritual relations. That belief which asserts the divinity of Christ to be the one of degree only and that the spirit of God is within us is not without its appeal, and the life of the Great Emancipator would support it.

"The silent figure of a President of the United States, obscured from public gaze by the draperies of a pulpit, seeking courage and inspiration from the prayers of the church when the crisis of a civil war pended, was not far removed from the Master in the garden of Gethsemane.

"Two thousand years from now, when human traits attributed to Abraham Lincoln and regarded as frailities have been forgotten, then the world may see him also as an agent of the divine plan."

L. E. Wilson, farmer, of Newsite community in Coosa County, made 7½ bales of cotton on 5 acres in 1926 by fertilizing and working it as instructed by Sam Day, county agent. On 35 acres he made 33 bales.

MORE MILLIONS for your service

THE continued growth of Alabama will require an estimated expenditure of more than three and a quarter million dollars during 1927 for additions, extensions and replacements to the Bell Telephone System throughout the State.

This is one of the largest telephone construction programs ever undertaken in Alabama during one year, and follows a gross expenditure of more than $4,000,000 last year.

It is now estimated that more than 6,700 new telephones will be added to the Bell System in Alabama this year.

These large additions are a part of our policy of building in advance to keep pace with the anticipated growth and progress of the State

The expansion of the service makes it more valuable to every user and provides the entire State with an unequalled, modern system of quick communication.

NATIONAL AFFAIRS

With the election of 1926 now a matter of history, and almost forgotten history at that, the political astronomers are already beginning to turn their political telescopes toward 1928. The year 1927 promises to be a short one, as "off" years usually are, and within a few months the leaders will begin to sharpen their knives for next year's fray.

Just now the major interest is centered on the Democratic camp. This is not because Democratic prospects are regarded as particularly rosy, but for the reason that there can be little Republican speculation until President Coolidge makes announcement as to his future plans.

In the Democratic camp things are already stirring. Governor Al Smith of New York is an active candidate for the presidency. His boom was launched in the gubernatorial election of 1926 and it has been gaining ever since. And now McAdoo has paid a visit to the enemy's country, and speculation has bubbled up once more as to what this astute politician intends to do next year. The Smith proponents believe that the time is ripe for a "wet" Democratic campaign. They believe that Smith, on a wet platform, would still hold the South because of sectional prejudices, and would carry enough of the big Eastern states to put him over the line a winner. They concede that he is not particularly strong in the far West, but declare that this is natural Republican territory anyhow, and is not necessary for Democratic success. They assert that Smith would carry New York, some of the New England states, New Jersey and Maryland, and that he would have more than a fighting chance in Pennsylvania.

All of this, of course, provokes only smiles from the dry wing of the party, which is generally called the McAdoo faction. But it is to be seen nevertheless that the anti-Smith men are genuinely concerned at the situatiin, and some of them admit privately that Governor Smith has more than an even chance to get the nomination.

The McAdoo men agree with the Smith men in one thing, and that is in the abolition of the rule whereby two-thirds of the delegates are required for a nomination in the Democratic convention. But the agreement stops there. The Smith men want the unit rule aboolished too, so that delegates will not be bound by the majority of the state delegation. They admit that the anti-Smith men would control most of the Southern delegations, but believe that if the delegates could vote, independently, Smith would pick up quite a little strength in the South. The McAdoo men say that the unit rule cannot be abolished by the convention for the reason that a number of Southern States have the unit rule as a part of the primary law.

Such is the situation at this time. The trip of Mr. McAdoo to New York, ostensibly on business, has cheered the hearts of his followers and of the dry Democrats everywhere. Up to this time Governor Smith and his supporters have had things their own way. The anti-Smith men now feel that sentiment will begin to crystalize the other way. Whether McAdoo will consent to have his name used or whether the dry Democrats will have to select another Moses remains to be seen. But they feel at any rate that their 1924 leader has not deserted them and will help in the way that he deems best and most efficient.

Democratic leaders who are concerned more with the success of their party than with the personality of the candidate are again beginning to view the situation with alarm. They fear that events are shaping up to give the Democrats another disastrous convention like the one held in New York in 1924. Another such convention with the resultant gitterness would spell defeat not only in 1928 but perhaps for years to come. These leaders will of course, do all that they can to smooth the path but whether policies can prevail over personalities remains to be seen. There is a movement with its leadership in the U. S. Senate to split the Republican party and effect a fusion with the McAdoo wing of the Democratic party in a third party movement.

Newest Fall Fashion Hint — A Straight Line Street Coat

AMONGST the newest Fall Fashion arrivals worthy of milady's attention is the above coat, designed for street wear. It has straight lines, worked out in a fancy orange and green border fabric on a background of gray. A bit of manish effect is suggested in the shawl collar of natural squirrel, which is notched—making it more genuine in appearance.

Absolutely No Hurry About It

The other day somebody told me a story of a man under sentence of death to whom the jailer came with the word that he might follow any congenial occupation he pleased during the time which would elapse before the fatal date. The prisoner had only to nominate his choice and the facilities for prosecuting it would be provided. Indeed, there was rather a suggestion that if the condemned man had not completed the favored undertaking by that day, there might be a delay in the execution of the law to give him an opportunity to finish it.

The situation having been made clear, the messenger awaited the captive's decision.

"Well, old man," he said finally, "what is it you want to do?"

"I think," said the prisoner, "I'd like to learn Chinese."

The hearing of this story reminds me of another—a blood brother to it—which was current in Tennessee years ago.

One chilly evening in the early part of March the sheriff entered the county jail and, addressing the colored person who occupied the strongest cell, said:

"Gabe, you know that under the law my duty requires me to take you out of here tomorrow and hang you. So I've come to tell you that I want to make your final hours on earth as easy as possible. For your last breakfast you can have anything to eat that you want and as much of it as you want. What do you think you'd like to have?"

The condemned man studied for a minute.

"Mr. Lukins," he said, "I b'lieves I'd lak to have a nice wortermblon."

"But watermelons won't be ripe for four or five months yet," said the sheriff.

"Well, suh," said Gabe, "I kin wait."

VARNIE WYATT BACT AT JOHNSON DRUG COMPANY

Mr. Varnie Wyatt is back again at Johnson Drug Company as manager after an absence of several months. He invites his friends and customers to come to see him. Barney's place on Seventh Street will continue to operate under competent supervision.

Ex-Sheriff Tom Littlejohn is busy as ever. He is now as busy enjoying himself and doing nothing as he used to be in chasing law violators. His chief occupation is fishing. Although rushing the season somewhat early, he reports favorable and encouraging results.

MR. AYERS HERE MONDAY

Mr. A. Ayers, formerly owner and publisher of the Chilton County News was a visitor to Clanton Monday. He is now a man of leisure, but wants to get back into the newspaper game. He has under consideration the purchase of The Enterprise, of West Blocton. Mr. Ayers recently sold The Chilton County News to J. B. Atkinson.

Duncan Manning of Isabella was here Monday attending the meeting of farmers at the court house.

A farm animal without a pasture is almost in a class with a man without a country.

The farmer who has no more live stock than a chicken on the farm should have a permanent pasture.

THE LAST CALL

By setting pecan trees before March, a year's time will be saved. Time is money.

After the "Flu" is over —you need a Tonic

Help Is Needed to Restore Your Wasted Strength and Energy.

"Flu" leaves the body weakened and rundown. In such cases, a tonic is clearly indicated. Restore the appetite and rid yourself of that let-down feeling.

"Flu" is a very enervating disease. It leaves its victims so weak and debilitated that there is as much danger from the after-effects as from the disease itself. In other words, after an attack of the "flu," you need a selective tonic to rebuild the system so that you may have your old-time strength and energy restored.

S.S.S. is unequalled for restoring strength and vitality.

You owe it to yourself and family to give S.S.S. a trial. It helps Nature build up red blood corpuscles. It improves the processes by which the body is nourished. It is time-tried and reliable. S.S.S. is made from the roots of fresh herbs and plants, and is prepared in a scientific way in a modern laboratory.

S.S.S. is sold at all good drug stores in two sizes. The larger size is more economical.

A Short Story About a Skirt

"Bo-Peep has misplaced
And lost her waist,
But she will not trouble to find it;
For her skirt's so low down
That this very smart gown
Has no need of a waistline behind it."

THIS brief flounce we call a skirt is shirred with a heading to the long-waisted frock of printed crêpe de Chine, which is trimmed at the neck with plain silk of harmonizing color in a most interesting manner. It can of course be made in many other materials, such as organdy, gingham and challis, either in solid color or figured.

WIFE-BEATER GIVEN GOOD SPANKING BY CITY JUDGE

Jurist Adopts Drastic Methods When Prison Term Fails to Convert Drunkard

Akron, Ohio, February 1.—Judge E. E. Zesiger of municipal court decided that John Caves, arrested on charges of drunkenness and beating his wife, deserved a sound thranshing—and gave it to him this afternoon.

Visiting Caves' cell at the city jail, Judge Zesiger turned Caves over his knee and spanked him with a rubber hose until he promised to mend his ways. Caves is 41 years old.

"I don't know whether I did the right thing," Judge Zesiger said. "We have tried everything prescribed by law but Caves didn't seem to care. When I saw from his air of nonchalance that he didn't harbor any regret for his action I determined to try a sound spanking, a remedy that has worked wonders in curing bad boys of their 'cussedness' in times of the past."

Too Much "Acid?"

Excess Uric Acid Gives Rise to Many Unpleasant Troubles.

AUTHORITIES agree that an excess of uric acid is primarily due to faulty kidney action. Retention of this toxic material often makes its presence felt by sore, painful joints, a tired, languid feeling and, sometimes, toxic backache and headache. That the kidneys are not functioning right is often shown by scanty or burning passage of secretions. Thousands assist their kidneys at such times by the use of Doan's Pills—a stimulant diuretic. Doan's are recommended by many local people. Ask your neighbor!

Refused Two Chances To Become Henry Ford's Partner!

FROM Sandusky, Ohio, comes the story of a man who twice refused to become a partner of Henry Ford. He is James J. Hinde, the stern-looking gentleman pictured above.

According to the International Newsreel report, it was twenty-five years ago that Ford Wanted Hinde to join him in the auto business. Hinde, at the time a manufacturer of rough wrapping paper in a small way, refused. A few years later, the present auto magnate again sought out Hinde and asked his partnership in the tractor business. Again Hinde refused.

Hinde and some friends tried to develop an auto and, after abandoning it, Ford got ideas from them that he is using in his auto today. It is also said that it was from a tractor that Hinde brought from London to haul logs at his mill, that Ford conceived his plans for the present Fordson tractor.

VERY MUCH ALIVE—

Mr. J. N. Dennis recently received a card from Mr. A. A. Davidson of Selma, which reads as follows:

"Dear Sir:

It seems that some of my friends and customers think that I committed suicide. I wish you would tell them that I am very much alive; it was Mr. R. J. Davidson, a retail grocer, who killed himself. Please notify my friends that cotton is quoted at 12 5-16 for middling today; it may go higher shortly. Yours truly, A. A. Davidson."

W. W. Pockrus of Woodville, in Jackson County, made one litter of 9 purebred Poland-China pigs produce 2,550 pounds of pork in 180 days last year. His production cost was $5.05 per 100, and he sold them for $13.00 per 100.

REV. T. F. HENDON APPOINTED PHROHI LEAGUE SECRETARY

The Alabama Anti-Saloon League desires to announce that they have secured the services of Rev. T. F. Hendon, who has been pastor of the First Baptist Church at Demopolis for the past two years, as Field Secretary. Mr. Hendon will speak on Sunday at regular church services, and will also represent the League at Conferences, Associations, Conventions, and other religious and public gatherings. His particular duty will be the dating of the speakers for regular and special services, and the solicitation of funds to carry forward the work. He will also make addresses and will give special attention to that part of the League program.

Mr. Hendon has had much experience, and comes splendidly recommended by the ministers and officials of his denomination. The League bespeaks for him your cordial, sympathetic, and brotherly consideration. The League is putting on a more intensive educational campaign in order to meet the attacks of the enemy. They will now have three regular speakers in the field each Sunday—Rev. L. C. Branscomb, President; J. Bibb Mills, Superintendent; T. F. Hendon, Field Secretary. During the month of March they have planned 30 addresses by Rev. R. H. Bennett, Field Secretary of the Anti-Saloon League of America for the Southern States. They are also planning to have "Pussyfoot" Johnson, world traveler and prohibition lecturer, to make addresses in Mobile, Birmingham, Bessemer, and Selma. A large mass meeting will be held at Birmingham at the City Auditorium on the afternoon of March 6, at which "Pussyfoot" Johnson will be the principal speaker. There will be other special meetings held by speakers of national prominence from time to time throughout the year, but the real steady educational work will be done by the regular League force. They need the cooperation and help of every Protestant minister in this State. When Mr. Hendon writes you or calls to see you, please help him. More aggressive work must be done, but it can not be quite as successful without your help.

I thank the Christian forces of this State for the splendid spirit of cooperation which they have shown me since I began as State Superintendent. Prohibition must take no backward step, so we must plan wisely, work industriously, and give liberally to carry on this work.—J. Bibb Mills, Superintendent Alabama Anti-Saloon League.

This Spring-like weather puts a touch of vigor into everything.

Marion Cofer went to Siluria Sunday to visit his father, who is quite ill.

W. R. Redding spent the week-end with relatives at Roebuck, Ala.

The death of Major Howison was a shock to this entire section, where he had been known so long, having resided at Randolph nearly 50 years. Major Howison was a man of kindness, humane even to the dumb brute. He would not stoop to little things. He was a friend to the needy. He admired noble principles. Politically he was not a bigot, but was for what was good for the people. Religiously he regarded his creator as a being of justice, mercy and love. Thus he towered far above some creed enthusiasts. He was a man of refinement and fine intelligence. He loved Randolph and surrounding communities. He lived a most active life. The funeral service was held in his home by the M. E. Pastor of Centerville. Dr. Kyser, his nephew, accompanied the corpse to Cincinnati, Ohio, for cremation, then the remains were laid away in Los Angeles, California.

The measles are raging in this part.

Chatman Trott died a few days ago. His death was caused by being burned. He was near Piper during the recent cold weather, and was around a camp fire when his clothing caught. Burial was at Mars Hill.

J. P. Gentry was quite feeble last week. His grand-son, Hanson Headley, of Birmingham is with him.

The well remembered old stone building of W. H. Mahan at Randolph is being torn down. A place where a great volume of business was conducted for many years.

The proposed bill to abolish the commissioners court is not a surprise. Our Republican friends are in favor of economy like the national administration. Our Democratic friends once in a county convention passed a resolution endorsing commissioners instead of a board of revenue. At that time Judge Adams was representing Bibb County and he proposed assistig in getting such a bill through. So a copy of that resolution was furnished him, so we don't know who claims the proposed local bill.

Six Escambia County farmers ordered windmills in two days recently, according to M. A. Barnes, extension agricultural engineer of Auburn. These windmills will produce power for pumping water to put running water into these homes.

Paint will transform an assorted collection of furniture into a harmonious set.

How Can It Be Done? Jemison Gives Answer

Many communities that have poor school buildings now would have better ones if the above question could be answered. I am writing this article in order that this question may be answered for such communities.

Tuesday, in visiting the Jemison school I found around 29 men working on a Vocational building. I thought it would take quite a bit of money to meet the payroll but when the facts were found out, these patrons had come there to give their service and what was perhaps better still, the ladies of the P. T. A. had prepared an excellent dinner for those men, donating their services. Not only was this being done for today, but the same program is planned for tomorrow.

As I watched these people faithfully working on what is to be their Vocational Shop Building and thinking of the struggle they have had in erecting the main school building, I wished that other communities who are faced with the building problem just now could see the work going on. When this building is completed about $25,000 will have been spent in this community for buildings and equipment during the past four years and it is through such cooperation as is now manifested that the project has been and is being put over.

It would be unfair not to mention the fact that on this building were men at work from surrounding communities who are patronizing the Jemison school. Nothing has done more to bring the people of the immediate community and surrounding communities together with a common purpose. Mr. C. C. Conway, Chairman of the Building Committee, was as happy, if not more so, than any other man at work on the building. He was made so because of the splendid co-operation he is receiving from the people and make it known to me that he greatly appreciated such splendid co-operation.

After taking some pictures of the new building together with the carpenters, P. T. A. members and members of the faculty, Mr. Montgomery, Vocational teacher in the school, informed me that he wanted me to go to Thorsby with him and his class. I went down and watched him cull Mr. Jim Pate's hens. He had his class demonstrating to them the art of picking out the hens that would lay from those that would not. Before leaving I found that some of the boys had already gotten some idea how it was done and was getting hold of the birds first and after passing their own judgment were passing them on to him for his opinion. I was surprised to find how often these young men were right.

We have two such schools in Chilton County for white boys at this time and one for negroes. The Isabella school for some time has been doing just such work. In the latter school I feel that the greatest good has been done in getting the farmers to grow vetch, and many other worthwhile things have been accomplished. Mr. Thomas, the Isabella vocational teacher and Mr. Montgomery both, are men who are not afraid of work and many times are after dark getting in home. If we had a County agent to work with these men there is no question about us being able to put the County on the map agriculturially. I know there are some people in the County who do not agree with me that we need an agent but I believe it is due largely to the fact that they do not understand the matter. They think of a county agent altogether in terms of production while that is only a part of his work.

It seems to me we need him more for marketing purposes than perhaps anything else. We must get together in a co-operative way to market as well as to produce the products of Chilton County or the farmers will always be pressed in a financial way. That which is being done in other counties can be done here if we but go about it in the right way.—Buford Lawrence, County Supt. of Education.

"Split" Is Easy For This 450 Pound Hercules

DESPITE his 450 pounds of bulk—G. H. Rowley, a westerner, is more limber and active than many men weighing only a third as much as he does. That's because he keeps in training. He's learned how to handle himself through daily sessions of shadow boxing, jumping rope, running broad jump, etc. In the photo above, he's shown "doing the split!" Not one in a hundred normal-sized men can do that. How about it?

MULBERRY - ISABELLA

A play, "Welcome Home Jimmy" will be presented at the Isabella school house on Friday evening, February 11. This is a splendid play, with well chosen characters. Miss Lillie Burkes is directing the play.

Marvin Durbin had the misfortune of getting his arm broken just above the wrist, while cranking a car at the school house here last Friday night. He was rushed to Dr. Parnell at Maplesville for medical aid.

Mr. Homer Caroll, from Liberty preached at Mulberry Sunday. He delivered a fine sermon. Quite a few people from the Liberty Hill community attended the services.

Mrs. W. J. Morris and son, Clyde, of Liberty Hill, visited her sister, Mrs. D. O. Manning, last Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Harvie Wilson and his mother, Mrs. Wilson, of Selma visited Mr. and Mrs. O. O. Calfee on last Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Griffin had as their guests last Sunday, Mr. and Mrs. Farr of Marbury, and Rev. and Mrs. Buford Lawrence and children of Clanton.

Mr. and Mrs. H. R. Oden and family visited Mr. Oden's father, Mr. W. M. Oden, of near Maplesville, recently.

Mr. Thomas LeCroy, who is attending the Alabama Polytechnic Institute at Auburn, spent the past week-end with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. T. L. LeCroy.

The P. T. A. entertainment held at Isabella school last Friday night was quite a success. The proceeds will be used to pay on the piano recently purchased for the school. A sum of $35.00 was netted.

VISIT CLANTON FRIENDS

Last Friday afternoon Rev. and Mrs. G. B. Golden and sons came up to Clanton to visit friends in Clanton and surrounding communities. Rev. Golden will always be remembered as the pastor of Clanton Circuit, Methodist Protestant Church, 1923-1927. They have many friends here who were glad to have them back. On Sunday afternoon at 3:30 o'clock Rev. Golden preached an inspiring sermon to a large congregation at Walnut Creek church. On Monday morning they returned to their home in Troy.

We wish for them much success in their new field, and hope to have them with us often.

SEVEN MONTHS RURAL SCHOOLS

The morning paper Tuesday carried the announcement that Governor Bibb Graves had signed the $600,000 emergency appropriation bill. This makes possible a seven months term in every rural school. I am sure the people of the county will rejoice to hear this.

Most of the people of the county have already heard about the longer school term and I feel that this accounts in a very large way for the splendid spirit of the school people at this time. Nearly all the schools are doing better work now than in some time past, if ever before. We trust that this same co-operation will continue to be manifested and if the people will work with the School Board, we can soon work out a system of schools that will be a credit to the county, but without that cooperaion we cannot do anything.

Pilgrim's Rest school has recently remodeled their building and I find they have more pupils and are doing better work than I have ever known in this school before. Miss Lila Fuller is the teacher. Just such instances as this and the Rocky Mount school are to be found here and there all over the county. Of course there are places where there is not much improvement over last year and maybe some places where it is not as good as it was. But this is the exception. —Buford Lawrence.

CONCORD CHURCH

The Fifth Sunday Meeting of the Eastern Division of the Unity Baptist Association was called to order at 10 o'clock, and after a song, and the devotional service conducted by Rev. M. J. Parrish, proceeded to organize by electing J. Z. Mims chairman for the day, and he appointing J. M. Parrish Secretary.

After the organization the program was taken up in order and the speakers assigned very ably discussed their subjects, excepting Rev. L. G. Payne, who, on account of previous arrangements and sickness in his family, could not be with us. Dr. S. J. Ezell readily responded to an invitation of the chairman to speak on the subject assigned Bro. Payne, and he, as usual, in a very able and concise wanner, spoke briefly on the subject: "Financing Kingdom Interests—How Do It?"

The 11 o'clock hour was occupied by Dr. D. F. Green of Montgomery, Secretary of the State Board. Dr. Green made an able address on the general workings and present needs of the Baptists of Alabama.

At noon a very bounteous and beautiful spread under the tall pines on the church yard was, needless to say, greatly enjoyed by all present. There was plenty to eat, and more than was eaten to spare.

At 1:30 the program was taken up and dispensed with as published. We had some very able and inspiring addresses in the afternoon by the ones assigned on the program.

Among the many enjoyable treats of the day was the glad surprise of having several of the Chilton County Association pastors and workers with us, they not holding a Fifth Sunday Meeting this time. This is inviting them to meet with us again.

With all the good things that were said and done, and all the good things eaten, we were made to feel sad and sorrowful because some of the churches were not represented at the meeting. They will never know here what they missed by not being with us, for we feel that God was with us and blessed, and will continue to bless what was done and said. We hope and insist that each church in the Association will begin now, if necessary, to make arrangements to have representatives at the Fifth Sunday Meeting in May. We insist that the pastors cooperate with us and strive to have their churches send delegates to the Fifth Sunday Meetings.

After unanimously adopting the following resolution, presented by Brethren G. F. Harris and R. L. Duffey, the meeting adjourned to meet again the Fifth Sunday in May.

Resolution

Be it Resolved, That, we, the representatives from the various churches of the Unity Baptist Association, East of Swift Creek, in this, a Fifth Sunday Meeting assembled, extend to Concord Baptist Church and community our sincere thanks for their splendid hospitality shown us while in their midst, and especially to the good women for the bountiful repast during the lunch hour. We wish further to express our thanks to the visiting pastors and workers from other Associations, and Dr. D. F. Green, from the State Department.—J. M. Parrish, Secretary.

Dr. GRAGG IN AUTOMOBILE ACCIDENT MONDAY

Dr. V. J. Gragg had an automobile accident near Montevallo Monday in which his Buick car was heavily damaged. Happily, the doctor recieved only a few very minor scratches.

The version which is given of the accidnet states that Gragg's car was meeting a Ford driven by a Negro. The Negro supposedly not giving proper attention to driving his car headed straight into Gragg's car. When Gragg saw that the car was going to hit him he pulled to the left and the Negro ran into the right side of Gragg's car at full speed.

Both cars were heavily damaged. The Ford was almost completely demolished. Occupants of the Ford were painfully hurt. Dr. Gragg's car had to be towed to Clanton.

Men's overalls and jumper, special for next Saturday only, $1.85 per suit.—Chicago Sales Company, Clanton.

My Favorite Stories

By IRVIN S. COBB

Combating the Yellow Peril

Every time the government takes a census this story is revived, which means it enjoys a rejuvenated popularity at intervals of exactly ten years. When I catch myself laughing at it, I know that another decade has slipped by me unawares.

The story has to do with the enumerator who called at a humble home in the outskirts of Cincinnati, and there found the head of the family humped up over a large volume. It developed, in the course of the conversation, that the householder some months before had been induced by a traveling agent to invest in an encyclopedia, and that to get the worth of his money he had been reading the books of the set pretty constantly ever since. He was now full of facts, statistics and data.

In reply to the caller's questions he gave his name and age and his wife's name and age.

"How many infant children have you?" asked the census taker.

"I've got three," said the citizen. "And that's all there ever will be, too, you take it from me."

"What makes you so positive about that?" asked the visitor.

"I'll tell you why there won't never be but three," said the man. "It's wrote down in this here book that every fourth child born in the world is Chinese."

Wildcat Still Destroyed By Officers Saturday

Some time last week Sheriff Collins located a big fine 75-gallon copper still in Stumps Hills, east of Minooka. He figured that it would be ready to make a run about Saturday. Accordingly, on Saturday the Sheriff in company with Deputy Murrah and Federal officers Burns and Newton, went to the place and lay in waiting nearly all day. Early in the morning a man came to the still and brought a barrel and a sack of meal. They thought business was fixing to pick up, but the man stole away without doing anything.

Upon closer examination the officers found that the beer which they had expected to be run off Saturday had been run Friday. They continued to watch the place until about three o'clock, when they destroyed the outfit and returned to town.

Sie Foshee Will Go To Prattville

Mr. Sie Foshee, well known and popular Chevrolet salesman, has given up his position with Polk Brothers Motor Company, and accepted a like position with the Moncrief Motor Company, Chevrolet dealers, at Prattville.

No more popular salesman has ever come along than Sie Foshee. He has been in the business ever since he completed his long enlistment in the army at the close of the World War. His many friends will regret that he is to leave Clanton. But Prattville is not far away, and it is more than likely that he will be coming back here often.

Prominent Oklahoma Citizen Here

A pleasant and interesting caller at The Union-Banner office last Tuesday was Dr. G. W. Wright, of Vinita, Oklahoma. Dr. Wright is in Chilton County on account of the illness of his mother, Mrs. Drucilla Wright, who is sick with flu at the home of her daughter, Mrs. D. L. Ward, at Thorsby.

Dr. Wright never lived in this county, but up until 1890 he resided at Rockford, Coosa County. Dr. Wright is an old boy-hood acquaintance of C. Fenn Jones and Warren D. Spigener, having known them while they lived together in Coosa County. He also fondly remembers Messrs. J. W. E. and F. A. Gulledge. While here Dr. Wright looked up all his old friends around here and renewed acquaintance with them.

We were glad to have this distinguished gentleman call around to see us, and were glad to learn of him that his mother is improving from the recent attack of influenza.

That's The Date Of It! Friday, March 4th

That is scheduled to be the big night in Clanton. The Clanton Dramatic Club is earnestly at work on this big comedy hit, and it is assured you will enjoy every minute of the play. It is due to be the funniest play ever put on in Clanton. That is, it furnishes more laughs than any play ever put on or shown in Chilton County.

It is guaranteed that you will come away laughing and will laugh for weeks afterward every time you happen to think of the comic situations that arise in this great comedy. It is a sure cure for the blues.

The cast is made up of the best comedy talent that the Dramatic Club has. You know from past experience that the Dramatic Club has talent and can put on a high class performance.

Why go elsewhere when you can see just as good if not better shows right here at home? The Clanton Dramatic Club is striving for bigger and better things. Every play put on by them has gone over big, and the last one is always just a little better than the one before it. And remember, too, "His Uncle's Niece" is the very latest, the season's hit. Don't miss it!

Remember the date, March 4, at 8 o'clock p. m., at the Chilton County High School Auditorium. Be there with a friend.

Plans To Tell The World About The Great Possibilities of Chilton County

If plans under way are carried out, the advantages and attractions of Clanton and Chilton County will attain national advertising and publicity. A special Chilton County edition of the Alabama Sportsman, the monthly publication of the Alabama Wild Life Conservation League, is in preparation and will have a wide circulation throughout the northern and eastern States.

According to H. J. Bruner, representative of The Sportsman, this edition will contain, in addition to a survey of the hunting and fishing attractions of the County, a number of other articles written by local men and women on agriculture and other subjects.

"The object of these special editions is to tell the world about Alabama and its countless advantages," said Mr. Bruner. "Certainly we can not expect people in the North and East to be interested in our State unless we tell them something about it. Through the medium of these special editions a complete and well-illustrated story will be told and the editions will be distributed through information bureaus, railroad ticket offices, clubs, etc., throughout the North."

"A number of copies of the special Chilton County edition will be made available to local citizens and we hope that each one will mail at least one copy to some friend or relative to give them some idea of the agricultural and other advantages of this county," Mr. Bruner added.

While the special edition circulation of approximately 10,000 copies will go to the northern and eastern states with the message of Chilton County, Mr. Bruner stated that the local circulation should not be overlooked. The membership of the League and the circulation list of the Sportsman reads like a "Who's Who" of the business and social life of Alabama and adjoining states.

Chilton County has numberless advantages. Some of us who live here are prone to ignore them. And telling the story of our County in words and pictures will help us to "sell" our own citizens on the fact that Chilton County is the best place in which to live and work and play in the entire United States.

The Chilton County edition of the Sportsman will contain thirty-two pages of illustrated stories. An attractive cover in two colors, with a fishing scene on the Coosa River, will add to its utility as an advertising and publicity medium. The edition will appear in March.

The Sportsman is edited by Garrard Harris, well known editor and sportsman of Birmingham, and is owned by the Alabama Wild Life conservation League which organization is devoted to the cause of conservation, sport, and the wise use without waste of our natural resources.

Moore Has Bought Out Hayes Drug Co. Stock

Mr. Glenn W. Moore, who has been with the Jesse French & Sons Piano Co., in their Clanton store for the past two years, has bought out the bankrupt stock of the Hayes Drug Company. He expects to continue to operate the business at the same location, together with his music store which will be moved there some time soon.

Mr. Moore has made good with his business operations since coming to Clanton, and we are glad that he has seen fit to make a connection that will bring him to our town permanently. He still lives in Montgomery, but states that he will move to Clanton later in the year.

The opening of the store will be announced just as soon as Mr. Moore can go over his stock and put everything in shape to do business.

Seven Months Schools Now Assured

County superintendent of education Buford Lawrence informs us that the seven months school term for all the rural schools in the state is now assured, according to a recent ruling of the supreme court.

The act authorizing the appropriation of the money necessary to carry out the full seven months term was passed in the legislature some weeks ago. After the passage of the act the attorney general gave out an opinion that the appropriation under the act would be unconstitutional. Whereupon Governor Bibb Graves asked the supreme court for an opinion, and the court declared the appropriation to be constitutional.

MULBERRY - ISABELLA

Mr. Farr, from Marbury, will sing at the Isabella schoolhouse Friday night, and we invite everybody to come and hear him. It is not every day you have the opportunity to hear such fine singers, and you will not have this opportunity again soon, as his time will be taken up from now on. He goes from one broadcasting station to another and sings for the radio fans. Admission will be 10c and 15c.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank McCain and Mrs. Mollie Casey, with Miss Sarah Casey of Birmingham, visited Mr. and Mrs. A. J. LeCroy Saturday and Sunday.

Annual Rabbit Hunt On Tuesday, February 22

We will meet at the Ben Robinson place, about a mile south of Mineral Springs, at about 7:30 or 8 o'clock, and we want as many hounds as it is possible to get, and we would appreciate it if the crowd would wait at the above named place until the offices of the Association get there, as we have the grounds for the entire day's hunt well located.

Let's everybody, young and old, be extremely careful about fire, and not let any old sage fields or other places get on fire, as we would likely burn some fences or out-houses.

Bring your lunch and come along on Tuesday, February 22.—J. P. Crumpton, President; H. M. Simpson, Secretary.

RABBIT HUNT NEAR MINERAL SPRINGS FEBRUARY 22

Major Hugh M. Simpson has issued his regular annual proclamation calling for the assembly of all the rabbit hunters in Chilton County on Tuesday, February 22. The place of meeting this year is the Ben Robinson place, one mile east of Mineral Springs.

An invitation is extended to everybody to come, leave your guns at home and bring your dogs. Mr. Simpson urges that everyone participating in the hunt be careful and not set the woods on fire.

The hunt will start about 8 o'clock in the morning. All attendants are urged to assemble at the aforesaid meeting place and stay there until everybody comes, and the officers say go.

It is hoped that everybody in Chilton County who enjoys chasing rabbits will attend. This event has always proven to be more fun than a barrel of monkeys.

FREEMAN SCHOOLHOUSE

Editor Union-Banner:

Everything moving along nicely around here, except we have several cases of measles.

We want to say through the paper that we will have another big rabbit hunt on the 22nd of this month; we will meet at Freeman Schoolhouse, and start from there. We would like for everybody to come who can do so. Come and bring your dogs and lunch—but no guns. Rabbits are getting mighty thick around here, and they damage our crops every year. So don't forget the date, come on, and let's thin 'em out.—C. W. Langston.

Wallace C. Edler of Thorsby was among the business visitors to Clanton Tuesday.

TWO NEGROES FINED IN MAYOR'S COURT MONDAY

White Woman In Jail For Being Drunk

Mrs. Gertrude McKnight Trott, a young white woman, age 17 years, was placed in jail Sunday by Sheriff Collins, on a charge of public drunkennes. She lives in the northwest part of the county, where the arrest was made upon warrant and complaint. She states that her husband is now serving an 18-year penitentiary sentence in Tennessee for stealing a car and marrying another woman. The case of the young woman is in the Juvenile Court of Chilton County.

New Johnson Motors Are Now Offered

"Get into the Boat and see for Yourself." The Johnson Motor Company of South Bend, Ind., has come out with one brand new Johnson motor, and the other three which they have already had on the market have been changed up completely, the company coming out February 1st with a brand new line of four separate and distinct outboard motors.

The Big Twin is an 8-horse-power motor capable of making a speed of from 2 to 27 miles per hour. It weighs 85 pounds and retails for $210.00. The Standard Twin is the new motor just placed on the market. It is 4-horse-power, and will make up to 20 miles per hour. It weighs 55 pounds and sells for $165.00. Substantial improvements have been made on the Light Twin. It will now make up to 13 miles per hour, due to some changes in the motor proper, and the substitution of the 3-blade propellor for the old 2-blade type. A different cooling system is now used on the light twin. It weighs 37 pounds and sells for the usual price of $140.00. The Light single, weight 26 pounds, ranges in speed from 1 to 7 miles per hour and sells for $115.00.

The Union-Banner has the agency in Chilton County for the Johnson Motor, and takes pleasure in making this announcement to the public. We will be glad to have anyone come around and let us tell you more about the best outboard rowboat motor in the world.

Olen Crumpton Arrested For Making Moonshine

Olen Crumpton, a young white man who gives his age as 17 years, was caught at a still in the northwest part of the county near Randolph Tuesday. The outfit was fired up and ready to operaae. The men at the still got alarmed by something and ran to get away. Crumpton ran into Federal Officer Gillespie, who took charge of him.

Crumpton was brought to jail. In preliminary trial Tuesday afternoon he plead guilty and was placed under $1,000 bond to await action of the Circuit Court.

Officers engaged in the raid were Sheriff Dudley Collins of Chilton County and deputies Will Culp and George Murrah; Sheriff Snyder of Coosa County; and Federal Officers Gillespie and Roberts.

1,434 Poll Taxes Paid Here This Year

Mr. Dewey Rockett of the Tax Collector's office reports that 1,434 poll taxes were paid in Chilton County prior to the second day of February. According to Mr. Rockett, this number is something like 400 short of the number who paid last year. This shortage is accounted for by the fact that there are no important elections this year, and therefore no candidates to go about and insist that people pay poll taxes in order to vote.

Arrested For Cruelty

Minuel Williams, negro, was arrested this week on complaint of Joe Gray, charging him with cruelty to animals.

Louie Pruitt In Jail

Louie Pruitt, white man, is confined in the Chilton County jail on a charge of desertion and non-support of his wife and two children. We understand that he was under bond to pay a certain amount of alimony from a decision formerly made by the courts in his case; but that he failed to pay the amount stipulated and his bondsmen went to Cedartown, Georgia, and brought him back here, delivering him into the hands of Sheriff Collins.

HERBERT ODOM IN TOWN

CUT 1927 COTTON ACREAGE SAYS EXTENSION DIRECTOR

There should be a decrease in the total cotton acreage to restore a balance to our farming system, according to D. W. Watkins, assistant extension director, Clemson College, S. C., who discussed the "Cutting of the Cotton Acreage" in the Radio Short Course over WSB, the Atlanta Journal radio station. This two weeks course for farmers of the Southeast was conducted by the Sears-Roebuck Agricultural Foundation in cooperation with the Soil Improvemest Committee of the Sears-Roebuck Agricultural Foundation.

"Not only should there be a decrease in 1927, but in future years," said Mr. Watkins, "but whent it comes to saying who is to do the reducing, we find that there are several different classes and conditions of farmers wich which to deal. There are the farmers, all too few, who own their land, farm intelligently, and while they are set back in years like 1926, manage to keep their heads above water and costinue their independent, self-supporting way. This class already produces 80% to 90% of their living on the farm. They do much of their own work and utilize labor saving machinery. They will not have to reduce as much as others.

"It is the duty of the landowners and others responsible for financing agriculture to bring about a different tenant system. Tenants should be led and required to give more attention to producing a living for themselves, and to soil and farm improvement. This will automatically reduce their cotton acreage and will be beneficial to themselves and landowners.

"The light is at last beginning to dawn on all of us in the Southeast that we must be more self-contained and less dependent on one source of income. The Southern farmer must learn to have his fields covered with a green crop every winter. Our mild, open winters permit of the loss of more soil fertility than is removed by crops. Northern soils are frozen and not subject to this loss. All these things have a direct bearing on the acreage in cotton in the Southeast. The grower who follows these policies can contin to grow cotton, and after providing for a self-sustaining system of diversification, may in 4 out of 5 years produce cotton at a profit."

FORESTRY SERVICE ONE OF THE BEST IN THE STATE

The field employees of the State Commission of Forestry averaged almost 9½ hours work each day during the calendar year 1926, and between 4 and 5 days out of 10 found it necessary to spend the night in the outlying parts of their districts away from their headquarters, according to the summary of their daily service just completed at the offices of the commission.

Many inquiries are received as to the character of the duties and methods of work of the local forestry agents. If the service of the forestry workers could be compared with that of any other public department, it would be found to resemble in its general purpose and methods of procedure those of the Department of Health more than any other. The latter department strives by means of educational work directed through the schools, civic organizations, and all other available channels, to further the physical welfare of the individual and community. In carrying out this purpose a great variety of methods are used such as lectures, moving picture films, special signs and notices, personal contacts, demonstrations, and direct assistance within the scope of available facilities.

The forestry workers are joint employees of the State and Federal Governments. The objects and methods of their work may be regarded as analagous to those of the Department of Health. Instead of the physical welfare of the citizens, however, the chief purpose of public forestry is their economic welfare. This is contributed to effectively through the proper use and development of the 22,000,000 acres of Alabama land that is being used for no higher purposes than the production of forest values. The protection and management of woodlands correspond roughly to sanitation and hygiene as advanced by public health agencies.

The means of extending information of value to the citizens in developing the forest resources of the commonwealth are substantially the same methods as are used in public health work. The local representatives of the forest policy of the State and Federal Governments are chosen primarily on the basis of suitability for active participation in carrying on such informational and public relations activities. These include the distribution of popular and scientific printed material regarding trees and forets, addresses before schools and business and civic organizations, moving picture films on forestry subjects, lectures illustrated with lantern slides, gathering statistical material, special articles for the local press, routing of travelling libraries of forestry books among the rural schools, posting of suitably designed signs and notices, personal interviews with individuals, field demonstrations of forestry methods, distribution of forest planting stock, and, as far as possible, active personal assistance in protecting woodlands against damage from insects, fire and disease.

The specialized character of the work in forestry precludes the possibility of the local representative carrying responsibilities in behalf of the other interests or agencies during the time that he is in active service. His forestry work requires his entire time during such periods. In fact, the requirements of the work to be performed are usually best met by men who to a considerable extent sacrifice personal interests in order to render public service from a sense of civic duty.

CHEVROLET COMPANY OPENS THREE NEW ZONE OFFICES

Reflecting increased sales activity under the 1927 sales program, the Chevrolet Motor Company has just announced the opening of three new zone sales offices, located at Columbia, S. C.; Salt Lake City, Utah; and Richmond, Va.; making a total of 37 zone sales offices now operating.

Possibilities of increased sales of Chevrolet automobiles in the territory embraced in the new zones are such that it was vitally necessary to create new zone headquarters, with adequately increased staffs, to handle the business, according to C. E. Dawson, assistant general sales manager of the Chevrolet Motor Company.

The new zone offices will supervise more closely the activities of field forces and Chevrolet dealers. Offices will be supervised by zone sales managers, with a nassistant and the necessary clerical force to maintain proper records. The opening of the new offices is in line with the Chevrolet Motor Company's policy of concentrating more closely on districts in which past sales indicate a rapidly growing market.

Why Not Enjoy Life?

New Orleans, La.—"For one year I could not stand on my feet five minutes nor do any kind of work. I suffered with sick stomach, headache, backache and pains in my sides. I went to several doctors and the only thing they could see was an operation, but I could not make up my mind to have it. My sister told me of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. I felt better with the first bottle, so I kept on taking it. I only weighed 89 pounds when I started and now I weigh 141. I don't know what it is to have a pain or a cramp any more."—Mrs. Pauline Daniel, 3136 Constance St. Fluid or tablets. Any dealer.

Somehow, in some manner, before the end, Uncle Sam is going to be blamed by Europe for all the trouble in China.

Red leaders in Moscow declare that Uncle Sam is preparing to seize Latin-America. So that explains why they are working so feverishly down there—they want to beat us to it.

While they declare that he hasn't any chance for the Democratic nomination for President, Al Smith's followers would prefer that McAdoo not make any more speeches, anyway.

Farmer failures follow forest fires.

Shade stops summer sweating and windbreaks warm winter winds.

The cow, sow, and hen program is a mighty safe program in combination with cotton.

J. W. Pate, county agent, is urging Lamar County farmers to "grow your hay and save your cotton money."

A total of 3,765,048 passenger cars and 494,377 motor trucks were produced in the United States in 1926. For 1925, production figures were 3,696,490 cars, and 478,396 trucks.

An agronomist of the Ohio State University estimates that farmers of that State are allowing $23,000,000 worth of fertilizer to leave their barnyards annually in drainage water. He said that this is an average of $100 per farm.

For the current season, L. C. LeBron, agricultural engineer, at Auburn, says that the last carload of pyrotol has been ordered for local distribution. Carload orders can be placed as long as the supply held by the government is not exhausted. He asks farmers to place orders immediately.

It is unwise to reduce the amount of fertilizer applied per acre to cotton, but it is wise to reduce the number of acres planted in cotton.

AMERICANS WORTH DEFENDING

"Why send American gunboats to defend American missionaries in China?" someone inquires "Let them get out. They have no business there."

It has been the policy of this government to defend the lives and property of its citizens from the earliest days of the republic. This is the policy of every civilized government. That protection extends to the American who is engaged in altruistic effort as well as those who are boring for oil or selling machinery.

American missionary effort has resulted in the construction in China of hospitals and schools aggregating $20,000,000 in value. Through these institutions the Chinese have had their first introduction to modern methods of surgery and medical treatment and to organized athletic activities. These are as much worth defending as warehouses or mills.

French newspapers accuse the American Y. M. C. A. of putting into the heads of the Chinese the aspiration for nationalism. Young men educated in the schools of the Y. M. C. A. in China have indeed been prominent in the struggle for the establishment of national rights in China, and have opposed the injustices wreaked for years upon China by the European powers. The first President of the Chinese republic declared that he gained his inspiration to public service from a study of the life of George Washington.

European leadership perhaps cannot understand the conduct of a nation which has gone into China to help rather than to rob the Chinese. Among our most blatant accusers are the officials, agents, and sympathizers of Soviet Russia. But Soviet Russia holds by military force a railway line running 1,100 miles over Chinese soil. It governs Manchuria, Chinese territory, as if it were a Russian province. Vladivostok stands on soil stolen from China. No one has noticed Soviet Russia proposing to restore these stolen goods while it shouts "imperialism" at the United States—the government which prevented the partition of China after the Boxer rebellion, thwarted the Versailles plan to tear Shantung from China, and initiated the Washington conference, which but for the delay of France in accepting the program laid down would probably have restored order in China long ago. Reproach from French newspapers therefore comes with ill grace.

One of the most competent surgeons in the United States, capable of earning $50,000 a year in private practice, has just returned to China after a leave at home employed in recovering from a tropical disease, to complete the construction in China of a modern hospital, in the service of which he will give the rest of his life at a salary representing no more than his living expenses. Such a man and such an institution are as worthy of defense by the American government as any steel mill or bank. It is a sordid sort of Americanism that could believe otherwise.

TEACH CHILDREN SANCTITY OF LIFE

School children inspection of fire hazards is credited with saving Kansas City $1,000,000 in needless fires within the past five years. The children are trained in the schools to note and to eliminate fire risks; and they are encouraged to make their city safe from fire by pointing out or abating these proven hazards.

Every needless fire is that much wanton destruction of the life work of those who built the property, whatever it is. From this standpoint, every fire is a public calamity, even a crime. To teach the children to abate fires is to teach them the sanctity of life.

LAWMAKING AND TAXATION

The lawmakers are in session, both state and national. Their time will be taken up considering thousands of new bills. The majority of laws proposed will further restrict individual liberty and at the same time make citizens pay, through taxes, for the limitations placed upon them.

It is safe to say that 99% of the measures up for consideration were not asked for by the people, are not needed by the people, and are not wanted by the people. Some individual or organization decides the people should be assisted, uplifted, or restricted—the result is a new law proposed under which the proponents of the measure can see some advantage to themselves, either financial, political, or honorary. The bill for passing all new laws and later enforcing them, is sent to the taxpayers.

No living lawyer can keep track of new legislation. A citizen can hardly pass a day without unintentionally breaking a law. Police departments can not begin to enforce the laws and ordinances. If they did, the courts would be swamped so that most of the offenders would not live long enough to come up for trial.

The result is that we are a nation of lawbreakers. And why do we all break the law? In most cases, because we are not aware of it. Obsolete laws should be removed from the statute books, and thus eliminate the cost of "trying" to enforce them.

The taxation question starts and ends with lawmaking. If anyone has any doubt about this, let him read measures proposed in his state or the nation, and then check up the expense attached to the "new law."

RECOGNIZE GOD

Pity the man who says he has only himself to thank for the good things he enjoys! He has health—yes, because he has taken care of himself. He has a home—yes, because he saved his money and bought it. He has bread—yes, because he earned it. He needs to learn that:

Back of the loaf is the snowy flour;
And back of the flour the mill;
And back of the mill is the wheat and the shower,
And the sun and the Father's will.

"WE WANT AL SMITH"

In the pandemonium known as the national Democratic Convention in New York two years ago, the mob stampeded the delegations, crying: "We want Al Smith." A list of those now clamoring for Al Smith under the same banner, as the Presidential nominee in 1928, includes:

The Pope of Rome.

The Devil in Hades.

The Cardinals and other "princes of the blood" of the Roman Catholic Hierarchy.

Mussolini and everybody else who hates Masonry, patriotic orders, the Ku Klux Klan, Junior Order of American Mechanics, etc.

All the red-nosed, cotton-spitting, booze-gurgling whiskey soaks.

All the anti-American aliens in New York, Chicago, and elsewhere.

The Knights of Columbus.

The Fascists.

Clarence Darrow's crowd.

The double-girted brewers and beer guzzlers.

The distillers.

The bootleggers and hi-jackers.

The red-light district crowd.

The atheists.

The enemies of the public schools.

Those political pie-chasers who put party power before patriotism, and license before liberty.

The political idiots.

And all others of like breed.

Do you wish your name enrolled among the list? Do you desire to trail with such a gang?—The Yellow Jacket.

NATIONAL AFFAIRS

We may be very unpopular in Europe just now but there are several reasons why Europe is not going to do much about it. Two of these reasons are the Atlantic and Pacific oceans for which we may yet have abundant occasion to thank Providence. Another reason can be found in the recent report of the United States census bureau which estimates that on July 1, 1927, the beginning of the next fiscal year, the continental United States will have a population of 118,628,000.

Very few of us realize the significance of these figures. They embrace the world's greatest organization of a homogeneous people of modern efficiency. There may be more Chinese in China, more Indians in India, and a few more million Rusrians in Russia, but nobody will seriously maintain that any of the groups above compare with the American group in point of continuity organization and effectiveness. The nearest group of organized Europeans, in point of number, is in Germany, and the Germans, aside from the fact that they are a nation disarmed, form a group with only half the population of the United States.

It is therefore evident that any foreign power or organization of powers is going to do a lot of careful calculating before it attacks the United States, especially at home. Of course there are other ways of attack than those which are accomplished with warships, guns and gas bombs. One of these ways is the one which has been adopted by Soviet Russia, that of attempting to undermine the foundation by boring from within. And then there is the economic weapon, which is used in trade war.

It is a matter of amazement to a great many Americans that we are so unpopular in Europe, especially in those countries at whose side we fought in the great World War. The best explanation perhaps is that Europeans are human just as we are. Just now we are in the role of the prosperous citizen, and Europe is playing the unsatisfactory part of the poor neighbor.

Europeans declare that they were impoverished by the war and that we were enriched by it. The assertion can be disproved by examining the figures and the present geography of the earth; but even aside from this, Europe seems to forget that the war started over there. We didn't start it and were not responsible for it. All we did was to finish it.

Our professional internationalists are making a great deal just now over our unpopularity in Europe. Their only remedy is the suggestion that we change our entire foreign policy, cancel the European debts, join the League of Nations and reduce our tariff so that Europe can sell her surplus production over here. Most Americans, regardless of politics, are not in favor of this program. They even doubt whether at this late date such a change would be regarded as anything but a surrender to European public opinion. It might win us contempt instead of affection. Surely such a program would ruin us economically and put us on a financial level with Europe. Perhaps the internationalists feel that Europe would then have an affection for us again, on the theory that misery loves company.

It is to be doubted whether European dislike of America is as deep-seated and abiding as some of our internationalists make out. Granting that it is, then our only course is not abject surrender to hostile sentiment, but a firm policy of upholding American rights, a policy which must eventually win the respect of the rest of the world if nothing else. And don't forget that we have several things to be thankful for—our economic independence, our two oceans and more than 118,000,000 enlightened citizens with a real American tradition behind them.

A THOUGHT WORTH OUR WHILE

Joss Moates, of New Cedron, one of Chilton County's leading farmers, came to Clanton Monday to have his mules shod. While here his mules needed water and he had to take them up to Dr. Marcus's residence to water them.

Question: Why can't, or don't, or won't the Town of Clanton or the people of Clanton provide a public place where stock can be watered?

We often hear it remarked that there are so few mule or horse teams seen on the streets of Clanton. It is no wonder. A man who lives twenty miles from town is not going to start out here with his mules when he knows he will have to drive them all the way and back without water. The creeks and branches have all been bridged, so the horses can't drink from the ford. And there is little chance to get water for stock in Clanton.

This is another one of many things that Clanton should do to make the town more popular and convenient for the people who come here to do business.

We can get mighty hot up over politics, and move heaven and earth for "our party;" but not one cent for civic or community development.

Oliver King of Lock 12 was in Clanton Monday.

W. H. Robinson of Beat 16 was a visitor to Clanton Monday. He expects to take up a job at Lock 18 some time next week.

PANAMA AND THE LEAGUE

The signing of a military treaty by the Republic of Panama with the United States, is declared to be incompatible with Panama's membership in the League of Nations, by no less authority than the London Times.

Possibly true, but if true, there are plenty of precedents. Hardly a day goes by but that some European country does something which is "incompatible" with its membership in the League. If you don't believe this ask Mussolini; he knows. As a matter of fact, the League is being converted into a filing place for such little misunderstanding as the big powers desire to be filed away under the caption of "unfinished business." Certainly even The Times will not maintain that the League has acted on any question in which it would feel called on to decide against any of the first class powers of the world.

The fact that European newspapers are calling our treaty with Panama, made to protect a vital national interest, "incompatible" with the spirit of the League, again emphasizing how wise was the course of the United States Senate in keeping Uncle Sam out of the League.

A CODE FOR "GROWN-UP" PARENTS

Prof. Ernest R. Groves has drawn up a code of action for parents who have grown up. "Science," he says, "has its morality, and it is prepared to draw up for parents a code of conduct that will square the parents' influence with the child's needs. For example:

"Don't show off your child. It is not the duty of the child to feed on a parent's vanity, but the parent's task to forget self-pride in dealing with his child.

"Don't hurry your child. Adulthood is not a station toward which the child should be rushed, but a product of growth, and the growing process is the important thing. You can't mold children; they have to grow.

"Don't use your child as a means of ridding yourself of emotions that you dare not express to equals.

"Don't expect commands to function in place of fellowship. Children can be led but not driven, in these days.

"Don't lie to your child or permit anyone else to do so. Your real opinions and beliefs may be far enough from the child's later judgment, but your deceit will be hopelessly distant. Sentiment easily leads to false statements.

"Don't use fear as a whip. Fear can only succeed by making slaves, and slaves, even when obedient, are poor substitutes for human beings.

"Don't stress the weakness of your child. He may take seriously what you point out to him and develop feelings of inferiority, or he may glue his attention on your own weaknesses and lose respect for you as a harping hypocrite.

"Don't tell your child he cannot reason. He can and will if you have the wit to help him.

"Don't lat your home crowd out your child; put the child first and adjust home life to his needs.

"Don't be a tyrant to your child even if you have power. Children are helpless and longsuffering, and usually generous in their judgment of parents. Nevertheless, a parent who drives his child from sheer love of dominance runs risk of soon losing the child's love. The child will sometime be free, but the parent lonely.

"The gist of it all is—Don't be emotionally childish, if you desire manly and womanly children."

RADIO FARM SCHOOLMASTER GIVES SOUTH REAL LESSON

George C. Biggar, secretary of the Atlanta branch of Sears-Roebuck Agricultural Foundation, who was radio's schoolmaster in the radio Farm Short Course broadcast through the Foundation in co-operation with the Soil Improvement Committee of the National Fertilizer Association over WSB, Atlanta, January 3 to 14.

Teaching the X. Y. Z.'s of farming to the Southeast is the job of George C. Biggar, Secretary of the Sears-Roebuck Agricultural Foundation, Atlanta, Ga., who planned and carried through the first radio short course for farm folk ever held in the Southeast territory, through which he has become known as radio's schoolmaster for Southeastern farmers.

Cooperating with the Foundation was the Soil Improvement Committee of the National Fertilizer Association. Daily classes for 1,500 farmers living in 15 different states were broadcast from WSB, the Atlanta Journal Station, the radio voice of the Foundation from January 3 to 14.

"It isn't the A. B. C.'s of farming that planters of the Southeast need to know," explains Mr. Biggar. "It is the X. Y. Z.'s—the fine points of planning, planting, harvesting, and selling, that make the difference between an annual profit from the home farm, and the annual worry of wondering whether you are even going to come out even."

Mr. Biggar was for several years associated with the Illinois Agricultural Association. Joining the staff of the Sears-Roebuck Agricultural Foundation, he became the "Inquisitive Broadcaster," who answered the farm queries from WLS, the Foundation radio station in Chicago, organized the Radio Farmer's Democracy, and helped establish the schedule of market broadcasts from that station, said to be the most complete radio market service in the world. Before becoming the radio schoolmaster of the Southeast, Mr. Biggar performed a similar service for the Foundation at Dallas, Texas, the Southwestern division.

Gulf Refining Company Building Large New Distributing Plant In South Clanton

The Gulf Refining Company, one of the largest distributors of gasoline and motor fuels in this country, is at present constructing in South Clanton a new and modern plant for the more efficient distribution of its products to this trade territory. Recently this company has acquired three-quarters of an acre of space between the L. & N. Railroad and the Birmingham-Montgomery Highway just below the old railroad crossing a mile south of the Clanton depot where its machinery and equipment and buildings are being installed.

Four huge tanks have been erected. The capacity of these for storage is twenty thousand gallons each. Three will be used for gasoline and one for kerosene. Space for other tanks is provided when the need for more storage may arise.

A large warehouse 40 x 60 feet is being erected for the storage of barrels of oil and miscellaneous items. In the warehouse is a neat little office compartment which will be occupied by Mr. Arthur Willis, the manager for the Gulf people in this territory. The office will be provided with telephone service, both local and long distance.

Gasoline is received at the plant on railroad tank cars which are set out on the spot by means of a railway switch constructed for that purpose. An electric pumping machine conveys the gasoline from the railroad tank cars to the big storage tanks. Other pipe lines connect the storage tanks with the warehouse where automatic machinery is provided for drawing the gasoline from the storage tanks for filling barrels and truck tanks.

Three trucks are used in the distribution of Gulf products in this territory. They are driven by Mr. Arthur Willis, the local manager, J. E. Gore, and Manly Atchison. The territory served from the Clanton storage plant embraces upwards of fifty garages, filling stations, and retail establishments extending north as far as Varnon above Calera, south to Marbury, west to Maplesville, Billingsley and Pletcher, and east to Coosa River.

The construction of the new plant is in charge of Mr. J. E. Easter, a special service man with the Gulf Refining Co. He expects to complete the job in ten days. Painting of the buildings is being done by Tam Miller and Andrew Jones. Concrete work is being done by Ed Edwards.

The total investment of the Gulf Refining Company in the new plant will be above ten thousand dollars, we understand. Mr. Arthur Willis, the manager, is very inthusiastic about the project. He declares that he is going to be able to give his customers the best service they have ever had from anybody here in gasoline distribution.

Mr. Willis has his plans all made to beautify the grounds by the planting of grass and shrubbery, so as to make it not only an ideal place to transact his business, but a thing of beauty as well.

CHILTON BOY WINS HONORS AT BIRMINGHAM-SOUTHERN

Paul Dansby, Verbena, one of the Chilton County students at Birmingham-Southern, won the distinction this week of having his name published on the honor list for the first semester just closed, making A or B on all his subjects. Dansby is a member of the senior class and will be graduated the last of May. Due to the high standards of the college only 84 were included in the honor group out of more than 1,000 students.

Establishment by the students of Birmingham-Southern College of an open forum for free discussion of campus and other problems is announced by officers of the student senate, supported by heads of other college organizations. The forum meetings, to be held every week, will be characterized by absolute freedom of speech. "Shall We Scrap Our Honor System?" is the first question to be threshed out by the college parliamentarians, at the initial forum session Thursday night, February 10. Student leaders regard setting up of the forum as one of the greatest marks of progress in campus affairs at Birmingham-Southern.

"Faith must still be the resource and refuge of the scientist, as well as the religionist, in facing the question of the hereafter or immortality," declared Dr. W. G. Harrison, eminent Birmingham physician, in an address before the faculty club of the college this week. Dr. Harrison, who is a graduate of the University of Maryland, and has studied abroad, traced the development of the idea of immortality, and asserted his belief that religious faith proves its worthiness by its fruits. "Science has never proved God or immortality, but it will never disprove God or immortality," the speaker said.

Scenes from their experiences on shipboard on the European tour last summer featured the home concerts of the Birmingham-Southern glee club at Jefferson Theatre the week just closed. The glee club, directed by O. Gordon Erickson, had previously made three transcontinental tours in the United States.

Borrowed Plumage

About once in so often I hear one which has the double merit of being good and being true. I personally vouch for the authenticity of the offering which follows:

I know a Kentucky lawyer, a brilliant man, who outgrew the small town where he was reared and where he began the practice of his profession. An offer came to him to go to Chicago and become the attorney for a big lumber concern. He went, taking his family with him.

Always he had lived comfortably but in a simple fashion as was befitting his original environment. But he felt the position he now occupied called for more display than formerly. So he rented a large house and installed a staff of servants, including a colored butler. On his first day of service the butler came to his new master for instructions.

"Mister Blank," he asked in his most butlerfied manner, "does you desire me to wear my full dress suit ever' night at dinner?"

"Well, no," said the Kentuckian, "on nights when we have company I'd like for you to lend it to me."

Sauce for the Goose

An East Sider of foreign birth and short term of residence in this country prospered to the extent where he graduated from the ranks of the Forsythe street sidewalk merchants and became a regular business man, with a store and showcases and everything. Also, for the first time in his life he was able to start a bank account.

One day he was engaged on the telephone by the assistant cashier of the bank where he kept his checking fund.

"Mr. Abrams" stated the cashier, "I called you up to tell you that on the first day of this month your account appears overdrawn $108."

"So?" droned Mr. Abrams. "Say, young man, would you do it for me a favor?"

"Sure."

"Then, please, you should look at your books and tell me how stood the account on the foist day of last month."

In a minute or two the bank functionary was back at the 'phone.

"Oh, Mr. Abrams," he said, "on the first day of last month you had a balance to your credit of $322.25."

"So!" shouted Mr. Abrams. "Und did I call you up?"

LIKES COLLINS FOR SHERIFF

We notice in The Union-Banner that Sheriff Collins is having great success tearing up stills, and pouring out liquor and beer, but we are not surprised, for Mr. Collins is a man who loves peace, the uplift of the right, and downfall of the wrong. If the good people of the county will help in every way possible, I feel that when Mr. Collins' time is out, we will have a clean county. May the Lord bless every effort put forth in betterment of the country. I don't think the people of the county made any mistake, and will ever regret electing Mr. Collins; and I think he chose wisely in selecting deputies.—H. F. McCary.

Fashion Is Never Depleted of Plaits

WHEN you have written the last thank-you note and have made up a little of the sleep you lost at holiday parties, you will once again have time to look over your wardrobe. And if you are like most of us you will feel the need of a fresh frock, one that will enliven Winter days and be smart all Spring. Such is the gown seen above, which is modish and gay in a light shade trimmed in harmonizing color, or more sedately stylish in black, dark blue or green with dashing bands of gold, bright blue, rust color or beige. The plaited cuffs and semiplaited skirt are very new, and becoming to the tallish woman.

Pimples, Boils, Skin Eruptions

Skilled physicians recognize the appearance of pimples, boils and other skin eruptions as being an indication of an abnormal condition of the system. This is why so many thousands have been enabled to free themselves of these unsightly blemishes and painful annoyances by taking a course of S.S.S. You owe it to yourself to try S. S. S. It helps Nature build up red corpuscles. It improves the processes by which the blood is nourished. It is time-tried and reliable.

"I suffered from impure blood—was weak, and I had lost so much weight, I didn't look natural. I had pimples and was also bothered with a breaking-out that itched terribly. I also had boils one after another. I tried different kinds of remedies, but nothing did me any good until a friend advised me to take S. S. S., which I did. This was some time ago. Now I feel well, and I am getting along fine. S. S. S. stopped the itching and it cured me of boils. I advise all weak and run-down people to give S. S. S. a trial. It clears up the skin and makes you strong and fills you with energy." Mrs. J. W. Barker, 1337 Walnut Street, Cincinnati, Ohio.

Children Go To School Too Early

We would appreciate it very much if parents would not allow their children to go to school so early. When the pupils arrive too early, they are a matter of serious inconvenience and are also likely to be hurt when no one is responsible. School opens at 8:20, and it is not necessary for pupils to arrive much earlier than that time. We would greatly appreciate your cooperation.—Faculty of Clanton Public School.

THE kidneys are the blood filters. If they fail to function properly there is apt to be a retention of toxic poisons in the blood. A dull, languid feeling and, sometimes, toxic backaches, headaches, and dizziness are symptoms of this condition. Further evidence of improper kidney function is often found in burning or scanty passage of secretions. HISTORIC LONG-HORN CATTLE PRESERVED BY GOVERNMENT

That the long-horned, or Spanish breed of cattle, once so numerous in the Southwest, may be preserved from complete extinction, the Forest Service, United States Department of Agriculture, will maintain a herd on the Wichita National Forest in Oklahoma, according to an announcement made recently by Col. W. B. Greeley, chief forester. The agricultural appropriation bill signed by President Coolidge on January 17, carries an item for their purchase and maintenance.

"The department has for several years urged the necessity for a small herd of these picturesque examples of early pioneer life of the Southwest for the benefit and education of future generations interested in pioneer history," said Col. Greeley.

The Wichita National Forest lies right in the heart of the range of the old Southern herds of plains buffalo, and is a part of the region formerly known as the Indian Territory, where now live more than 50,000 Indians.

Here also grazed some of the pioneer herds of these long-horned cattle when the livestock industry of the Southwest was in its infancy.

There are still a few living members of this once numerous breed of cattle to be found in Texas. The herd for the Government will be selected by expert cattlemen familiar with the characteristics of the cattle and of the Southwestern ranges. They will be grazed in a pasture immediately adjoining the one occupied by the herd of buffalo now established on the forest.

"TOPSY TURVY"

"Topsy Turvy, or the Courtship of the Deacon," a fine play with lots of fun, will be given at Concord school house on Friday night, February 18, at 7:30 p. m. Special music by Dixie String Band. Admission 15c and 25c. Everybody come and see something worth while.—Leo C. Langston.

A FOUR ACT PLAY

Mrs. W. J. Moates, Stage Director.
Time—Sunday, February 6.
Place—Home of W. J. Moates.
Reason—77th birthday of Mr. Jay Rawlinson, and 50th birthday of W. J. Moates.

Scene 1—Mr. and Mrs. Jay Rawlinson, Dr. and Mrs. T. J. Marcus, Louise Marcus, Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Marcus, C. E. Marcus, Jr., Mr. and Mrs. E. J. Moates, Miss Lucille Moates and "Old Man" W. J., himself, enter dining room. (The dining table is covered with chicken, dressing, salads, cakes, puddings, jams—oh, that's too long a story).

Scene 2 (two hours later)—All hands stretch; loosen belt buckles; exit to front porch.

Scene 3—Dr. Marcus speaking: "Don't this spring weather make you sleepy?" Mrs. Rawlinson: "What everybody needs is exercise." Mrs. C. E. Marcus: "Let's everybody go down to the creek and see the beaver dam." Mrs. E. J. Moates: "Sure, let's go." Scene shifts to beaver dam. After leaving cars at bridge everybody walks about half a mile down the creek and marvel at the craftiness of these little animals, who have made two perfect dams across Little Mulberry Creek. Everybody returns to First Scene and it is partly re-enacted, but the enthusiasm of the actors has died to some extent.

Scene 4—Everybody says: "Mrs. Moates, we have had a mighty good time, and we hope Mr. Rawlinson and Mr. Moates have many, many more birthdays, and that we will be invited to the celebrations. Everybody goes home. The end.

DUFFEY WANTS RABBIT HUNT

Raymond Duffey of Mt. Creek was in Clanton Monday. He was making inquiry about the annual convention of Chilton County Rabbit Hunters which has been held heretofore every year on February 22. Duff says he wants it again this year, and requests Dr. Crumpton, president, and Hugh Simpson, Secretary, to make full announcement of plans for the hunt this month.

WINTER LEGUMES GOOD IN ALABAMA

With weather conditions generally favorable, winter legume crops are making a splendid showing in Alabama, according to reports received from county agents and observations made on the Experiment Station at Auburn. Most reports say that "these crops are as fine or finer than we have ever seen at this season."

Heading the list of winter legumes in Alabama is hairy vetch, which has become very popular during the last few years. More of this winter legume is planted than of all others combined; but others are now making a splendid showing in comparison with it.

One of the most promising of the newer winter legumes is monantha vetch. On the Experiment Station at Auburn it is leading all others and it is reported to be making a good showing in tests throughout the State. To give it a uniform trial, the Alabama Farm Bureau Federation last fall bought a carload of monantha vetch seed direct from a grower in California, and each county was allotted a few hundred pounds.

If the monantha variety makes the showing it is now promising, it is most certain to replace a large portion of hairy vetch. Experiments at Auburn have shown that while monantha vetch does not make as big growth as hairy vetch, it makes all that is needed. It is also earlier and can be depended upon for reproducing seed in this section, which is a big advantage over hairy vetch.

The Austrian winter pea is also making a good showing. In other states it is considered one of the very best winter legumes, and it promises to become popular in Alabama.

ELECTRIC POWER INCREASES PROSPERITY

In no country in the world are business executives spending as much of their time, energy, and money in perfecting their plants and industries to actually give the people the highest type of service, as are our own industrial leaders.

Commenting on the progress which the electric industry has made, Frank L. Dame, President of the North American Company, says:

"There is no agency at present in existence other than electric power which can be made the better means of furthering prosperity, of furthering production, of increasing wages, and shortening the hours of labor. Electric power has brought us to where we are now. If we are to continue or even maintain this commanding position, electric power must be used to do it, and in ever-increasing amounts."

Foreign nations have realized more clearly than we have that our industrial supremacy, high wages, short hours, and large home consumption result from the unlimited use of mechanical power. The very life of our nation today depends upon electricity and the executives of electric companies have undoubtedly adopted a policy which recognizes the fact that good electric service and reasonable rates are conditions precedent to fair earnings by their companies.

Mr. Dame has pointed out the revolutionary changes which electricity constantly has to meet. That it has met these changes, improved its service and supplied a constantly increasing demand is evidenced by its universal use in this nation.

The farmer who fails to get good seed for planting this spring will regret his negligence next fall.

RUPTURE EXPERT AT MONTGOMERY

The Seeley Co.'s expert, of Chicago, will personally be at the Whitley Hotel and will remain in Montgomery Friday only, February 18. Mr. Seeley says:

"The Spermatic Shield will not only retain any case of rupture perfectly, but contracts the opening in 10 days on the average case. Being a vast advancement over all former methods—exemplifying instantaneous effects immediately appreciable and withstanding any strain or position no matter the size or location. Large or difficult cases, or incisional ruptures (following operations) specially solicited. This treatment received the only award in England and in Spain, producing results without surgery, injections, medical treatments, or prescriptions.

CAUTION—All cases should be cautioned against the use of any elastic or web truss with understraps, as same rest where the lump is and not where the opening is, producing complications necessitating surgical operations. Mr. Seeley has documents from the United States Government, Washington, D. C., for inspection. Our expert will be glad to demonstrate without charge or fit you if desired. Business demands prevent stopping at any other place in this section.

Gilliland, Harrison Hayes, Dave Melton, Z. L. Lowery, W. G. Culp and Kermit Lowery. Closing song by the chairman; dismissed by Dave Melton.

A Real Booster For Old Chilton County

Mr. K. W. Underwood, of Montgomery, was a visitor to Clanton Tuesday. A brief interview with him gave us the conclusion that he is about the best booster for Chilton County that we have struck in a long time. Recently Mr. Underwood became interested in the future of Chilton County as a playground, and bought a large tract of land known as Mt. Manning on Coosa River below Mitchell Dam. His plans are for the development of a pleasure resort of his property. "Chilton County is the heart of Alabama," said he, "and all it needs to bring about a great plunge forward into unheard of development is the right kind of boosting and advertisement. If the people of the north knew of the advantages and conditions of Chilton County, they would make a mad rush to get here and locate."

Continuing his comments upon the various advantages of Chilton County Mr. Underwood said: "I studied agriculture at the University of Kentucky and spent several years in the world-famous Blue Grass region; and I think I know dirt when I see it. My judgment is that Chilton County has as good soils and farming possibilites as can be found anywhere. Everything taken into consideration it is undoubtedly the best future prospect in Alabama for a place to live and work and play."

Mr. Underwood is laying plans to bring this section to the attention of the outside world. He has already had some prospects from Tennessee down here to look over the situation, and he will bring others along from time to time.

Concluding the interview, Mr. Underwood said: "My advice to the people of Chilton County is to forget politics, join hands and holler hurrah for Chilton County; the proper spirit of get-together and push among the folks here at home means many dollars in their pockets later on."

The Union-Banner welcomes Mr. Underwood to Chilton County. He will come here to live if he can make satisfactory disposal of his city property in Montgomery. When just a few like this man get here with us and begin to stir up the dust, we are going to see things happen in a mighty big hurry. Some of us old moss backs are going to wake up one of these mornings and be surprised at what has happened in our midst overnight. Hurrah for Chilton County, "the heart of Alabama."

ALBERT TOWNSEND FINED —NOT ALBERT RUCKER

Through an error in our information last week it was stated in The Union-Banner that Albert Rucker was fined in the mayor's court for stealing pine at the court house. It should have been Albert Townsend instead of Albert Rucker. The name was given to us in error by a police officer.

The Union-Banner regrets this mistake. Albert Rucker is one of the old and respected colored people of Clanton, and we regret that this injustice was done him, though unintentionally, by connecting his name in an incident with which he had no connection or knowledge.

GENEVA FARMERS HOLD SALE OF HOGS

Hartford, Ala., Feb. 5.—Eight carloads of hogs were sold and shipped from here Thursday of this week. There were over 800 hogs, and some of them were the largest shipped this season. They netted the growers $13,400, stated O. E. Hightower, cashier of the First National Bank, and manager of the cooperative sales.

This makes a total of 75 cars this season that have been shipped from this point. The price was 9 1-2 cents. Mr. Boutwell was the buyer. Besides these large shipments, many farmers slaughtered for home consumption during the past two weeks and placed in cold storage for keeping.

SAWMILL BURNED SATURDAY

The sawmill of Burns Goodgame, located at old Salem on Cargyle creek was destroyed by fire last Saturday about noon. The mill was not in operation. Reports say that some passerby noticed that the mill was burning and went and tore the lumber track in two and thus saved the large yard of lumber from conflagration. It is reported that no insurance was carried on the mill.

PITTS WILL BE IN OFFICE AFTER THIS WEEK

Hon. Percy M. Pitts, representative of Chilton County in the legislature of Alabama, was at home the past week end. Mr. Pitts stated that the legislature will adjourn for the long recess the last of this week, after which he will return home and be in his law offices every day.

LUTHER FOSHEE WITH POLK BROTHERS

Polk Brothers Motor Company announces the addition of Mr. Luther Foshee to their sales force to look after sales of "The Most Beautiful Chevrolet in Chevrolet History." Mr. Foshee is a splendid young man and has had a broad experience in the business which he has taken up with the local distributors of Chevrolet cars.

FARMERS' BULLETINS

Any of the following farmers' bulletins may be obtained by writing to Prof. L. N. Duncan, Auburn, Ala.:

No. 53—"Care and Management of the Sow and Litter."
No. 56—"Curing Pork on the Farm."
No. 61—"Mexican Bean Beetle Control."
No. 72—"Suggestions for Fattening Pigs in a Dry Lot."
No. 74—"Recipes."
No. 79—"The Alabama Home Orchard."
No. 80—"Farm Waterworks and Sewerage System."
No. 85—"Home Canning of Fruits and Vegetables."
No. 89—"Economic Production—one of the Main Problems of Alabama Agriculture."
No. 93—"Feeding Dairy Cows."
No. 94—"Terracing in Alabama."
No. 98—"The Alabama Home Orchard."

If one of the above bulletins were ordered and mastered per month by any farmer in Chilton County during 1927, it would be worth a year's schooling and do much toward solving the problem of money crops to take the place of all cotton.—J. N. Dennis.

Sportsman's Magazine Special Feature Issue

Work of preparing the special Chilton County edition of The Alabama Sportsman, outdoor asd development magazine of the Alabama Wild Life Conservation League, is rapidly being completed. Stories of hunting and fishing along our lakes and rivers, informative articles on our highways, statistical data concerning the wonderful agricultural and industrial possibilities, are being written and illustrated, which, when set in type and attractively printed, will be distributed throughout the North and East to broadcast the charms and advantages of Chilton County.

There will be special articles descriptive of Clanton, Thorsby, Jemison, Verbena, and other towns and sections of the county. The finished magazine will be a veritable encyclopedia of the advantages and the resources of Chilton County.

"In addition to the magazine's circulation of nearly 5,000 in the South, a similar number of copies will be distributed throughout the northern and eastern states," said H. J. Bruner, representative of the League, in discussing the special edition. "But the best results for the county and its citizens will accrue from the citizens themselves mailing at least one copy to some friend or relative in some less favored locality."

"In other states whole communities have been built by one or two early settlers urging their relatives and friends to join them; and Chilton County has advantages which can not be denied."

"Florida and California have advertised their resources and advantages into the minds of people everywhere. Today the South is being advertised as never before. The citizens of the North and East will now be told of the advantages and possibilities of Chilton County and Alabama."

The Chilton County edition will appear in April well in advance of the summer vacation period when thousands of tourists and vacationists will start on their annual treck to "see America first.' The fact that railroad offices and auto clubs and other information bureaus will have copies of the magazine for distribution can not help but interest a large number of these people and make them want to see more of this favored county.

BIRMINGHAM PEOPLE WANT OUR MILK AND CREAM

We call the attention of our farm readers to what is being printed in The Union-Banner this week relative to the markets and opportunities for production of milk and cream. Particular attention is directed to the the fact that Birmingham creameries are wanting all the milk and cream we can produce. The Southern Butter Company of Birmingham is running an advertisement in which they offer 51c and 54c per pound for butter fat.

There is now being shipped from here about 18 cans of cream per day. It ought to be ten times that much.

INTERESTING DISPLAY OF SILK MAKING PROCESSES

The Robinson Bargain Store, retail distributors of the famous Belding Brothers Silks in Clanton, have this week a very interesting window display showing the different processes of silk manufacture and production, illustrating every stage from the laying of the eggs by the silk worm to the finished product by the most complicated weaving machinery.

Mrs. W. C. Robinson, proprietor of the store, invites her friends to visit her store and see this interesting exhibit, and inspect her recent instalments of the fine Belding Silks.

Friday, March 4th

That is scheduled to be the big night in Clanton. The Clanton Dramatic Club is earnestly at work on this big comedy hit, and it is assured you will enjoy every minute of the play. It is due to be the funniest play ever put on in Clanton. That is, it furnishes more laughs than any play ever put on or shown in Chilton County.

It is guaranteed that you will come away laughing and will laugh for weeks afterward every time you happen to think of the comic situations that arise in this great comedy. It is a sure cure for the blues.

The cast is made up of the best comedy talent that the Dramatic Club has. You know from past experience that the Dramatic Club has talent and can put on a high class performance.

Why go elsewhere when you can see just as good if not better shows right here at home? The Clanton Dramatic Club is striving for bigger and better things. Every play put on by them has gone over big, and the last one is always just a little better than the one before it. And remember, too, "His Uncle's Niece" is the very latest, the season's hit. Don't miss it!

Remember the date, March 4, at 8 o'clock p. m., at the Chilton County High School Auditorium. Be there with a friend.

Big Still Captured Last Week In Coosa

A delegation of officers invaded the wilds of Coosa County last Wednesday and captured a big 100-gallon copper still in operation and arrested Governor Hilyer and Archie Hamilton, who had charge of the outfit. After destroying the still the two captives were carried to Rockford by Sheriff Snyder of Coosa County, and Federal Officer Gillespie.

The still was found on Hatchett Creek above the old Barrett place. The officers who engaged in the raid were Sheriff Dudley Collins and Deputy George Murrah, Federal officers Gillespie and Roberts, Deputy Sheriff Gay of Crenshaw County, and Sheriff Snyder of Coosa County.

Governor Hilyer, one of the men arrested at the still, is a former Chilton County resident. He went from Coopers to Coosa some time ago.

NEW MEMBERS ON COURT OF COMMISSIONERS MONDAY

Messrs. Tommie A. Maddox and John P. Bean, two new members of the Commissioners Court of Chilton County were here Monday to take up their official duties with the court. They took their oath of office January 17, and this week was the first meeting of the court since they were installed as members.

Mr. Maddox succeeds Mr. J. M. Mims, and Mr. Bean succeeds Mr. Thos. J. Dorminey. The entire board of commissioners as now constituted is as follows: A. P. Vinson, J. L. Burnett, J. P. Bean, and T. A. Maddox.

WINTER DROUGHT INCREASES FIRE HAZARD

Montgomery, Ala., Feb. 16.—A winter drought such as the State is now experiencing comprises an exceedingly hazardous period for the forestry interests of Alabama citizens according to the State Commission of forestry. This is not only because vegetation is veyy dry at this time, but also because for one purpose or another more fires are set.

During the colder months of the year people whose business takes them into the woods frequently build little fires for warmth during pauses in their work. Usually there are extinguished before leaving, but sometimes a fire thought to be out may be fanned into flames by the wind and start spreading. In all cases it is a good plan to cover the fire with earth firmly packed down before leaving. Usually enough mineral soil can be scraped over the fire with the foot, and it requires but a very few minutes to make it safe.

Extensive burns may also result from the failure of turpentine operators to confine their clearing fires to the areas actually being worked for naval stores. A safe and simple precaution in this connection is to rake a fairly wide strip and burn from the outside inward, preferably against the wind. A few men with rakes to clear the strip and with pine tops to whip out such fire as may blow over can soon safeguard completely the turpentine woods from outside fire, and at the same time prevent their own fire from spreading over additional territory. This process costs extremely little, and does a great deal to protect valuable property and retain the good will of the community residents toward the industry.

Another cause of destructive burning is the mistaken belief, still prevalent in some quarters, that setting fire to the rough makes better grazing for stock. It has been found that actual checking that the amount of green grass growing through the winter and early spring under the shelter of the old growth is considerably greater than exists on the clean burns where all the green grass is visible. Furthermore, weighing tests of live stock grazed on the two classes of winter and spring range show conclusively that cattle and sheep gain more weight on the rough areas than upon the clean burns. This is due not only to the amount of forage on protected lands but also to the quality, the tender grasses which are killed out by fire being better for grazing purposes than the tough and wiry species that ultimately become the sole survivors of frequent burnings.

DRAINAGE LAW RE-ENACTED BY LEGISLATURE

The legislature of Alabama has passed another state drainage law, and we hope this time it is so constructed as to stand every test of constitutionality.

The Clanton district should be intensely interested in the drainage subject. It is a subject of very vital concern to our city's expansion and future progress.

Under the former drainage law we once had a movement organized and about ready to proceed with the business of ditching and draining our swamps. But it was killed by the decision that declared the drainage act unconstitutional.

Let us get busy now and put the machinery in motion again. We can put it through easily and it would be the greatest step ever taken for the improvement of this community.

CHILTON HIGH BASKET BALL TEAM HAS GOOD RECORD

Chilton evened the count for the season with Tallassee Friday night, trimming the Millers 22 to 6; Tallassee defeated Chilton at Tallassee in the early part of the season. This gives Chilton High 12 victories out of 13 starts. The team from Tallassee Friday night had the local lads outclassed as to size, but they just couldn't cover the court as well. Tallassee got very few close shots at the basket—Chilton's defense is perfect. At the half Chilton was leading 14 to 2. Chilton scoring honors were divided pretty evenly, as the Chilton team plays as a unit, nobody tries to star, and this excellent team-play results in goals thick and fast. We have never seen a more perfect offense than Chilton exhibited Friday night. The boys know their stuff all right; somebody always happens to be at the right place at the right time, and everybody seems to know that he will be there, and above all, the whole outfit is fast, and works like clock-work.

This season Chilton has won the following games: Jemison Independents (1), Marbury High (2), Jemison High (2), Barnes High (2), Equality High (1), Massey Business College (1), and Tallassee (1); with the one defeat by Tallassee.

Gore is the same cool, accomplished field general in basket ball that he was in football, a high scorer, and excellent at passing the ball. Foshee, the lanky center, taps 'em where he wants 'em over most any center he faces; he is good on both offense and defense, and death on close shots. "Pete" Sanford's speed comes in as handy in basket ball as in football, and at his guard position his man is always covered. R. Connatser, "Little Connie," although small, makes himself felt with the best of them, and usually has about as many points to his credit as anybody. A. Connatser, "Big Connie," is deception personified; he always plays the ball just where it isn't expected, and when his opponents think they have everything covered and begin rushing him, he just anchors a heel in the ground and proceeds to worry his chaser down with a funny sort of spin that leaves the opponent thinking he has decided not to pass at all, then he gets his goal.

In the 13 games played up to the present, Chilton has shown her offensive strength best, probably, in points scored. Total points scored are: Chilton—492; opponents—205.

All in all, Chilton has one of the best, if not the best basket ball teams ever placed in the running. Coach Bruner expects to have his boys entered in the Cotton States Tournament, and anybody who has seen them in action will tell you that they have more than a fighting chance at the championship. Here's hoping, anyway.

People will back a good team; at the first of the basket ball season hardly anybody attended the games, but lately, ticket sales have been heavy. Of course, study, books, etc., are the main objects in school work, but good athletics advertises a school better than anything else, and—"It pays to advertise."

Annual Rabbit Hunt On Tuesday, February 22

We will meet at the Ben Robinson place, about a mile south of Mineral Springs, at about 7:30 or 8 o'clock, and we want as many hounds as it is possible to get, and we would appreciate it if the crowd would wait at the above named place until the officers of the Association get there, as we have the grounds for the entire day's hunt well located.

Let's everybody, old and young, be extremely careful about fire, and not let any old sage fields or other places get on fire, as we would likely burn some fences or out-houses.

Bring your lunch and come along next Tuesday, February 22.—J. P. Crumpton, President; H. M. Simpson, Secretary.

ANOTHER RABBIT HUNT AT JIM MITCHELL'S

Some of the citizens of Maple Springs community wish to announce through the Banner that a group of men and boys will meet at the home of Jim Mitchell, near Maple Springs church, early Tuesday morning, February 22nd, for the purpose of hunting rabbits. The rules of the county organization will prevail, namely, carry no guns but plenty of dogs. It is expected that all of the south-central part of the county meet with this group for the annual rabbit hunt.

REFUGE ANNUAL RABBIT HUNT

Editor Union-Banner:

We are going to meet at E. L. Mims's. Let us all have a nice time. Leave your guns at home and come and bring your dogs. Meet us at the home of E. L. Mims, near Refuge on Route 5.

LUTHER MADDOX AND FAMILY IN AUTOMOBILE WRECK

Mr. Luther Maddox and his family were the victims of a rather serious automobile accident last Sunday afternoon while returning to their home in Birmingham after a week end visit with Mr. Maddox's parents in North Clanton.

It was said that Mr. Maddox had stopped his car, a Ford sedan, on the edge of the highway about a mile north of Jemison and that a car reported to have been driven by Wilbert Duke from Jemison, which was going in the same direction as Mr. Maddox's car, in attempting to run around another car also going in the same direction, ran into the back of Mr. Maddox's car. Both machines were badly wrecked.

The little four year old daughter of Mr. Maddox was in the rear seat of his car and when the cars hit her left leg was caught between the front and rear seats which were jammed together by the impact. Her leg was fractured above the ankle.

A passing motorist picked up Mr. Maddox and his family and returned them to his father's home, where the little girl received medical attention.

Aside from a severe shaking up, none of the other participants were reported to have been injured.

CURB MARKETS ARE PAYING IN ALABAMA

Auburn, Ala., Feb. 15.—The curb market plan of selling miscellaneous farm and home products direct to consumers is growing in volume and increasing in popularity in Alabama, according to reports received at Auburn from the county home demonstration agents. For some time these markets have been operating in Tuscaloosa, Gadsden, Selma, Anniston, and Opelika, and they are now starting or being planned at Dothan, Union Springs, and Decatur. Leaders in other towns are considering it.

The Tuscaloosa curb market has been operating 2 1-2 years, and up to December 1, 1926, 11,539 farm people had made sales totaling $82,963 to 59,000 customers. In one day 97 people sold 197 different products on this market.

The Gadsden curb market started after the Tuscaloosa market, but sales up to December 31 totaled $70,000. One farmer makes sales averaging $60 per week. From May 1 to December 1, 1926, the Gadsden curb market enabled 161 farm families to sell products for $18,000.

The Opelika and Selma markets have handled large quantities of products also. and a unique feature is that where these markets are properly handled they invariably succeed.

These curb markets were sponsored by the county agents, men and women, the Farm Bureaus, Chambers of Commerce, the newspapers, civic and luncheon clubs, and other organized groups. They encouraged farmers to produce more by providing a good market for what they have. At the same time a distinct service is rendered to consumers in the towns, while merchants are helped by more money going into circulation.

LOBLOLLY PINE ONE OF SOUTH'S GREAT RESOURCES

The loblolly pine, known also as the old field and shortleaf pine, is one of the South's greatest natural resources as it grows rapidly and is naturally adapted to large areas in nearly all of the Southern States. Its profitableness as a crop and how it is best grown and harvested is told in a recent publication, "Loblolly Pine Primer," Farmers' Bulletin No. 1517-F, issued by the Forest Service, United States Department of Agriculture.

An acre of loblolly pine well protected from fire will average a growth of from 800 to 1,000 board feet of saw timber yearly, says the booklet.

Loblolly pine grows naturally from southern Delaware and eastern Maryland over the coastal plain and lower Piedmont sections south and west to eastern Texas and southern Arkansas. It is distinguished from other pines by its three leaves, or straws, in each cluster, deeply divided, and its rough bark and very prickly burrs, which when closed are about the size of a duck's egg.

Copies of the publication may be obtained, as long as the supply lasts, upon application to the United States Department of Agriculture, Washington, D. C.

CHEVROLET MAKES NEW RECORD FOR JANUARY

Responding to a winter demand for cars unprecedented in the history of the company, the Chevrolet Motor Company in January again shattered all production records for that month by building 73,676 units, almost 30,000 cars more than were made in January of 1926.

The January, 1926, production in its turn almost tripled the production of January, 1925.

Under the tentative production schedule for February, the company will be prepared to make a total of 84,000 units, which would establish a new monthly production record in the history of the company, exceeding even the record monthly output in September, 1926, of 81,158 cars.

The heavy winter producion is the result of demand for "the most beautiful Chevrolet in Chevrolet history" which Chevrolet buyers have made upon the company's dealers since the announcement of lower prices and numerous refinements in the entire Chevrolet line.

In 1926 the Chevrolet Motor Company led all manufacturers of gear shift cars by building 732,145 cars, an increase of more than 40% over the previous record year. Under a $10,000,000 expansion program initiated in 1926, the Chevrolet Motor Company is equipped for even greater production in 1927.

The new machinery making this enlarged production possible is completely installed in the various plants of the company throughout the country, and all necessary changes of dies and tools have been made to insure uninterrupted manufacturing schedules during this year.

Nearly 3 BILLION DOLLARS Saved the Public by Freight-Rate Reductions Since 1921

If the shippers of freight over American railroads had been obliged to pay, during the years 1922 to 1926 inclusive, the same rate for moving freight, measured by the cost per ton mile, that was paid in 1921 (under order of the Interstate Commerce Commission), the aggregate cost would have been approximately $3,000,000,000 greater.

The saving, in round numbers, has been as follows:

1922 compared with 1921	$319,000,000
1923 compared with 1921	639,000,000
1924 compared with 1921	606,000,000
1925 compared with 1921	528,000,000
1926 compared with 1921	874,000,000
Total saved in 5 years	$2,966,000,000

The aggregate freight rates have been reduced about 15% since 1921. In addition, the railroads have handled nearly 46% more traffic; and the public has received more prompt and efficient service.

Savings to L. & N. Patrons
More than* $72,000,000

During this five-year period, Louisville & Nashville Railroad freight rates, as measured by the revenue ton miles, have decreased 17.2%; and the aggregate savings in freight bills to the patrons of the Road have been more than $72,000,000.

These facts and figures are published because it is believed that they will be of sufficient interest to the public to justify their being made known.

"We will save our cake and eat it too," is the argument of those who advocate the board of revenue bill. Sensible people long ago found out that such a policy means nothing. We pay for what we get these days. If we get roads, we pay for them and we pay for the machinery to work them. The machinery wears out if we work our roads with it. Beware of the fellow who tells you he has a scheme whereby Chilton County can have better roads without spending more money to get them.

Rev. James Each of Thorsby was among the visitors to Clanton Monday.

CAN WE SAVE OUR ROAD MACHINERY?

Advocates of the proposed board of revenue bill for Chilton County (whoever they are) are seeking to bolster up their arguments by saying that it will mean a saving of thousands of dollars to the county in road machinery. We do not see any merit in such argument.

Anyone knows that if the roads are worked, it takes machinery to work them. And if machinery is used, it is bound to wear out. If we had the board of revenue, the only way it could save road machinery would be not to use it. And if road machinery is not used, consequently our roads will not be worked.

It is true that our commissioners have spent much money on roads and road machinery in recent years, and it is also true that they have done worlds of good work on our country roads. If you don't believe it, ask anybody who knows the condition of our roads now as compared with four years ago.

It is easy to find some criticism of men who do things. None of them are perfect. But such criticism as is being done by advocates of the board of revenue bill is of little weight, because it is evident that it is being put forth by a few dissatisfied parties who would not let themselves see any good in the county administration if it were all good and nothing to provoke criticism.

Our road work has been widely distributed over the county. Therefore a few fellows who are always looking for a monkey wrench to throw into the machinery are ready to say that the money spent on roads has been wasted because they do not find that all of it has been spent in building one certain piece of road.

Our commissioners do not claim to have done a perfect job on our roads. But they are honest men who have gone about their duties in a conscientious manner, seeking to serve the most people possible with better roads. The great body of our citizenship recognize and appreciate this fact.

It is only a very few citizens who seek to discredit the motives and the accomplishments of the commissioners. The advocates of the board of revenue bill, could not, if they carried their plans through, render a better service to our people than has been done. And the additional expense and complications that would be heaped upon the shoulders of the county would involve many thousands of dollars that would not produce one penny's worth of good to the county. It would only put those dollars into the pockets of some individuals who are burning with the desire to get their fingers on the purse strings of Chilton County for the benefit of themselves and their political sympathizers.

LABOR NO LONGER WET

Westerville, O., Feb. 15.—Organized labor can no longer be considered wet, according to a statement issued here today by Dr. F. Scott McBride, general superintendent of the Anti-Saloon League of America.

In substantiating this statement, Dr. McBride asserted that the Union Laborer Advocate of Chicago, in its current issue, declares working men are not wet and that "no single class of our people has benefitted more from prohibition than the laboring people. They have labor temples and banks today in place of dingy quarters, and they settle their disputes without drink-caused riots."

The Advocate says deposits in labor banks in the United States now total more than $11,000,000, and that there were no labor banks before prohibition. It also points out that working men under prohibition have increased their savings accounts and are a factor in the general prosperity of the country, as the sober worker has increased his buying capacity, and that this aids all legitimate industry.

"No, organized labor is too wise to want to go back to the old saloon days," says the Union Laborer Advocate, which is now entering upon its 26th year.

URGES CASH CROPS FOR COTTON FARM

H. P. STUCKEY

Another big cotton crop in 1927 doubtless will depress the market again as it did in 1926 and cause cotton growing to be decidedly unprofitable, according to H. P. Stuckey, Director of the Georgia Experiment Station. This forecast was made by Mr. Stuckey in a lecture for the Radio Short Course over WSB, the Atlanta Journal station, and which was conducted by the Sears-Roebuck Agricultural Foundation in cooperation with the Soil Improvement Committee of the National Fertilizer Association.

"As a result of this situation," said Mr. Stuckey to his radio-farmer students, "cotton growers are very properly casting about for other cash crops to supplement their incomes from cotton. The southeast imports large quantities of hay every year. We can grow hay here cheaply from leguminous crops such as soybeans, cow peas, etc. Southern hay, properly cured and baled, will find a ready market in competition with hay shipped in from other regions. Soybeans, velvet beans, and cow peas are splendid grain, as well as hay crops, and may be sold for seed purposes as well as used for stock feed. Cow peas also are in good demand for human food in practically all southern markets. These may be grown at a profit.

"The demand for peanuts for confectionaries and oil production is increasing annually, and a part of our cotton lands could be devoted to this crop at a profit. Any surplus of peanuts not finding a ready cash market could easily be converted into pork by feeding them to swine. The more fertile soils of the coastal plains are well adapted to sugar cane for the production of syrup. This finds a ready sale in the south and east. Sorghum is valuable both for syrup making and stock feed. There are two distinct markets for sweet potatoes. The Jersey variety is especially adapted to harvesting in late summer and shipped promptly to the northern and eastern markets. There is room for considerable expansion in the growing of early varieties of sweet potatoes for shipment northward, while the moist varieties are more in demand in the south. These can be cured in storage houses and sold during the winter as the market demands.

"Some of the profitable crops of the coastal regions are spinach, kale, and lettuce, to be shipped north in winter Farms located near industrial plants and manufacturing centers will find it profitable to grow limited areas of turnips, mustard, and collards. This year should offer encouragement to the producer, for many industries are being developed in the southeast, and this means a larger consuming public and better markets for agricultural commodities."

Wm. J. Billingsley of Thorsby, a member of the County Board of Education, was a visitor to Clanton Monday. Mr. Billingsley is clerk of the Chilton County Baptist Association. He has a message of interest to Baptists in this week's Union-Banner.

WHAT DOES IT MEAN, THEN ?

If the proposed board of revenue bill doesn't mean more expensive operation of the county's business, what does it mean? Will those who advocate the bill please tell the people about this.

It provides for a chairman of the board of revenue at a salary of $2,400. That is an expense which we have not had heretofore.

It provides for a clerk of the board at a salary of $900 to $1,200. That is an additional expense which we have not had heretofore.

It provides for per diem of $8 for members of the board, which is an additional expense we have not had heretofore.

We don't know how much of the various ramifications of the proposed bill are already a law in some form or other; but we venture to say that very few people ever heard of them before this bill came out. And it is a certainty that if this county should undertake all the things that are included in the powers of the proposed board, it would break up the county in less than a year.

If the people of this county want to be on the safe side, they had better begin the fight right now to keep the commissioners court and kill the revenue bill before it is born.

FARMING OUT OF BALANCE

"The most valuable lesson ever brought home to the farmer of the southeast is that a better balanced plan of production is the final and lasting remedy for most of our production and marketing problems." This point was driven home in one of the radio short course discussions conducted by the Sears-Roebuck Agricultural Foundation in cooperation with the Soil Improvement Committee of the National Fertilizer Association, and broadcast over WSB, Atlanta.

"The South never before in her history produced as abundantly as last year, but to realize we are out of balance, we simply have to study the census figures," said Mr. Cobb. "Of 2,550,407 farms, 1,827,326 grow cotton. Of these 12% raise no corn; 54% no hay or forage; 58% no sweet potatoes; 20% had no gardens; 37% no dairy stock; 56% no hogs; 33% no chickens, and the average production of the cotton growers was 6 bales of cotton per farm. Diversification is what is needed in farming. That is what is lifting the farmer up to new high levels of safety and independence. It takes systematic farming to hold the fertility in the soil, to say nothing of increasing it to the point where acre yields will even approach the level of profit. There can be no satisfactory profit in farming until we are better producers per acre.

"Furthermore, we will never have quality production until the farmer sets up his own sales force and gets a price commensurate with actual values. Weather is the determining factor here. A freeze that might mean nothing to industry might wipe out an entire year's profit on the farm. Of course, he can greatly minimize the effects of all the natural influences by a better program of production 'by feeding the family, feeding the live stock, and feeding the land', and through setting up his own marketing machinery, but the point to be made clear is that governmental policy more vitally affects the farmer than anybody else, and because of his position in our economic structure, his program will be sadly incomplete until he rounds it out by bringing the full weight of his influence to bear on the shaping of all governmental policy, local, state, and national."

Alfred Mims of Thorsby was a business visitor to Clanton Monday.

BILL INTRODUCED TO CHANGE OFFICIAL MOTTO OF ALABAMA

Mr. Max Rogers, a member of the House of Representatives, has introduced a bill proposing a change in the motto which is inscribed upon the scroll carried in the beak of the eagle on the great seal of Alabama. The present motto is "Here We Rest." The change proposed is "We Drive Forward."

The original seal adopted in 1817 when Alabama was a Territory, was a map of the State showing its principal rivers. The Reconstruction Legislature of 1868 abolished this historic old seal and substituted our present seal therefor, declaring in the Act that the words "Here We Rest" should be shown at such place on the seal as the Governor might direct. The present seal, as you know, is a circle with a diameter of two and a quarter inches, near the edge of which is the word "Alabama" and opposite this the words "Great Seal." In the center of the seal there is an eagle on a shield and in the beak of the eagle is a scroll as above described. The law says that this seal shall be called "The Great Seal of the State of Alabama."

The origin of the phrase "Here We Rest" is based on an Indian legend given in the writings of an early Alabamian, Alexander B. Meek, in which the word "Alabama" was interpreted to mean "Here We Rest." Since that time men learned that the word "Alabama" means "Vegetation Gatherers" or "Thicket Clearers." It therefore is evident that the motto is false in its historic significance and therefore should not be perpetuated on the great seal of the State. A better reason, however, for its disuse is that the phrase brings ridicule upon us by persons of other parts of the country indicating inertion and lack of energy, as it does.

The bill that was intoduced by Mr. Rogers proposing this motto to be changed to "We Drive Forward," was presented at this time in order that the public might have an opportunity to discuss the matter before the summer session of the Legislature, when action may be taken.

Program of The Chilton County Co-Operative Association For The Year 1927

The Executive Committee of the Chilton County Co-operative Association met at the court house last Saturday afternoon, and among other important matters, adopted unanimously a very comprehensive and progressive program of activities for the Association during the year 1927.

To Function Through Committees.

The adopted program plans for the organization of four major committees, county-wide in scope, sub-divided into sub-committees, to carry on the well-defined program. These committees will be known as the Agricultural Committee, the Industrial Committee, the Commercial Committee, and the Civic Committee. It was stated that one, or possibly two other committees might be added a little later on, however, all members of the Executive Board were of the opinion that the organization should not run the risk of becoming "top heavy" during its initial efforts.

The personnel of these committees is now being selected, while it was stated that this work would be done as speedily as possible, and was pointed out that it might be several days or weeks before this important work could be completed, as great care and considerable thought would be given to their selection, taking into consideration: (1) their realization of the tremendous task before them and their willingness to accept these progressive possibilities; (2) knowledge and qualifications for executing the duties necessary for such committees.

These committees will ultimately have representation from every voting precinct in the county, and their efforts will be so co-ordinated that every section of the county will profit by the activities of the Association, it was said.

Agricultural Committee Has Five Divisions.

As Chilton County is primarily an agricultural county, it is recognized that the Agricultural Committee is decidedly the most important committee in the organization. Therefore, this committee will be so sub-divided that every phase of agriculture may be successfully promoted. For the present this committee will function through the following sub-committees to carry out the definite program set out:

Crops Committee—25% reduction in cotton acreage this year. The production of more corn, hay, peanuts, sugar cane, food and feed crops.

Dairy Committee—The placing of from 1 to 5 pure bred milk cows on each farm. Sufficient pure bred bulls to serve them The establishment of milk routes.

Live Stock Committee—At least 1 pure bred brood sow on each farm. Raise all pure bred heifer calves

Poultry Committee—From 50 to 200 pure bred hens on every farm.

Marketing Committee—Hog sales, poultry sales; co-operative selling of all profitable and practical crops. Standardization and uniform quality.

Industry and Agriculture to go Hand in Hand.

Realizing that a well balanced county depends not only upon its agricultural development, but its industrial growth as well, and that Chilton County has industrial potentialities, the Co-operative Association adopted the following for its industrial program:

A complete industrial survey, a canning factory, a furniture factory; co-operation with existing industries to promote their expansion.

With reference to the canning factory, it was pointed out that the organization was not planning to go into the canning business, but that they believed they would be able to easily induce outside capital and experienced canning factory management to either re-open the canning factory that is already here or install a new one as soon as the organization could bring about a program of diversified farming which would assure raw materials sufficient for at least 10 months profitable operation of a canning factory.

Commercial Interests Encouraged.

With the co-operation of the business men of the county, a Commercial Committee is to be organized, and will have for their program this year, the following: Regular trade days; a credit bureau; a public relations committee; a permanent county exhibit in Birmingham; and an advertising fund.

Civic Committee To Fill Long Felt Want.

Chilton County citizens, with their natural progressiveness, will speedily respond to the civic program of the Association, the Executive Committee believes. All they have needed in this regard has been the necessary leadership, and it is believed that this committee will furnish that. The program for this year is as follows:

A county health unit; a public park and hitching ground at Clanton; a highway through the county, east and west; two drinking fountains for the stock at Clanton, one at Jemison, Thorsby, Maplesville, and other practical places where they are needed. Public sanitary rest rooms for men and women at Clanton; a county public library; boy and girl scout organization; a recreation committee; an educational committee.

Active Membership Campaign Under Way.

Everything set out in the program of the Association is urgently needed in this county, and are things enjoyed by most of the counties in Alabama, it was said. However, they can all be accomplished during the year 1927 if the progressive farmers, bankers, and business men determine they shall be done. The membership fee in the Association is only $3.00, easily in reach of every citizen in Chilton County. The Association is the medium through which it is possible to bring about united effort in solving these problems, and the door for membership is now open. Membership application blanks have been printed and are in the hands of the officers and members of the Association, and additional membership is earnestly sought.

The officers of the Association are W. P. Lowery, President; Sidney J. Weldon, Vice President; Claud E. Marcus, Secretary; Jasper N. Dennis, Treasurer.

Any citizen wishing to become a member is urged to see these men and sign up.

Next General Meeting, February 23.

The next general meeting will be held at the county court house, Wednesday, February 23, at 1:30 p. m. Men, women, and children are invited.

LEGUMES FORM BIG PART IN PROFITABLE FARMING

Legumes must form an important part of all profitable farming in the southeast, according to H. P. Ogden, agronomist, Tennessee Experiment Station, at Knoxville. This noted agronomist gave this message in a talk for the Radio Short Course over WSB, Atlanta, which was conducted for two weeks by the Sears-Roebuck Agricultural Foundation in cooperation with the Soil Improvement Committee of the National Fertilizer Association.

"Legume means nitrogen to the crop grower and protein to the live stock man, and the successful farmer realizes that the yield of crops is limited by lack of nitrogen, and the productiveness of animals is low from lack of protein," said Mr. Ogden. "Southern soils are very poor in nitrogen. We leave our soils bare in winter, subject to excessive leaching by rains. We have little or no manure, and few nitrogen gathering crops to restore it. Of course, we cannot change the texture of our soils, but we can change our cropping system and fertilizer methods, and this should be done. Red clover is one of the most useful legumes for feed and soil improvement, but the scarcity of this has caused the farmers of this section to use Japan clover or lespedeza, cowpeas and soybeans, but alfalfa and sweet clover are recommended where they can be grown.

"An abundance of lime, phosphoric acid and potash must be supplied before the legumes can efficiently add nitrogen, but care should be exercised, for the use of too much lime often results in harm to the soil. In some respects legumes give better results when used as pasture. In this case the profits from the live stock more than defray all costs of seed, fertilizer, and labor, and in most instances the succeeding crop is just as much benefitted as if the whole crop had been turned under.

"Winter growing legumes in many respects are of greatest value as soil builders because they reduce winter leaching and compete less with cash crops, usually grown in the summer, and may be turned under in the spring to give to the cash crops all the nitrogen they have acquired from the air, as well as the plant food they have saved from leaching.

"It rests with the individual farmer to decide whether he will stand on the side of non-legume farming and nitrogen starvation, or on the side of legume farming and greater prosperity."

Words of Wisdom from the Wise man of Bagdad

IN the city of Bagdad lived Hakeem, the wise man. Many people went to him for counsel, which he gave freely to all, asking no compensation.

There came a young man, who had spent much time and money seeking wisdom and acquired but little. "Tell me, wise one," he said, "how may I know that the goods I buy in the bazaar possess the greatest value?"

Hakeem answered: "That which is bought or sold has no value unless it contains that which cannot be bought or sold. Always look for the Priceless Ingredient! My son, the Priceless Ingredient in the commodity you purchase, is the honor and integrity of him who sells it. Buy nothing that bears not the name of a reputable maker."

The highest standard of quality has been maintained in the Cole Mills since 1839—almost a hundred years. And Omega is an all-purpose flour, it makes the fluffiest cakes just as well as the most nutritive bread and biscuits.

A hundred years ago the Cole mills supplied the flour for the pioneer's sourdough biscuits — just as today they supply it for the daintiest delicacies of the most impressive tables.

NOTICE

For the next few weeks Bro. Bunyon Davie who represents the State Baptist Board in Colportage work, will be here soon with an assortment of some good religious literature. Those who attended the Chilton County Association held at New Salem church in October remember that we engaged him at that time to do this work. He has a splendid set of books and you can rely on him for good literature; and we trust that you will give him a welcome wherever he goes, and at night take him into your homes and give him the best care you possibly can, because he is entirely worthy of it.

He is expected to visit every community and in some instances will meet with the churches in service.—W. J. Billingsley, Clerk Chilton Co. Association.

OPP FARMERS SHIP SIXTY CARS OF CATTLE AND HOGS

Opp, Ala., Feb. 5.—The farmers and the local buyers in Opp and surrounding community have shipped 60 carloads of beef cattle and hogs to date. It is estimated that there will be around 100 cars loaded here by the time the season is over. Of the 60 cars already shipped, about 40 were cattle and 20 hogs. Oscar Nix, one of the enterprising farmers of this section, shipped 2 cars of fat yearling Tuesday of this week.

Inspector Kirkland said that the cattle shipped by Mr. Nix were the finest that he had shipped from Covington County this season. Mr. Nix will ship 2 more cars within a few days. Hogs are averaging about $1,500 a car this season, and cattle are bringing around $1,000 a car. It is estimated that the cattle and hogs to be shipped from here this season will return at least $115,000 to this community. This will go a long way toward filling in the gap caused by the Florida storm to the cotton in this section.

Uncle Tom Henderson of Mt. Creek was among the visitors to Clanton Monday.

Rheumatism can't be rubbed away

Are you one of those unfortunates who suffer with pains in your muscles and joints, making you miserable, less efficient, interfering with your working hours, ruining your sleep?

You may have tried many things without relief. Why not try S.S.S.? For more than 100 years it has been giving relief in thousands of cases, as testified to in unsolicited letters of gratitude.

"I suffered from rheumatism for a good many years. At times my joints would swell so, I couldn't walk. I tried most everything. Went to Hot Springs and finally I decided to try S. S. S. I took a course. In a short time the rheumatic pains entirely left me. I also had a breaking out on my hands for years that nothing would heal, but now this has disappeared, and I am sure that it was S. S. S. which removed the cause. I am now in perfect health, and want to add that I have tried all kinds of medicines but I think S. S. S. is the best." Carl C. Campbell, 115 West Main Street, Johnson City, Tenn.

S.S.S. is purely vegetable. It is extracted from the fresh roots of medicinal plants and herbs and gives to Nature what she needs in building you up so that your system throws off the cause.

S.S.S. is sold at all good drug stores in two sizes. The larger size is more economical.

Things to Know Before Baby Comes

THE expectant mother's comfort and well being is very important. And one of the most important things for her to do is to use Mother's Friend to keep the skin and muscles of and pliable—thus aiding the tissues and muscles to relax and adjust themselves to the change of motherhood. Mother's Friend, the prescription of an eminent physician and has been used by expectant mothers for more than three generations. No woman awaiting the joy of motherhood should allow the days to pass without using Mother's Friend.

Mrs. Laura Hendrix, Greenwood, Okla., writes: "I used Mother's Friend with all my babies and I think it is the greatest help that has ever been discovered for expectant mothers. I can't say too much for it."

Mother's Friend is safe for you to use because it contains no harmful drugs and is applied externally.

The Parent-Teachers Association met at the home of Mrs. T. Bakke on Tuesday of this week. This organization has for its object a close and friendly intimacy between the teachers and parents of pupils in Thorsby public school and has done much during the past few years to help in furnishing the new school building. We are sorry to learn that there are many people in Thorsby who have children in school who never attend the meetings nor contribute supplies for entertainment at the socials, or open their homes for the meetings of the Association, or even pay the small sum of 50 cents per year to help the cause along. In a cause so worthy, and in which every parent, past, present and prospective should be vitally interested, it does seem that there are too many people in Thorsby who are not inclined to "tote fair."

Mrs. R. R. Franklin entertained Thorsby Baptist Y. W. A. Tuesday afternoon. Refreshments were served to about 20 guests.

Quilting Circle No. 1 met with Mrs. Robert Davenport on Wednesday of this week.

Admission for pupils of the public school and the Institute, and any under 12 years of age will be 15 cents. The proceeds will be given away to various good causes. Come and have a good time.

Mr. Alfred Childress, father of Mrs. Davis Cleckler, who was reported to be very ill Monday night, was somewhat better Tuesday afternoon.

Mr. Archie Robinson, who is working for the Alabama Power Co., at Cherokee Bluff, spent the week end with his family in Thorsby.

Mr. Arthur Campbell of Birmingham was a week end guest of friends in Thorsby.

A new feature was introduced by Mrs. Ben Davenport when she entertained the Baptist Ladies Aid Society for their social last week. She made it a sort of Valentine party, each guest being given a heart-shaped novelty, ingeneously made by herself, of neatly woven strips of colored crepe paper; upon opening the device each wan found to contain an interesting quotation.

Mr. Charley Swanson of Chicogo, a former resident of Thorsby, and still owning property here, is visiting old friends among our citizens.

HARDWOOD FOR NEWSPRINT DEVELOPED IN NEW PROCESS

A new pulping process which produces a high yield of cheap print paper from hardwoods and offers the possibility of shifting the burden of newsprint production from spruce, which is being imported in large quantites, to the hardwood forests of the North, East, and South, has been developed at the Forest Products Laboratory at Madison, Wisconsin, according to the Forest Service, United States Department of Agriculture. Through the use of a rod mill, a hollow, horizontal, steel cylinder half filled with steel or bronze rods, hardwood chips are reduced to fiber by rotating the cylinder.

The substitution of the rod mill processing for a certain amount of chemical treatment brings about a high yield by reducing the amount of fiber which would go into solution in the treating liquid in an all-chemical disintegration, the Forest Service points out. The distinctive feature of the new, or semi-chemical process, is that not only a mild chemical treatment is used before the wood, in the form of chips, is reduced to the proper pulp consistency in a rod mill.

Paper the weight and thickness of newsprint made wholly from semi-chemical pulp of black tupelo, or red gum, or aspen, birch, or maple, was found to have a greater strength than the present commercial newsprint. In the case of gums, the department indicates that, provided black and red heart-wood have been excluded, the color of the paper can be made to equal or excel that of standard newsprint.

Pulp made by this new process from aspen and birch can be substituted for over 50% of the standard newsprint mixture of ground wood and sulphite pulp without sacrifice of quality. In fact, the Forest Service points out that ground wood pulp and the new semi-chemical pulp can be combined without sulphite pulp, although the sheet made without sulphite is rather weak when wet and requires care in handling on the wet end of the paper machine.

The introduction of semi-chemical pulp from aspen and birch and possibly maple should assist materially in continuing the newsprint supply in the northern and northeastern regions. The supply of gum in the Southern States offers excellent opportunity for the development of a print paper in a region which has hitherto been excluded from serious consideration for the purpose because of lack of spruce and hemlock for ground wood and for sulphite pulp.

"Topsy Turvy, or the Courtship of the Deacon," a fine play with lots of fun, will be given at Concord school house on Friday night, February 18, at 7:30 p. m. Special music by Dixie String Band. Admission 15c and 25c. Everybody come and see something worth while.—Leo C. Langston.

What Is a Diuretic?

People Are Learning the Value of Occasional Use.

EVERYONE knows that a laxative stimulates the bowels. A diuretic performs a similar function to the kidneys. Under the strain of our modern life, our organs are apt to become sluggish and require assistance. More and more people are learning to use Doan's Pills, occasionally, to insure good elimination which is so essential to good health. COTTON SLEDDING BECOMING IMPORTANT HARVEST METHOD

Low cotton prices this season have stimulated in Texas and Oklahoma a great increase in a low cost method of harvesting cotton, which was first practiced about 10 years ago. This is the use of sled or strippers for pulling or snapping cotton from stalks. Two main types of sleds are in general use, says the United States Department of Agriculture. One type is adapted for harvesting small cotton (the kind usually grown in the Staked Plains area) and the other for harvesting cotton where the plant has a more vigorous growth. The latter type is used chiefly in the bottom lands of the plains area, and in some areas farther east.

Although this method of harvesting cotton often leaves 15% or more of the crop in the field, it is immensely cheaper than picking. It is considerably cheaper than snapping cotton by hand. It is obviously advantagous, in seasons like the present one, when cotton prices and labor rates are such that the crop will hardly stand the eypense of harvesting by picking or snapping. Indeed, it is generally believed by the cotton farmers that sledding is only an emergency method of harvesting. Nevertheless, some producers contend that sledding has come to stay, and that great improvement will be made in this harvesting method. Ginners say that cotton sledded under ideal conditions is of about the same quality as the usual run of snapped or pulled cotton. But where fields are grassy or where badly constructed sleds are used, the method may give poor results.

Other conditions besides low cotton prices may favor the spread of cotton sledding. Among them are scarcity of labor and early frosts. In the newer cotton areas of Texas and Oklahoma where machine methods enable cotton to be produced on a more extensive scale than in other parts of the Cotton Belt, farm families can cultivate much more cotton than it is possible for them to harvest without additional labor. Thus the problem of harvest labor in the cotton fields arises. Furthermore, the picking operation becomes too difficult after killing frosts, because the burrs then break off the stalk at a touch. Sledding partially solves the double problem of economizing harvest labor and saving cotton that has been caught by early frosts.

Although sledding cotton has been described as simply a mechanical method for snapping or pulling cotton, the operation is really not adequately described by the terms snapping and pulling. The sleds have toothed arrangements, not unlike mower guards. They strip all bolls from the stalks, regardless of their state of maturity. Naturally, considerable foreign material is harvested at the same time. This at first caused some ginners to oppose the use of the sled, but recently they have shown less opposition.

Sledding was used on an enormous scale in the western part of the cotton area the past season. Data are being compiled by the department as to the amount of cotton harvested in this way. Estimates of the amount of snapped and sledded cotton in Texas and Oklahoma run from 3,000,000 to 4,000,000 bales, which is a good proportion of the western crop. Probably more than half of the cotton in the semi-arid regions of Texas and Oklahoma was harvested by sledding. The method is most applicable in areas where the height of cotton is rather uniformly from 12 to 15 inches. Small, dwarfed cotton stalks are universally found in the semi-arid regions. A sled has been devised for harvesting cotton from the taller stalks, but this is not the demonstrated success that the ordinary sled has been on the shorter cotton.

PROHIBITION BROUGHT MORE HOME BUILDING

Westerville, O., Feb. 15.—Assets of building and loan associations in the United States have almost tripled since national prohibition became effective January 6, 1920, according to a statement issued here today by national headquarters of the Anti-Saloon League of America.

"The fact that the American people have more money to invest in legitimate business enterprises, is the strongest argument for the continuance of prohibition in this country," the statement said. "From an economic viewpoint alone, there is every reason why prohibition and prosperity should be continued."

The statement quoted figures of the National Building Association League in which it showed that in 1919, the year before the advent of prohibition, assets of building and loan companies amounted to the sum of $2,126,620,390, as compared with $6,280,000,000 in 1926. The number of building and loan associations increased from 8,000 to 12,800 in the same period, and the number of depositors from 4,964,000 to 11,275,000.

"Cultivators of the earth are the most valuable citizens. They are the most vigorous, the most independent, the most virtuous, and they are tied to their country, and wedded to its liberty and interests, by the most lasting bonds."—Thomas Jefferson.

Some Thoughts for Chilton County Farmers On Subject of Dairy Cows

One of the "planks" in the platform of the recently organized Chilton County Co-operative Association is a number of dairy cows on every farm in Chilton County for the year 1927. The presumption is, of course, that such a cow program would as quickly as possible be whipped into a scheme which would put the milk and cream from those cows upon the market at a fair profit to the farmers.

Every farmer to whom you might mention the cow subject would, of course, answer by asking: How and where can I sell the milk and cream from these cows to advantage?

It is a recognized fact that the "how" and "where" to sell milk and cream profitably is the main question; but it is the easiest of solution. It is to prove this fact that we have gone to the trouble to publish this article.

First, we want to submit to you who may read this, the following statements which are taken from a full-page advertisement by Southern Dairies, Inc., which was published in The Birmingham News Monday of this week:

As Alabama unfolds to the world her true position of leadership in the dairy industry, it is but natural that Birmingham should be the seat of one of the finest and most complete creamery plants in the world.

This plant—the new Glen Iris Creamery—is now thrown open to the inspection of the citizens of Birmingham, who have witnessed the erection of the building at Graymont Avenue and 6th Street and a cordial invitation to visit it is extended in the belief that the real scope of the new industry will thus be realized.

Beginning with Washington and Baltimore, and covering the South to the southern point of Florida, inland as far as Knoxville, Tennessee, Southern Dairies has been actively engaged in promoting the whole dairy industry — encouraging dairy farming, building modern creameries which are patterns for the rest of the world, creating and widening markets and installing delivery systems.

With the hearty co-operation of City, County, and State officials, and of the United States Department of Agriculture, a marvelous work already has been accomplished in multiplying dairy farms and herds about Birmingham, with promise of still further increase.

The South with its natural advantages, is Nature's Dairyland. It has been so regarded for years by the leading dairy authorities of America, with whom there is a well-known proverb: "Prosperity follows the dairy cow!"

Dairying has brought progress and prosperity to many Northern communities where conditions and resources are not half as favorable as through this rich Southern territory. And of all the States of the South, Alabama is the ideal dairying State.

To successfully promote dairy farming however, a constant, year-round market must be immediately at hand for the farmer, assuring him a price for his dairy products that is as regular as the clock—a price, too, that is manifestly fair and profitable.

Milk stations, creamery plants, a delivery system and selling organization of the highest order, always extending the market to take up the full supply of these modern dairy farms, together with consistent expert advice to the dairy farmer—all these necessities must be adequately supplied.

It has been organization work, splendidly co-ordinated, that has brought the dairy industry of the South to the front—that has made Alabama the important dairy State that it is, and that is now giving this splendid new creamery plant to Birmingham.

The new Glen Iris plant, in this city, will devote its entire attention to building up and supplying the Birmingham market with the finest Alabama milk, cream, and butter.

Of the 67 plants of Southern Dairies, throughout its territory, those in Birmingham, Montgomery, and Selma are all-important—as modern, sanitary and scientific as the world's leading experts can make them. There are no better creamery plants in the world! They are the culmination of millions of dollars invested by Southern Dairies in this new Southern industry.

A modern ice cream plant, located at 2220 Avenue A, utilizing only fresh, rich cream from selected Alabama dairy farms, furnishes Birmingham with The Velvet Kind ice cream—a favorite throughout the South.

In the same issue of The Birmingham News (Monday) there was printed a wonderful editorial concerning Southern Dairies, Inc., and Alabama dairying, as follows:

A Powerful Stimulus To Dairying When Stable Market Is At Hand

The opening by the Southern Dairies, Inc., of its magnificent Glen Iris plant in Birmingham, is of a great deal more than local interest, great as that interest may be in a new source of safe and sanitary milk for the people of this city.

It is another evidence to the farm folk of Alabama that there is a market at hand for all the milk and cream they can produce under proper sanitary conditions. It is proof of the stability of that market.

Heretofore, until the last few years the production of milk and cream for market has been one fraught with vicissitudes and disappointment. Farmers would go into it, dependent upon some local creamery, perhaps, and if, through lack of experience or bad luck the creamery did not prosper, these farmers were most decidedly "up against it." This, to be perfectly plain about it, has been one of the influences retarding the development of Alabama as a dairying state.

But, with a concern like Southern Dairies firmly established in Alabama, with an investment of more than a million dollars here, and ready to take every gallon of properly produced milk and cream that is offered and pay fair prices for it at all times, a decided stimulus should and will be given to milking cows for market in this state. The corporation has a capital of $17,000,000, has 67 plants, ranging from Washington, D. C., to Florida and Tennessee, and three in Alabama—Birmingham, Selma, and Montgomery.

Alabama must get away from cotton as a one-crop proposition. Millions of dollars are leaving this state every year for butter, cheese, milk. Birmingham right now is daily drawing a substantial amount of her daily supply of milk from Tennessee and Mississippi. That money leaving the state should go into the pockets of Alabama farmers. It should circulate in the channels of trade in Alabama.

With so stable a market assured, there will be a decided encouragement to milk production. It means an inflow of cash every two weeks in the year to the farmers. It means more money in circulation. It means a long stride away from the thralldom of cotton, which has persisted too long.

An interview with Mrs. W. J. Wilson, of the Southern Butter Co., of Birmingham, also published in The Birmingham News, is of much value in considering our possibilities. Her statement is as follows:

Willing, But Can't Get The Cream

"The editorials in The News urging greater milk production in Alabama, and greater production of butter, have been most interesting and illuminating, and, I believe, are doing good. Right now we could sell several thousand pounds more a week if we could get the sour cream to manufacture from, but we are limited in production because of the lack of cream, The farm people just do not realize the opportunity. We used to be in the creamery business in Kansas and the price for whole milk and sour cream in Alabama is away yonder higher than it ever was in Kansas, where the farmers have to keep cows up and feed in barns 2 months longer in the year than down here. Why the Alabama farmers do not realize their opportunity is a mystery to me. It is higher priced and more profitable to the farmers of Alabama than in Wisconsin, where costs of production are greater, and dairying has made Wisconsin rich. Why not Alabama? A farmer selling sour cream or milk has cash coming in every week in the year. Instead of buying on credit and paying interest on his account when he sells cotton in the fall, if he would milk about five cows he would be able to buy for cash and not forced to turn loose his cotton when the merchant demands settlement in the fall. We can't get enough sour cream, and that is the plight of creameries and other butter-making concerns in Alabama. Millions of dollars are leaving Alabama for butter every year; that money ought to be kept at home and go largely into the pockets of the farmers."

Now, it must surely be evident to any sensible farmer who reads the above facts and comments that there is an ample market for milk and cream right now awaiting Alabama farmers. It is only a question of a very short time until farmers somewhere in Alabama are going to cash in on the opportunity by providing the cows to fill the demand of the market.

If the farmers of Chilton County don't do it, those in another county will. Birmingham, Montgomery, and Selma creameries are going to have cream from somewhere to take care of their customers. It will be a wise step if our farmers will fall in line with the Chilton County Co-operative Association and begin to produce and ship cream. It will be foolish if they sit still and let such a golden opportunity go by unnoticed.

We urge our business men, merchants, bankers, etc., to bring this matter to the attention of the farmers and insist that they organize and get busy with dairying. Any man with business sense enough to run a goober parcher knows that there is profit for our farmers in dairying. And those who know it ought to try to impress the fact upon those who don't know it. For it is those who don't know it who need and want and deserve the gain that might come from it.

The banker or the merchant in all probability is not going into dairying. But by a mere word he can cause a dozen or more farmers to go in or stay out of this much needed development of Chilton County's dairy possibilities.

The farmer is not going into dairying if his banker or merchant or lawyer or doctor talks about the matter with doubt and skepticism. And there is no doubt about the advantages that are now awaiting our farmers in this line. Then why not everybody get busy and talk it up?

Bowen New Manager At Clanton Motor Car Co.

The retirement of Mr. R. C. McDavid as manager of the business of Clanton Motor Car Company some days ago has brought about some important business changes at the local Ford place. Mr. McDavid has been succeeded by Mr. J. C. Bowen, who comes here from Miami, Florida.

Mr. Bowen is a man of long experience in the automobile business. For a number of years he was employed by the Ford Motor Company at various branches. His connection with the company acquitted him with experience in divisions of manufacture, production, sales, and service.

Immediately prior to coming to Clanton Mr. Bowen was sales manager for the D. L. Shackelford Motor Company, of Miami, who sold more Ford units in 1925 than any other individual Ford dealer in the entire world.

A half interest in the Clanton Motor Car Company has been purchased by Mr. Bowen. He will have sole supervision of and management of the business.

IT WON'T BE LONG, NOW!

" 'T'aint gonna be long." That saying is about to come true, as just one week from tomorrow (Friday, March 4) the funiest play that has ever been put on by home talent will be offered. The Clanton Dramatic Club certainly has put in a world of hard work and many hours of practice on this play, "His Uncle's Niece."

It's just packed and jammed with comical situations, laughs and whatnots. We assure you that the world is not always a bed of roses for a certain young fellow who is to inherit a million dollars, or who was to inherit that sum if he had been a girl. Tell us what you would do, and how you would go about it. Where there is a will there are a dozen ways, so come out and see it done in fine style.

Remember, March 4, at C. C. H. S. auditorium. Bring a friend. Just a week from tomorrow.

ROADS DAMAGED BY HEAVY RAINS LAST WEEK

Mr. J. F. Rawlinson of Pletcher was a visitor to Clanton Tuesday. He reports that the roads down his way were heavily damaged by the big rains of last week. According to Mr. Rawlinson, there are about four bridges washed away between Clanton and Pletcher.

ROBERT CLECKLER ARRESTED WITH LIQUOR

Robert Cleckler was arrested by Sheriff Collins last Thursday night on a charge of violating the prohibition law. He was caught in an alley back of a hotel in Clanton with a bottle in his pocket. Bond was made for his appearance in the state court to answer the charge.

Cleckler is the same man who recently served a sentence on the streets of Clanton for violating the prohibition law.

ROCK COLLAPSES—KILLS TWO MINERS NEAR MONTEVALLO

Superintendent and Foreman of State Mines Crushed to Death.

Montevallo, Ala., Feb. 21.—A falling rock crushed out the lives of two men in the state owned Aldrich mines near Montevallo today.

S. P. Starnes, superintendent of the state operations at the mines, and Frank Norris, mine foreman, were buried beneath a slide of rock as they entered an opening of the mine on an inspection tour.

Two state convict miners leading the way escaped with minor injuries it was said. The rock showered down without warning, the two men said, and Starnes and Norris were buried beneath several tons of shale and stone.

No damage was done to mining equipment other than the clogging of tram service and the breaking of electric wires.

Starnes had been connected with the Aldrich mines for about 12 years and was foreman before the mines were taken over by the state. He is survived by his widow and several children. Norris is survived by a widow.

WINDSTORM DID DAMAGE HERE THURSDAY NIGHT

The wind and rain storm which came on last Friday morning about 3 a. m., caused more fright in Chilton County than it did property damage. Although some reports come from nearby places of barns and garages being de-roofed and some even blown down. Reports say that the garage of Mr. Zack Lowery was blown down on his car, smashing it up quite a bit. Some damage to buildings is reported at the farm of Enoch Plier east of Clanton.

Reports from the northwest say that this spell of weather and the severe blizzard that followed has netted property damage that mounts into the millions, and that a score of human lives has been taken as a toll of the worst blizzard recorded in several years.

MIMS WHOLESALE & RETAIL GROCERY STORE

Mr. J. Z. Mims, Clerk of the Circuit Court of Chilton County, wishes his friends throughout this section to know that he has purchased the interest of Judge Reynolds in the Reynolds Wholesale & Retail Grocery Company, and will continue to operate the business at the same place, having changed the name of the firm to Mims Wholesale & Retail Grocery Company. The location is in the Reynolds Building west of the railroad on Main Street.

Mr. Will H. Hayes will continue as part owner of the business and active manager at the store.

This concern carries a general line of heavy groceries and feed stuffs, including many items that are bought and used on the farms of the county.

Mr Mims says: "I want to call especial attention to the famous 'Full-O-Pep' line of chicken feeds which we are carrying. We are interested in helping to advance the poultry business in Chilton County, believing that it will be a distinct advantage to our farm people to have more chickens on their farms. We know that 'Full-O-Pep' is a getter of results with chickens, and we want our customers and friends to give it a trial. We call attention to the advertisements which we are now running in The Union-Banner concerning the merits of 'Full-O-Pep.'

CHILTON HIGH SUBS HUMBLE STANTON JUNIOR HIGH, 22 TO 16

After allowing Stanton Junior High a lead of 9 to 1 in the first quarter of the game last Thursday night on the local court, Chilton High's young tigers came from behind with a wonderful fighting spirit and won 22 to 16. Stanton had it all over Chilton in size, but after the quarter the youngsters flashed a fine passing attack which swept the Stantonites off their feet.

Stanton has a good Junior High School team, and kept Chilton on her toes all the way. They are nearly all good on shots at the goal, their only weak place being in passing, and having once found the weak place the "Little Tigers" made the most of it.

Chilton's second team is a pretty good all-around basket ball team, and can make things hot for most anybody they are likely to run up against. They all look good on the floor, and Johnson looks like good material for next year's "Tiger Pack."

CHILTON COUNTY CAGE QUINT IN DISTRICT CHAMP MEET

Chilton High's invincible "Tiger Pack" will go to Montgomery Friday of this week to take part in the Alabama State High School Basket Ball Tournament to be held there Friday, Friday night, Saturday, and Saturday night.

Coach O. V. Bruner will take with him Gore, A. Connatser, R. Connatser, Foshee, and O. Sanford, with three substitutes to be picked from George Johnson, "Mitch" Williams, Luther Culpepper, A. J. Massey, Leon Sanford, Beecher Findley, and others.

It is expected that the first named five will start in the semi-finals for Chilton High, but the subs stand a good chance to see some service if Chilton goes into the quarter-finals and championship matches. Chilton will put one of the very best teams in the running this time that has ever worn the Orange and Blue, and we would not be surprised if they bring back the cup and the district championship.

Drawings for elimination contests will be made Friday morning, and anyone who might want to see our boys mix it with some other young hopefuls should be on hand not later than noon Friday. It is hoped that a good bunch of Chilton supporters will follow them to Montgomery and give them the word of encouragement that helps so much in time of trial.

EDUCATIONAL CONFERENCE AT CLANTON LAST WEDNESDAY

The educational conference held at the court house last Wednesday was an event of far-reaching benefit to the school spirit of Chilton County. It was attended by practically all the teachers of the county, together with a number of the school patrons and members of the county board of education.

The principal address was delivered by Dr. S. J. Ezell of Clanton on the subject, "Our Educational Needs and Suggested Remedies." He made special stress of the need of better buildings and equipment.

A number of short talks on educational subjects of importance were made by others.

Music and entertainment features were provided by Miss Donnelly and the Chilton County high school Glee Club.

It was determined to hold a field day some time near the close of the rural school terms this year. Work of preparing full program and details was entrusted to a committee which is now at work on the proposition. Publication of the full arrangements will be made in a few weeks.

STAY ON THE FARM

John Gives His Father Some Pointers on the Retired Farmer Who Moves to Town.

Dear Father:

Don't move to town. Stay on the farm. You don't want to stop work. Mother don't want to stop work. Neither of you would be happy if you did. Be the boy and girl on the farm. Let the children do most of the work, but you stay there.

When a farmer moves to town he's a nuisance. He's opposed to every improvement. He votes against everything—schools, libraries, paving, everything the town needs and ought to have. He kills the town.

When you hear a farmer say he is "going to move to town to educate the children," or "to give mother a chance to rest," don't you believe it. He is just moving to town to die cheap. He can stay on the farm and educate the children, and mother can get more rest on the farm in a day than she can in town in a week. Cities don't rest people; they wear them out.

When the farmer moves to town he hasn't anything to do. He just loafs around hating himself and everybody else. He gets a grouch on—becomes a knocker. But he keeps on eating—doesn't get enough exercise to help digest his food, and begins to feel miserable. Then it isn't long until he is "all in." He has a funeral—a hearse and one carriage.

If he had died on the farm, where he had always lived, the whole township would have turned out. Everybody would have mourned a good man gone. But the town won't miss him.

Meanwhile, he has rented the farm. The old place is going to pieces. It has become a grain farm. The soil is robbed—the buildings need paint, the fences are falling down, the barn door hangs on one hinge.

It's a scrub farm. Down the road is a scrub schoolhouse, with a scrub teacher.

No, father, you stay on the farm. Don't kill the farm by moving off of it, and don't kill the town by moving into it.

Your loving son,
JOHN.

JESSE MANUEL HURT TUESDAY NEAR CALERA

Jesse Manuel of Stanton, age 27 years, was hurt Tuesday near Calera when he fell from a fast moving truck. Martin's ambulance was rushed to the scene of the accident and brought the injured men to Central Alabama Hospital for treatment.

Manuel was at work at a saw mill near Calera. He and another man had gone to Calera to carry a load on a truck. As they were returning to the mill the truck was proceeding around a curve at a rapid rate and Manuel lost his hold and was thrown a distance of several feet. His hip was broken.

CHEVROLET PRODUCED 112,499 TRUCKS LAST YEAR

Attaining a production of 112,499 commercial vehicles during 1926, an increase of more than 132% over the preceding year, the Chevrolet Motor Company is now the yorld's largest manufacturer of gear shift trucks, according to figures just announced by company officials.

The increase is a gain of 64,200 over the 1925 production of 48,299 trucks.

This enormous increase is attributed in no small degree to the numerous refinements and lowered prices of the new trucks. Dealers everywhere reported an enthusiastic reception by the public of these new models.

The 1925 production in its turn had more than doubled the 1924 output of 23,134 trucks.

According to present manufacturing schedules, an even greater monthly production is contemplated for the truck division during the coming months to insure a sufficient supply to meet the growing demand.

Production during January, 1927, totalling 15,927 trucks, also broke all truck production records for a single month in the history of the company. The previous high mark was in September, 1926, when 12,845 trucks were manufactured.

Good Health Depends Upon Good Elimination.

RETENTION of bodily waste in the blood is called a "toxic condition." This often gives rise to a dull, languid feeling and, sometimes, toxic backaches and headaches. That the kidneys are not functioning properly is often shown by burning or scanty passage of secretions. FERTILIZER SALES LOW

Since the coming crop is viewed by many farmers with anxiety, Commissioner of Agriculture and Industries, S. M. Dunwoody, of the State Department of Agriculture and Industries discussed the present situation especially with regard to the use of fertilizer.

"South Alabama farmers are going to plow about as much as usual this spring, according to my observations; but just exactly what they are going to do with the land remains to be seen." Continuing, he said: "While no one can tell just what the coming crop year will bring forth, especially in the way of cotton, one thing seems quite sure, we will not raise as big a crop in 1927 as was the case last year.

"It is easy to know that Alabama will not do this, for the reason that in 1926 farmers used a record amount of 603,444 tons of fertilizer. This year it begins to look as if but little more than half that amount will be used."

Commissioner Dunwoody referred to the following statistics, which showed the average amount of fertilizer sold in Alabama, for the past 13 years to be 374,534 tons.

1920-'21	180,248 tons
1924-'25	580,000 tons
1925-'26	603,444 tons

The low point in fertilizer was reached during the depression of 1921, with less than one-third the amount used last year. This year has already seen a slackening of the sale of fertilizer. Last year at this time, Alabama farmers had bought 177,600 tons; to date they have bought only 73,650 tons—a decrease of 103,950 tons, or 58%. To date farmers of Alabama have bought only 42% of the fertilizer purchased at the same date last year.

Farmers will use less fertilizer this year for a number of reasons; first, they are without money to buy large amounts; second, they will doubtless plant less acreage in cotton, and while they may plow a large acreage, it will of necessity be used for food and feed crops as well as for cotton.

The Commissioner related the case of a farmer who said to him: "I'm going to put in as many acres of cotton this year as last year, but I can't afford to use but half the fertilizer. I'm going to use about 200 pounds per acre."

The case of another farmer was also given, who said: "I'm going to put in half the acreage of cotton this year, but I'm going to apply my usual amount of 400 pounds of fertilizer to the acre. I've found out that it doesn't pay to half fertilize cotton. I may lose most of my crop by half fertilizing it, for if I don't get it the boll weevil will. If I don't do well on my cotton, I'll have a good living anyhow, and a good living is what most of us are after."

Mr. Dunwoody was of the opinion that using half the usual amount per acre was like going half way to town—it would never get a farmer anywhere. He emphasized that less acres should be the rule, but that the usual amount of fertilizer per acre should be used.

Alabama farmers may expect less acreage of cotton in 1927, less fertilizer, and less bales of cotton. The greatest crop ever produced was in 1926, and it was grown with the greatest use of fertilizer.

COTTON VARIETIES FOR ALABAMA NAMED

Auburn, Ala., Feb. 22.—As the season for planting cotton seed approaches, farmers are making inquiry as to the variety of cotton seed to plant. These inquiries come from knowledge that some varieties make much larger yields than other varieties make under the same conditions, and farmers are seeking those varieties which make the most profitable yields under their conditions.

In answering these questions, Prof. M J. Funchess, director of the experiment station at Auburn, says that recommendations as to varieties of cotton for Alabama farmers are the same as of last year. Experiments in 1926 showed further evidence in favor of the varieties which the experiment station has recommended for some time.

For north Alabama, Prof. Funchess recommends Cook 10-10, Wannamaker-Cleveland, and Piedmont-Cleveland. Acala made a good showing as did Bottoms in some experiments, but not well in others. Cook 10-10 is recommended as one of the very best varieties, although it produces a short staple during unfavorable seasons.

For central Alabama, Prof. Funchess recommends Cook 10-10, Wannamaker-Cleveland, and Piedmont-Cleveland, except where land is infected with wilt. On such lands a wilt-resistant variety should be planted. In south Alabama and central Alabama, where land is infected with wilt, Cook 307-6, and Dixie Triumph are two leading varieties. Cook 307-6 outyields Dixie Triumph, but the staple is not as good.

Prof. Funchess said that by planting good seed of these varieties farmers will be taking an important step toward bigger yields and more efficient production of cotton.

THE FAMILY'S FRIEND

Jackson, Miss.—"Dr. Pierce's medicines have been used in my father's family ever since I was a little girl and they always gave us entire satisfaction. I can recommend Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, 'Favorite Prescription,' and 'Pleasant Pellets.' These are the ones we used. My father always said the 'Golden Medical Discovery' could not be equaled as a blood enricher and to build up one's general health. PROHIBITION BROUGHT LOWER DEATH RATE

Westerville, O., Feb. 22.—Deaths from bootleg liquor are only a fraction of the number of deaths attributed to the drinking of alcoholic liquors before prohibition, according to a statement issued here today from the national headquarters of the Anti-Saloon League of America.

"Some years ago," said the statement, "when there were 200,000 or more open saloons in the country, Edward Bunnell Phelps, an eminent life insurance actuary, himself not a prohibition advocate, said there were 60,000 deaths in the United States annually due directly or indirectly to the drinking of alcoholic liquors. His statement was never contradicted.

"During recent months a few score persons over the country committed suicide by drinking denatured alcohol and other liquor concoctions obtained from bootleggers. At once an awful howl arose from the wets; Americans were being murdered, they said, and the government was responsible, because, in denaturing alcohol for industrial use, poisonous ingredients were used.

"When saloons were sending 60,000 persons to their graves annually, the wets employed all possible means to prevent the closing of these saloons, and the stopping of this wholesale murder. Why were they so different then, and why are they so horrified now when a comparatively few deliberately kill themselves while conspiring to violate the prohibition law?

"This noise from the wet camp will not excite the voters."

OUR HIGH WAGES

Some time ago Hamilton Fyffe had an interesting article in the London Spectator in which he related some of his experiences studying American business conditions, and asked the question: "Can American prosperity last?" Among other things, Mr. Fyffe declared, speaking of us, that "no country with a vast population has ever shown prosperity, or let us call it purchasing power, widely diffused among all classes, in any degree comparable; no vast population has ever been able to spend money on anything like the same scale."

Mr. Fyffe also marvels at the high wages paid our working people, and declares this is done without grumbling because "the connection between spending power and prosperity has been firmly fixed in the American mind." He tells how Henry Ford announced how "he was paying high wages in order to increase spending power of the nation and to stimulate production by enlarging demand for products."

There is much that is true in what Mr. Fyffe has to say. But he errs when he calls this a new doctrine. It is not new because it has been the doctrine on which the American protective principle has grown up. American protectionists have always believed in high wages and they have known that high wages to American workers could only be perpetuated by keeping the great home market for American goods. They have also maintained that protection aids prosperity by increasing the purchasing power of the worker and so enlarging the great home market which is, after all, the greatest market in the world, absorbing as it does 85% of all of America's manufactured products.

It has been the protective tariff which, by giving a job at high wages to the American worker has brought about the prosperity which is so widely diffused among all classes. In so doing it has for all time disproved the free trade claim that under protection "the rich grow richer, and the poor poorer."

Mr. Fyffe wisely states that so long as our high wage system is maintained our prosperity will "pull through" and he declares that this high wage system must be maintained at all costs if we are to remain permanently prosperous. With this every good American will agree. And the best way to maintain our high wage scale is to protect the home market and not subject it to the competition of lowly paid European and Asiaic workers.

B-B-Birthington's Washday

ARBOR DAY

Montgomery, Ala., Feb. 22.—Gov. Bibb Graves has designated Friday, March 4, for general observance as Arbor Day throughout the State. The Governor's proclamation setting aside this date is as follows:

Whereas, forests and trees are necessary to the health, comfort, and prosperity of the people of the State of Alabama; and

Whereas, the forests of the State are the basis of numerous industries affording, directly and indirectly, employment to scores of thousands of wage earners; and

Whereas, the demand for lumber material and other forest products far exceeds the quantity now being grown and it has become urgent that all citizens be impressed with the need to encourage the growth and proper management of timber and trees in all suitable locations in the State; and

Whereas, our public highways, school grounds, parks, and homes may be beautified and made more useful by the planting of trees;

Therefore, I, Bibb Graves, Governor of the State of Alabama, do designate and set apart the day of Friday, March 4, 1927, as Arbor Day. I urge upon the citizens, clubs, patriotic societies, civic organizations, and particularly upon the schools of the State, the observance of this occasion by the planting of trees in suitable places and by such other appropriate exercises as may add to the further understanding and appreciation of the benefits derived from the culture and proper use of trees and forests.

The State Commission of Forestry is preparing to issue an Arbor Day program for the use of schools, clubs, and other organizations. Copies of this program may be obtained by writing to the State Forester, at Montgomery.

PROHIBITION HAS BROUGHT PROSPERITY

Westerville, O., Feb. 22.—Economically, the United States is so much better off under prohibition that a majority of the voters could not be induced to return to the saloon days, according to a statement issued here today from national headquarters by Dr. F. Scott McBride, general superintendent of the Anti-Saloon League of America.

"Henry Ford, one of the greatest employers of labor in the United States," said the statement, "illustrated this recently in a statement in which he reported that the surveys he had made of the effect of prohibition on his employees, showing conditions before and after prohibition, contrasted 'like day and night'.

"Mr. Ford's survey showed that while before prohibition each group of 5,000 employees contained 100 who gave trouble because of drink, now not as many as 10 in each group of 5,000 give trouble from that cause. He also stated that men are working better, wasting less, and saving more.

"Prior to prohibition it was the usual warning of the wets that to close the breweries, distilleries and saloons would bring business depression and industrial stagnation, and that chaotic conditions generally would follow the adoption of the dry policy.

"But 7 years without saloons shows a different result. According to a recent report of the United States Treasury Department, bank deposits in 28,000 institutions totaled more than $48,800,000,000, an increase of about $2,300,000,000 over 1925, and that under prohibition and for the first time in history, there are more savings accounts in this country than families.

"No, the American voter is happy in his new economic standing and he does not want to return to saloons and poverty.

FARMER MAKES GOOD MONEY

E. J. Anderson, a farmer living 4 miles west of Pelham, Ga., came to town this week with concrete proof that there is money to be made in farming, though cotton may be 10 cents per pound or less. Mr. Anderson sold 53 hogs, weighing 12,704 pounds, for $11.60 per hundred which brought him $1,473.66, and the price was paid f. o. b. his farm.—Southern Agriculturist.

TELLS GROWERS TO CUT COTTON COST

That the east cotton belt acreage is rivaled by farmers west of the Mississippi River was the outstanding statement made by J. C. Pridmore, Director of the Southern Division, National Fertilizer Association, in a talk for the Radio Short Course over WSB, the Atlanta Journal station, a two weeks' broadcast conducted by the Sears-Roebuck Agricultural Foundation, in cooperation with the Fertilizer Association.

"Speaking of the economic situation prevailing over the Southeastern states, it is absolutely essential for cotton growers in this territory to avail themselves of every possible means for reducing the cost of growing cotton," said Mr. Pridmore. "Let me give you a picture of the expansion of cotton acreage west of the Mississippi River, where we now have approximately as much land devoted to cotton as the whole belt had five years ago. Not only is this true, but in that section it is possible for the farmers, through the use of machinery, to cultivate large areas, and, thereby, make cheaper cotton than is possible in the Southeastern states.

"To meet this situation and to grow cotton in competition with the farmers west of the river it is apparent that the Southeastern growers must use every possible means of making big yields per acre, which is the way to produce cotton at a low cost per pound. We not only must practice those methods known to influence the yield, but fertilize more wisely than ever before. We must feed the cotton plants liberally to get a profitable harvest. The fertilizer must contain those plant foods that will meet soil deficiencies and supply crop requirements and furnish the three elements — phosphoric acid, nitrogen, and potash — in proportions to constitute a balanced ration."

TEARING DOWN vs. BUILDING UP

The fellow was wise who said "I could easily tear down a $10,000 edifice but I would find much difficulty in building a chicken coop." And he spoke as much truth in these few words as some people utter in a whole lifetime. The nature of this man is not unlike that of most other people. It is easier for anyone to tear down than it is to build. But which is there the most glory in? The question is self-evident. There is much more glory in building a hen house than there is in tearing down a hen house or even a State house. But some people take great pride in tearing up what some fellow has with much difficulty and effort built. They can always in their mind's eye see something infinitely better. It is not a hard matter to think of and plan large and great things. One can build castles in the air, but he would find himself handicapped to take a saw and hammer and build a structure that he would be content to live in himself.

ELECTRIC SERVICE IMPROVES FARM LIVING CONDITIONS

The availability of electric power in rural sections has done much to improve the standard of living of the Alabama farmer, according to Lee C. Prickett, who has just completed a survey of electric power equipment in use by customers on rural lines in Alabama.

Mr. Prickett represented the Committee on the Relation of Electricity to Agriculture, a national organization composed of representatives of the Farm Bureau, National Grange, Association of Agricultural Engineers, the National Electric Light Association, and the United States Departments of Agriculture and the Interior.

DON'T DEPEND ON SINGLE CROP SOUTHEASTERN FARMERS TOLD

"Make your plans each year so you will be safe, even if it turns out to be one of the worst of years." This was the advice given by W. C. Lassetter, editor of Progressive Farmer, Birmingham, Ala., in a talk on "Food and Feed Crops for the Southeast," over WSB. Atlanta Journal radio station, during the Radio Short Course, conducted by the Sears-Roebuck Agricultural Foundation in cooperation with the Soil Improvement Committee of the National Fertilizer Association.

Mr. Lassetter told his farmer students not to embrace cotton as their sole means of support. In view of what happened in 1914, 1920, 1921, and 1926, he said that no man could doubt the wisdom or economy of that farm practice which insures a constant preparedness for seasons like the one just past.

"It is no wonder," he asserted, "that many farmers feel the necessity of putting just a little greater proportion of their land into cash crops, with the hope of making a little money."

One farmer who had been buying most of his feed told Mr. Lassetter that he was going to change, but wanted a guide to determine how much he should grow. Mr. Lassetter's answer to him was this:

"For each mule working 200 days a year you will need 50 to 65 bushels of corn or its equivalent in oats. For each 4-gallon cow you will need 2½ tons of legume hay, 25 bushels of corn, 40 bushels of oats, 700 pounds of cotton seed meal, and one to two acres of pasture. For each hog you grow to 200 pounds you should have 18 bushels of corn, or about 14 bushels with pasture. Each sow and two litters need 125 bushels of corn, 50 pounds of tankage, and 50 pounds of shorts, and in figuring out the acreage required for the several crops mentioned, make it a rule to plant for a bad year."

ALABAMA POWER TAXES TOUCH MILLION MARK

Birmingham, Ala., Feb. 22.—Taxes paid by the Alabama Power Company and its associated companies in Alabama in 1926, based on assessments as of October 1, 1925, touched the million mark for the first time, Power Company officials announced here today.

Of the $1,000,526 61 total taxes paid to the state, counties and municipalities in the form of ad valorem, franchise, license and other forms of taxation, over $45,000.00 finds its way directly into funds for the benefit of education in addition to such sums as are appropriated from the general fund of the state for educational purposes, a study of the report revealed.

Taxes payable in 1927, based on assessments as of October 1, 1926, will be in excess of the million mark, it was pointed out, as several additional millions of dollars have been invested in power dams, lines and distribution facilities since the October 1, 1925 assessments were made.

CHEMIST REVEALS STRAW HAS VALUE

New York, N. Y., Feb. 21.—A process by which a ton of straw may be burned to extract $250 worth of useful products from the smoke has been discovered by George H. Harrison, an industrial chemist, according to announcement by the magazine, Farm and Fireside.

The chemist, it is said, has obtained 1,600 pounds of raw products from each ton of wheat or oat straw, the products including a new germicide favorably reported on by Mayo Brothers of Rochester, roofing and damp roofing paint, and a fly spray.

It is even possible, but not yet economically practical to run an automobile on gas obtained from straw, the magazine quotes the chemist as saying, in an interview accorded in his laboratory near St. Paul Park, Minn.

"There is, indeed," said Mr. Harrison, "hardly any limit to the products that can be derived from straw by destructive distillation. When the process has grown up to its possibilities, every American farmer who grows grain will feel the difference. Even now, if you were to take me to a farm and offer me the grain or the straw, I would take the straw. Potentially, at least, it is the more valuable of the two."

Devaughn Swiftly Tried For B'ham Tryst Plot

NEGRO IS CONVICTED OF DOUBLE MURDER AFTER ONLY 5-MINUTE WAIT

Jury Sends Slayer of A. B. Moore and Mrs. Ruby Thornton to the Electric Chair in Record Breaking Time.

Will Be First to be Executed in the New Electric Chair Recently Installed at Kilby Prison.

WILL DIE IN ELECTRIC CHAIR SUNRISE APRIL 8

Birmingham, Ala., Feb. 21.—It took a jury in Judge H. P. Heflin's division of the criminal court only five minutes Monday afternoon to return a verdict of guilty of murder against Horace Devaughn, negro, who confessed to the roadside slaying of A. B. Moore, Southern Railway safety supervisor, and Mrs. Ruby Thornton, and to fix his punishment at death in the electric chair.

The trial which was brought to a climax suddenly by the admission of guilt by Devaughn from the witness stand, lasted only four hours and twenty minutes. Devaughn admitted slaying the couple on the lonely "Red Mill Road," and his only effort at defense was the assertion that he was frightened when Moore leaped out of the car as he approached the scene. He fired first on Moore and later on his companion, the negro said.

The verdict was returned after Solicitor Jim Davis had pleaded for half an hour that Devaughn be sent to the chair, the quicker the better. Although Devaughn will not be sentenced until later in the week, the jury's verdict automatically fixes his penalty at death in the newly installed electric chair at Kilby prison. He is the first person in the state to be convicted of a capital offense since the electrocution law became operative.

Only eight witnesses were used by the state, while Devaughn's testimony was the only evidence offered by the defendant.

BIG POWER OUTLET REFLECTS STATE'S GROWTH

Alabama Leads Southern States In Energy Produced.

Birmingham, Ala., Feb. 22.—Alabama is now leader among Southern states in electric energy produced. The output in 1926 was 25% in excess of 1925. These were the high lights of a preliminary summary of operations for the past year made public here today by Thomas W. Martin, President of Alabama Power Company.

Electric energy supplied the Power Company's customers reached the gigantic figure of 1,421,000,000 kilowatt hours, an increase of about 300,000,000 kilowatt hours, or 25%, over 1925.

The use of power producing facilities at Muscle Shoals, leased from the Government, accounted for a large part of the increase, although the output of Martin Dam helped to swell the total.

Alabama's figure topped the output of North Carolina, its closest competitor, by a wide margin, without taking into account the output of plants in Mobile, Southeast and Southwest Alabama, and in other sections of the state not served by the Company. The new peak entitled the Alabama Power Company to a rank of at least eighth among the power producers of the nation.

The output of 10 days peak loads carried in October, when energy supplied ran as high as 5,500,000 kilowatt hours per day, totalled more than the 1924 output, statisticians pointed out to illustrate the Company's rapid growth.

Service was extended to 46 additional communities during the year, and 63 wholesale, and 10,212 retail customers were added.

Nearly 1,000 miles of new transmission and distribution lines, and primary substations of 138,000 k. v. a. total capacity, were placed in service.

He Didn't Believe in Signs

A fireman on duty behind the scenes of one of the big New York theaters and charged with the responsibility of seeing to it that the regulations were strictly obeyed back-stage, suffered a profound shock as he came around from behind a stack of scenery, just before the evening performance. Standing in the opposite wings was a salesman for an East side cloak and suit concern, who had procured entrance via the stage door for the purpose of soliciting orders for his wares among the young ladies of the chorus. This person was vehemently puffing on a large, long, black, malignant-looking cigar.

In three jumps the scandalized fireman had the violator by the arm.

"Say," he demanded, "what the h—l do you mean, comin' in here with that torch burnin' in your face? Don't you see that sign right up over your head?"

The trespasser's eyes turned where the fireman's finger pointed.

"Sure, mister," he said, "I see it."

"Well, can't you read?" demanded the fireman.

"Sure I can read," admitted the other calmly.

"Then read what it says there. Don't you see what it says in big letters? It says—'No Smoking.'"

"Yes," agreed the East Sider with a winning smile, "but it don't say 'Positively.'"

IS THERE NO RELIEF FROM SKIN TORTURE?

Must I Continue to Suffer the Unbearable Itching?

Are you one of those unfortunates who are going through life suffering with a skin disease, making you uncomfortable, making you less efficient, interfering with your working hours, ruining your sleep? You may have tried many things without relief. Why not try S.S.S.? For more than 100 years it has been giving relief in many forms of skin disease. Thousands of letters of gratitude prove its worth.

"I feel so happy for what S. S. S. has done for me that I want others to know about it. I suffered twenty long years from eczema. At times the itching was unbearable. During that time, I used all kinds of salves without receiving any real benefit. After taking six bottles of S. S. S., I was cured of this dreadful disease. I recommend S. S. S. to anyone suffering from eczema, because I cannot praise it enough for what it has done for me." Cleophas Forte, Soldiers and Sailors Home, Quincy, Ill.

S.S.S. is purely vegetable. It is extracted from the fresh roots of medicinal plants and herbs and gives to Nature what she needs in building you up so that your system throws off the cause.

S.S.S. is sold at all good drug stores in two sizes. The larger size is more economical.

DR. J. W. SEWELL LAID TO REST

Father of Baseball Stars Died at Birmingham Hospital Sunday.

Birmingham, Ala., Feb. 21.—Dr. J. Wesley Sewell, 66, father of Joe and Luke Sewell, two stars on the Cleveland American League baseball team, died at the Norwood Hospital at Birmingham last Sunday. He had been ill for several weeks. His two illustrious baseball sons had been at his bedside for two weeks.

Dr. Sewell's home was in Titus, Ala., in Elmore County, where he went to practice following graduation from the University of Alabama. He was a leader in his profession in his section of Alabama.

Several weeks ago Dr. Sewell was stricken. He was brought to Birmingham for treatment, but his condition steadily grew worse until death came Sunday.

Surviving Dr. Sewell are four sons: Dr. T. H. Sewell of Titus, Joe and Luke of the Cleveland Indians, and Tom Sewell of the University of Alabama; two daughters: Mrs. J. L. Appleton of Montevallo, and Mrs. M. K. Tucker of Huntsboro, Ala.; a sister, Mrs. L. M. Broody of Titus; and two brothers: W. B. Sewell of Titus, and John Sewell of Nashville, Tenn.

Dr. Sewell was a member of the Alcazar temple shrine of Montgomery and the Masonic Lodge No. 475 at Deatsville. The body was sent to Wetumpka Monday for burial, and the funeral held there at 2:30 o'clock on that day.

TO CHURCHES OF THE CHILTON COUNTY ASSOCIATION

Dear Brethren:

Under the auspices of the Baptist State Board and at the call of your Executive Committee, I am visiting the churches of your Association.

If not providentially hindered I will be at Oak Grove Church on Friday, February 25, at 11 a. m., and 7 p. m.

I carry on my car in a handsome book-case, which opens on each side and at the rear, hundreds of books—Bibles, Testaments, Mothers' Books, Children's Books, Gift Books, Picture Books of many kinds, and will distribute tracts wherever I go. Books can be seen and selected better by day than at night.

At the night service 31 pictures, 3 or 4 feet square, all in bright colors, will be shown on a white canvas.

Please announce the appointment at Church, Sunday School, and day school, and at any other public gathering possible.

I am praying that God will make my visit a benediction to the old, a rare treat to the young, and a blessing to all.

I know you are busy. Your Lord is busy, too, preparing a place for you. He will not let you lose the hour given to His service.

Give me a good turnout. I want to meet and shake hands with everybody. I want to know you personally, learn to love you all, and bear to you this sweet message of the olden time, "Behold I bring you good tidings of great joy." Bring the children to both services. — B. Davie, State Colporter.

SARDIS COMMUNITY WAKES UP

Editor Union-Banner:

I see in your issue of the 17th a statement of an educational conference held in Clanton on the 16th. It was quite a pleasure to read of the interest exhibited in the meeting relative to education. Reading about that meeting has caused me to write these few words to your paper.

Sardis community has awakened and determined not to be behind in this great work. Hon. Buford Lawrence, our county superintendent of education, came here and made a talk which seemed to put the people to thinking about the future of our boys and girls. It put an enthusiastic spirit in us where we had heretofore been asleep.

Mr. Tommie Deason has given five acres of his best farming lands to the school, and with the location fixed, the ball was started to rolling. Work will begin at the earliest possible date.

We have one of the best farming districts in Chilton County, and our citizens are an average people in religious as well as secular affairs and intelligence. This school will cause more good people to settle among us, and then we shall become a community of which our county can and will be proud.

Now, last but not least, as we know that nothing can prosper without the approval of God, we ask all Christian people to pray that His smiles may rest on our efforts in this great work. —R. E. Roper, Maplesville, Ala.

The anxiety of our fruit growers on account of cold weather for the past few nights is not altogether justified. Tree fruit does not appear to be damaged at all, and strawberries, while suffering some from frosted blooms, fruit which was set and partially protected by the foliage does not appear to be injured. The result will probably be an unusually early crop, barring more severe weather, while the season is not so far advanced that the plants which are apparently uninjured will still produce a normal crop.

Thorsby public school has now enrolled an even 250 pupils. This calls for more room and a larger teaching force than is now available. Present facilities contemplated accommodation for 150 pupils, and the great excess of attendance serves as a handicap on every boy and girl in the school. It is hoped that between the time the school closes, April 12, and the opening next fall, some adequate provision will be made for all who want to attend.

The school gave a play entitled "The Old Fashion Mother" to a good audience at Maplesville last Saturday night, and repeated it at the Thorsby public school building Tuesday night, February 22. A quartet composed of Hudson Williams, Aiken Collins, David Childress, and John Childress gave several selections in connection with the play.

Last week we called attention to the apparent lack of interest on the part of many Thorsby people in the Thorsby Parent-Teachers Association. There was no criticism, real or implied, of the Association or any of its members. In fact, it is a splendid example of what can be done for community betterment. A meeting of the Association last week was well attended; 8 new members were enrolled. Prof. Bean made an interesting address on the benefits of such an Association to the community. All the teachers and several other members of the P. T. A. attended the County P. T. A. meeting at Clanton February 16.

Mr. Ralph Altman, a former resident of Thorsby, came from Birmingham and spent Sunday with friends in Thorsby. Mr. Altman is employed as an electrician by the Westinghouse Electric Co., who sent him to the Alabama Power Co., to investigate some trouble in connection with the electrical works.

Mr. Carl Meade of Birmingham spent Tuesday with his parents at home.

Miss Pearl Steiner, a teacher at Lock 12, spent Sunday at home.

Quite a party, including Prof. Bean and Miss Stewart and a good number of pupils of the public school motored to Maplesville Saturday night, where they put on the play, "The Old Fashion Mother." In spite of the unfavorable weather a nice sum was realized.

Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Jones of New Salem were week end visitors of Mr. and Mrs. A. T Robinson at Thorsby.

Mr. Hollie Jones of Calera was a visitor in Thorsby Sunday.

Mrs. D. L. Ward's mother, Mrs. Wright, who has been quite ill, was visited recently by her son, Dr. G. W. Wright, of Vineta, Okla. She is improving slowly.

Dr. G. W. Wright left for his home in Oklahoma Tuesday, after spending two weeks at the home of Mrs. D. L. Ward.

Mrs. S. C. Wood entertained the Thorsby Sewing Circle No. 1 last Wednesday afternoon.

Tuesday afternoon, February 5, the Institute basket ball team evened up matters with Thompson High of Siluria. The game was a dandy; they were never more than 3 points apart, and the game was won the last half minute, Thorsby winning 10 to 9.

The Institute will have its annual Declamatory Contest on Saturday evening, February 26, at 7:30; 8 speakers are in the contest—4 boys who will give declamations, and 4 girls who will give readings. The admission is 15 cents for pupils of Thorsby Institute or public school, or children under 12 years of age; 25 cents for adults.

A good crowd was in attendance at Thorsby Christian Endeavor last Sunday, February 20. The topic was: "Character—What is it? What affects it?" John Van Derveer was leader. It was Consecration Sunday and everyone responded to their name with something that entered into the making of good character.

STUDENTS of psychology might tell us that a woman adopts tunics and flounces because subconsciously she still clings to the domesticity of aprons. But students of style just know she wears them because she likes to be in fashion. For smartness is securely tied to the new-fashioned apron strings which girdle this frock and come gaily to the front in a breezy bow. Informal little tucks at the shoulder and at the back of the neck lend fulness, while picoting finishes tunic and girdle. This makes the simple daytime type of frock, in crêpe de Chine, voile, or gingham, which every woman includes in her wardrobe, Winter or Summer.

Prominent Citizen Died Following Auto Accident

The death of Mr. William C. Cotton, age 58, occurred about two o'clock last Sunday afternoon at the Central Alabama Hospital in Clanton, following injuries received in an automobile wreck early Sunday morning.

It is reported that Mr. Cotton was coming north toward Clanton with a truck. As a car passed him on the highway near the home of Ed Giles he lost control of the truck, which went down a bank and turned partly over, lodging against a telegraph pole.

The driver of the car, Mr. Mark Bartholf, of Loveland, Colorado, stopped and picked Mr. Cotton up and carried him to the hospital, where he died five hours later.

Mr. Cotton was a prominent citizen who lived north of Clanton. He was a member of the Masonic Lodge. He was buried by Mell Martin at New Salem Monday afternoon. Rev. W. P. Lowery conducted the funeral, after which the Masons held their burial rites at the grave.

HENDERSON HAYS AND CRIT RAY ARRESTED WITH LIQUOR

Special Deputy Loss Robinson caught Henderson Hays and Crit Ray near Jemison Saturday with eight gallons of whiskey in a ten-gallon keg. The report of the arrest says that Deputy Robinson was watching the place where the liquor was concealed, and Hays and Ray came to the place with a supply of jugs and bottles. As they were making ready to fill up their bottles out of the keg, the officer raised up and halted them. Ray stayed with the keg and surrendered. Hays joined the bird gang. He was arrested Sunday by officer Robinson and placed under bond for appearance in the Circuit Court. This is the second offense for Hays. He was caught a few months ago and paid off his fine in the court of the mayor at Jemison.

Ray was turned over to the city authorities of Jemison, where his case will be disposed of in mayor's court.

NEW SHOE SHOP WILL BE OPERATED BY I. D. ARMSTRONG

Mr. I. D. Armstrong, formerly with Alabama Harness & Shoe Shop, has severed his connection with that business and put up a shoe repair shop of his own in the building next to Service Barber Shop on Main Street between the highway and railroad.

Concerning his new place Mr. Armstrong says: "I want to invite all my friends and former customers to patronize my new shop. I am equipped to do the very best grade of work, and my long experience in the shoe repair business renders me able to turn out good work. Every job done in my shop shall have my own personal supervision, and I guarantee satisfaction."

Elsewhere in this paper our readers will find the advertisement of Mr. Armstrong announcing the opening of his new shop. He is equipped with all modern shoe machinery for turning out work promptly and in good order.

UNCLE JIM MIMS BRINGS IN PRIZE EAR OF CORN

Uncle Jim Mims of Collins Chapel has many "hobbies" of a farmer. He takes pride in fine cattle and hogs. In fact he studies carefully and with interest every phase of farm life and has devot d much time to means of producing more and better farm crops. But perhaps his "long suit" is corn; that is, just plain corn in its natural vegetable state. For several years past he has brought in samples of his product, all of which have been very fine indeed.

This year he has beaten his own past record by showing an ear of corn the like of which it would take only 46 to make a bushel. Close inspection of this ear shows that it weighs 25 ounces, contains 1,536 grains, one cob. It is 9 1-2 inches around, and 10 1-8 inches long. We have it at The Union-Banner office, where it may be seen and examined by anyone who is interested in fine corn.

Uncle Jim authorizes us to say that he will give a prize of $5.00 in cash to any man in Chilton County who will bring in an ear of corn that will match up with his in every respect. He does not confine his challenge to Chilton County alone, but says he will make it state-wide, and give a prize of $1.00 in cash to any man in Alabama who will match his ear of corn.

"AN OLD FASHIONED MOTHER"

"An Old Fashioned Mother" will be given at the Chilton County High School March 7th.

This play was given at Maplesville recently to a full house. It was played at Thorsby last spring and was repeated there last week. The big auditorium would not hold the people who came to see it the second time.

A high class play with plenty of comedy, pathos, and good music; will be given by the Thorsby High School.

JESSE TEEL'S SHOE AND HARNESS SHOP IN NEW LOCATION

The Alabama Harness & Shoe Shop under the ownership and management of Mr. Jesse E. Teel, has been moved into the building formerly occupied by the Chilton Bakery, next to the Moatts Brothers Market.

In his new quarters Mr. Teel has much more room in which to display his large line of merchandise, such as shoes, harness, leather and army goods, together with more space to devote to his repair business.

Mr. Teel began his business here after he came out of the army at the close of the World War, and has built it up to where it ranks among the foremost shops of its kind in this part of the State. In fact, we doubt if there is a town the size of Clanton anywhere else in Alabama that has a shoe and harness shop of the volume and capacity of the one Mr. Teel has established and successfully conducted here for the past half dozen years.

Speaking of his plans and accomplishments, Mr. Teel said: "I established this business here with faith in its future. I have sought to conduct it along lines of service and fair treatment to those who trade with me. In future I shall adhere to that same policy, and I invite my friends to continue as my customers, pledging you my best efforts to render the fullest measure of service and satisfaction."

GOOD SERVICES AT FRIENDSHIP CHURCH LAST SUNDAY

The three services held at Friendship church last Sunday were all exceptionally good and well attended. No Sunday school was held in the morning but just prior to the preaching hour, Mr. B. Davie, official colporter for Alabama, took up about thirty minutes explaining to the church his collection of religious literature. Some of the best literature to be had anywhere was displayed by Mr. Davie and offered for sale and distribution to anyone wishing same. At 11 o'clock, the pastor, Rev. W. P. Lowery, preached an interesting sermon.

The singing society met in the afternoon at 2 o'clock and two hours of very fine singing was enjoyed by a house full of singers and attentive listeners. T. E. Wyatt acted as chairman, and an arrangement committee of three was appointed, consisting of T. G. Wyatt, Jesse Baker, and Tommie Mims. The program as arranged by the committee placed the following on the floor to sing two songs each: G. C. Powell, J. E. Miner, Willie Mims, E. H. Foshee, E. L. Powell, S. V. Miller, Rube Miller, Jesse Baker, Melvin Mims, R. M. Robinson, and C. H. Robinson. Following S. V. Miller a splendid quartet was sung by the Providence band composed of G. C. Powell, Miss Ethel Powell, R. M. Robinson, and E. L. Powell. A quartet arranged by Jesse Baker and composed of Mr. Baker, Mrs. Baker, Enoch Mims and T. E. Wyatt, followed the directing of R. M. Robinson. The closing song was sung by the chairman, and after a few announcements, the society was dsmissed with prayer by Rev. T. J. Deason.

At 7:00 in the evening came the main attraction of the day, when Mr. Davie gave a stereopticon lecture on the life of Christ. This lecture was intensely interesting and was instructive and elevating as well. Before the picture Mr. Davie told several stories for the little folks, which they enjoyed to the fullest extent.

The people at Friendship were indeed glad to have Mr. Davie with them, and wish to endorse the splendid work he is doing for the Baptists of Alabama.

It was onnounced at all the services Sunday that Rev. T. J. Deason would preach at Friendship next Sunday at 11:00 o'clock. It is hoped that all who can will come out and hear Rev. Deason.

Visitors are always welcome at Friendship. We are always glad to have so many singers out to help us in our singing. The society meets every fourth Sunday afternoon, and extends an invitation to all to come out and help them.

DEATH OF MRS. SARAH ADLINE CULVER

Mrs. Sarah Adline Culver, age 75, died suddenly last Thursday at the home of her son near Coopers. She was the wife of George P. Culver, whose death occurred four days prior to her death.

Rev. J. D. Hughes conducted the funeral at Chestnut Creek Church Friday. Burial was in charge of Mell Martin.

MRS. ROSA COLLINS

Mrs. Rosa Collins, age 40, wife of Sam W. Collins, died last Thursday in a hospital at Tuscaloosa. The cause of her death was given as pellagra. She is survived by her husband and one child.

Mrs. Collins was the daughter of the late Jim Cooley, one time sheriff of Chilton County. She was reared in Clanton, where she lived until a few years ago.

The funeral was conducted at Thorsby last Saturday, where burial was in charge of Mell Martin.

MILK MORE COWS BECAUSE THE DAIRY COW IS PROFITABLE

Dr. W. L. Parrish, prominent local veterinarian, is an enthusiastic booster for the dairy cow. He is familiar with the many advantages that await the farmer who develops his opportunities in dairying. Doctor Parrish, in discussing the cow subject, made the following statement to The Union-Banner:

"The dairy cow is a profit producer in more ways than one. She is the one source of our most complete food. As a soil builder she has no equal. She is the friend of the family and the baby's storehouse for wholesome, healthful food. She has always been on the life line of the sick. She has always contributed materially to the health and vigor of our boys and girls. She has helped preserve the health of our fathers and mothers.

"Can you imagine that oleomargarine could ever take the place of pure butter? It never will be done, when the question of food and health constituents is considered. We would not relish cottonseed oil as the base of our ice cream. And imagine your bowl of nice, luscious strawberries floating in castor or cottonseed oil instead of the whole milk which you get from our friend, the family cow.

"I am not positive, but I am reasonably sure that we are consuming more milk and dairy products in Clanton and Chilton County than ever before; but still we need more per capita.

"The public is demanding a purer milk than ever before. They have a right to demand the best. But very few of us really know whether we are drinking milk from a tubercular cow or not. But fortunately we have never had a tubercular reacting cow in Chilton County to my knowledge.

"Commercially there is a distinct and positive reason why the farmers of Chilton County should milk more cows. Owing to our good highways we are only a few minutes from two of the largest cities in Alabama, where there is a tremendous demand for dairy products. Chilton County farmers might as well furnsh a big part of that demand as for those cities to go out of the state to get their milk and butter.

"Chilton County farmers, with but small expense, could furnish grade A raw milk and sell it right in Birmingham at a nice profit. Suppose a farmer has 10 cows that will give an average of three gallons of milk a day. Say he sells that milk at 40c a gallon, which should be the minimum price. This would bring the farmer $12 a day from his cows. At the most, the feed for the 10 cows would not cost over $5 a day. This would leave the farmer $7 a day to cover his labor. For a year he would get a salary of $2,555 out of his 10 cows.

"If that same farmer will take care of his manure from the 10 cows and use it properly an his farm, in five years he could make his farm produce from two to five times what it produced in the beginning of his dairy business.

"The farmers of Chilton County should look into the dairy situation, I think," said Dr. Parrish in concluding his remarks. "A farmer who can operate a one-horse cotton farm can take care of 10 cows, and I believe you will agree with me that $2,555 a year clear above expenses is better than he can do with cotton and one mule."

CARD OF THANKS

We wish to express our appreciation through your paper for the pounding given us recently. We thank everyone for their help; may God's richest blessings be bestowed upon each and every one of you, is our prayer.—Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Mims and Family.

JUVENILE TOUR CONTEST BY STONE MOUNTAIN MEMORIAL

On an island in the James River, about 40 miles above the point where it empties into the Chesapeake Bay, stand the ruins of the ancient settlement of Jamestown, where landed the first English-speaking colonists on the western hemisphere, in the year 1607.

This historic shrine, now owned and preserved by the Association for the Preservation of Virginia Antiquities, will be visited by the prize-winning girls in the contest for enrollment of children in the juvenile department of the Stone Mountain Memorial, on their tour of Southern shrines on a special train to be operated in the summer of 1927 by a group of Southern newspapers.

In 1619 there was held at Jamestown the first legislative assembly in America, and in the same year were landed the first boatload of African slaves.

Jamestown having been the beginning point and foundation of Virginia it naturally became the capital of the colony, and the seat of the government was located there until 1698. Originally Jamestown was on a peninsula running out into the James River. Subsequently the James River overflowed the narrow neck of the peninsula and cut a channel through it, so that the peninsula became an island. On account of the unhealthful climate of the very low ground, the seat of the government was removed in 1698 to the town of Williamsburg, some 25 miles north of Jamestown.

The original log houses erected by the pioneers were gradually supplanted by stone structures, including a church, a fort, and some dwellings.

In 1676 there was an uprising against the Colonial Governor, led by Nathaniel Bacon, known as Bacon's Rebellion. Bacon and his followers complained that the Governor refused to allow them to take arms against the Indians who were attacking the colonists in the outlying settlements. Bacon organized a small army, defeated the Indians, and then laid siege to the garrison of Jamestown.

In the miniature civil war which followed, Jamestown was almost entirely destroyed, and only the stone buildings survived. These ancient ruins standing on the island, in the midst of a dense forest of live oaks, are today the last vestige of the settlement founded in the wilderness, birthplace of the great Commonwealth of Virginia and forerunner of Anglo-Saxon dominance in North America.

Mr. and Mrs. Hosea Downs, and Mr. and Mrs. Horace Davis and daughter, Francis, of Verbena, motored to Auburn and spent Sunday.

Dr. T. H. Neighbors, Dr. J. P. Hayes, Mr. Grady Broadhead, and Herbert Neighbors, Jr., spent Friday fishing at their camp on Coosa River.

Miss Evelyn Hix spent the week end in Birmingham with her parents.

They were operating a large box-type copper still, which outfit, together with 12 gallons of their product, fell into the hands of the raiders for prompt destruction.

The officers conducting the raid were Sheriff Collins and Deputy Murrah, Federal officers Gillespie and Burns, and special officer Harvey Foshee.

Ford, Wallace, and Langsford were brought to jail Tuesday afternoon.

The boy was carried to East Lake by Deputy Will Culp Monday.

NEGROES FINED LAST WEEK HUNTING WITHOUT LICENSE

Jim Powell and Robert Ross, negroes, were fined $10 each in the court of J. L. Wilson last week, on a charge of violating the game law. They were said to have been caught hunting without license.

WARRANT FOR THE ARREST OF DIXIE VARNER, NEGRO AT VERBENA

A warrant for the arrest of Dixie Varner, a negro at Verbena, was placed in the hands of Sheriff Collins for execution the later part of last week. As the officer was preparing to serve the warrant Monday he was informed by Justice of the Peace, J. S. Catts, at Verbena that the negro had come before him and stood trail for the charge. It was charged that Varner cut another negro.

CHARLEY ELLISON ARRESTED ON LIQUOR CHARGE SATURDAY

Sheriff Collins and Deputy Murrah went to the steel bridge neighborhood on Waxahatchie last Saturday armed with search warrants to look for liquor at some certain place. As a result of their investigation, Charley Ellison was arrested and brought to jail on a charge of violating the prohibition law. A quanity of whiskey was found on his premises. Ellison later made bond and was released for later appearences in court.

ORGANIZATION TO BOOST MEMBERSHIP ENLISTMENT

With preliminary organization work completed and a definite program ahead of them, the Chilton County Cooperative Association has started plans to quickly enlarge the membership, in order that it may be representative of the county and have "manpower" sufficient to carry out the few well defined activities immdiately.

One to five dairy cows on every farm; one brood sow on every farm; 50 to 200 pure bred hens on every farm; permanent pastures; Cream and milk routes. These are some of the important matters now demanding the attention of the association.

The executive committee met last Wednesday night at the Baker School House and plans were worked out to start the program. While this is being written (Wednesday) many citizens are coming into town to attend a general meeting of the association and to hear Frank E. Boyd speak. He is authority on fertilizer and is scheduled to speak at 2:30 this afternoon.

For the benefit of those in the county who are interested in fertilizer and its scientific uses, the Union-Banner will publish Mr. Boyd's speech in detail next week.

The officers and executive committee of the association are exerting every effort to put the organization over, ever keeping in mind that the organization is strictly non-political, non-sectarian, but truly co-operative, and they solicit the aid and influence of the whole county in working out the problems before them.

Good Health Requires Good Elimination

TO be well, you must keep the blood stream free from impurities. If the kidneys lag, allowing body poisons to accumulate, a toxic condition is created. One is apt to feel dull, languid, tired and achy. A nagging backache is sometimes a symptom, with drowsy headaches and dizzy spells. That the kidneys are not functioning properly is often shown by burning or scanty passage of secretions. PROHIBITION LOWERS DEATH RATE OF THE UNITED STATES

Columbus, O., March 1.—Saving in human lives through the decreased death rate prevailing under prohibition is estimated by the American Insurance Union of this city as close to a million lives in the last five years.

This estimate was made public today in a statement issued by the Anti Saloon League of America "as a splended reason why the voters will not permit the repeal of nullification of our prohibition laws."

The statement quotes the official publication of the American Insurance Union, which has 165,000 policy holders, as follows:

"The decrease in the death rate which accompanied prohibition has greatly and favorably affected Insurance companies. It is reflected in gains from mortality, one of the principal sources of profit for Insurance companies. In 183 ordinary insurance companies this gain in 1923, the last year which has been computed amounted to $156,696,949, while in twenty-seven industrial insurance companies it amounted to $226,641,963. This represents the difference between the expected and actual amount of death slaims payable.

"The saving in human lives through the decreased death rate prevailing under prohibition has been estimated as close to a million lives in the last five years."

In connection with this report, the American Insurance Union, through its president, John J. Lentz, gave this advice to its policy holders:

"Be an entillegent thinker on the prohibitoin question by remembering to view both sides of the question! Don't let some one else do your thinking for you!"

SCHOOL GIRL CROWNED "COTTON QUEEN" FOR LARGEST YIELD PER ACRE

AMPLE evidence that cotton can be grown profitably even when lint is selling at eleven cents a pound, or less, is shown in the records of prize winners in official Cotton Contests held in seven states last season.

The contest winners by growing high yields of lint per acre brought the cost of production down to seven cents, or less, per pound. These results are not isolated, but come from various sections of the Cotton Belt, South Carolina, Georgia, Mississippi, Tennessee, Louisiana, Texas and Arkansas, where State-wide cotton growing contests were held.

One of the best records of the year was that made by H. M. Cox, a cotton farmer of Millen, Georgia. Mr. Cox won first prize in the Georgia Contest, producing 4,914 pounds of lint cotton on five acres. The cost of producing this cotton, including labor, was six and one-fourth cents per pound. Mr. Cox made a net profit on his cotton of $71.25 per acre.

Public attention was recently directed to the achievement of these cotton champions through their trip to Washington as guests of the Chilean Nitrate of Soda Educational Bureau. In every State except Texas the Grand Prize Winner used Nitrate of Soda in fertilizing his crop. In Texas, G. Mont Adams, who acquired national fame in 1925 by growing sixteen bales of cotton on five acres, receiving the Grand Prize for that year, made another remarkable record in 1926. Last season he grew eleven and three-fourths bales of long staple cotton on five acres of poor Upland soil and received the first prize for Upland staple and is generally acclaimed as the East Texas Cotton Champion.

Mr. Adams was a member of the Chilean Nitrate of Soda Educational Bureau's party in Washington.

"The fertilizer used on my cotton consisted of 335 pounds of Nitrate of Soda, 565 pounds of Acid Phosphate and 100 pounds of potash before planting and a side dressing of 100 pounds of Nitrate of Soda per acre after chopping," said Mr. Adams.

"I have always used Nitrate of Soda over my entire farm and hardly think I could make a crop without it."

One of the best cotton producers in the country last season was Miss Elga Daniels, the eighteen-year-old daughter of a tenant farmer living near Nacogdoches, Texas. Miss Daniels was an active participant in the Club Work conducted for farm boys and girls by the County Agent of her County, and last year was enrolled in the Nacogdoches County Cotton Club Contest in which one hundred and ten boys and girls competed. She finished in first place, producing two and one-half bales on one acre. The County Agent estimated that her cotton cost 8 1-3c per pound. Ordinary fertilizer was supplemented with 200 pounds of Nitrate of Soda.

Miss Daniels has been crowned "Cotton Queen" of her County, and made the trip to Washington as representative of Texas Farm Club Girls.

For several years Miss Daniels has raised cotton and other crops on her father's farm, saving the profits towards an education. Last fall she moved to the town of Nacogdoches in order to attend the local High School.

using the money made on the farm for her expenses there.

Although Mr. Cox has been given the title of Cotton Champion of Georgia for his accomplishments last season, he had a close second in George W. Dozier of Moultrie, Georgia. Mr. Dozier produced 4,432 pounds of lint on five acres at a cost of 6.23c per pound, making a net profit of $64.42 per acre. L. D. Smith of Doerun, Georgia, finished third with 4,258 pounds on five acres, the cost of production being 6 1-3c per pound, with a net profit per acre of $61.67.

One of the lowest costs of production reported for 1926 was that made by Mr. J. J. Marchant, also of Doerun, Georgia, whose lint cost him exactly 6c per pound to produce. Mr. Marchant grew 4,059 pounds of lint to the acre, and received fourth prize. His net profit per acre was $60.95. All of the Georgia contestants used liberal applications of Nitrate of Soda.

Louisiana's cotton champion for last year was Mr. C. T. Connella of Alexandria who produced six bales on five acres. His only fertilizer was 200 pounds of Nitrate of Soda per acre before planting.

In the State Cotton Contest of South Carolina, George T. Swearingen of Trenton, finished in first place, having produced 1,044 pounds of lint per acre. B. R. Smith of Johnston, S. C., was second with 1,019 pounds of lint.

The Cotton Producers Cooperative Association of Arkansas is interested in stimulating interest in high yields per acre among vocational students, and prizes are awarded each year for the greatest production on three acres. Last year this State Cotton Contest was won by Pierce Adams, a young man of Bruno, Arkansas, who grew 2,450 pounds of lint on three acres at a cost of 8.7c per pound. In 1925 young Adams won the second prize in this contest. Elstner Beall won first prize in this contest for 1925 and 1924, and this year finished fourth. Both boys in recognition of their accomplishments were members of the Chilean Nitrate of Soda Educational Bureau party. The Tennessee Cotton champion is Mr. Guy Harrell of Brownsville, who produced 4,180 pounds of lint cotton on five acres. The second prize was won by E. M. Shelton of Dyersburg, Tennessee, who raised 3,626 pounds on the five-acre area. The 1926 Cotton champion of Mississipi is Mr. R. L. Matthews of Belzoni, Humphrey Co., Miss., who won first place in the State Contest by producing 13,265 pounds of seed cotton on three acres. The second prize was won by Mr. J. N. Fulgham of Utica, Hinds County with 11,493 pounds of seed cotton, and third prize was won by W. Z. Cotton of Rosedale, Bolivar County, with 10,286 pounds of seed cotton.

One of the most remarkable yields of cotton growing is that of the 1,071 Alabama Farm Club boys who produced 1,071 bales on 1,071 acres. Practically all of them used the Auburn method in fertilizing, which is: 400 lbs. of Acid Phosphate and 50 to 100 pounds of Potash, put out at planting time; 200 pounds of Nitrate of Soda, one-fourth at planting time and the other three-fourths applied as a side dressing just as the cotton is chopped.

New York landlords declare that there is no housing crisis there, but come to think of it, landlords are seldom able to detect a crisis of that kind.

"Fertilizer costs money, but if it is bought and used intelligently money invested in fertilizer brings handsome returns."—M. J. Funchess, Auburn.

The race that never ends

BUILDING a telephone system is an undertaking that never ends. The telephone plant constructed for today's needs, must be so engineered as to have a definite place in the plans to meet the anticipated demands of the future—five, ten and even twenty years hence.

Last year, for instance, there was a gross expenditure of $33,225,352 for additions and replacements to the Southern Bell Telephone System in the nine Southeastern States.

There was a net gain of 66,289 new telephone stations—making a total of 1,242,689 telephone stations in the nine Southeastern States. Of these 843,172 are Bell-owned, 362,308 are owned by other companies, but connected with the Bell System and 37,209 are located in farm homes.

The investment in service, December 31, 1926, was $166,757,502, not including $3,834,097 of construction work in progress.

To build, operate and manage this great telephone system requires the services of an army of skilled men and women whose annual payroll amounts to $24,433,290. Another big expense was the tax bill of $4,432,018, which was an increase of 174 per cent over the tax bill of 1920.

There was an improvement in the efficiency and scope of the service, so noticeable as to win the commendation of our customers, and the largely increased traffic was handled with greater speed and accuracy than ever before.

The presentation of these details is a continuation of our policy of taking the public fully into our confidence. It also gives us another opportunity to express the appreciation of the telephone workers for your friendly interest and co-operation.

SCHOOL TEXTBOOK NEWS

Little Rock Ark., March 1.—Of unusual interest to Alabama, which is seeking lower textbook prices, is the action of the Arkansas Legislature which has just enacted a law permiting textbook companies to sell direct to the relations without the "middleman profit," heretofore collected by the state depository and added to the cost of the books.

Under the new Arkansas law, small publishers who do not maintain their own shipping departments can still distribute their books through the state depository, but must pay themselves for this distribution, instead of adding the distributon charges to the cost price of the books as has been the custom.

Legislators say the new law will cut the price of school books approximately ten percent, and that many thousands of dollars will be saved to the parents of the state. The bill passed the senate by a vote of 29 to 1 and the house by a vote of 57 to 33.

Alabama educators have been watching the Arkansas textbook bill with much interest, as a similiar law is contemplated in Alabama to do away with the state depository system in that state.

After thorough investigation, the Arkansas lawmakers found that most of the textbook publishers obtain the same price for their books f. o. b. the factory no matter where the books are sold, and that the final retail price depends upon how the books are distributed. In Arkansas and Alabama, state laws provide that the books be handled through a state depository, which then distributed them to the retailers, both the state depository and the retailers collecting a profit.

Most states have done away with state depositories, relics of carpebagging days, and now allow the publishers to sell direct, thus elimating the depository or middleman profit.

JEMISON NEWS

Mrs. W. C. Erwin, Correspondent

We are very grateful to Mr. Montgomery, our agricultural teacher, for the following tribute to the Parent-Teachers Association of Jemison High School. We feel very fortunate in having Mr. Montgomery in our little town. He says: "To me the work of the P. T. A. is remarkable. Immediately upon arriving at Jemison I learned that the P. T. A. had a permanent plan drawn by the Auburn landscape artist for the beautification of the school grounds, and also had money in the treasury to do the work with. That was almost a shock to me, as the experience of vocational teachers over the state has largely been one of the department of vocational agriculture fixing the school grounds just a little year by year, due to short funds. Then also many towns do not appreciate the value of a complete plan and beautiful school grounds. The school grounds, under the auspices of the P. T. A., in co-operation with the school boys, has now taken on new life, and an educator from Auburn, visiting the school last week, remarked that the P. T. A. were certainly to be commended for the splendid work already done on the school grounds. The next thing I learned was that it was largely through the efforts of the P. T. A. that the seats in the school auditorium were purchased. It is true the P. T. A. obtained half of the cost of the seats from the county board of education. It was by the proper presentation of their cause to an interested board, and then they solicited diligently for the remainder. Other things accomplished by the P. T. A. are shades, curtain for stage in auditorium, and library books for the school. There are dozens of small things accomplished by them that I will not name, but all of it took thought, time, work, and money, and some of their own money, too. It is not every town that can boast of as hard working and efficient a P. T. A. as the one at Jemison. This little town is of better possibilities than some might imagine, and is surrounded by good white farm owners, and good roads leading into a number of communities. The P. T. A. is proving what its citizenship can do when it concentrates and co-operates together. The faculty and pupils of the Jemison public and high school are indeed fortunate to have such a live P. T. A. assist them, and the pace for a more progressive and better Jemison has been set."

Fashion show? Yes, it was a grand success Friday night at the Jemison school auditorium. Through the kindness of The New Williams Store of Birmingham, a display of beautiful spring dresses and suits, with lovely girls from Clanton, Thorsby, Calera, and Jemison, made our Fashion Show interesting. Those taking part as models were Misses Kathleen Mullins, Willodean Reynolds, of Clanton; Eleanor Rowell, of Thorsby; Lucy and Ada Holcombe, of Calera; Doris Dennis, Mattie Fay Lawrence, Mattie Wells, and Lurline Martin, of Jemison; Minnie Peebles, Ann Jones, Alice Lyman, and Alice Quarles, of Alabama College, Montevallo; together with Miss Heflin, a teacher in our school, Miss Coleman, our music teacher, and Hon. and Mrs. Percy Pitts of Clanton, gave a most enjoyable program, consisting of singing, readings, and music. A little red bird dance was given by Charles Frances Glass, Mary Frank Wells, Parilee Henson, Melba Patton, Lola and Lois Erwin, all music pupils of Miss Coleman. The committee of the fashion show are due much credit and compliments; by their efforts it was a success.

A Safe Farm Program For Chilton County

Through the activity of the executive committee of the recently organized Chilton County Co-operative Association, we are permitted to present to our readers this week a condensed summary of what that organization has drafted and adopted as a safe program for Chilton County. In the publicaton of this program it is requested by the Co-operative Association that credit be given to Mr. J. P. Montgomery, vocational agriculture teacher at Jemison, who was kind enough to furnish the committee with most of the fundamental ideas that are embodied in this suggested program.

We are informed that this program has been adopted b the Association, and we submit it to our readers as fully worthy of their careful study.

1. The farmer must live at home as near as possible by the following methods: (a) having a home orchard; (b) having a year-around garden; (c) growing sweet potatoes—fertilize as for cotton; (d) producing syrup; (e) producing corn meal; (f) producing eggs, butter, milk, pork.

2. The farmer must grow more feed: (a) produce more hay, growing sorghum and soybeans; (b) make permanent pastures for milch cows and hogs; (c) make temporary pastures for milch cows and hogs; (d) grow more corn per acre—use 100 to 200 pounds of nitrate of soda when corn is 40 days old and knee to waist high; (e) grow more oats per acre—use 200 pounds acid phosphate at planting time and 100 to 200 pounds nitrate of soda February 15 to March 20.

3. The farmer must increase the fertility of his soil by: (a) every farm properly terraced; (b) proper care of barnyard manure; (c) planting more legumes to graze and turn under; (d) planting winter cover crops, hairy vetch, oats, rye.

4. The farmer must have cash crops: (a) produce one bale of cotton to every acre by proper fertilization—use 400 pounds of acid phosphate, 200 pounds nitrate of soda, 50 pounds muriate of potash. The same day you plant apply all of the acid phosphate, all of the muriate and one-fourth of the nitrate of soda. If less fertilizer is used, be sure to use the same proportion of the different ingredients; (b) strawberries should be grown wherever possible; (c) sell sour cream from 2 to 10 cows and feed skim milk to calves, poultry, pigs; (d) sell eggs from 50 to 200 hens; (e) sell surplus pork from one to two brood sows.

5. Marketing: (a) in some communities sour cream routes should be developed; (b) in some communities egg circles will prove practical; (c) days for shipping veal calves; (d) hog selling days; (e) more strawberry marketing associations like the one at Thorsby.

6. The farmer's one great problem is to help solve his own problems by reading working, and co-operation with other farmers.

Other subjects which are embraced in the program of the Chilton County Co-operative Association are;

An industrial program which provides for an industrial survey of the county relative to a canning factory and a furniture factory; closer co-operation with existing industries to promote their profitable expansion.

A commercial program seeking to establish regular trade days; a credit bureau; a public relations committee; a permanent county exhibit of agricultural and industrial products in Birmingham; an advertising fund.

A civic program which would bring to us the establishment of a health unit; a public park and hitching ground in Clanton; pulling for a highway east and west through the county seat; drinking fountains for stock in Clanton and other trade centers in the county; public rest rooms; a county public library; boy and girl scout organizations; a recreation and education committee.

In this connection we call attention to the next meeting of the Chilton County Co-operative Association which is to be held at the court house Wednesday, March 9 at 1:30 p.m. We hope the attendance will be good. Too many farmers around here are sitting still and doing nothing for the Co-operative Association but reading about it in The Union-Banner. Why don't folks wake up and say something? Why don't you come to the meetings and see what is being said? Everybody says they want conditions bettered among the farmers of Chilton County. We don't believe it. If they wanted conditions bettered they would try to do something to help it along. It looks to us like the majority of the people in this county are satisfied to drag along in the same old ruts, on a hit or miss plan of farming, and it will continue in future, as in the past, to miss about 99 per cent of the time.

The plan of the Co-operative Association is to conduct an active membership campaign in every school district in the county. If the farmers want to better their condition, they will swarm to the schoolhouses of this county in droves to join; and when they join they will go to work to do something if they are really sincere about wanting better farm conditions.

The Cooperative Association is not going to save any farmer in spite of himself and in spite of the individual farmer who is to be saved. It is only a means whereby the farmer can get in and accomplish his own salvation. Here's hoping that enough of them get in and go to work to make a great showing this the very first year of the organization.

IN MEMORY OF MR. BEN J. HARRISON

The receding tide of life hath kissed the day's last beam and born from earth's sphere to the great beyond another immortal being.

Once again we have passed by the open grave and poured from our hearts torrents of tears.

Once again we have stood in the presence of the dead, and, looking into the great eye and soul of God, committeed to His loving care, another human soul.

Mr. Harrison was 35 years of age. He is survived by his widow, mother, father and three sisters—Mrs. Homer Nelson and Mrs. J. E. Rakestraw of Atlanta, and Mrs. Claude Lookey of Atlanta.

Mr. Harrison was killed by an automobile at his place of business on January 27. He was carried to the hospital, but he grew weaker. The final struggle between life and death settled in the darkness of death. But as the sun has a rising in all splendor and glory, so will the life that was as beautiful, have a rising from the shadow of death to the brightness and glory of God.

Musical Tea.—

The Piano Theory and music appreciation classes entertained their mothers at a musical tea last Thursday afternoon at the high school.

The music studio was decorated with bowls of carnations and Miss Ruth Sessions presided at the tea table with Mary Foshee, U. L. Foshee, Elizabeth Harris, and Mary Courtney Jones assisting.

The program was in the form of a regular class lesson and proved more interesting for that reason, as the questions were often unexpected and the answers more so. Scales and Hanon five-finger exercises were demonstrated by Julia Ruth Hester, Gladys Williams, Gertie Fiquette, Ruth Sessions and Eugie Baker. Sunset Polk sang a Concone vocal exercise followed by a song "Pansies". Next, Ethel Mae Jones played "The Chase" by Burgmuller. Lorene Murphy sang, "Star of the south" by Lohr. Julia Ruth Hester gave an interesting talk on "The care of the piano."

Better Speech Week.—

February 21-26 was National Better Speech Week for the schools and clubs throughout the country. Chilton County High School made it a gala event by stringing posters in the halls of the building. Each student in every English class was required to make a poster emphasizing the value of better speech or better English. It was noticeable that the majority of students stressed the point of "The value of good English in Business," or "The Business World of Today Demands good English." Three minute talks on some phase of the better speech week were given in the classes, thereby requring them to put in practice their slogan on their posters. After careful judging, Mary Heard's poster was given first place and is now hanging in Supt. Lawrence's office.

The best posters from each class were:—Senior II—Mildred Danforth, Delene Williams; Senior I—Frances Cox; Junior II—Girls, Janice Danforth, Boys, Bronson Ruffin; Junior I—Mary Heard and Leroy Martin; Honorable Mention—Pauline Lawrence, Mary Nell Goodgame and J. D. Evans.

Junior High School.—

Thirty Junior high school boys and girls are preparing an operetta "The Forest Court" which wll be given in about a month. The chorus meets every day at the fifth period and has learned many of the choruses in the last week.

Music Operetta Class.—

The appreciation class at the high school has been studying the opera for several weeks, and a great interest was shown in the Chicago Civic Opera Company, which appeared in Brmingham on Monday and Tuesday. The students were very busy reading the story of Il Travatore and telling the tragedy of Leonora and Manrico to the class. Special stress was laid on the Symphony orchestra in preparation for the opera and the class has been listening to records of the instruments and distinguishing the violin from the cello and the oboe from the clarinet.

Those who attended It Trovatore in Birmingham Monday night were: Sunset Polk, Gertie Fiquette, Samuel Martin, Gaston Robinson, Jesse Sam Gowan, Henry Arthur Roper, Luther Culpepper, Miss Nichols and Miss Donnelly. At chapel on Tuesday morning the student body heard the story of the trip and interesting talks on the opera from the students who were lucky enough to go. The records, "The Anvil Chorus," and "Miserere," were played on the new portable Victrola and then the students sang "The Anvil Chorus."

Pauline Lawrence told the story of the opera, "Il Trovatore," and led a discussion on the proper way to practice. Mary Foshee closed the class lesson by playing "Pixie's Good Nite Song." The class will give a St. Patrick's Tea on March 14th and ask all their mothers and friends to be their guests.

The Music Appreciation class is proving to be one of the most popular elective subjects in the high school, and six new members were added last week.

After the "Flu" is over —you need a Tonic

Help Is Needed to Restore Your Wasted Strength and Energy.

"Flu" leaves the body weakened and rundown. In such cases, a tonic is clearly indicated. Restore the appetite and rid yourself of that let-down feeling.

"Flu" is a very enervating disease. It leaves its victims so weak and debilitated that there is as much danger from the after-effects as from the disease itself. In other words, after an attack of the "flu," you need a selective tonic to rebuild the system so that you may have your old-time strength and energy restored.

S.S.S. is unequalled for restoring strength and vitality.

You owe it to yourself and family to give S.S.S. a trial. It helps Nature build up red blood corpuscles. It improves the processes by which the body is nourished. It is time-tried and reliable. S.S.S. is made from the roots of fresh herbs and plants, and is prepared in a scientific way in a modern laboratory.

S.S.S. is sold at all good drug stores in two sizes. The larger size is more economical.

CHILTON SOUND FINANCIALLY—WHY ?

Some are inclined to discuss the finances of Chilton County—especially the money being collected as taxes and spent on the public roads. The Union-Banner is frank to admit that the Commissioners Court of Chilton County has for the past four years spent quite a bit of money on the roads of the county and on road machinery, and we suppose that there are funds enough to buy some more machinery with and pay cash for it. We consider it fortunate that the commissioners have money with which to buy road machinery and to work roads—that is much better than having to issue interest-ebaring warrants on the county to the amount of hundreds of thousands of dollars, as was done by the last Democratic administration.

These same citizens would have the people believe that the sole reason the county has enough revenue to run its business on a cash basis is because the Alabama Power Company pays a huge tax into the treaury of the county. It is true that this $140,000 annually is a great help to the financial condition of the county. But the power company is not the real reason we have money with which to buy road machinery. It is because we have a set of county commissioners and a county administration which guards the expenditures of the county and holds it within the income. The Republican party deserves the praise for Chilton County's sound financial condition and not the Alabama Power Company. It is not the amount of money that is collected that determines the real financial condition of a person or of a firm or a municipal government, but it is the spending of the money that counts.

The administration in power in Chilton County believes in spending the county's money judiciously and wisely and to the best interest of all concerned. And it doesn't believe in spending the money before it is collected. Chilton County had a bond issue once, and it was during a Republican administration too and sponsored by the leading Republicans of the county. But why did they do it? Most of our citizens remember the condition under which this bond issue was asked for by our county officials. The Democrats had just gone out of office and, after spending the $75,000 left there by the previous Republican administration and all the revenue collected during their term, left the county in a bankrupt condition. The county had no money at all to pay its claims with. Its warrants were worth about 50c on the dollar, and there were those interest-bearing warrants amounting to $200,000 issued by Deason's (Democratic) administration, outstanding. That is why the bond issue was voted by the people of Chilton County. They did not want to issue bonds, but they were forced to or else do worse.

The Republicans promised the voters that if they would put them in office the county would be put on a cash basis and that people working for the county would be paid in cash for what they did. This promise was fully filled within a few weeks, and it has continued ever since. And too the county paid cash for what it had done several years before the Alabama Power Company paid a cent of revenue into the treasury. It is true that it did not have as much revenue as it has now—but our commissioners did not spend as much either. They kept the expenses within the income.

Yes, indeed, the Republican administration accounts for the fact that Chilton County has money with which to buy road machinery and work its roads, and not the Alabama Power Company at all.

After the Democrats bankrupted Chilton County, they did not care very much about getting in office. Even some elections went by and they did not get out a ticket at all. There was no money here for them so they did not care much about running the county's business. But now, since the Republicans have put the county back on its feet financially, a few Democrats have become very patriotic and want to get hold of the reins and show us how it is done again. But alas, we know how they do it without being shown again. We remember all right how they did the trick in 1911-1916, and we don't care to be reminded of the plan again just yet.

Some may think from this article that an election campaign is on, but not so. However, an issue is on—and a very important one. Some Democrats are trying to get control of our county affairs—not by election—they are too "patriotic" to wait so long—but they are trying to legislate the offices from the Republicans and into their hands. They figure that the people of Chilton County haven't sense enough to vote for their best interests and they want to come and tell them what is best for them. They want a board of revenue to come in and take the place of the Board of County Commissioners and create two other offices.

We suspect that if this crowd should get control of the county's finances, they would not spend so much for road machinery and road work, for the simple reason that they would be busted all the time and would not have it to spend. If one-tenth of the things were done that their bill provides for, there would not be any money at all left to spend on the roads.

But this legislation is not going to be accomplished, we don't believe. We can't believe that the legislature of Alabama is so biased that they will let such a measure be passed upon us.

LITTLE PEN-O-GRAMS

YOUTH OF TWENTY YEARS AGO VS. THE 1927 MODELS

"Knitting by firelight is an accomplishment with some young women who appreciate the becoming glow cast by the embers and to whom the interlacing needles add a sort of domestic charm."

The above clipping is from the "Twenty Years Ago Today" column of the New York Herald-Tribune. It reads as if it might be fiction of a remote period, yet it is nothing more than a brochure or a leaf out of the book of domestic life of only a score of years agone. But it proves both how fleeting is time and how quickly customs stale.

Fancy, if you may, the girl of today sitting knitting, or standing knitting, by the firelight or any other kind of light for that matter. A needle would feel out of place and awkward in the hands of the modern damsel, who could thread it no easier than a camel could go through its eye. Knitting is a lost art as far as she is concerned. And as for firelight, there is no such word in the bright lexicon of flappers. Neither are there any dying embers—they are already dead, and it follows as a matter of course there can be no becoming glow cast upon flapper cheeks. The glow, in any desired tint or tone, must now be acquired, at regular intervals, at the drug store or the department store or the beauty parlor, and smeared on, plastered down and rubbed in.

Now paint a mental picture, if such is possible, of passing a modern home some evening, just after the shades of night have fallen, casually looking in and observing a demure and beautiful maiden, with long and curly locks and skirts a proper length, sitting before the glowing embers and knitting by the firelight. What an entrancing picture! To paint it would require a stretch of the imagination to the snapping point; and if it were possible actually to witness such a scene one would be glued to the spot in awe and admiration, and might even doubt his own senses.

Anyhow, even if there were glowing embers and soft firelight, there would be no girl sitting or knitting there. Most likely, with shorn tresses, and, in short dresses, she would be out joy-riding, or petting and necking, or at the movies, or at a restaurant, or at a dance "black bottoming" to beat the band. By the time she got back home, with head light, it would be daylight and no need for firelight.

So, with all the complexities of modern life—and the modern girl the most complex of all—is it to be wondered at that many people often sigh for the "good old days" when sitting and knitting by the firelight in the becoming glow of the embers gave a sort of domestic charm?

FOREIGN GOODS MAY FLOOD OUR MARKETS

Alien industry, armed with a deadly weapon of cheapness is already beginning to make serious inroads in the American market, despite our present tariff, according to Will R. Wood, representative in Congress from Indiana in an interesting article in the current issue of the National Republic under the title "Industrial Invasion: Shall We Repel It?" Speaking of our tariff rates Mr. Wood says:

"Our tariff rates are not what they seem because they are based upon valuations fixed abroad by foreign producers rather than upon the sale price of these imports at our ports. For instance, a thirty per cent ad valorem rate on a given article at its European cost may mean only a six per cent tariff on the price at which it is bought by an American jobber from the importer, as against a difference in wage scales of from fifty to five hundred per cent. The American consumer reaps little or none of the benefit from the low purchase price of this commodity abroad. It is sold in the United States just enough below the price which must be charged by an American industry paying the American wage scale and American raw material prices, to take the market.

"As our imports increase, our exports must to an increasing extent slow down. The large scale foreign production encouraged by American and foreign investment in low wage markets is more and more meeting the demands of foreign markets. Instead of our dumping surplus production abroad, the alien producer is beginning to dump his surplus production here.

"Now what does this mean? The displacement of American by foreign production simply means the displacement of American by foreign employment. It means the stopping of American pay envelopes in favor of foreign pay envelopes. It means that we must shut up shop in industry or scale our wages, and therefore, our living standards, and therefore, our consumptive capacity, to the foreign level. This process has already started. What is the inevitable finish, unless this process is halted? Disaster. And such disaster as this country has never before dreamed of, despite our several past periods of industrial paralysis due to this very condition of displacement of domestic by foreign production. Our present personal credit situation has developed on the basis of high wage scale production and steady employment. Halt this, and our prosperity will collapse like a house of cards. Prosperity in an endless chain which passes from consumer to producer and producer to consumer. Break one link in that chain and all the wheels cease turning. Create a condition in industrial America where the worker cannot meet the payments on his house, his motor car, his radio and the other comforts and luxuries known only in great quanity in the United States, and we will have an industrial, a political and social crisis more serious than has ever before been confronted in our country."

QUALITY AT LOW COST

POOR ORIGINAL

ALABAMA HAS HIGHEST BOOK EXPENSE IN THE SOUTH

Alabama requires children in the public schools to use more books than any other state in the southeast, and, with the exception of Tennessee and North Carolina, the cost of basal and supplementary text books in the public school system of Alabama is greater than the cost in other states of the southeast.

These facts were submitted to the text book investigating committee during its sesions in Montgomery last week. A statement showing the number and total cost of text books used in the public schools of Alabama and other states of the southeast was made public Saturday afternoon.

Basal texts used in the seven grades of the public schools of Alabama total 79, while the total cost of these basal texts and the supplementary texts is $61.96. In Tennessee the total of basal texts is 57 while the cost of basal and supplementary texts is $83.68. In North Carolina the total number of basal texts is 65 while the total costs of basal texts and the supplementary books is $77.36. The investigation also revealed the fact that the chief cost in Tennessee and North Carolina is for supplementary books, the use of which is optional with the various schools. For instance the total cost of basal texts in Alabama for the seven grades is $51.11, compared with $32.10 in Tennessee, and 39.85 in North Carolina.

BIG LOSSES FROM FOREST FIRES

Montgomery, Ala., March 1.—Forest fires burned approximately five est fires burne dapproximately five and seven tenths per cent of the twenty-two million acres of forest land in Alabama during the year 1926 as compared with 16 per cent in 1925; 34 per cent in 1924, and 36 per cent in 1923, according to the state commission of forestry just completed.

The total number of fires amounted to 14,942. The total area burned was about 1,241,439 acres. Lightning caused 4 fires, railroads 2,172, lumbering 3,317, brush burning, 2,313, camp fires 183, use of fire in hunting, 1,245, smokers 783, incendiaries 913, miscellaneous cause 438, while 3,574 were of unknown origin.

Fires covering less than 1-4 acre numbered 1,055, those between 1-4 and 10 acres in extent 7,268, between 11 and 100 acres 4,446, between 101 and 1,000 acres 1,567, while 606 were over 1,000 acres in extent.

The proportion of forest land burned in the organized forestry districts was about four and nine tenths per cent, while in the unorganized territory it was approximately six and one tenth per cent.

In terms of one person per fire, it is estimated that 7,498 persons engaged in fighting forest fires without compensation from the State. Of these 6,136 were farmers and stockmen 308 were railroad employes, 519 were lumbermen's employes, and other volunteers numbered 514. Private equipment was used in fire suppression to a hire value of $180.57. The total money value of private fire fighting efforts on the part of landowners and others is estimated at $5,723.04.

Forest fires occuring in Alabama during 1926 resulted in money damage amounting to $1,304,443. Of this amount $51,712 comprised damage to merchantable timber, $1,191,739 injury to young growth, $18,090 damage to wood products, $1,27 loss to other forest products, $29319 damage to range and pasturage and $12,556 damage to buildings, fences and other improvements. Under current conditions only direct losses are practically ascertainable and indirect losses are often very high, sometimes exceeding the total of the direct damage.

RESOLUTION FOR USE OF MORE COTTON PASSED

Farmers have expressed satisfaction at the passage of the resolution providing for the greater use of cotton introduced by Representative G. Herbert Jones, a successful and well established farmer of Bullock County. Mr. Jones approved heartily the efforts of the Department of Agriculture and Industries at Montgomery, in its various efforts to increase the use of cotton, especially in the use of cotton in fertilizer sacks instead of Asiatic jute.

The joint resolution passed both the House and Senate, and will be forwarded to President Coolidge, the U. S. Senators and Representatives at Washington. Commissioner of Agriculture and Industries, S. M. Dunwoody, who actively supported the resolution, also spoke in terms of praise of the Jones resolution, which is given in condensed form:

Whereas, There exists from time to time a surplus of cotton, which is usually followed by low prices and serious financial loss to the grower, and,

Whereas, There was imported into this country last year, free from duty from India and elsewhere, 124,940,000 pounds of jute, 4,162,000 pounds of Jute butts, 16,130,212 pounds of jute sack cloth and bagging, 625,815,937 pounds of jute burlap, 2,012,413 pounds of woven jute fabrics on which duty was paid, 48,070,063 pounds of jute bags on which duty was paid, and 776,838 pounds of jute yarns, and,

Whereas, The aggregate total value of said imported jute last year was $108,491,009, representing a total weight of 821,907,463 bales of cotton, and,

Whereas, The Federal Government alone used 1,500,000 pounds of jute twine:

Therefore, Be It Resolved, By the House of Representatives, the Senate concurring, That the Senators and Members of Congress from Alabama be, and the same are hereby urged to use their best efforts to secure the substitution of cotton for jute, either by tariff levy, or otherwise as may seem to them wise and expedient.

Commissioner Dunwoody, in a discussion of the greater uses of cotton, said that farmers must unite in solving many of their problems, instead of relying on others to do it for them. Cotton fabric can be used for wrapping bales, sacking fertilizer, for string by the government, and for other uses, and a market created for at least three million bales. This will do more to raise the price of cotton than any form of possible legislation.

"HUNGER SIGNALS" SHOW SIGN OF CROP NEEDS

If plants like cotton, alfalfa, and soybeans develop rust, they are sending out "hunger signals" for potash, was the striking statement made by R. W. Hamilton, acting chief agronomist, Clemson College, S. C., in telling how crop needs are determined in a talk for the Radio Short Course over WSB, Atlanta. This course was conducted for two weeks by Sears-Roebuck Agricultural Foundation in cooperation with the Soil Improvement Committee of the National Fertilizer Association.

"Every farmer can learn in a general way something about the deficiencies of his soils," said Mr. Hamilton. "When his crops do not make sufficient stalk growth, and the plants have a yellowish cast, he may know the crops have not had enough ammonia. If the crops are not fruiting as they should, and if they are slow in maturing, this is evidence they need more phosphoric acid.

"Fortunately, for the southeast, there are great areas that show similar responses to fertilizers, so it is unnecessary to recommend a different fertilizer for every slight variation in the soils. Carefully conducted tests on various soils afford the only means about how to feed crops profitably. Recommendations can be made that are broadly applicable to the coastal plain, the Piedmont soils, mountain lands or limestone valleys. Intelligent fertilization is necessary to produce large yields and the quality of crops that will bring the greatest returns to the farmer. To accomplish this the farmer must rely largely on the recommendations of the experiment stations and agricultural colleges. Higher acre yields are essential to greater farming success in the south, and the efficient and wise use of fertilizers is one of the major factors contributing to high acre yield."

1st year—cotton, followed by vetch plowed under for green manure; 2nd year—oats, followed by vetch to be plowed under. This rotation should have a winter cover crop on the land every year to prevent washing. There would be three legume crops to supply nitrogen and two green manure crops to furnish organic matter. To make this system a success the farmer must fertilize liberally. The main difficulty with this rotation is that two-thirds of the land must be plowed in the spring. Farmers with tractors generally do this, but those without had better plant only half of the cotton and oat land to vetch, and in his way decrease their spring plowing. While this will mean slower progress in soil development, it is better than undertaking more spring work than can be handled. Another change which will lessen spring plowing is to add another year of oats and legume hay."

WEST CHILTON

Everything reasonably quiet in West Chilton.

We learn that the annual rabbit hunt, wth Mr. C. W. Langston, President, was very successful on the 22nd. Another minor drive was pulled off near Macedonia; it was a success also.

Mr. and Mrs. Dee Crumpton of Adamsville were visiting here Sunday.

The measles seem to have spent their force for the present, after having raged for quite a while.

The fertilizer question is going slower than last year.

A new teacher is taking charge at Macedonia, the former teacher having resigned.

Miss Fraulein Cobb has resumed her school at Freeman; the school had been temporarily closed on account of the measles. Miss Cobb has won golden opinions thus far.

We dropped in Sunday afternoon with the old book singers at Center Hill. It was a pleasure to hear them. They evidently are not singing just for a form, but in deep reality. Taking part as directors were J. W. Hays, W. H. Conway, Rev. J. N. Scott, Henderson Hays, J. D. Hodgens, J. E. Cobb, and others. It is a good work—singing the songs of the church's pilgrimage. The service will be held monthly in the future.

SAYS SOUTH RELIES ON JUST 4 CROPS

"Four crops of the southeast occupy 90% of the land and produce 80% of the value of all crops grown; these crops are cotton, corn, small grains, and hay. It is upon the successful production of these four crops that the agricultural prosperity of the southeast depends. All other crops are of minor importance, although in certain restricted areas one or more of them may be of great importance."

This was the message carried to the farmers of the southeast by R. P. Bledsoe, agronomist, Georgia Experiment Station, in a talk for the Radio Short Course over WSB, the Atlanta Journal Station, a two weeks' broadcast made possible through the Sears-Roebuck Agricultural Foundation in cooperation with the Soil Improvement Committee of the Sears-Roebuck Agricultural Foundation.

"A study of the latest statistics for 1926 show the average Georgia farmer lost from $11 to $12 on each acre of cotton or corn and from $1 to $2 on each acre of oats or hay," said Mr. Bledsoe. "Either the cost per acre must be lowered without decreasing yields or prices must be increased, or yields per acre must be increased without unduly increasing the cost per acre.

"As to soil improvement, no rotation will fit the needs of every farmer, but the following will give the farmer a basis on which to work:

DO WE KNOW ALL ABOUT OUR COUNTY?

Do the people in Birmingham know more about our County than we do? Are Chilton County citizens awake to the opportunities that are constantly knocking at their doors? These questions and others were brought out during an interview with H. J. Bruner, advertising manager of the "Alabama Sportsman," who is in Chilton County securing articles and photographs for a special edition of his magazine to advertise Chilton County throughout the world.

"When we were discussing this special edition," said Mr. Bruner, "Garrard Harris, associate editor of The Birmingham News, and editor of the Alabama Sportsman, said to me, 'Chilton County is right in the center of the State. A paved highway connects it with the Birmingham metropolitan district with nearly 500,000 hungry mouths to feed. The farmers there raise the finest strawberries I've ever tasted, and this in-between crop comes just in time to catch favorable markets.'

" 'They have the soil and the climate for almost every Southern crop. Chilton County farms can and will within a few years supply Birmingham with milk, cream, butter, and poultry, and their overflow of fruit and berries and foodstuffs will find a ready market throughout adjoining states.' "

"Here is a man," said Mr. Bruner, "who is better 'sold' on the advantages of Chilton County than a number of local citizens that I have interviewed. Everything that he told me has been borne out by my investigations in the field. There is nothing that the people of this County want that they can not have if they will get together on a well directed program of development."

Mr. Bruner stated that the special edition of the Sportsman with well written and well illustrated articles on every phase of Chilton's activities will be broadcast to less fortunate residents of States in the north and east. Copies of the magazine will also be available to our local citizens and the are urged to mail at least one copy to some friend or relative outside of the State.

The Chilton County edition will appear April 1st, just in time to catch the horde of tourists who annually make the pilgrimage to the south. It will be the means of placing Chilton County and her advantages before thousands of readers, seeking a better place to live, work, and enjoy life.

Showing Their Knees To Get Their Ankles Judged !

THERE ONCE WAS A TIME when a woman's ankle was a secret—when, if she showed a little too much of her foot, somebody was shocked. And now look! The above pictures a bevy of beauties lined up for "ankle inspection" before the judges in an eastern ankle contest. From the way the girls are holding up their short skirts and displaying their er—er dimpled knees, it appears the judges are getting more of an eye-full than they're entitled to. But then, the ways of an ankle judge are mysterious. Maybe, the shape of a knee has something to do with the contour of an ankle. Who can tell?

RADIO COMMISSION NAMED BY PRESIDENT COOLIDGE

Washington, March 1.—Choosing from a field of more than 900, President Coolidge today picked the five members of the new radio commission, and sent the nominations to the senate for confirmation before adjournment of congress Friday.

The president's selections were:

Rear Admiral William H. Bullard, retired, of Media, Pa., six year term.

Orestes H. Caldwell of Bronxville, New York, five years.

Eugene O. Sykes of Jackson, Miss., four years.

Henry A. Bellows of Minneapolis, three years.

John F. Dillon of San Francisco, two years.

One nominee is from each of the five districts into which the United States was divided by the radio control act. Sykes and Bellows are Democrats.

In choosing the commission which will have wide control powers, President Coolidge carried out his intention of selecting men experienced in radio communication and familiar with the legal and business conditions surrounding the industry.

Admiral Bullard, who will be chairman, in addition to a long and distinguished naval career, was a delegate to the international safety at sea conference at London in 1913, was director of naval communications from March, 1919, to 1921, and still is a member of the institute of radio engineers.

Sykes is a lawyer and served on the Mississippi supreme court bench from 1916 to 1924, when he retired to resume the practice of law. Bellows, a native of Portland, Me., since his graduation from Harvard, has been an editor of various publications and since 1925 has directed radio station WCCO in Minneapolis.

Dillon enlisted in 1894 in the army signal corps. Later he was appointed radio inspector for the department of commerce at Chicago, and still later was transferred to San Francisco as supervisor of radio of the sixth district.

Caldwell, since 1917, has been editor of electrical and radio magazines.

DAM SITE FUNDS SURVEY REFUSED

Washington, Mar. 1.—While the senate appropriations committee today declined to recommend funds for a survey of the Cove Creek dam site on the upper waters of the Tennessee River, the house military committee listened in executive session to Secretary Work discuss several aspects of power development at the Muscle Shoals properties.

The head of the interior department, which has jurisdiction over federal water power activities, was before the committee less than 15 minutes and members said that his testimony would have no direct bearing on the situation at the present time.

Meanwhile acting Chairman James of the military committee said the sub-committee on the shoals properties formally would make its report to the full committee on Thursday. The senate appropriations committee action came after Senator McKellar, Democrat, of Tennessee, had requested incorporation of $200,000 in the second deficiency bill for a survey of construction of the Cove Creek dam. The senator's request was in line with recommendations of the military subcommittee on the shoals properties.

MONSTER "POULTRY BERRY"

Dothan, Ala., Mar. 1.—J. W. Salmon of East LaFayette Street claims for one of his brood of Rhode Island Red hens the egg laying championship of America—if not in number, at least in the size of her eggs, or rather one egg she laid recently.

This was her masterpiece, the greatest achievement of her egg-laying career. Although the hen is a good layer and her eggs always have come up to standard of the rather large eggs produced by Rhode Island Reds, she has never done anything like this before, Mr. Salmon declares.

The one in question would be large for a turkey egg. It measures seven inches in circumference, 3½ inches in length, and weighs half a pound.

LOW PER ACRE YIELD IS CAUSE OF DEPRESSION

"When the average citizen is asked why there is such an air of depression in the business structure in the south today, they inverably say that it is due to the low price of cotton. Such is not the case," declared Frank E. Boyd, who is regonized as a noted authority on fertilizer in adressing a large audience of farmers and business men at the court house in Clanton last Wednesday afternoon.

"The low per acre yield of cotton is what has caused the finiancial losses to the farmers of the south." Mr. Boyd said. "This statement is not the oppinion of any one man or any group of men, but an economic fact, based upon actual records kept over a period of 16 years by the Extension Department of the Alabama Polytechnic College at Auburn." Quoating from these figures, Mr. Boyd said under the present conditions, the cost per pound to produce cotton was as follows: Where the production was 100 pounds per acre, it cost 27c per pound to produce. 140 pounds per acre cost 20c per pound to produce. 185 pounds per acre, which was the average per acre production in the state of Alabama last year, cost 16c per pound to produce. 300 pounds per acre cost 13c per pound to produce. 400 pounds per acre cost 10c per pound to produce. 500 pounds per acre cost 8c per pound to produce and where more than 500 pounds were produced to the acre the cost of production was brought down to 6c and 7c per pound."

It can readly be seen therefore, that the only salvation for the farmer in Alabama, who produces cotton is not higher price for his cotton, but a lower cost in production. In this connection, the cost of production naturally comes down as the yield per acre is increased.

"Proper fertilization is one of the most practical methods of increasing production," Mr. Boyd said, in presenting his address. "The experiments made at the agricultural college at Auburn have been conclusive proof that this is possible. During the past 12 years the experimental station at Auburn has made more than 200 actual fertilizer tests, in every county in the state, on every variety of soils and under almost every conceivable condition. The tests show that the best combination of fertilizer to use to increase the producton of cotton sufficient to put it on a profitable basis is as follows: 2 parts acid phosphate, 1 part nitrate of soda, and one-quarter part muriate of potash, this combination to be used 650 pounds to the acre. The best method of applying this mixture is to use all of the potash and acid phosphate and one-fourth of the soda at the time the cotton is planted. The balance of the soda should be put around the cotton when it is up, chopped, and beginning to put out the side roots."

Mr. Boyd outlined a very interesting fact with reference to cotton seed meal and its relation to nitrate of soda. He said that it took 2 6-10 tons of cotton seed meal to equal 1 ton of soda; that the price of 2 6-10 tons of cotton seed meal would be $78.00, while a ton of soda costs $58.00; therefore, he advised farmers to sell their cotton seed meal and buy soda and save the difference.

Mr. Boyd said the best fertilizer to use for corn was a combination of 7.5 acid, 24 cotton seed meal, 112 soda, and 1 potash. He advised not using soda until the corn was 40 days old, or put around it when it was plowed the second or thrd time.

Mr. Boyd came to Clanton at the invitation of the Chilton County Cooperative Association and was heartily and attentatively received. He went to Jemison and spoke to the farmers of that community and the agricultural class of the Jemison High School at 11 a. m., Wednesday, and following his address at the courthouse at 2:30 p. m., went to Isabella Agricultural School and spoke Wednesday night.

Those who heard Mr. Boyd speak made many expressions of the good they had gotten from his address, and many of them said they would endeavor to follow his advice.

Tuesday night, February 22, the play entitled "An Old Fashioned Mother," given by members of the school faculty and student body was presented at the school auditorium. Miss Mamie Stewart, as the old fashioned mother, seemed to take the leading role with an easy grace. She looked and acted the part as one well versed in the histrionic art. Miss Ruth Martin, in spite of many interruptions, conducted her singing school like a professional music master. Margaret Williams was especially good as the spinster, and Edith Johnson, as the mischevious little daughter, near the close of the play related in a well rendered song, things she saw when people supposed she was asleep. In fact all participants showed familiarity with their parts in a manner that made the play run remarkably smooth from start to finish. In the absence of a male quartet which was expected to take part and failed to show up, an impromptu orchestra with stringed instruments occupied the time allotted for the quartet. Special features of the entertainment was a solo by Miss Katherine Foss, which indicated a pleasing quality of voice and expression in one so young, and gives promise of development into a singer of more than ordinary ability. Miss Agnes Leary sang a solo, "Mother Machree," in a manner that illustrated the value of her recent training in vocal music, and indicated a remarkable improvement in voice and expression. Miss Giula Williams was the efficient piano accompanist.

Gives Advice to Expectant Mothers

"I ADVISE all expectant mothers to use Mother's Friend," writes Mrs. Wesley Miller, Hudson, Mich. "I have had nine children. With my first three I suffered for 24 hours. Beginning with the fourth I used Mother's Friend and was sick only 15 minutes. Since then I have had five and was only sick about 10 minutes with each."

Mother's Friend is the formula of an eminent physician and has been a positive blessing to thousands of expectant mothers for over three generations. Used daily, externally, it soothes the nerves and muscles as month follows month. Finally it makes childbirth a joy!

The mothers who praise Mother's Friend the most are those who did not use it with their first baby but through its use with the second, were able to realize its almost unbelievable results.

Mother! Insist on Mother's Friend—the same as used by our mothers and grandmothers—don't wait—start using tonight—and meanwhile write Bradfield Regulator Co., Dept. 34, Atlanta, Ga., for free valuable booklet "Motherhood and the Coming Baby" (sent in plain envelope). It tells how Mother's Friend can help you during expectancy and at childbirth. This booklet also tells you many other things you want to know. "Mother's Friend" is sold by all druggists—everywhere.

Last Saturday night at Helen Jenkins Hall auditorium Misses Frances Wilson, Dera Howell, Gertrude Steiner, Willie Littlejohn; Messrs. Hudson Williams, John Van Derveer, Wendell Johnson, and Loyd Howard were participants in the annual declamatory contest given by students of Thorsby Institute, selected by a competitive hearing of papers prepared by a large number of boys and girls of the school. The winners, one boy and one girl, each receive a prize of $5, presented by a friend of the school. The subjects presented were: "The Abandoned Elopement," Joseph G. Lincoln—Frances Wilson; "Penrod," Booth Tarkington—Gertrude Steiner; "Mary Elizabeth," Elizabeth Stuart Phelps—Dera Rowell; "A Changed View," Annie Hamilton Donnell—Willie Littlejohn, all of which were recitations. During an intermission announcement was made that the music department under the leadership of Miss Giula Williams have raised $160 to apply on the purchase of a new piano for Thorsby Institute; Miss Williams and Miss Catherine Thom favored the audience with a fine specimen of piano playing in a rendition of "Hungarian Rhapsody," by Frank Lizst. Resuming the program: "A Message to Garcia," Elbert Hubbard—John Van Derveer; "Home," Henry W. Grady—Wendell Johnson; "A Revolutionary Alarm," anon.—Hudson Williams; "You are the hope of the world," Herman Hagedorn—Loyd Howard. Judge's decision and award of prizes, Mr. Butler. Frances Wilson took the prize for the girls, and Wendell Johnson for the boys. It is a matter of great interest that boys and girls of high school age can commit to memory and recite so well as these young students did such lengthy pieces of literature, and recite it so well.

COUNTY AGENTS HAD BUSY YEAR IN 1926

Official Report Shows That More People Were Served Than In 1925

Auburn, Ala., March 1.—Special—Into 58 of the 67 counties and into the majority of the homes in those counties, the Alabama Polytechnic Institute extended into and served through its Extension Service in 1926, according to the annual report of Prof. L. N. Duncan, director, which has been compiled for publication and made public today.

The lines of service include all of the important problems with which farmers and their families are confronted. Mother earth, crops, orchards, gardens, livestock, poultry, homes, flowers, and insect and disease enemies of plants and livestock were included in the field of service which was covered by Extension Service workers last year.

By adding new lines of work and increasing in efficiency the Extension Service staff rendered more service in 1926 than in 1925 which established a new high mark in extension work in Alabama. In studying the reports of the county demonstration agents, Mr. Duncan said that as an average each county agent carried on a regular program of work in one more community and on 62 more farms in 1926 than in 1925. There was an increase of 37 in the number of meetings held per county agent; personal calls increased 18; telephone calls increased 104; and individual letters mounted by 50.

During 1926 the average county agent in Alabama carried on a program of work in 14 communities covering the most of his county. He held 186 meetings, received 1,265 farmer calls, answered 537 telephone calls, wrote 1,266 individual letters, distributed a mass of bulletins and other literature among farm people, and worked in cooperation with business men and organizations of farmers. Through these organizations the county agents were able to reach more people and render more service than they could have by working with individuals.

UNITY B. Y. P. U. ASSOCIATION HELD AT PLEASANT VALLEY

On Sunday, February 27th, a very interesting and helpful propram was rendered at the Unity B. Y. P. U. associational convention, under directions of the Unity president, Miss Katie Myrtle Cobern. The theme of the program was "The value of Training Juniors and Intermediates in the Work of Christ."

After the regular Sunday school service, the Verbena Juniors gave a demonstration program, using as their subject, "Our Chinese Brothers." The program was well rendered, which goes to show that these Juniors are using some of their time in the study of Christ. Following this program two very interesting short talks were given—one by a Verbena Junior, Katie Myrtle Glenn, on "What Junior B. Y. P. U. has meant to Me;" the other by a Clanton intermediate, Robert Alred, on "What Intermediate B. Y. P. U. has meant to Me."

The most pleasant surprise of the day was a talk by Miss Georgine Coley of Montgomery, on "A Vision of the Youth Yielded to Christ." Miss Coley is very interested in the training of the children of today.

After a splendid dinner prepared by the citizens of Pleasant Valley a conference was held in which many problems which confront B.Y. P. U. leaders were cleared up. The closing number was an address: "The Value of the Child to the Kingdom of God," by Dr. S. J. Ezell of Clanton.

U. S. Authority Sees Ample Motor Fuel for Long Future

WORKERS IN GAS MASKS AT AN OIL WELL

MR. HILLS IMPROMPTU SKETCH OF AN OIL DOME

EXPERIMENTAL OIL SHALE REDUCTION PLANT

The U. S. Bureau of Mines is confident that motor fuel supplies will be ample for many years to meet all needs of the country's millions of automobiles. Harry H. Hill, chief petroleum engineer of the Bureau, here tells the reasons for this conviction, and sketches the advances in industrial methods which justify his opinions.

By HARRY H. HILL
Chief Petroleum Engineer, United States Bureau of Mines.

ONE reason why there is no reason to worry greatly about motor fuel for a long time ahead is that people are worrying about it. Interest in such a question at the right time, is the best insurance against disaster. The President and the Federal Oil Corporation Board have done what was needed, at the right time.

We know that most petroleum has come from rather limited areas and that even from these only a small proportion has been taken out. Oil produced by gas pressure capable of lifting it to the surface when we drill holes is but a small proportion of all the oil contained in the sands. Even from the best pools recovery by the old methods is small, perhaps one-half in the most favorable conditions, oftener one-sixth, or one-seventh, or one-tenth. But a considerable part of what still remains in the ground can be recovered by methods now established as technically and economically practicable.

Producing oil from coal and shales and by mining the oil bearing sands is entirely possible. Experiments are going on in these directions, and if we ever have to fall back on these resources we will be ready. For a long time, however, the present methods of exploration and drilling, with improving processes to assure larger recoveries, are likely to suffice.

An Oil Dome Illustrated

I am no draughtsman, but maybe I can draw something that will help explain. Here's a rough drawing of an oil dome. The shaded part at the bottom is a deposit of oil bearing sands—with an impervious rock stratum above. A wild-catter drilled the hole A-B and gas pressure caused oil and gas to flow. After a while the gas pressure wasn't sufficient to keep up the flow and they pumped until ultimately even this ceased producing.

Nevertheless, most of the oil was still left sticking to the sand grains. Then the operator drilled the well C-D, which flowed for a time, but most of the oil was still down there in the sand. If the gas pressure could be restored more would flow. So the operator injects gas into one well, restoring the pressure and causing the oil to resume flowing from the other. After a time the flow will stop again, but still much of the oil will be left. In some fields it has been possible to obtain additional amounts of oil by introducing water in some of the wells and forcing the oil to others. The addition of a chemical such as soda ash to the water may assist in removing the oil from the sand grains, but neither plain water nor water containing chemicals should be introduced into an oil sand except as a last resort, for it is likely that the water, which travels faster through the sand, will get to the open wells ahead of the oil and when the flow is resumed under pressure water will come out.

Everything Saved Nowadays

The gas escaping from an oil well carries with it a proportion of gasoline, which in the old days was lost. Nowadays it is extracted from the gas and saved, while the dry gas can be forced back into the ground to maintain pressure.

One of the menaces to most oil pools is the inflow of subterranean water. Water flows through the oil sands faster than oil, and by surrounding the bottom of the well keeps the oil out. How to shut off the water and permit the oil to run out is a problem with which the engineers have long worked. They have made great progress and so increased recoveries.

In earlier times most oil producers carefully guarded all information about their wells and experiences, but latterly there is co-operation in these matters. Geologists and petroleum engineers, once derided by the "practical" oil men, are more and more accepted as guides and mentors. New knowledge is constantly increasing recoveries.

As to Mining for Oil

In Lorraine they have dug shafts down to the oil sands and actually brought the sands out, like coal from a mine. But it's costly.

Another mining process is to sink a shaft to the oil sands and from its bottom drive tunnels in all directions through the sands. From these tunnels small perforated pipes are driven into the sands, which drain the oil out of the sands. It flows to larger pipes back at the foot of the shaft and thence is pumped out. This requires installing an expensive plant, but in some fields the high recovery that is assured might justify the cost. I understand the process is about to be intsalled in a few fields in this country, some companies being convinced it is practicable and profitable.

Oil can be distilled from coal, and much work is now being done along this line. But more appeal has been made by the plan of extracting oil from shale. The shales of Scotland have been worked for three-quarters of a century, and they are almost unlimited in this country, richer in oil than those of Scotland. Kentucky, Ohio, Colorado, Utah, Nevada, Wyoming and California are particularly rich in shales. It is just a question of the cost of extracting the oil. Congress has given $180,000, with which the Bureau has installed a plant near Rulison, Colorado, to distill oil from the Colorado River Shales. It is calculated that the shales mined at Rulison will produce about a barrel of oil to the ton.

The Use of Oil Shales

In Scotland they are working shales that produce about twenty-five gallons of oil per ton. The seams are from three-and-a-half to eight or ten feet thick. In Colorado are seams many times as thick and containing much more oil per ton. Reduction of shales involves an enormous mining operation, and after the oil is extracted the vast tonnage of refuse must be disposed of. So it is expensive compared with producing oil from wells.

Ben E. Lindsey of the Bureau of Mines Experiment Station at Bartlesville, Okla., is confident that exploration, better recoveries, better utilization and deeper drilling would furnish enough oil to meet all requirements for at least twenty-five to fifty years, if it could be extracted in that time. But as a practical matter this will not be possible. Within that period there will be times of shortage, when oil from shales will be needed to supplement the oil from wells, etc.

Meantime federal and state governments and the industry are co-operating in an astonishing range of investigations and studies. These activities cover such a wide field that even an enumeration of them would run into tiresome detail.

New York landlords declare that there is no housing crisis there, but come to think of it, landlords are seldom able to detect a crisis of that kind.

SUPT. B. LAWRENCE BACK FROM TEXAS

Writes Letter to Banner Telling of His Trip, and a Brief Sketch of Educational Meet.

In keeping with a promise made to the editor of The Union-Banner before I left for Texas, I am giving just a few facts about my trip.

I went to Texas to attend the annual meeting of the Superintendents' Conference of the National Educational Association. It was a wonderful meeting. It seemed to me that it was the best meeting of its kind I had ever attended. There was an attendance estimated between 10,000 and 15,000. There was a train load of Alabama men and women attending this meeting.

Among the many things discussed the thing that interested me most was the stress placed on the matter of equalizing school opporunities, of giving to every child in every part of the country equal educational advantages. I wish it had been possible for every citizen of Chilton County to have attended this meeting and had the privilege of mixing with and hearing the biggest men of our country speak. I believe we have started out in the right direction, and if the program as now advocated can be "put over" we are going to witness a new day in the educational world. We know that many things are not what they ought to be, but it will take time to ever make it as we would like to have it. In fact, when we have lived and done all that we can to better conditions there will still be enough left for the other fellow to do.

We spent one day in New Orleans. This gave us an opportunity to see something about the way New Orleans is working at the task of educating their children. Perhaps there is no other city in the United States that has as many endowed schools. This was made possible through a man who bears the strange reputation of being a hermit, miser, and philanthropist. This is indeed a very strange combination, but came about as a result of him leaving a will in which a large sum of money was provided for school purposes after his death, and today no other man in all the city is so well known of as George McDaniel.

Another interesting thing is that Louisiana levies and collects a tax on tobacco that brings into the treasury each year a little more than $3,000,000. Many people in our state today are advocating such a tax for our schools. I leave it to you whether we should have such a tax or not.

The part of Texas I saw is level. Not only was it level, but it appeared to be exceedingly fertile. If anyone would like to pick cotton you might go out there now and avail yourself of the opportunity, for there are several places where cotton has not been picked. Last Friday I saw one man picking. Others were getting ready to plant another crop.

On Thursday we rode for several miles by the oil wells. It was right interesting to me, because I had never been so close to the field before. Once before I passed within a few miles of the field, but this time we went directly through them. In Dallas I saw gas advertised at several filling stations at 15 cents per gallon. The trains, after you leave New Orleans, are equipped with oil tanks, and burn oil instead of coa', in the engines. This works a great comfort to the passengers, since they do not have the cinders to contend with.

There are many other things I would like to tell, but space will not permit. It is strange how soon you consume too much space when you begin to tell about a trip, in a newspaper.

CHILTON HIGH STRONG TEAM IN DISTRICT TOURNAMENT

After trimming Ramer in the elimination contest on Friday of last week Chilton lost to Sidney Lanier on Saturday morning, 22 to 17. Many followers of the basket game in Montgomery, some of them former Lanier men, were strong in their denunciation of the management of the Sidney Lanier-Chilton game. To be fair about it, they said, Chilton, or anybody else who opposed Lanier, was beaten when they took the floor, on referee's decisions alone. Up until a few minutes of the end of the game Chilton led the way. But they say all's fair in love and war, so that's that.

Now, as to how the Chilton quint impressed people in Montgomery—sport critics, and people who knew most about the game and its fundamentals were loudest in praise of our boys. One man, who knows his "stuff" and is prominent in athletic circles in Montgomery, said, "Well, there's one thing certain about it—the best team from this district is not going to the state tournament. That little bunch of runts from Clanton lies over everything in the tournment like a dollar over a dime."

That is the general opinion of all who were interested in the meet, and members of the Lanier team themselves said that they realized they were fighting with their backs to the wall.

Well, that's all over. We just did not get the honor due us, judging from the comments of sports writers in all the big dailies. They know that Chilton sent to Montgomery a squad of clean, capable, efficient, and fighting boys. All followers of the sport at Montgomery know that Foshee out-jumped anything on the floor. They know "Little Connie" Connatser and Gore, as well as others shot goals from under the best of the guards at the meet, and they know that "Big Connie" Connatser and Sanford presented a stone wall when they started to the goal with the ball. Above all, they know that Chilton fought cleanly, but hard; and the team was as one. The pass work and generalship was the best shown at the meet. Jack Langhorne, sports writer for The Montgomery Advertiser said: "Chilton High showed 'em something—something new!"

And now, although we didn't win the championship, and we didn't get the big silver basketball, the state prize, we know we have one of the best teams in the state at Chilton High; a team made up or hard fighters and clean sportsmen. That's more than a trophy won by unfair advantages and crooked referees.

Coach O. V. Bruner is to be commended for the splendid team put out at Chilton High. As said before, he has produced one of the best teams in the state, and above all—he has taught them clean sportsmanship, to lose fairly, rather than win by unfair methods.

County and City Back Up "The Alabama Sportsman" In Advertising Chilton Co.

In order that the "Story of Chilton County" may be told effectively in the special edition of the "Sportsman," a representative of that magazine has been busy this week making photographs of street scenes, residences, farm homes, churches and schools so that the edition will be a veritable book of Chilton County.

Every phase of county activities will be represented in this edition that has been designed to "Tell the World about the Wonderful Advantages of Chilton County" as a place to work and live and enjoy life.

Judge Lewis H. Reynolds and the County Commissioners have placed the stamp of their approval upon the plan to advertise Chilton County and have agreed to defray a part of the cost for publication. The matter has also been placed before the City Council of Clanton, and their favorable action is practcally assured.

A number of business firms will be represented together with those of Thorsby, Verbena, Jemison and other towns of the county

According to H. J. Bruner, advertising manager of the Sportsman, the edition will be ready for distribution April 1st, when mailing of the publication will begin. Copies will be distributed through clubs and organizations throughout the North and the East, in addition to reaching local citizens, and it is estimated that fully 40,000 prospective citizens for Chilton county will be reached in this manner.

Among the articles to be included in the edition are the following:

"The Agricultural Advantages of Chilton County," by Prof. Montgomery, of the Jemison Agricultural High School: "A short History of Chilton County," by W. M. Wyatt, editor of The Union-Banner; and "Clanton—Hub of Chilton County," by Hon. J. B. Atkinson.

There will also be stories of each town and district in the County, special articles on Hunting and Fishing, the best in Alabama; each story illustrated with actual photographs to show prospective citizens just why they should come to Chilton County, the "Heart of Alabama."

Copies of the publication will be available to local citizens who are urged to mail at least one copy to some friend or relative.

CARL AND JULIUS SMITH ARRESTED OPERATING STILL

Over near the Bibb County line last Friday the law enforcement officers made a raid in which they arrested two white men, Carl and Julius Smith, on a charge of operating a still and making liquor.

When the officers closed in on the scene the two Smiths were as busy as bees in a tar bucket. They had just finished "singling" a barrel of sweet corn mash and had put it back in the pot to make the final run. About a gallon of the finished product had drpped from the faucet when the scene was closed with the appearance of the officers. Carl and Julius were brought to jail, but were later released on bond.

The officers conducting the raid were Sheriff Dudley Collins and deputies Culp and Murrah, Federal Officer A. J. Roberts, and State Officer Kimbrough.

ANOTHER LARGE EGG BROUGHT IN THIS WEEK

After reading the story in last week's Union-Banner about the unusuall large egg some place in South Alabama, Mr. Will Gore of Route 8 put in an order with his flock of Rhode Island Reds to see what they could produce as a record for big eggs in Chilton County.

The next day he went to his hen house and this is what he found: An egg that is exactly three and one-half inches long; six and one-half inches around the shortest way, and eight inches around the longest way.

The egg was brought to The Union-Banner office Saturday, and is now here to be seen by anyone who desires to look at it.

Bachelor Case Set For Re-hearing Before the Supreme Court of Ala.

Clyde Reese Bachelor, convicted of the murder of his father-in-law, Judge Lamar C. Smith, at Wetumpka, is due to make the fight for his life in the supreme court of Alabama the week of April 11th. His case is on the docket of the supreme court on appeal from the Elmore circuit court and will be ready for submission during the call of the Elmore division, which will begin April 1. The time limit for the preparation of the record will have expired by the date for the call of the division.

Bachelor was sentenced to death by a jury after a trial early in September. His attorneys had 90 days in which to prepare a bill of exceptions and the trial judge had 90 days to approve the bill. The six months will have expired before the date of the call of the Elmore division.

Hays Leonard, negro farm hand, who was convicted of complicity in the murder of Judge Smith and who was the principal witness for the state, is also scheduled to submit his appeal at the same time. Leonard was convicted September 11 and his attorney gave notice of appeal. The case has already been docketed by the supreme court.

RUSSELL COOPER ARRESTED NEAR MT. CREEK SATURDAY

Russell Cooper was arrested on the road below Mt. Creek last Saturday by Sheriff Collins. The Sheriff had obtained some information about Cooper's alleged illegal handling of liquor, and knowing that he had gone down into Autauga County, the officers waited at the road by which he was to return.

When Cooper came along on a truck he was held up by Sheriff Collins and Deputy Murrah. He had some liquor but attempted to break the bottles before the officers could get hold of it.

Enough evidence was secured to justify his arrest and he was brought to jail, later being released on bond.

PAUL PRESLEY ARRESTED VIOLATING LIQUOR LAW

Paul Presley who lives east of Clanton, on the Higgins Ferry Road, was arrested last Sunday on a charge of violating the prohibition law. When the officers got to Presley's home he ran out through the cotton patch, pouring his liquor out of the bottle as he ran. He threw the bottle in a briar patch.

After securing sufficient evidence the officers arrested Presley and brought him to jail.

NEW YORK PUBLISHER BUYS BIRMINGHAM AGE-HERALD

The controling interest in the Birmingham Age-Herald, morning paper, has been sold by Frederick I. Thompson, B. B. Comer and Donald Comer to E. D. Dewitt, formerly general manager of the New York Herald.

Announcement of the deal was carried in the Age-Herald Wednesday morning.

No change in the staff or policies of the Age-Herald will be made, the new owner said.

THREE PORTERS ARRESTED FOR VIOLATING LIQUOR LAW

Bill, Lonza, and Elbert Porter were arrested a few days ago by Sheriff Collins on a charge of violating the prohibition law. These men were implicated in the same case in which Charley Ellison was arrested last week. It was the result of the finding of 11 gallons of liquor by the Sheriff in the vicinity where the men lived. The search which revealed the liquor was made in execution of a search warrant directed against the premises of the three Porters and Charley Ellison. The Porters made bond for their future appearance to answer the charge in court.

ARTHUR SMITH ARRESTED ON LIQUOR CHARGE

Arthur Smith, who lives near the Bibb County line, was arrested last week charged with having liquor on his premises. The officers went to Smith's home, and when their presence was observed someone ran out of the house and carried the whiskey and set it down beside the garden fence. The officers saw this party put the liquor by the fence, whereupon they secured the bottle and arrested Smith. He was brought to jail, but later made bond.

CIRCUIT COURT HERE MONDAY, MARCH 28

The Circuit Court of Chilton County will convene on Monday, March 28 for the trial of cases on the cvil jury docket. This is also the date upon which the grand jury will meet.

The criminal docket will be held the following week, beginning April 4th.

MOTHER SEEKS RUNAWAY GIRL

Editor Union-Banner:

Will you please give me space in your paper to ask all who read this to help me find my daughter, Vena Iris Marler. She was last seen on the highway near Oak Grove Monday evening, March 7. She is 13 years old, about 5 feet tall, dark brown hair, gray eyes, a large scar on left leg, and minus a finger nail on the middle finger of her right hand. She had some money. Will give reward for any information regarding her whereabouts. She told some friends she was going to Birmingham. She wears a No. 6 shoe; left wearing high heeled strap pumps, and a green sweater. — Mrs. Emmett E. Marler, Jemison, Ala.

SAMARIA

There will be an afternoon singing at Samaria church, two miles southwest of Clanton, on Sunday afternoon, March 13, at 2 o'clock, in the new books. The Liberty Hill and Cedar Grove classes have promised to be with us. I wish every singer and lover of music to accept this as a special invitation to come and bring all the singers with them that they can. We were rained out the second Sunday in February; we had prospects of a good singing, had it not been for the bad weather. Several good singers have promised to be with us, therefore we are expecting to have a real good singing next Sunday.—J. Z. Mims.

"HIS UNCLE'S NIECE" PROVES BIG SUCCESS

Clanton Dramatic Club Takes Laurels With Presentation of Greatest Play of the Season.

We dare say the big auditorium was fuller than was expected last Friday night when the Clanton Dramatic Club staged "His Uncle's Niece," but even if that were the case, a program was in store which would have done credit to a crowd twice as large. There were five or six hundred present and everyone enjoyed the play to the fullest extent.

It is difficult to say who starred in the play, for everyone of the characters were nobly represented; but three of the players deserve special mention for their originality — the lady of few words, Mrs. Buck Roberts; the uncle, Jack Wade; and the gardener, Buck Roberts. The parts to which these persons were assigned came perfectly natural to them. It required no noticeable force of action for them to depict the characteristics of their parts, but the flow of emotion seemed perfectly natural. Probably the most difficult part, and to be sure the most prominent was that of the niece, played by Harry Margolis. He was placed under a score of wierd and perplexing circumstances, but with the help of his personal adviser, Barney Burnett, the thing always tallied out all right.

Between the second and third acts, about ten minutes was used in arranging the scenery on the stage. During this time the assembly was amply entertained with three vocal selections by Mr. Percy M. Pitts, who besides being Chilton County's able representative in the State Legislature. is a singer of rare accomplishment.

The whole troupe deserves the highest commendation for the splendid efforts used in making this play the great success that it was. The dramatic club has put on one or two plays previous to this, but for various reasons they were handicapped. This time there was nothing in the way, and nothing got in the way. It was just as good as could be. And the folks were there to see it, too—they were there from Jemison, Thorsby, Cooper, Verbena, Lock 12, Mitchell Dam—in fact, about every community in the county was represented. And everyone went home feeling glad for having seen one of the best plays they had ever witnessed.

The Dramatic Club announces that the play will be carried to a number of other nearby towns for presentation. It will be shown in Centreville Wednesday night, March 16, and at Verbena, in the high school building on Friday night, March 18. Other places and dates will be announced later.

CARD OF THANKS

We wish to thank our many friends for their kindness and help in the death of our father. May God bless them.—The family, by A. J. Scott.

The Duties of Christian People To God And To One Another

The following paper was composed by a member of Providence church, and the same is published by request of Rev. M. J. Parrish:

Husband

The husband is the head of the family as Christ is the head of the church. He is the guide and head and strong protector, bounteous provider for the home life, and his position of headship should be cheerfully and lovingly recognized. The husband has his obvious duty of love and care in the ideal relation; the unselfish wife is matched by the unselfish husband. The man who is mean enough to use his superior physical strength or the natural headship that is his in the home in order to browbeat or otherwise oppress a loving wife is nothing short of a brute. The husband's very position of headship requires of him a tender care which only the strong can exercise toward the weak. As the Lord gave Himself up to the the church, so the husband should surrender his personal interests and pleasure for the sake of his wife. Whatever he can consistently with other duties and needs give up for his wife, this he ought cheerfully to do. Christ is the head; the church is the body; so the husband, who is the head, must love the wife as if she were his own body. His love for his wife should be a pure self love that she is so identified with that whatever he does for her presents the paradox of unselfish selfishness—that is, he so regards her as himself that he is seeking his own best interests when he is showing her the tender regard which a good husband ought to have toward his wife. We church members are members of Christ's body and we receive His grace. A marriage is like that as originally planned by the Creator, for with the institution of marriage it was laid down that a man should leave his father and mother and be united with his wife so that the two should become one. On the husband's side, he should not even assert his personal rights if love demands their surrender temporarily.

Wife

A real wife must be under subjection to her husband. Wives, submit yourselves unto your own husbands as unto the Lord, for the husband is the head of the wife even as Christ is the head of the church, and He is the Savior of the body. The wife should not be selfish, grasping, disrespectful, lording it over her husband. Such conduct is utterly out of harmony with the general Christian principle of love and with that which ought to prevail between husband and wife. On the wife's side, she should not wrongly assert even her just right to equality, and should not seek rulership. The wife should treat the husband with becoming respect and regard as the head of the household.

Father and Mother

Father, provoke not your children to wrath, but bring them up in the nurture and admonition of the Lord. Parents are supposed to know, better than the children, what is good for them. The experience and love of parents is a better guide for children than their own impulses. The cruel and tyrraneous father who forces his children to an outward obedience, and largely for his own comfort or convenience, is not unknown to this world, and such conduct usually arouses rebellion in the children. Fathers should be patient and unselfish in their dealings with their children. The positive side of the precept is also important. Instead of threatening and scolding and provoking their children, fathers should tenderly cherish them. Even when children grow up the nurturing care of a father ought to be like that of the Father in Heaven, and as an expression of this tenderness there must be control and instruction. A father abdicates his headship when he does not control his children. He owes them instruction, and the very best instruction is religion. Parents owe their children the knowledge of God and of His word, and the training they receive in early childhood should prepare the way for their own acceptance of the Lord as their Savior. Parents should seek to win their children to principle, and only wise, firm, and patient love can do this. If obedience is prompted by fear of force, bribed by promises, or paid for by indulgence, it means the weakening instead of building of character. A loving, kind command will not exasperate the child, the sound or tone of voice will not irritate, for gentleness can be firm without being fretful. In the government of the family, as in the government of God, after which it is patterned, all is law, yet all is love.

Children

Children, obey your parents in the Lord, for this is right. The ideal home contains children, rightly trained and guided. Children are helpless and dependent for a longer period upon parental care than any animal. As they grow up they owe for this care a proper regard for the parental authority. For many years their first duty is obedience. Children should have the right feeling of respect toward their parents. It is not a matter of external obedience only, but of love and respectful regard for parents. The nature of a child's obedience is explained and taken for granted. It must not be slavish, but respectful. A child should be pleased to do whatever the parent requests. Sometime it may be necessary to enforce obedience, but it ought not to be that the parent should so assert and the child so accept the relation so as to make force necessary. The first commandment with promise is: "Honor thy father and thy mother, that thy days may be long upon the earth, which the Lord, thy God, giveth thee." The homes in which children are properly controlled and brought up as a rule have the greatest prosperity. Long life and health are associated with the blessing. Of course, this isn't a rule without exception, but in general it is true that health as well as prosperity is present where home life is properly carried out. To not obey your parents is sinful, and severely condemned by the Scriptures. The boy's just anger against his father is a sorrowful thing to think of. Children taught to obey in the home, yielding willing obedience to parents, receive indelible impressions which bear fruit in self control and in intelligent allegiance to lawfully constituted authority. It is the disorderly home that brings bad character, bad dispositions and unruly boys and girls who fill reform schools, penitentiaries and untimely graves. Unselfishness is a grace needed in our homes today. It is so difficult to lose sight of our own wants and desires. We are somewhat spoiled, and we want what we want even if it does work a hardship on others about us. The love which is of God is not always on the watch for its own rights and rewards, but looks out for others and shares with them more and more. No more important problem is before us today than the one of the proper emphasis on the right home ideals. The homes of the future are to be patterned after the ideals formed in these days by the boys and girls of today. Obedience is commanded. It is such a beautiful thing to be found in a home—not only obedience, but prompt obedience is needed. Children have in many instances drifted away from this and are openly disobedient. Children should honor their parents; we cannot repay them for all their sacrifices and gifts; it will be little enough for us to love and honor them thru all their days.

All Christians should be subject to each other in the fear, or with regard to the authority of Christ.

OLD BARROOMS CONVERTED TO LUNCH ROOMS

Westerville, O., Mar. 8.—Approximately 2,000 miles of bar fixtures, used before prohibition in the serving of intoxicating liquors, are now being used throughout the United States in the serving of food, according to a survey just completed by the headquarters of the Anti-Saloon League of America.

Few of the old bars were destroyed, most of them having been converted into lunch counters, the survey shows. What became of the brass rails, however, is a mystery; the supposition is that most of them were junked. The old familiar barroom pictures of undraped women also have mysteriously disappeared.

For a time, many of the old bars were kept intact, their owners believing that prohibition would be short lived. When it was discovered that prohibition was here to stay, and that the American people never again would tolerate the open saloon, the fixtures were diverted to other legitimate channels.

Officials of the League are being urged by friends of the prohibition cause to establish a museum collection of old barroom fixtures at the national headquarters of the League in Westerville. Before many years these fixtures will be curios, it is said.

WILL ROGERS SAYS WET PRESIDENT CAN'T WIN

Westerville, O., Mar. 8.—"Will Rogers, the comedian, has learned American sentiment better than the leaned Dr. Nicholas Murray Butler, president of Columbia University," said a statement issued today by national headquarters of the Anti-Saloon League of America.

"In a recent syndicated newspaper article, Rogers referred to Dr. Butler's assertion that the next president of the United States must be a wet, in this fashion:

" 'Nick may know schoolmarming, but he don't know Ameican sentiment outside of New York'."

"No one who says the next president must be a wet knows American sentiment. American sentiment can not be learned by sitting at a desk in New York. Rogers gets the real reaction of prohibition by traveling about the country in his work."

Important Meeting of Farmers Held At Courthouse Wednesday Afternoon

County Co-operative Association Plans To Ship A Car Load of Chickens From Clanton Before April 1st.

"Birmingham citizens and industries have the desire to use Chilton County products and the money to pay for them if you will raise crops and grade them," Frank Willis Barnett, of the Birmingham News, told members of the Chilton County Co-operative Association, at their meeting Wednesday. "It seems to me that about the only people in Alabama who do not realize your wonderful advantages are your own citizens."

Addressing the meeting of progressive farmers from districts thruout the county, Mr. Barnett made a strong plea for co-operative marketing and stated that the reason that diversified farming had been so long in supplanting cotton and corn was that until recently proper markets had not been developed. He pointed out that even the great steel and iron industry of the Birmingham district depended upon the success of the farmers of Alabama.

Dr. M. F. Jackson, of the Extension Marketing Department of the Tennessee Coal, Iron, and Railroad Co., another distinguished speaker present, made practical suggestions for crops and marketing.

"The best thing that I can say in behalf of co-operative associations," Dr. Jackson said, "is that produce dealers everywhere are anxious to deal with these associations because they can depend upon better graded products. Proper grading and co-operative marketing raised the prices to farmers of Alabama turkeys from 20 cents to 30 cents a pound at the car door last year, and it can do the same for other farm produce."

Dr. Jackson stated that, in his opinion, poultry, eggs, and butter fat would bring excellent returns to Chilton County farmers, and added that Alabama Johnson Grass hay offered an unlimited market if properly graded.

Resolutions were passed at the meeting appointing a committee to arrange for poultry culling demonstrations throughout the county with the end in view of shipping co-operatively a car of chickens before April 1.

Both Dr. Jackson and Mr. Barnett stated that the greatest need of Chilton County at the present time was a county demonstration agent.

Both speakers will be asked to return to Clanton in the near future to address a mass meeting to discuss Chilton County neds and advantages, it was said.

The Co-operative Association will open offices this week in the Upchurch Building, Clanton, and the Association reports that it is now taking orders for carpet grass for permanent pastures. The next meeting of the Association will be held at the Courthouse, Wednesday, March 23, at 2:00 p. m.

In certain parts of the South everybody eats dinner at midday and then takes a nap. Business is practically suspended for a couple of hours. Especially is this true of the summer season.

A Northern traveling man in a small town not far from where I was born and reared needed a lead pencil. Nobody around the little hotel seemed to have one to spare. The time was just after midday and the weather was sultry. He walked down the deserted main street until he came to a general store. A gentleman in his shirtsleeves, evidently the proprietor, was tilted back in a chair against the front door, taking a nap.

The stranger shook him by the shoulder, at first gently, then forcibly. The sleeper broke a snore short off and opened one heavy eye.

"Well?" he said, drowsily.

"I want to buy a lead pencil," said the traveling man, "a good five-cent lead pencil."

"Got no lead pencils," murmured the proprietor thickly, as his eyes closed again.

"Why, I can see a whole showcase full of them right behind you," protested the traveler.

The proprietor started to rise. Then inspiration came to him.

"Oh, them?" he said. "Them ain't for sale!" and went right back to sleep.

More Than 50 Miles An Hour For Twenty-four Hours Continuously

Upper photograph shows Essex Super-Six Sedan on its 24-hour run on the Culver City, Calif., track. Lower picture, the car climbing Mt. Wilson after its grueling 24-hour run.

An average speed of 53.8 miles an hour for 24 continuous hours was hung up by one of the new type Essex Super-Sixes on the Culver City, Cal., track, according to official word received here by Mr. H. M. Bates, Hudson-Essex Distributor.

This test, according to Mr. Bates, was completed by Walter M. Murphy, the Los Angeles distributor, and was officially observed and scored by Los Angeles newspapermen and by the Western Union. After the Essex had dashed off its 1291 miles on the track, it completed a trip up Mt. Wilson and return, and was placed for display in the distributor's Los Angeles showroom.

"When this test was undertaken," said Mr. Bates, "the program was simply to equal the 50-mile-an-hour average which has been promised by the Hudson organization for the Essex Super-Six. To be safe, this speed was somewhat exceeded early in the 24-hour run, so that even when fog and a damp track handicapped the latter part of the run, the average was substantially better than had been planned.

"Such a test takes more out of a car than 10 times the mileage under usual driving conditions, yet the car was immediately started on the Mt. Wilson climb, which involved entirely different operating qualities. No difficulty at all was experienced in either part of the test. The top speed made on the track was around 63 miles an hour.

"We consider that this test backs up our statement that the Essex Super-Six is the most enduring Essex ever built. The old Essex 'four' was admittedly a remarkable car, yet it never equalled the performance just completed at Culver City. At the Indianapols races, even, the cars—though their speed is much higher—operate only a total of 500 miles as against this Essex's 1291. This record was made, too, not with a stripped car, but with a regulation Essex sedan.

"Our Los Angeles distributor, Mr. Murphy, declares that he has seen many tests run at Culver City, but that never has a motor car finished more successfully or in more perfect mechanical condition than this Essex Super-Six. No mechanical changes or adjustments whatever were made during the run, and the car was running smoothly and easily at the finish."

The Newest Gowns Blouse and Drape

How a gown may be extremely smart without being extreme in any way is illustrated in the sketch above. The cut and finish are simplicity itself, and yet the gown has a certain studied elegance often lacking in many frocks of more elaborate make. The long line of the surplice closing, continuing into the easy sway of the side drapery, is most becoming to the woman of stately figure. The flat drapery at the hips further aids this slenderizing style and allows the waist to blouse slightly. The self-bindings of the edges trim the gown with a soft finish. Satin crêpe, crêpe de Chine, or satin-back moire are happy choices of material.

OTTO BURNETT ARRESTED FOR HAVING LIQUOR ON PREMISES

Sheriff Collins went to the place of Otto Burnett, near Collins Chapel on Tuesday and made a search for liquor. His investigations revealed the hiding place of 11 gallons of corn whiskey in the woods near Burnett's house. It was in a 10-gallon keg and a one-gallon jug or can. There were present 25 empty cans that showed signs of having had liquor in them.

Burnett was arrested and brought to Clanton, and was later released on bail bond.

LIBERTY HILL

The singing society met at this place Sunday afternoon at 2 o'clock, rendering a short but enjoyable program which was in charge of Mr. Dave Melton as chairman. Both the chairman and assistant were absent.

The following were directors for the afternoon: Dave Melton, J. Z. Mims, Leonard Culp, Houston Melton and Miss Etta Foshee, Mrs. John Rollins, Miss Leila Melton and Mrs. Paul Littlejohn were organists. Some few visitors were present, to whom we extend a hearty welcome to come again. We certainly apprecate the help and hope to have more visitors from other societies.

Mr. J. Z. Mims being present from the Samaria society, renewed the invitation which was given our society a month ago, to come to his church but we were prevented on account of rain, so we will meet there next Sunday afternoon. So, there will not be any singing at Cedar Grove next Sunday afternoon.

Mr. Dave Melton sung the closing song, and we were dismissed with prayer by Bro. Homer Carroll.

Next Saturday and Sunday are the regular preaching days here. We hope to have a large attendance of the members.

Bro. B. Davie gave his lecture on Tuesday at 11 o'clock, which was enjoyed by quite a few. The service at 7 o'clock was held before a full house—which Mr. Davie said was the most people that had attended his services at any place.

THE NITROGEN INDUSTRY

Development of the nitrogen industry has become such an important part of German national economy since the World War that now it is worth annually around 1,000,000,000 gold marks to Germany's trade balance. This is equivalent to nearly $250,000,000. The figures are given by Dr. Julius Bueb, head of German Nitrogen Syndicate, and reported by Trade Commissioner Daugherty at Berlin to the United States Department of Commerce.

Germany is demonstrating its complete independence of other nations in the matter of nitrogen supply. Before the war it imported annually from Chile approximately 140,000 tons of nitrogen. Now it produces all the nitrogen it uses for both industry and agriculture, and exports 200,000 tons a year. In 1926 around 500,000 tons of fixed nitrogen were made in Germany. Of this, 70% was produced by the Haber Bosch process of direct ammonia synthesis, 15% by local calcium cyanamid, and 15% by coke and gas plants.

For the production of nitrogen in the United States two plants were built at Muscle Shoals during the war. The larger plant, erected at a cost of approximately $65,000,000 had just begun to make nitrates by the cyanamid process when the armistice was signed, and operations ceased. The smaller plant, costing $13,000,000 was never used, although it was to have employed the modified Haber process. It was declared by experts to be impractical.

Revolution of the entire fertilizer industry may result from the appearance of a complete chemical fertilizer mixture called "Nitrophoska," declares Dr. Bueb. It contains in concentrated form over 50% of pure plant foods, nitrogen, phosphorous, and potash. It is mixed with other ingredients to produce finished fertilzers.—The Birmingham Age-Herald, February 16, 1927.

THE FARM PROBLEM

Newspaper comment on the passage of the McNary-Haugen bill by Congress and its veto by President Coolidge, has been wide and varied, as is always the case when there is honest opinion on both sides of a question.

It can be stated in all fairness that the great majority of those who voted for the bill sincerely believed it a good thing for the farmers of the country, just as those who voted against it were of the opinion that it was unsound and would injure rather than help the entire country, including the farmers.

There had never been any question as to where President Coolidge stood on the subject, and even those who wanted him to sign the bill agree in his honesty of purpose, and above all in his real courage in vetoing the bill. And indeed the courage displayed by the President was the best kind it is possible to have—the courage of one's convictions.

Practically everyone in the country wants the farmer prosperous, for the simple reason that we know his well being adds to the general prosperity of the country. President Coolidge certainly wants to help the agricultural industry of the country. He was raised on the farm and knows something about the problems of rural life. But the President believes, as do many other sound statesmen, that the bill which he recently vetoed would hurt the farmer rather than aid him. And the President wrote a lengthy and straightforward message setting out the reasons for his convictions.

Now that the McNairy-Haugen bill is vetoed it is quiescent as an issue for several months at least, unless there should unexpectedly be a special session of Congress. In the meantime many plans will be advanced for helping the farmer.

One of the plans we are apt to hear a great deal about is that one advanced by the free traders for destroying our prescent system of protection. This is a plan on which all far-seeing Americans will frown—farmers and city dweller alike. It is difficult to see how lowering the tariff will help the farmer. The things which he uses exclusively are already on the free list and farm products already coming into the country from the outside pay more tariff than any other kind of commodity.

What the farmer wants is to get rid of his surplus. If the tariff is lowered and several million men thrown out of employment, the demand for farm products will be diminished in the great market in which the farmer already sells ninety per cent of his products. There is neither rhyme nor reason in the plan advanced to "aid the farmer" by reducing the tariff.

NATIONAL AFFAIRS

The Department of Commerce tells us a lot of things about American business and a great deal of the information is decidedly valuable. William D. Mann, Assistant Trade Commissioner, informs us that there is now an expanding market for American products in Egypt, principally on account of the quality of goods offered and certain service advantages. In commenting on this, Mr. Mann says that with a direct freight service now connecting the two countries their commercial relations are closer than ever before, and American educational institutions in the Near East have created a demand for American goods.

Formerly, Mr. Mann adds, the chief interest of Egypt in American products was in coal, flour, and iron goods, but now there is a demand for our typewriters, hosiery, toilet preparations, upper leathers, lubricating oils, and so on. In addition, it is stated, the sale of American outomobiles in Egypt is increasing rapidly. Automobile, silk hosiery, toilet articles, typewriters—here are some indications that Egypt is becoming modernized.

And as our markets are expanding in Egypt, they are expanding elsewhere, and they are doing this in spite of the direful predictions of the free traders and other internationalists to the contrary. These well meaning gentlemen told us that unless we revised our tariff downward, cancelled the foreign debts, and joined the League of Nations, we could not expect to have any foreign trade. Our tariff, they said, would keep out imports and prevent foreign buying from us, and our nationalist policy so anger other nations that they would not buy from us anyway.

Egypt furnishes one answer to the dire predictions. We still have our protective tariff; we still have our European accounts although we are not collecting on some of them; and we are still out of the League. But our foreign trade continues, and the end is not yet. Imports are coming too, in such volumes that many economists say there ought to be higher rates on certain imports—among them, by the way, beef products which have a habit of coming in large quantities from South America. So here is another good pessimistic prediction gone wrong.

At its economic conference in May the League of Nations will take up the question of trade barriers. Many world economists believe that European countries should eliminate their trade barriers so that the various European nations can trade with one another, something like our states do, although it would of course be impossible to eliminate barriers altogether until there was created a United States of Europe.

Taking away a few trade barriers in Europe undoubtedly would help some. The world war created a lot of them and Europe would be better off without most of these. But it does not follow that the United States can or will follow any such example. We are committed to the theory that high wages by increasing consumption bring real prosperity, and our present national example proves that this is true. And our high wages are maintained by our protective tariff, which eliminates low-waged European competition. If Europe wants to get rid of our protective barrier, let Europe increase its wage system until the European worker is as well off as the American working man is today. Then there may be some excuse to talk about a lower American tariff system. But the day when this will happen is still distant.

WHY SHOULD THE ALABAMA POWER CO. BE RECOGNIZED ?

For many, many years the Alabama Power Company has been regarded, in certain sections, as a dangerous enemy to the development and growth of the state. Statesmen battled the company, newspapers fought the company, the individual thought of gigantic monopolies with far-reaching tentacles, choking the common people, when the company was spoken of, or discussed in business meetings.

Today that fooling is dying, few look upon the Alabama Power Company with suspicious eyes, and why? Why should the Alabama Power Company be recognized in the State of Alabama as the leading factor in obtaining industrial growth?

Within the months of January, February, and March, the Alabama Power Company has published facts concerning Alabama as an advantageous location for industries in five of the best known national publications.

Is such material as that calculated to come from the publicity department of a company desiring to hold the progress of Alabama? If such an act commendable? Are you attempting in your own way to do your share in ratio to the power in capital you have for improving Alabama?

That is one of the reasons the Alabama Power Company should be recognized as the leader in this state in bringing additional industries to Alabama soil, bringing about a satisfactory ratio between agriculture and industry, wherein lies the strength of the future South. You will not deny that these things are beneficial; you will not deny that these things cost much money; you will not deny that the company is entitled to profit upon its product any more than you will deny that the average business man should have a profit for the labor, expenses, risks, and life's blood he puts into his business.

The location of the Connecticut Mills in Decatur is primarily the work of the Alabama Power Company.

Much electricity burned in the white way systems on the streets of this city is paid for by the Alabama Power Company. You do not doubt the correctness of those statements.

Give the Alabama Power Company a chance to bring greater things, greater industries to this state, cooperate with a gigantic force thrown into the industrial balance favoring Alabama.—The Decatur Daily, February 21, 1927

In 1918 the average consumption of butter per person in the United States was 14 pounds. In 1925 this had increased to 7 pounds. Cheese consumption increased during the same period from 3 pounds to 4¼ pounds per capita, and ice cream from a little over two gallons to almost three gallons per individual. There was a very large increase in consumption of milk. It jumped from 43 gallons in 1918 to 54¾ gallons in 1925.

A Million More People in the L&N-Served South

More people, more prosperity—that's the story of the Central South's great development during the past few years. Over a million and a half new citizens in the States of Alabama, Georgia, Kentucky, Mississippi, Virginia, North Carolina, Tennessee, Louisiana, Florida—people who have come to these States from every section of the country—people who have come to make their homes and to take an active part in community building.

The railroads are very largely responsible for bringing new citizens to this vicinity. Through Northern and Eastern newspapers, through national farm journals, through magazines of enormous circulation and through the distribution of folders and printed matter, the L. & N. is constantly, and has been for years, advertising the agricultural, the industrial and the tourist attractions of these States.

Latest estimates of population show that since the 1920 census, the States above listed have an increased population of 1,635,223 and that this increase is above the average of any other section of the United States.

The furnishing of superior freight and passenger service and the up-building of the territory it serves, are the provinces of this Railroad.

Pimples, Boils, Skin Eruptions

Skilled physicians recognize the appearance of pimples, boils and other skin eruptions as being an indication of an abnormal condition of the system. This is why so many thousands have been enabled to free themselves of these unsightly blemishes and painful annoyances by taking a course of S.S.S. You owe it to yourself to try S. S. S. It helps Nature build up red corpuscles. It improves the processes by which the blood is nourished. It is time-tried and reliable.

"I suffered from impure blood—was weak, and I had lost so much weight, I didn't look natural. I had pimples and was also bothered with a breaking-out that itched terribly. I also had boils one after another. I tried different kinds of remedies, but nothing did me any good until a friend advised me to take S. S. S., which I did. This was some time ago. Now I feel well, and I am getting along fine. S. S. S. stopped the itching and it cured me of boils. I advise all weak and run-down people to give S. S. S. a trial. It clears up the skin and makes you strong and fills you with energy." Mrs. J. W. Barker, 1337 Walnut Street, Cincinnati, Ohio.

S.S.S. is made from the fresh roots of medicinal herbs and plants and is prepared in a scientific way in a modern laboratory.

S.S.S. is sold at all good drug stores in two sizes. The larger size is more economical.

Educational Bill Pending Before State Legislature Now Recessed

The General Education Bill carrying appropriations for the quadrennium, 1927-30, was introduced in the House of Representatives and Senate February 10. It is entitled an Act "To make appropriations to the State Board of Education for the further support, maintenance, and development of public education in Alabama, through agencies, services, and institutions under its general or direct control or subject to its rules and regulations; to make appropriations to the Alabama College, the Alabama Polytechnic Institute, and the University of Alabama, for further support, maintenance, and development; and to prescribe conditions of apportionment and expenditure of these appropriations."

The bill has been referred to the Appropriations Committee of the House, and to the Committee on Finance and Taxation of the Senate. These Committees will study the bill and make their reports to the House and Senate after conferring with the Education Committees of the House and Senate.

The fate of the bill will be determined largely by the way these committees report it. A "favorable" report will aid materially the passage of the bill. An "unfavorable" report will most likely kill it. Should this happen it would be most disastrous for the schools of the state. Educational needs have been before the state constantly. They are great and far reaching. The action of this Legislature will determine our school progress for the next four years.

Provisions of the Bill

1. It establishes an Equalization Fund of $1,000,000 a year to be used toward the equalization of educational opportunities of the state. The bill provides that all counties must levy and collect a uniform tax for the support of the schools before they can share in the fund. It is the purpose of this fund to help the poorer sections of the state provide better educational advantages for their children after they have exerted an effort, according to their ability, equal to that of all other sections of the state. The bill also provides just how this fund is to be expended in the several counties, insuring the expenditure of the fund for the purpose for which it was intended—to lengthen school terms and to secure a better trained teaching corps.

2. It provides for an appropriation of $500,000 a year for better school attendance and for the furtherance of a physical and health program. This fund is to reward and help those schools showing a high percentage of pupils attending school of those enrolled. Some of the schools which, possibly, might not share in the Equalization Fund, because they already have a nine months term, though greatly in need of funds, could share in this fund.

3. In order to stimulate and help establish libraries in rural schools, an appropriation of $18,300 per year is asked for in the bill to supplement the present small fund.

4. For the erection and repair of rural school houses, in which state aid is necessary, the sum if $128,500 per year is asked to supplement the present fund of $221,500.

5. To each of the normal schools located at Florence, Jacksonville, Livingston, and Troy, a further appropriation of $35,000 per year to each of them is asked, and for the normal school for negroes at Montgomery $20,000 in 1927, $40,000 in 1928, and each year thereafter $55,000 to aid in its support. For the normal school at Daphne there is requested a further sum of $6,000 for 1927, $16,000 for 1928, $21,000 for 1929, and for 1930 and each year thereafter $26,000.

The support of Daphne is to come from a fund of $200,000 requested for the development and maintenance of better and more equitable teacher-training conditions.

6. Other additional appropriations requested are $37,500 per year for the Illiteracy Fund, $10,000 per year for the Agricultural and Mechanical School for Negroes, for the School of Trades and Industries at Gadsden, $10,000 in 1927, $15,000 in 1928, $20,000 in 1929, and for the year 1930 and each year thereafter $25,000; for salaries, supplies, and expenses of the State Department of Education heretofore paid out of the Revolving Fund, the sum of $32,500 is asked. The latter is not an increased appropriation, but a change in the source of payment.

7. To match Federal Aid for vocational education varying sums are asked; for 1927, $100,706; for 1928, $150,706; for 1929, $175,706; and for 1930 and each year thereafter $200,706. These appropriations are in addition to the present fund for this purpose.

8. High school education is growing very fast. In order to help counties to provide high school facilities the sum of $411,000 per year is requested.

9. The present appropriations to Alabama College, Alabama Polytechnic Institute, and the University of Alabama are renewed under the Act, and the following further sums are asked: Alabama College for 1927, $187,625; for 1928, $196,790; for 1929, $198,623; for 1930 and each year thereafter $200,457. Alabama Polytechnic Institute for 1927, $332,605; for 1928, $348,855; for 1929, $352,105; for 1930 and each year thereafter $355,355. The University to get the same appropriations as for Alabama Polytechnic Institute.

Of the total appropriations recommended in this act and for the operation and maintenance of the state's schools, 75% is for normal schools, secondary schools, including the agricultural and mechanical schools, and elementary schools, and 25% for the higher institutions.

Provisions for Building and Grounds

10. The bill also seeks aid for those institutions entirely dependent upon the Legislature for funds for buildings, grounds, and equipment. Briefly the appropriations requested are: Normal school at Troy for 1927, $100,000; for 1928, $100,000; for 1929, $150,000; for 1930, $150,000. Normal school at Jacksonville $100,000 per year for 4 years. Normal school at Livingston $100,000 a year for 4 years. Normal school at Montgomery $50,000 per year for 1927 and 1928, and for years 1929 and 1930, $75,000 each. School of Trades and Industries at Gadsden for the years 1927 and 1928, $50,000 each, and for the years 1929 and 1930, $75,000 each. Agricultural and Mechanical Institute for negroes at Normal, Ala., $50,000 per year for 4 years. Alabama College at Montevallo, $200,000 a year for 4 years. Alabama Polytechnic Institute at Auburn $250,000 per year for 4 years. University of Alabama, $250,000 a year for 4 years. These funds are to be used for the erection of buildings, acquisitions of grounds and equipment, or to pay the indebtedness that may have already been incurred for these purposes.

John D. Rockefeller In Marble

OCCUPYING a prominent position of honor in the lobby of the Standard Oil Company building in New York City, is a remarkably life-like bust of John D. Rockefeller. Twice life-size and sculptured in the finest Burgundian marble, it is attracting much attention.

This bust and another, half as large, were the work of the famous Jo Davidson—pictured, with the model for the larger statue, above. The smaller bust of Mr. Rockefeller, said also to be a most artistic and characteristic specimen, has been sent to the oil magnate's palatial home.

CHEVROLET SETS NEW RECORD

Responding to an unprecedented and enthusiastic demand on the part of the public for "the most beautiful Chevrolet in Chevrolet history," with its numerous refinements at lowered prices, the Chevrolet Motor Company during February again smashed all previous monthly production records by producing 85,821 cars.

February production this year showed an increase of 34,518 cars or more than 67% over the total of 51,303 Chevrolets built in February, 1926.

Despite greatly enlarged facilities provided under the $10,000,000 expansion program completed December 1, 1926, the Chevrolet Motor Company was forced to extend its operations by working overtime, night and day, to meet the nation-wide demand for Chevrolet cars—a demand marking the rise of this company to its position as the largest manufacturer of gear-shift cars in the world.

LIKE PROVIDENCE SINGINGS

Editor Union-Banner:

Please allow us space in your paper to say a few words in regard to the singing at Providence church, in Beat 16, last Sunday afternoon.

The singing was fine, among the best we have heard in a long time. All the directors seemed to sing with the spirit. At the close, Rev. M. J. Parrish made a good talk on what our young men and women should be interested in; and after the service, we haven't enjoyed so many good old fashion handshakes in many days.

We enjoyed every bit of the service, and also talking with old friends on the ground. We will not forget that Sunday afternoon, but we will go back to Providence next first Sunday afternoon, the Lord permitting. Many good things could be said of the Providence people; they give one the heartiest welcome of people anywhere. They are just honest big-hearted people. Go and see for yourself next first Sunday afternoon. Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Mims.

HUDSON MOTORS ENLARGES MANUFACTURING SCHEDULE

Detroit, Mich., Mar. 8.—Hudson Motor Car Company has entered on the largest manufacturing schedule for February in its entire history, with a daily output of 500 Hudsons and 700 Essex.

Since the introduction of new cars the first of the year, distributors and dealers have been urgent in asking for additional shipments. As cars have gone directly into the hands of retail buyers this demand has increased consistently. As a result all tentative schedules for production have been sharply advanced.

In January, 12,000 Essex cars were shipped. The new Hudson Super Six went into production February 1. The 500 a day schedule on Hudsons is the largest in the company's history. Many factory departments have gone on a two shift a day basis. Total 1927 production is estimated at 300,000.

TIMBER GROWTH MAY BE SPEEDED UP

That the rate of timber growth may be speeded up by scientific methods of handling woodlands, has been shown by experiments conducted by the Alabama Commission of Forestry. The Commission has given much study to the rates of growth of the most valuable native trees, and systems of improved logging and turpentining are among the results. This means that greater amounts of lumber and naval stores can be produced on the same tract and in the same time than can be yielded under the old practives.

The underlying principle of modern methods of utilization may be said to consist in the uisng of trees in the order of their maturity. In other words, trees which have reached their full growth, or a point at which their increase in value is not more than the same investment could be made to pay otherwise, should be logged or turpentined first. Only enough of the next lower age classes should be included to reduce the unit overhead and operating costs to a practicable figure, or to thin out the stand so that the growth of the remaining trees will be expedited by the additional light and soil nutriment made available.

By following modern systems the timberland owner receives higher returns on a lower investment. The lumber material from larger trees is of higher priced grades. The cost of logging large trees is much less per thousand feet, and the higher yield of resin makes fewer trees to manage to make a crop. The advantage of using trees only in the order of their maturity does not end with the woods work, however, but extends to the building trades and other construction enterprises where the handling of a few large pieces instead of numerous small pieces greatly reduces the cost.

Everybody Invited

For a small town, Thorsby contains an unusual percentage of people who are interested in music, both vocal and instrumental. A recent survey showed that there were 52 of our children and young people taking music lessons. These are distributed among three teachers — Miss Giula Williams, head of the music department of Thorsby Institute; Mrs. W. L. Leary, who teaches music at the public school; and Miss Astrid Ekblad, who gives private lessons at homes of pupils. All this means that Thorsby people are enough interested in music to spend money to have their children instructed in the "universal language."

For several days past there have been several rare musical opportunities, in an unusual variety of music. Sunday afternoon, March 6, the United Singing Society held its regular monthly singing service at Thorsby Baptist church. Monday night, February 29, a party motored to Birmngham to attend the opera "Il Trovatore," at the Municipal Auditorium. The next night two motor cars loaded with Thorsby people made the trip to the magic city to attend the opera "La Tosca." These entertainments were given by the Chicago Civic Opera Co., and were well rendered by a large company with excellent soloists. Those composing the Tuesday night party were Dr. Napoleon Johnson and a lady from Clanton, who took Misses Myra Johnson, Lois Hawkes, Hazel Maddox, Theresa Gibbons. Earl Leary took his mother and Misses Giula Williams, Catherine Thom, Margaret Williams, and Dorothy Butler. To most of these young people this was their first introduction to real opera, and the remembrance of their keen enjoyment of it will long remain as a pleasant memory.

Last Saturday night demonstrated that Thorsby people do not necessarily have to go abroad to get a good quality of music. Miss Giula Williams presented the pupils of Thorsby Instute music department. Every player displayed an appreciation of what they were doing, and an ability to express it in a way that held the closest attention of the entire audience.

Mrs. H. M. Gerald and Misses Sue Murray, Odie Lee Arthur, Ruth Gerald, and Pearl Carlson attended the play Friday night at Chilton County High School. The title of the play was "His Uncle's Niece." The cast was composed of Clanton young people.

Next Sunday at Lutheran church, English services at 10:45; business meeting of the congregation at 3 p. m., Sunday.

Mrs. Amundsen and Mrs. Grothe also entertained for Mrs. Anderson, who left at the end of the week for her home in Inglenook.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Villadsen and Mrs. Anna Villadsen motored to Aldrich on Sunday to visit Reno Villadsen and family.

Mesdames Harry Thompson and D. M. Paxson, with Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Bosworth, were visitors in Clanton Monday afternoon.

Miss Ingrid Lynnes, who has been visiting her aunt, Mrs. Theo. Bakke, for the past five weeks, left last Saturday for Birmingham, Washington, and other points on her way to New York. She will sail for her home in Norway about March 23. Mrs. Bakke accompanied her to Birmingham.

The Baptist Ladies Aid Society will meet with Mrs. Leonard Lowery on Thursday afternoon, March 10.

Miss Caroline Skinnes has been on the sick list the past week. She is with Mrs. Lefstead.

Mrs. Anna Villadsen entertained last Saturday afternoon in honor of Mrs. Magne Anderson. The guests were Mesdames Amundsen Gerald, G. C. Petersen, S. E. Norton, and Miss Lekke.

Mrs. M. J. Soberg returned last Thursday from Wylam, where she had spent several days visiting her daughter, Mrs. Walter Morgan, who is ill. Mrs. Soberg brought her little grandson, Marvin Morgan.

Mrs. Robert Davenport has as her guest Mrs. Reno Ward of Selma.

Mrs. S. C. Wood, Mrs. Lewis Howard, and Mrs. J. E. Each spent Monday in Selma.

Prof. and Mrs. Charles M. Williams are receiving congratulations on the arrival of a new daughter, weight 9 1-2 pounds, whom they are introducing as Edith Charlene Williams.

Mr. and Mrs. R. L. Primm are the proud parents of a fine boy, weight 9 1-2 pounds; we have not learned his name yet.

The Y. W. A. will meet with Mrs. Leonard Lowery next Tuesday, March 15; every member is urged to be present, as plans are under way to give a play soon.

Dr. and Mrs. S. C. Wood attended the play, "His Uncle's Niece," given at Chilton County High School last Friday night.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Howard motored to Wylam last Sunday to visit their daughter, Mabel. They were accompanied by their daughter, Lucille, and Jerome Wilson.

Mrs. H. L. Walker, who has been seriously ill for several days, seems to be improving slowly.

Little Oleta Bice, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Grover Bice, is improving.

The Gulledge school (colored) near Thorsby will close Tuesday, March 15. Rev. Each, pastor of Thorsby Congregational church, will speak at 2 o'clock p. m., and others of our white friends. There will be a concert at the school Tuesday nght; program begins at 7:30; special accomodations have been prepared for our white friends. Admission 15c, or 25c per couple.—Joseph Sistrunk.

The first to entertain Thorsby Institute senior class of 1927 is Miss Dessie Robinson, one of them herself, who invited the class and their sponsor, Miss Lois Hawkes, to help her celebrate her birthday anniversary Monday evening at the A. T. Robinson home on Washington St. The senior class this year consists of Misses Dorothy Butler, Meryl Freeman, Betty Lakeman, Willie Littlejohn, Virginia Lindsey, Jean Johnson; Messrs. Ronald Lucas, Ragnar Ekblad, Hudson Williams, Olin Williams, and Marcell Wilder. Refreshments were served—cocoa, jell-o, cake, candy, and sandwiches.

J. M. Bosworth and family motored to Fairfield Sunday to visit C. R. Peterson and family.

Miss Agnes Leary spent Monday night with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Leary, in Thorsby.

TWO THOUSAND JAPS LOSE LIVES IN THREE MINUTES

A dispatch from Tokyo, Japan, says that at least 2,000 persons lost their lives in a three-minute earth-quake which rocked central Japan Monday evening. It is reported 1,000 were killed in the town of Mineyama alone.

Numerous districts in the vicinity of Mineyama were destroyed, while fire which came close on the heels of the quake accounted for a great number of casualties, which it is expected will reach several thousand in burned and injured.

JEMISON NEWS

Mrs. W. C. Erwin, Correspondent

Our agricultural teacher, Mr. Montgomery, is conducting a night school at Pleasant Grove, and is highly pleased with the interest shown in better farming shown by the people of that community. They have had two meetings and everybody seems to be well pleased with them. They have 25 members and about as many visitors who meet and discuss problems of interest. The course urges farmers to outline a definite plan to follow, which in some cases, will require four years to reach the goal, but diligence and faithful perseverance is sure to bring success. The basic plan is the same as was adopted by the Chilton County Growers Association. The present course will be based principally on intensive work on crops and fertilizer, with special emphasis placed on starting the farmer on the way of shipping cream, and starting pure bred poultry flocks. Mr. Montgomery will visit the farmers for a period of six months and assist them in every way possible. The first lesson given was on the proper fertilization of cotton. The second was on corn. The third will be on the varieties of cotton and corn to be planted. Mr. J. N. Childress has consented to discuss the bitter weed control, and the planting of pastures. Meetings on Tuesday and Saturday nights at 7 o'clock p. m., at Pleasant Grove; they will be interesting to anyone.

John Ezell Host—

On last Friday evening John Ezell entertained a number of friends at the home of his parents, Dr. and Mrs. S. J. Ezell, on north Sixth Street. The occasion was in celebration of his 10th birthday anniversary. The guests gathered at the home of the host, and later went to Ellis' grove, where a large bonfire was built. While sitting around this fire, a story told by Mrs. Ezell was thoroughly enjoyed. She told of a group of pirates who at one time hid a box of gold somewhere on that very hill side, but the direction for finding this hidden treasure were lost, and both the directions and gold were yet to be discovered. Immediately a search was begun, and soon Grace Plyler was the fortunate one to find the directions. These were read by Dr. Ezell to those searching for the gold, and after some time the box was discovered by Pauline Plyler. Upon opening the box she gave each one present a bag of gold, each containing the same number of pieces. A contest was started to see who could get the most gold by collecting one piece as a fine from the person saying "I" or "you." Elizabeth Harris and Lawrence Gerald, Jr., were the winners. They were presented a bottle of toilet water and a checker game, respectively. Weiners were roasted and marshmallows toasted, as they sat about counting their gold. Later in the evening the guests returned to the Ezell home to find the dining room beautifully decorated with geraniums and japonicas. The dining table held a large birthday cake, topped with 10 pink candles. Punch and cake were served to Joe and Helen Moore, Lawrence Gerald, Jr., Evelyn Maddox, Pauline and Grace Plyler, Norene Thomas, Elizabeth Eubanks, Elizabeth Harris, Grady Reynolds, Jr., Hilda Hart, John Thomas Marler, Mary Frances Rasberry, Ruth Gowan, Alex Hayes, and Hal Broadhead.

Outdoor games and telling of stories furnished amusement for the little guests, after which they were invited into the dining room. Here a color scheme of pink and white was carried out in the decorations. The table was centered with a white birthday cake, holding four pink candles. The cake was surrounded with fern and pink blossoms. Shaded lights shed a soft glow over this setting for the gathering of the little folks. Delicious refreshments were served. Each guest was presented an Easter basket filled with animal and bird sandwiches, cookies, and candies.

Those enjoying this affair were John White Plyler, Iva Mae Timmerman, Mildred Maddox, Barnes Plyler, Jr., Blanche Timmerman, Callen Alred, Mary Courtney Jones, Celia Gerald, Billie Johnson, Guy Alred, Gertrude Eubanks, Annie Laurie Thomas, Mary Frances Atkinson, Olive Rainer Elmore, Ann Cordelia Smith, Frances Smith, Sam Johnson, Theda Wyatt, J. The Blame Goes With the Name

George Barr McCutcheon, the author, walked into a Boston bookstore—Boston, the home of culture, mind you—and, idling about, found a copy of his own book Graustark. Slipping a fountain pen from his pocket he surreptitiously scribbled his name on the fly-leaf. McCutcheon writes an almost illegible hand.

He fiddled about a bit, then picked up the book and, carrying it in his hand, approached the proprietor.

"What kind of a yarn is this?" he asked.

"Pretty fair."

"How much is it?"

"Dollar and a half."

McCutcheon opened the volume at the page bearing his scrawled signature. "How about this?" he asked. "What do you want for it with this in it?"

"Oh," said the bookdealer, "that's a mutilated copy. Take it for seventy-five cents."

DEMOCRATS LAUNCH FIGHT TO NOMINATE AL E. SMITH

Party Leaders Begin Organization Work in Various States in Behalf of "Alcohol."

New York, March 8.—The campaign for nomination of Governor Alfred E. Smith as democratic presidential candidate already is under way, it was declared today, following a conference of party leaders in this city.

John F. Carew, chairman of the New York state democratic delegation in the house of representatives made the statement following a conference between the delegation and George W. Olvany, leader of Tammany Hall.

"We are already at work and propose to nominate him," said Representative Carew, "our assurances are from virtually every state that Al Smith is wanted by a majority of the democrats for president."

Mr. Olvany added that, in his opinion, "the nationwide sentiment for nomination of Governor Smith is of such proportions that the governor should be asked to permit his friends to go to work for him."

The following letter has been addressed to members of the committee by chairman Reynolds:

You have been selected as committeeman in your precinct to act on the county committee in support of the campaign for adoption of the proposed $25,000,000 road bond issue for Alabama to be voted on April 12.

It is the purpose of this committee to create all interest possible among the voters of Chilton County in favor of the adoption of the bond issue, and it is hoped that you will see fit to lend your aid in this movement among the voters and citizens of your precinct.

It is of particular importance in soliciting favor for the proposed bond issue to impress the voters with the fact that the issuance of the state bonds and the financing of the same will be done without any increase in taxes whatsoever. It will be taken care of solely by the taxes on gasoline as now levied and collected by the state.

Chilton County has been very fortunate in the expenditure of the state's road bond money heretofore, having been the recipient of over a million dollars by the building of the paved highway through our county. And it is a specified provision of the bond issue law as now proposed that Chilton, as well as each and every other county of the state, shall receive one-quarter of a millioon dollars worth of road construction out of this issue of the bonds to be authorized by the voters of the state.

You are asked to attend a meeting of the county committee at the court house in Clanton on next Saturday, March 19, at 2:00 o'clock p. m.

We solicit your fullest aid and cooperation in this most important movement which will determine the progress or failure of the state's road and highway development in the next few years.

Will wou please write me at once and let me have your acceptance of the place on this committee and tell me what the disposition of the voters in your beat is concerning the proposition?

Meeting at Court House Saturday

Special attention is called to the meeting Saturday afternoon. It will be not only a meeting of this committee, but also the citizens of the county at large are invited to be present. Judge Reynolds is asking the state highway department to send a representative here for that time to address the voters on the subject of the bond issue and how it will be applied to the building of more highways in the state.

Members of the committee named above are especially urged to come to the meeting Saturday in order that they may be fully acquainted with the details and plans of the campaign.

MISS ROBERTA CURRY SIGNED WITH ROXY'S NEW MOVIE PALACE IN NEW YORK CITY

The following news dispatch is taken from the daily papers of a few days ago:

"It will cost $11 to buy one of the 62,000 seats for the opening of Roxy's new $10,000,000 movie palace tonight. Once a corporal of marines himself, he has hired a couple of ex-sargeants to boss his ushers."

This short item may be made more interesting to many Chilton County readers by the explanation that Clanton's own daughter, Miss Roberta Curry, was in Roxy's initial performance on Friday evening, March 4. Miss Curry's part is prologueing. Her contract with Roxy has been signed for a period of twelve months service.

Roxy's is the largest moving picture play house in the world. It has three pipe organs, and its orchestra numbers 150 pieces. The seating capacity is more than six thousand.

$100 Worth of Prizes Offered In Contest To Find the Missing Words

Costs Nothing to Try; Contest Runs for Thirteen Weeks; Prizes are Already Bought And on Display.

The Union-Banner announces the inauguration of the most liberal "Missing Word" Contest ever put on in Chilton County, for the advertisers in this paper. There are absolutely no strings to this contest. The prizes have already been bought and paid for, and there is nothing now left but for somebody to win them. No money is required to win the prizes—simply using your head and thinking faculties a little. Turn to page six of this paper and read the rules and go to work.

Do not wait until next week to start—now is the time to begin. If you wait someone will get ahead of you, and you will have a hard time getting even again.

Save this sheet of The Union-Banner every week, and mark the missing words according to the rules of the contest. When the sheet has ben worked, bring or send it to The Banner office for it to be graded. The game is not a hard one, but it will require work to win anything. The prizes offered have been personally inspected by the publisher of The Union-Banner, and they are just as fine as can be bought anywhere for the price at which they usually sell. They are really useful and genuine articles—all good and useful to anyone who may be lucky enough to win one of them.

On this page will be found several advertisements of merchants in the county. From certain of these advertisements a word or words have been omitted; so it is necessary that every word of each advertisement be read very carefully. The wording may sound almost correct just like it is, but there are words omitted. Find where the omission is and decide what word or words are omitted; mark the word plainly on the margin of the sheet and draw a line to the exact place where the word should be inserted in the advertisement. After every word missing on this page is so marked, mail it or bring it to The Union-Banner, c/o the Missing Word Contest Editor. This page should be mailed in each week before the next issue of the paper is printed. The replies will be kept sealed until all thirteen have been run in the paper and returned by the contestants. As soon as the papers have been graded and verified by three reputable and uninterested citizens, the prizes will be awarded and announced through the paper. Then those winning may go to the places where the prizes are on display, with the publisher of The Banner, and get his or her prize. Two of the prizes are now on display at Farmers Hardware Company, and the other six are now on display at Upchurch Drug Company. Go to these places and look at the articles and see for yourself that they are genuine and worth working for.

The prizes amount to $100 in value and are worth every cent of it; and in addition to the valuable prizes, every merchant whose advertisement appears on this page has something good to tell you. Go and find out what it is.

Reading advertisements is time well spent. The merchant who is live enough to advertise is live enough to give you good service and seasonable merchandise. The most reliable firms in the country are the most liberal advertisers—you will always find this true.

This is not a subscription campaign, neither is it a chance affair. It is simply a campaign intended to create more interest in advertising and the reading of same in our paper. So, get busy now! Fix up your sheet and mail it in to the Missing Word Contest Editor of The Banner. Do this every week until the thirteen are over, and if you are careful and shrewd enough you will be sure to win a valuable prize.

Anyone is eligible to enter this contest, except an employee of or anyone connected with The Union-Banner.

Following is a list of the valuable prizes to be given away in this contest: 1st — Walnut Vanity Dresser, value $45.00; 2nd — Community Silver Set, 26-piece, 20-year-guarantee, value $15.00; 3rd—Solid gold mounted Cameo Brooch, value $10.00; 4th —Comb, Brush and Mirror Set, value $10.00; 5th—Fountain Pen, value $5; 6th — Smoking Stand, value $5.00; 7th—White gold Brooch Pin, value $5; 8th—Silver plated Vanity Case, value $5. Bob Jones Speaks To Big Crowd at Methodist Church Tuesday Night

"Perils of America" was Subject of Noted Evangelist at Clanton M.E. Church Last Tuesday Night.

The people of Clanton and Chilton county enjoyed a rare treat Tuesday night of this week when they were permitted to listen to Rev. Bob Jones on his famous lecture, "The Perils of America," delivered in the beautiful new Methodist church here.

The famous speaker must have been at the height of his enthusiasm during his Clanton appointment, since the speech he made was not to be excelled anywhere by anybody. The way that he outlined and discussed the different sins that are degrading the American people was startling as well as enlightening and entertaining.

Bob Jones is a man of broad experience and he knows something about the conditions in this nation of ours. He has a right to know, because he has come in close contact with conditions and he has studied them.

After finishing his lecture, Dr. Jones told some interesting facts about the famous new Bob Jones College now being built in Florida. It is to be a thoroughly Christian institution, and shall endeavor not to graduate a single student until his or her soul has been saved and brought to Jesus Christ. Dr. Jones was not asking for money for the school either, but he said that probably Chilton County would be asked to buy some of the school's bonds some time later.

VOTE FOR ROADS APRIL 12TH

"The policy of the Highway Department will be to connect all main highways, both north and south and east and west, that have heretofore been planned, build all necessary bridges and connect all county seats by the most feasible routes and also connect the Alabama Highway System with all important roads from adjoining states."

This is the brief and positive statement made by Colonel Woolsey Finnell, chairman and chief engineer of the State Highway Commission, with the approval of Commissioners Law and Turner.

The above is the fixed policy and pledge of the Highway Department, depending only on the adoption of the $25,000,000.00 roads bond issue to be voted on by the people of Alabama on Tuesday, April 12th.

The amendment submitted provides that "It shall be the duty of the Highway Commission or Highway Department to equitably apportion among the several counties of the state the expenditure of both money and labor and the time or times for making such investment.

"Not less than one quarter of a million dollars of the proceeds of these bonds shall be set aside and expended by the State Highway Commission in each county of the state."

ALABAMA NEEDS ROADS

Every one of the sixty-seven counties will get its share of the bond issue money for its highways.

To carry out its full plans for the construction of the necessary roads and bridges to connect up the already planned and partially built, the Highway Commission will have the $25,000,000.00 to be voted by the people April 12th and also about $6,000,000.00 of Federal Aid money, according to present estimates of U. S. Highway authorities.

Not more than ten per cent of the road work proposed for the four-year program will be done with convict labor.

It is the announced policy of the Highway Commission to expend the bond issue money for road work to be done under contract.

Three convict road camps will be located in different parts of the state, on three different roads. These will be maintained, as far as possible, from the gasoline tax.

It is the avowed purpose and policy of the Highway Commission to use the bond issue money only for the construction of roads and bridges.

The roads will be maintained from license tax funds and funds arising from the two cent gasoline tax authorized by the present Legislature.

Reports from all parts of Alabama indicate that the great mass of thinking people of the state approve the proposed bond issue and the plans of the Commission for its expenditure. The policy of showing and telling in advance what is to be done with the money meets unanimous approval.

The voters can see what they are going to get for their money.

Manly Atchison of Clanton was among his old friends and relatives here on the 6th.

Last Sunday quite a crowd spent the day at S. Jones Smith's. Some relatives came up from Clanton. This section, from olden times, has been proverbial for happy gatherings to spend the day. The fathers and mothers who are here no more kept up the visiting habit. We recall the Nixes, Hubbards, Gibbonses, Hayses, Glasses, Armstrongs, Atchisons, Merchants, Crumptons, and others. Why not continue it indefinitely?

On the first Sunday afternoon Rev. Roberts filled his appointment at Macedonia. His subject was "The City of Gold, the Holy Government, the New Jerusalem, or Heaven." He brought a comforting message. If there ever was a time in all history when the people needed a message of comfort, it is now. And it is going forth from both the rostrum and the printed page.

Dr. Caffey Buried At Verbena On Tuesday

This whole section was saddened last Tuesday by the death of Dr. H. W. Caffey, beloved and highly respected citizen and physician of Verbena.

For several months Dr. Caffey had been in ill health and fully realized that his span of life on this earth was drawing to a close. A few weeks ago he communicated with Rev. Buford Lawrence here at Canton, stating that he had but a short time to live and requested Rev. Lawrence to officiate at his funeral, jointy with Rev. G. W. Jones, who is the former pastor of the Methodist church at Verbena, but is now located at Ramer, Ala. So well did Mr. Caffey know that his death was close at hand that he made every arrangement for his funeral, even to the selection of his pall bearers, and other minute details.

For many years Dr. Caffey practiced his profession at Verbena, where his friends are counted by the whole population of that community. He retired from active practice, however, several years ago, but has continued to make his home at Verbena. A few days ago he went to Selma for hospital treatment. Just prior to his death he expressed a desire to die near his relatives and was carried to the home of his son, near Benton, where he passed away.

His remains were brought to Verbena Wednesday and funeral services were held at the Verbena Baptist church. Interment was made in the Verbena cemetery.

Mothers!

Nature has a way of telling us when something is wrong. If your child is fretful, peevish, with a loss of appetite, it is Nature's danger signal for Intestinal Intoxication. The farmer who thinks that all other farmers will reduce their cotton acreage this year and plants as much or more is liable to discover his mistake before the year is over.

During 1926 the enormous total of 1,500,000,000 pounds of coffee valued at $23,351,582, were imported into the United States. This exceeds the preceding year by a little over 16 per cent in volume and 12.5 per cent in value, according to the Department of Commerce. Imports from Brazil amounted to 1,013,343,000 pounds with a value of $199,663,403.

An agricultural engineer of the Kansas State gricultural College says that 2,000 more combines will be used in harvesting Kansas wheat this year than were used last year, and that this number of combines will reduce by 6,000 the number of laborers required to harvest the Kansas wheat crop. The 10,000 combines in Kansas wheat fields mean that nearly 30,000 less havest hands will be required.

USE THE NEWSPAPERS

The value of newspaper advertising is no longer seriously questioned by any economist. A realization of this value not only to the advertiser but to the consumer as well is now almost universal. The latest tribute to newspaper advertising comes from J. C. McQuiston, manager of the publicity of the Westinghouse Electric Company, and comes with the announcement, that, beginning April 1, the advertising appropriation of this company will be expended entriely among metropolitan and local newspapers.

"Newspapers," said Mr. McQuiston, "seem to offer the only medium by which we can both 'nationalize' and 'localize' our various sales campaigns, thus permitting us to conduct a nation-wide campaign on products and at the same time vary our program to fit the needs of specific districts.

"For many years we have been users of a considerable amount of newspaper space for certain of our merchandising lines, and the results so obtained have prompted us to expand this advertising to cover all of the many lines in which the company is interested.

"Our decision to concentrate on newspaper space came after a careful study of all factors entering into the marketing, selling and advertising situation. One important item was flexibility, whereby we could vary our plans to conform to various factors, such as weather conditions and peculiarities in the economic situation with respect to any particular distict of the country.

"Certain cities present a greater industrial market opportunity than others. Others are outstanding in the character and extent of their new building operations. In still others a greater market is offered for certain products in our merchandising lines than others. The flexibility of newspaper space will permit us to cover all such points with advertising of a specific character."

The firm which fails to appreciate the value of newspaper advertising cannot hope to keep up with the pogress and prosperity of the times.

PROHIBITION PROHIBITS

Westerville, O., Mar. 15.—Liberals at last are now admitting that prohibition is beginning to prohibit, according to a statement issued here today by Dr. F. Scott McBride, general superintendent of the Anti-Saloon League of America.

"The effect of prohibition is being keenly felt even in New York City, which is considered the wettest spot in the country," said the statement.

"O. O. McIntyre, newspaper syndicate writer, who writes about New York life for hundreds of thousands of readers under the caption 'New York, Day by Day,' admits that the metropolis is becoming dryer. In a recent article he said:

"'Club life in New York, with a cool bow to Mr. Volstead, is slowly passing. Nearly all the old established clubs seem deserted, and scores of new ones have given up the ghost'."

LITTLE PEN-O-GRAMS

WHY MORE COTTON?

Some remarkable argument as to the reasons why the government should spend $125,000,000 building a dam and power plant on the Colorado River at Boulder Canyon.

The logical plea is that such a dam is necessary for flood control purposes to protect settlers and property along the river. The building of a dam for this purpose is a function of government, but it is stated that government engineers have estimated the floods of the Colorado River could be controlled by a dam at Topock, Ariz., which would cost about $14,000,000.

When the government treasury is to be tapped, modest schemes grow to gigantic proportions. Instead of $14,000,000 for flood control, the Colorado River project immediately grew to a $125,000,000 undertaking which included the greatest dam in the world, a canal to prevent diversion of waters and a great hydro-electric power plant.

One argument advanced for this enormous expenditure is, that it would furnish additional water for the city of Los Angeles, and additional power for Southern California, although that section now has more electric power developed than it can use. Another argument is, that with the Colorado River water for irrigation purposes the Imperial valley could be made the greatest cotton producing section of the United States.

Why should the government furnish water to the city of Los Angeles? Why should it develop electric power for Southern California? And why should it spend millions to raise more cotton, when our present cotton production is so enormous that cotton prices are so low that Southern planters have been almost bankrupted. Men who know the cotton situation in the United States say that what the South needs to bring about agricultural prosperity is not a bigger crop, but a reasonable price for a moderate crop. What would be accomplished by the government spending $125,000,000 of the people's money to add a million bales of cotton to the over-production of this crop which we already have in the South?

The next cry would be to furnish money to finance cotton planters who were unable to move their crops.

If the Boulder Dam proposition, with all the side issues proposed, developed into as big a farce as Muscle Shoals, and there is no reason to believe that it would not, with all the log-rolling and wire-pulling which would result from a half-dozen states being interested, 25 years would not see the project finished, and $125,000,000 would be only the first installment collected from the taxpayers.—The Manufacturer and Industrial News Bureau, Salem, Oregon.

FARMERS AND TARIFF

An interesting sidelight on the claim of some of the radical western congressmen that the protective tariff does not benefit the farmer or cattle-growers is cast by the recent request by Representative Strong, of Kansas, that the tariff commission investigate certain importations of canned beef from Argentina into the United States—largely by American meat packers. This is claimed to work a serious injury to the cattle industry of the United States. The tariff on cattle is 1 1-2 to 2 cents a pound according to the weight of the carcass imported. The tariff on canned and preserved meats is 20 per cent ad valorem. It is now claimed that this is not sufficient. It is said that the tariff on cattle serves the purpose satisfactorily, but, being adequately protective, tends to increase the amount of canned beef from Argentina cattle. And yet there are those who insist that there should be a downward revision of our tariff schedules! The News Sentinel still maintains that we need upward, not downward, revision in a great many instances.—Ft. Wayne Sentinel.

VOTE FOR ROADS APRIL 12

"The policy of the Highway Department will be to connect all main highways, both north and south, and east and west, that have heretofore been planned, build all necessary bridges and connect all county seats by the most feasible routes and also connect the Alabama Highway System with all important roads from adjoining states."

This is the brief and positive statement made by Col. Woolsey Finnell, chairman and chief engineer of the State Highway Commission, with the approval of Commissioners Law and Turner.

The above is the fixed policy and pledge of the Highway Department, depending only on the adoption of the $25,000,000 roads bond issue to be voted on by the people of Alabama on Tuesday, April 12.

The amendment submitted provides that "It shall be the duty of the Highway Commission or Highway Department to equitably apportion among the several counties of the State the expenditure of both money and labor and the time or times for making such investment.

"Not less than one quarter of a million dollars of the proceeds of these bonds shall be set aside and expended by the State Highway Commission in each County of the State."

Every one of the 67 counties will get its share of the bond issue money for its highways.

To carry out its full plans for the construction of the necessary roads and bridges to connect the already planned and partially built roads, the Highway Commission will have the $25,000,000 to be voted by the people on April 12, and also about $6,000,000 of federal aid money, according to present estimates of the U. S. Highway authorities.

Col. Finnell and his associates of the Highway Commission have had a map prepared for the purpose of showing how and where the proposed connection shall be made—provided the amendment is ratified. This map was made after careful study of the situation by the Commission and its engineers, so the people of the State can see what they are getting for their money.

The road building program can be completed as shown on the map with the bond issue money and federal aid in sight.

JEMISON NEWS

Mrs. W. C. Erwin, Correspondent

Since we have been saying so much of our agricultural school and school activities, we must not forget to say a few words for our high and grammar school. The Jemison High School has been on the accredited list of high schools for the past five years. The school has grown yearly in enrollment and standing. Today it has an enrollment of 298, and stands 10th from the top among the 95 rural high schools of the state. This increase in enrollment has brought about a crowded condition and made it necessary to secure more room and teaching force. The space has been provided by the erection of the vocational building, and it is hoped that the school will be granted another teacher next year. The departments of home economics are working so as to bring about home improvement. One of the chief objectives in the agricultural teaching is to increase the financial income, and better methods of home making is the goal of home economics. The final success of the vocational education will be measured in the better home conditions of the students who have had success in their various home projects. The department of music, which means so much to the moral and aesthetic nature of the school, has presented several interesting programs during the year. Each showed scenes of unusual attractiveness and great progress made by the pupils. The library is being enlarged year by year. The school is fortunate in securing two state aid libraries this year. In addition to this, other books and current magazines have been added. Instruction is being given in health and physical education, that pupils may conserve and improve their own health; that they may form habits, ideals, and attitudes toward fair play which will carry over into adult life. In the successful basket ball season just closed, the sportsmanlike conduct of the team tands out for itself as a result of this instruction. We feel that our successful high school and grammar school is due largely to the efficient and satisfactory principal, J. A. Peterson, who has been with us three years already.

Please remember that you are invited to prayer service at the Baptist church here every Thursday night. A very impressive service was conducted last Thursday night by Miss Mary Clements. The G. A. girls will have charge this week.

The W. M. S. of the Baptist church will meet Monday afternoon at 2:00 o'clock at the church. Baptist ladies, if you are a member we need you.

At the end of the first day they had collected in money and goods about $500 and turned it over to Mr. Chambers. H. C. COLE MILLING CO., Chester, Ill.

From this mill stone grew the present great Cole Milling Company. In 1837, Nathan Cole moved to Chester, Ill., setting up a sawmill and, incidentally, a stone for grinding corn. But the demands for corn-meal promised to eclipse that for lumber, and the far sighted pioneer, recognizing the great future of the flour industry that part of the country must have, began the establishment of an industry which has grown with the years to its present size and enviable reputation.

C.; Rev. J. E. Each; and members of Thorsby Institute faculty, and Conference Committee. Registration fee, $1.50 for out-of-town delegates; 50 cents for Thorsby resident students.

The contest among high school students, embracing piano, violin, and expression, held at Montevallo last Friday night, was attended by a delegation from Thorsby consisting of Misses Helen C. Jenkins, Lois Hawks, Giula Williams, Dorothy Butler, Catherin Thom, and Margaret Williams. They reported the affair as very interesting.

Misses Helen C. Jenkins and Giula Williams spent the week end in Birmingham, where they purchased a new piano for Thorsby Institute.

Misses Margaret Butler, Anna Werness, and Ruth Peterson were week end visitors at their respective homes in Thorsby.

Mrs. Martha Grothe entertained last Friday afternoon in honor of Mrs. Grenn of Chicago.

Mrs. Tom Burdette met with a painful accident Monday morning at the home of her sister, Mrs. C. M. Williams, whom she had been assisting during her recent illness. In carrying a basin of hot water across the room, when she fell directly in front of the fire place into which the water was thrown violently, producing a cloud of hot ashes and steam which enveloped her face and chest, causing extensive and painful injuries. She was wrapped to exclude the air, and taken by a few ladies in a car and rushed to Clanton for treatment, which at last reports was proving effective.

His was the fourth family to come to Thorsby in its colony days. He was the first depot agent, and telegraph operator. His old friends were very pleased to hear him preach again after an absence of 23 years. He seemed to think Thorsby has been wonderfully blessed, materially, as there is plenty of evidence of that on the surface. In spiritual things one needs to look beneath the surface to visualize the progress in that direction in a quarter of a lentury. Mr. and Mrs. C. R. Foss carried Mr. Hedburg to Birmingham to get an early train which would permit him to spend most of a day with his old friend, T. T. Thorson, at Albany, Ala.

Mr. and Mrs. Howard Wise and two children, and Mr. and Mrs. Edward Howard and baby of Fairfield spent Sunday with Mr. Howard's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Lewis S. Howard, in Thorsby.

Mr. and Mrs. Thesing of Barberton' O., on their way home from Florida, stopped their car at Dief's Service Station in Clanton. Dief noticed the name of the town and told them he usedto live there. They thought his name sounded familiar, and in conversation it came out that the lady had said to her husband on entering Alabama, "There's a man named Krahman living in Alabama, who used to be a neighbor of ours in Akron, near Barberton, and I wish we could find him." Dief said, "He's my father-in-law. I married Maud Krahman. He is at Thorsby." The lady replied, "I would love to see them; I knew Maud when she was a little thing." To make a long story short, they spent the night in Clanton, and next morning drove to Thorsby and took breakfast with Mrs. Diefenderfer and her father, now 89 years old. After interesting reminiscences the pair went on their way rejoicing in renewal of old friendships.

In honor of the birthday anniversaries of Helen Diefenderfer and Ella Howard, 40 boys and girls were invited to a joint birthday party at the home of Helen Diefenderfer. New Evening Gowns Lead Double Lives

At the recent opening of a smart supper club in New York several of the most successful gowns were of the fifty-fifty or partnership type. The skirt was always a solid color—usually black satin or velvet—while the blouse was sometimes in a lighter shade of the same material, sometimes in a contrasting metallic brocade, and often in plain white. The lines of the frock sketched above are strikingly simple, allowing the beauty of material to show to best advantage. The formal spirit of the evening gown is enhanced by the again-stylish square-cut neck and straight shoulder-strap.

NEXT MEETING WILL BE HELD AT THE COURTHOUSE ON WEDNESDAY, MARCH 23

"The next meeting of the Chilton County Co-operative Association is scheduled to be a very important one," C. E. Marcus, Association Secretary, said today. Final arrangements will be made for the shipment of the car load of poultry which the Association is planning to ship during the first week in April.

Increased interest in the Association is being manifest, and the membership is growing at an encouraging rate, it was said. The standing membership committee is now working out plans for a more intensified campaign and these plans will be expedited, now that the Association has a permanent place where the business of the Association can be carried on. Office space for the activities of the Association has been contributed by the Central Alabama Development Co., in the Upchurch Building, and Mr. Marcus, the Association Secretary, is in the office at all times to look after the details of the organization. A bulletin board is being provided at the entrance to the building on the highway, and timely topics and general information relative to the Association and its activities will be posted on it daily.

Mr. Marcus said that it had come to his attention that some of the business men of the county had been slow in taking an interest in the organization, because they were under the impression that the Asociation was organized solely for the farmers of the county. "This is not the case in any manner whatever," said Mr. Marcus. "The Chilton County Co-operative Association is an organization for the entire citizenship of the county. We need the business men's co-operation and they need ours. The Association has a very definite commercial and civic program, and we need more co-operation from the business men to put it into operation."

The next meeting will be held at the courthouse Wednesday, March 23, at 2 p. m., and every citizen of the county is urged to be present. The last two meetings have been very profitable and were attended by good crowds, but many have yet to attend their first meeting and are losing a great deal by not coming out to these meetings.

MANUFACTURERS FAVOR PROHIBITION, POLL SHOWS

Westerville, O., Mar. 15.—Manufacturers all over the country are going on record in favor of prohibition as a distinct aid to business and to better conditions among their employees, according to a statement given out here today by the national headquarters of the Anti - Saloon League of America.

"For instance," said the statement, issued by Dr. Howard H. Russell, founder of the League, "a recent poll taken of 24 of the largest manufacturers in Iowa shows a ratio of 4 to 1 declaring wholeheartedly in favor of prohibition.

Of these 24 manufacturers, 19 declared that prohibition is successful from an economic viewpoint, while only 4 took a contrary view, and 1 was doubtful.

"Of these, 10 stated that prohibition had helped their business by creating a larger demand for their products; 7 stated that they have noticed no change, and 3 were doubtful; one man said, 'Much to prohibition's credit, it has not increased the demand for my product.' This man is a maker of caskets. Thirteen masufacturers stated that prohibition has definitely helped their business by increasing the prospeity of their prospective customers; 7 answered contrarily, and 2 did not commit themselves on that point.

"Sixteen men said that prohibition has increased the efficiency of their employees; 7 asserted that no improvement has been noted, and one was doubtful as to the results along this line."

THANKS FOR GOOD ROADS

Those who are forever belly-aching about the bad roads of the county, and always daring somebody to show them a good road, off the highway; who, when out riding, put on the blinds while riding over a smooth stretch, and open their eyes to take in the scenery when the car goes to bumping up and down, will please read the following letter received a few days ago:

"Editor Union-Banner:

Will you give me space in your paper to thank Mr. Vinson and Mr. Tippett for the good work they did on our road, leading from W. Y. Keel's to C. B. Huett's. Our roads are fine.—L. P. Cagle."

Overdoing?

Hurry, Worry and Overwork Bring Heavy Strain.

MODERN life throws a heavy burden on our bodily machinery. The eliminative organs, especially the kidneys, are apt to become sluggish. Retention of excess uric acid and other poisonous waste often gives rise to a dull, languid feeling and, sometimes, toxic backaches and headaches. That the kidneys are not functioning perfectly is often shown by burning or scanty passage of secretions. More and more people are learning to assist their kidneys by the occasional use of Doan's Pills—a stimulant diuretic. Ask your neighbor!

"SWAT THE FIRE"

"Swat the fire" is a slogan that is being backed up by a real fire swatter in the hands of determined citizens, according to the Alabama Commission of Forestry. Theoretically, anything that can be used to beat out a surface fire may be called a swatter, but a special device designed exclusively for fire fighting is far better.

The fire swatter is comprised of a piece of old belting with a home made handle attached. The belting should be about 8 inches wide and approximately 22 inches long. These dimensions may vary somewhat according to the individual preference. The handle may be of any tough, springy hardwood from an inch and a quarter to an inch and three quarters in diameter, and of varying lengths. A long handle permits effective work on a very hot fire without getting too close, while short handles enable the fire fighters to work considerable faster at close range. Black gum makes an excellent handle. The smaller end of the handle is split for 4 or 5 inches and the end of the belting is inserted. It may then be permanently fixed by driving a few small nails through the handle and bending the projecting points down even with the wood. The two upper corners of the belting are usually trimmed off diagonally, where it goes into the handle, for the sake of appearance.

In using the swatter it should be swung overhead and brought down so that the belting lands with full force squarely upon the burning material, instantly followed by a short dragging movement along the ground. It is not difficult to acquire considerable skill with the swatter, and it is often the means of saving thousands of dollars' worth of valuable property from burning.

During the very dry seasons, when fire is likely to smoulder in small pieces of decayed wood lying mixed with the forest litter, it usually will be necessary to follow up the swatter with a rake or hoe to drag all suspicious material back into the fire. If this is not done, fire thought to be completely out may spring up again behind the fire fighters and race off through the woods before they realize it. In ordinary seasons, however, the fire swatter is perhaps the most valuable piece of fire fighting equipment especially in open woods.

SOUTHERN GIRLS TO VISIT GETTYSBURG

The battlefields of Gettysburg, kept vivid in the memory of children by the courageous fighting that went on there, and the famous charge of Pickett up the green slope to the top of the hill, will be one of the historic places to be visited by the special train of Southern girls in the spring as a prize for enrolling children in the Children's Founders Roll of the Stone Mountain Memorial.

Here, on these battlefields, covering an area slightly more than twenty-five square miles, occurred the fiercest fighting in the War Between the States, and here was practically decided the issue that was to determine a reunion of the old union.

And here in the late fall of 1863 Abraham Lincoln delivered his famous "Gettysburg Address," dedicating the fields as a National cemetery wherein were intered 3,629 soldiers, nearly half of which are those of the "unknown dead."

The location of the battlefields among the southern hills of Pennsylvania, near the Maryland boundary line, is decidedly picturesque. In this battle, which was the last Confederate campaign into the North, 80,000 Union and 73,000 Confederate soldiers took part. The appalling number of 43,000 were killed, 23,000 Union soldiers and 20,000 Confederate.

In the National Cemetery, now kept green and beautiful throughout the year, over 400 monuments are erected, and more than $7,000,000 has been spent upon them and the graves. The monument to Virginia soldiers is only one of these fine memorials.

SINGING AT COURTHOUSE

The Sacred Harp and Christian Harmony Singing Society met at the courthouse Sunday. The weather was bad, yet we had one of the best singings in the history of our society. All who failed to come missed a great feast. We had with us five of the best singers in the State, from Montgomery. We don't see why Clanton didn't come out to hear these noted singers, although we had a very good congregation, and a good class of singers.

Directors for the day were Professors J. J. LeCroy, J. H. Hodges, J. W. Shores, and W. R. Mills, from Montgomery, A. A. Jackson, W. L. Sanders, J. R. Scott, J. W. Hayes, J. T. Askew, H. H. Armstrong, J. M. Williams, Misses Irene and Pauline Williams.

Our class will meet again the second Sunday in April at the courthouse. Let's everybody come and spend the day.—J. R. Scott, Sec'y.

AUTO OUTLOOK BRIGHT

An optimistic note on the spring outlook in the automobile industry, discounting the 'saturation point' bugaboo and pointing out favorable conditions throughout the country, is sounded in a statement just issued by William S. Knudsen, President and General Manager of the Chevrolet Motor Company.

"In forecasting a continuance of good business prospects for the spring months, I am perhaps influenced by the aspect of our own sales, which have never been better in the history of the company," said Mr. Knudsen.

"As evidencing steady growth in automobile production during this period, statistics issued by the United States Department of Commerce for the last three years covering the six months from January 1 to June 30, are interesting. The figures for these years follow:

1924	2,054,561
1926	2,450,780

"With these figures showing business on the up-grade generally, there are only two reasons which could be advanced for a possible decrease in sales—first, reaching the so-called 'saturation point,' and second, a general decline in business producing a reactive tendency in buying.

"No one has ever been able to advance any reasonable formula for figuring the 'saturation point.' The 'two or more' car trend is so pronounced that former theories are being constantly upset. If we knew the total area which would be occupied if all cars produced were running within that area, making it impossible for this space to accomodate any more cars, some basis would be available for figuring 'saturation.' But such a situation is impossible—and we may leave the 'saturation point' for the future to determine, inasmuch as the human mind will find it possible to open up any bottle-neck of traffic congestion which might develop.

"As for the general trend in business, country-wide reports show the usual spring activity is opening up twenty days ahead of schedule. With the winter fairly mild, marked only by severity in spots, rapid acceleration of municipal and private construction operations is indicated. Farming should start early due to the good weather and manufacturing operations generally are in excellent condition.

"Rapid turnover at smaller profits is the keynote throughout industry as reflected by our country's business. With this policy can only come a demand for more transportation.

"The shippers are demanding better freight service; the business traveller is demanding better train service and the automobile user is demanding better service of his car, and the firm that is in a position to assure the buyer this better service can have nothing but bright prospects for the spring of 1927."

LOMAX

Just a few lines from our little town.

It continues to rain, and our farmers are getting behind with their work.

Our road overseer came to Lomax one day last week and put that slick and soapy hill in good shape.

The writer attended the funeral of Mr. Woodie Ward, who died last Friday and was buried at New Harmony Saturday afternoon. The funeral was conducted by Elders eKlley and Davis whose discourses were very impressive. A host of people were present.

We attended the singing at the courthouse Sunday, and in spite of bad weather, a good singing was enjoyed. There were several good singers from Montgomery present, among whom were Mr. and Mrs. J. J. LeCroy, Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Hodges, J. W. Shore, and W. R. Miller. Very few Clanton people attended the singing. We feel that they missed a real treat. These singings are held at the courthouse on each second Sunday. We would be glad to have the Clanton people come out and meet with the singers of other towns and of the different communities.—Observor.

Rheumatism can't be rubbed away

Are you one of those unfortunates who suffer with pains in your muscles and joints, making you miserable, less efficient, interfering with your working hours, ruining your sleep?

You may have tried many things without relief. Why not try S.S.S.? For more than 100 years it has been giving relief in thousands of cases, as testified to in unsolicited letters of gratitude.

"I suffered from rheumatism for a good many years. At times my joints would swell so, I couldn't walk. I tried most everything. Went to Hot Springs and finally I decided to try S. S. S. I took a course. In a short time the rheumatic pains entirely left me. I also had a breaking out on my hands for years that nothing would heal, but now this has disappeared, and I am sure that it was S. S. S. which removed the cause. I am now in perfect health, and want to add that I have tried all kinds of medicines but I think S. S. S. is the best." Carl C. Campbell, 115 West Main Street, Johnson City, Tenn.

S.S.S. is purely vegetable. It is extracted from the fresh roots of medicinal plants and herbs and gives to Nature what she needs in building you up so that your system throws off the cause.

S.S.S. is sold at all good drug stores in two sizes. The larger size is more economical.

Co-Operative Association To Ship Car Load of Poultry From Chilton County

The Chilton County Co-operative Association is going to ship, co-operatively, a car load of poultry immediately after April 1, according to an announcement today from the newly opened headquarters of the Association, which are now located in the Upchurch Building.

Immediately following the last meeting of the Association, which was jointly addressed by Frank Willis Barnett of the Birmingham News, and Dr. M. F. Jackson, who is at the head of the Market Extension Department of the Tennessee Coal, Iron & R. R. Co., the Association appointed a Poultry Committee to make all arrangements for the sale and shipment. This decision was reached after the members of the Association were assured by the speakers that there was a ready market in the industrial districts of the Birmingham territory for almost any product of the farms if it was of standard quality.

S. J. Welden, vice president of the Association, was appointed chairman of the Poultry Committee, and will have C. E. Marcus, Association secretary, and H. B. Glenn as the other members of the Committee. This Committee met at the offices of the Association last Wednesday and formulated plans for the poultry sale. Realizing that even at the present time, with the poultry industry in Chilton County in its infancy, that there are many flocks of fine poultry from an egg production standpoint, on the farms of the county, the poultry committee decided that in order to prevent as far as possible the shipment of good egg producing hens from the county that it would be profitable to hold a series of chicken culling demonstrations throughout the county for the purpose of teaching the farmers who have chickens to sell, how to cull their flocks before any of their chickens are marketed, and then to market those that do not appear to be good egg producers.

The committee has invited the following farmers in their respective communities to permit their flocks to be culled by expert poultry men, and the citizens of these communities are invited and strongly urged to attend these demonstrations. These cullings will be held on Friday, March 25, and if the proper arrangements can be made, will be held at the following places on that day: West Clanton, S. J. Weldon, 9:00 a. m.; Littlejohn community, Lum Wells, 10:00; Baker schoolhouse, Jeff Baker, 11:00; Pleasant Grove, Harmon Headley, 12:30 p. m.; Pool's Cross Roads, Fonza Pool, 1:30; New Cedron, Jess Moates, 3:00. Jim Armstrong's 9:00 a. m.; Shiloh, Jeff Traywick, 11:00; Bethsalem, Bob Wilkins, 1:00 p. m.; Enterprise, Chas. Wilkins, 2:30; Bethel, Fonza Vinson, 4:00; Poplar Springs, J. L. McDowell, 5:00. South Clanton, J. L. Dupree, 8:00 a. m.; Temple community, Walter Pool, 9:30; Iron Ore Hill, Dick Brown, 11; Providence, Re. M. J. Parrish, 1:00; Refuge, Tom Miner, 2:30, p. m.; Cane Creek, Rube E. Jones, 3:30; Friendship, Boss Miller, 5:00. Jackson Chapel, Wm. C. Jones, 8:00 a. m.; Collins Chapel school, Robert Bean, 10:00; Collins Chapel church, Zeb Lockhart, 11:30; New Salem, Jim Williams, 1:30 p. m.; Cross Roads, Alf Mims, 3:00.

Mr. Weldon, chairman of the committee said that should there be any changes in these meeting places or the dates, that they would be announced in ample time to keep from causing any inconvenience.

The citizens of the county are strongly urged to pick out the place nearest to them and note the hour that the culling demonstrations are scheduled to be held, and be there to learn from expert poultry men just how to cull their chickens.

This is a real opportunity for those interested in poultry raising to quickly learn how to determine whether a hen will lay or not. It has been proven time and again that this method of culling chickens is very valuable for a person raising chickens to know, and is very easily mastered.

The officials of the Co-operative Association are making every arrangement possible for this important step in its agricultural program to make it very profitable for the farmers to "cash in" in a handsome way on their chickens.

Further announcements relating to details will be forthcoming, both thru the columns of the county newspapers and thru the mails, regarding this proposed shipment of chickens from Chilton County.

$500 REWARD $500

I will give $500.00 for the return of Vena Iris Marler; or may be called Miranda Kelley, if using another name; the 13-year-old school girl who disappeared on the night of March 7.

She was last seen on the Birmingham-Montgomery Highway, about 3 miles north of Jemison, Ala., about 7:00 o'clock. She was wearing a close-fitting hat, a green sweater, and patent leather strap pumps. Has a large scar on the shin of the left leg; is minus a part of the finger nail on the middle finger of the right hand. Wears a No. 6 shoe. —Emmett E. Marler, Jemison, Ala.

CHILTON FARMERS CONSIDER GROWING PEANUTS

The question of growing peanuts is being considered by some farmers in Chilton County. Recently there has been some advertising in the state papers and farm journals by parties who want to contract with farmers for large quantities of peanuts, which has caused our farmers to give serious consideration to this matter.

Peanuts can be grown to advantage in Chilton County. The only thing in the way seems to be a means of harvesting them without so much expense. Concerning this question The Union-Banner has received the following communication from Mr. J. A. Headley of Clanton Route 4:

"We want to know if anybody has a peanut thrash which they can and will bring to our community and thrash peanuts for us this fall if we go into the peanuts business extensively. We also want some seed peanuts (Spanish) at the right price."

We hope this matter will come to the attention of someone who can give Mr. Headley and his friends the information and help they want on the peanut question. Doubtless several car loads of peanuts would be produced in this county this year if the seed could be obtained, and a means of harvesting them secured. This would be a good matter for the consideration of The Chilton County Co-operative Association or Thorsby Fruit & Truck Growers Association.

YEP—WE'RE GONNA HAVE IT !

Baseball fans, we're gonna have it! Next Friday afternoon at 3:00 the Chilton County High School horsehide artists will have take on the team from Pike Road High.

If you don't like football or basket ball things have been pretty glum, so far as athletics is concerned, since you sat by your radio last fall and listened to the announcer tell you how Old Man Grover Alexander let the great Babe Ruth and his lesser playmates down for the count in the world series. And then, with these warm days, it does a world of good just to go around and see the boys cavorting around on the diamond in practice. But next Friday you can see the real article. You won't see finished baseballers, but you will see something that is not generally seen at games between paid teams. You will see two bunches of lads out there fighting for nothing more than the old school. That something called school spirit is the little bit which makes a college or high school game better than watching professionals.

Chilton has a good team, considering the youngsters they are, while Pike Road comes highly rated, so you should be able to get your money's worth Friday afternoon.

Everybody else will be there, so be sure to come. Don't forget it.

WANTED—I will pay best market price for good beef cattle and hogs. J. E. Miner, Clanton, Ala., Route 5. 1t-pd.

Mrs. D. O. Manning has returned from an extended visit to her daughters in Birmingham.

Coosa River Draws Investors to County

Sportsmen of Birmingham and Montgomery Are Turning To Our "Sportsman's Paradise" and Building Many Summer Resorts and Fishing Camps.

CHILTON COUNTY LAKE REGION HEADED FOR BIG DEVELOPMENT

That Chilton County's lake region offers the best advantages in Alabama for fishing, hunting, and summer outings, is proven by the fact that every day more and more sportsmen from nearby cities are buying sites out on Lake Mitchell and planning to build their summer resorts and fishing camps.

Over a year ago this region caught the eyes of a few sportsmen in Birmingham and Montgomery who at once realized the future possibilities. They at once made investments along the lake shore and began to build camps and club houses. The principal ones of these first developments were in the neighborhood of old Salem church at the mouth of Cargyle Creek.

Recently a group of Birmingham people have bought holdings in this same section, among them being Lewis Ford, Charles DeBardelaben, Jr., Henry Perry, Wert Sowell, Mac Scholder, and John B. Rosenstihl. Mr. Rosenstihl during the last week bought the old D. S. Robinson place on the north side of Cargyle Creek where Burns Goodgame's mill has been located.

Mr. Rosenstihl was in Clanton Friday, and it was very apparent that his enthusiasm was running high for Chilton County's wonderland in the Lake Mitchell region. He predicts that in the next few years this section will all be taken up by people of Birmingham and Montgomery who are seeking an ideal place where they can get out in the woods and enjoy the great variety of sports that are offered by lakes, rivers, and woodlands.

Special comment was made by Mr. Rosenstihl favorable to the excellent roads that have been built by the county enabling people to reach their property on Lake Mitchell with ease and convenience.

WOCO-PEP FORCE ATTENDED BIRTHDAY CELEBRATION

Messrs. R. J. Sumner, G. C. Powell, and Latham Ellis, representing the Woco-Pep force of Clanton, attended the birthday party of the Wofford Oil Company in Birmingham last week, celebrating the 9th birthday of Woco-Pep. They report a good social time, and an enthusiastic business meeting of the Woco-Peppers.

DEMOCRATIC SERVICE

A good old Republican citizen of Chilton County was asked the other day to give his opinion as to what the Democratic party in Chilton county had ever done for the county. The old man proceeded thusly: "I will illustrate it like this—You take the little end of nothing and trim it down to a fine point. Take this result and punch the pith out of a horse hair. Through this hole in the horse hair blow the achievements of the Democratic party into the eye of a red bug, and he will never bat it."

Can you beat it?

CHILTON COUNTY SUNDAY SCHOOL CONVENTION TO BE AT CLANTON APRIL 10

The Chilton County Sunday School Convention will be held at the Baptist Church in Clanton on the afternoon of April 10, under the auspices of the Alabama Council of Christian Education. All Sunday School workers of all protestant churches of the county are invited to have a part in the convention.

The session will begin at two o'clock in the afternoon, with an address by Rev. W. M. Cox, pastor of the Clanton Methodist Church.

"The Educational Task of the Churches," will be discussed at 2:30 by Dr. S. J. Ezell, pastor of Clanton Baptist Church.

"Reorganizing our Alabama Sunday School Work," will be discussed at three o'clock by Judge Joseph Carthel, General Secretary of the Alabama Conference of Christian Education.

Judge Carthel was here Tuesday arranging details for the convention. Discussing the plans for the future of the Sunday School work in Chilton County, he said:

"We invite all people in the county who are interested in the study of the Bible and in Sunday School work to attend this convention and use their effort in behalf of the cause. The Alabama Council of Christian Education is the Alabama branch of the International Sunday School work, which supplies the uniform graded lessons that are used in all protestant churches.

"Prior to the World War, Alabama was the best organized state in the South. Every county and every district was organized and held conventions regularly. Chilton County was then a banner county. It is the purpose of this convention to reorganize Chilton County and set our Christian people again toward the goal of better Sunday Schools and advanced Christian education."

POLK BROS. MOTOR COMPANY OPEN "DUCO" PAINT SHOP

Polk Bros. Motor Co., are now operating their automobile paint shop, which is in charge of Mr. C. O. Taylor. Mr. Taylor is an experienced painter, and needs no introduction to Chilton County as he has been connected with local automobile dealers here until recently, as painter.

According to Mr. Geo. C. Polk, local Chevrolet dealer, they are now finishing their used cars in "Duco." This gives the used cars a new car appearance which greatly increases their sales.

Mr. Taylor invites the public to inspect his work, and let him quote them prices on finishing their cars in "Duco."

TWO LARGE HAWKS KILLED

Mr. Cleve Wyatt, who lives on the Lock 12 road a few miles north of Clanton, reports that he and Mr. Posey Williamson recently killed two very large hawks. One of them measured 41 inches from tip to tip and the other 42 inches. Mr. Wyatt said that these hawks had been carrying away full grown hens and roosters. Mr. Williamson parked himself near the hawks' nest and when they came near he felled two of them. They say there is still another one around there which they hope to get.

The two hawks have been stretched out their full length and nailed on the side of their barns, which Mr. Wyatt says he has heard will keep other hawks away from the place.

I therefore believe it is my duty to my country to love it; to support its Constitution; to obey its laws; to respect its flag, and to defend it against all enemies." Use uniform typewriting paper, or paper about that size.

CLANTON HAS NO SPEED TRAPS

HEFLIN ISSUES DEFIANCE AGAINST AL. SMITH

Raliegh, N. C., Mar. 20.—Prohibitionists of the South are going to stand on the Mason and Dixon line and tell Alfred E. Smith "to keep out," Senator Heflin, of Alabama, declared in an address here today.

Speaking before the North Carolina Anti-Saloon League, he declared that the New York governor and his followers had started their presidential campaign in the South through North Carolina, and added that "North Carolina is not for sale to the wet forces of the nation."

"We started late in our campaign against Smith," he said, " but we are going to make up for lost time between now and spring. A united Christian force is going to rise up and say to Smith, 'You'll never make it'.

"How are we going to make prohibition stay? We are going to elect a president to stay it. The South drove out the saloon. Why should we take a backward step? We'll play the old game by holding fast to what we have got."

CHILTON HIGH DEFEATED PIKE ROAD HIGH 4 TO 3

The Chilton County High baseball team took on the outfit from Pike Road High last Friday afternoon and came through on the long end of a 4 to 3 decision.

The teams were about evenly matched, but the Chilton team showed up much better than many were expecting. Errors, overthrows, and all kinds of miscues were pretty frequent, but all in all, it was a good game.

Sanders led the field for the day with a triple and a single, while A. Connatser gave the Pike Road flinger something to ponder over by greeting him in the first inning—the first man up—with a sizzling, grass cutting single through second.

Chilton scored in the first, second, fourth, and fifth innings, one run at a time, and called it a day with four. Pike Road had hopes in the fifth inning when, with two aboard, Frizelle looped one out to L. Sanford in center field, who let the apple get by him and was good for three bases, two men scoring. They pulled in another in the sixth, before Foshee shut down the gate and ended festivities for the day.

Since seeing the lads in action, we can give a better idea of what to expect of them.

Williams, one of the smallest of the small lads on the team, grabs 'em pretty neatly behind the plate, and with a few games under his hide should develop into a good catcher. What "Mitch" lacks in size he makes up in good measure in spirit. His hitting is fair, with plenty of time for improvement before the hardest part of the high school season.

The lanky "King Philip" Foshee was very effective on the mound last Friday. Foshee has large hands and long fingers, handles the pill well, as far as control goes, and has a world of "stuff" on the ball when he wants it there. As to his hitting ability, the fact that he hits third when in the lineup, is plenty of evidence that he is handy with the stick.

Gore, first sacker, is good at his post, handling all his chances Friday without a bobble. He swings like a natural hitter, and with practice he should give opposing moundsmen a bit of trouble. When one considers that this is Gore's second year to even try to play baseball, we must say that he is developing fast.

On second we have A. Connatser, a little slow, but sure. "Big Connie" stands at the head of the batting order. He takes a vicious cut at the ball, and a hard-hit ball is a result every time he connects. He should be able to ride a few over the fence this year, when his batting eye improves a bit.

At short is R. "Little Connie" Connatser, who steps into the fast grass cutters like a veteran. He is another of the small ones, but has a world of punch. He is second in the batting order, as evidence of his hitting.

At third, George Johnson worked Friday, and although not flashy, handled his position pretty neatly, although showing a little wild streak in his make-up. This is George's first year out for baseball, and he isn't half bad.

In the gardens—O. "Pete" Sanford, in right, is fast on his feet, and fast on the return. L. Sanford, in center, like his brother "Pete" is fast anywhere. He should get going nicely before the season is over. In left, "Zeke" Sanders keeps a watchful eye for wandering baseballs, whether in the field or at bat. "Zeke" is good in the field, and one of the hardest hitters.

There is a flock of subs, beside Nivens and Broadhead, who will take their regular turn in the box. Nivens worked nicely last year, as did Broadhead, although did not see much service. Coach Bruner has a good pitching staff, all of them steady and reliable.

All in all, they are a likely bunch, a little green maybe, but willing and trying to learn, and Coach Bruner should have a nifty set of baseballers before many weeks.

BIRMINGHAM TEACHERS HERE

Last Saturday morning a bunch of the Birmingham Teachers Association from Birmingham stopped over in Clanton for quite a while viewing the town. They were welcomed here by Chief Curlee to stay here and make themselves at home and look over the town just as much as they pleased. The group consisted of thirty teachers, men and women.

They were on their way to Tuskegee, where the Birmingham teachers go once every year to look over the school facilities of the Tuskegee Institute. They traveled in two large busses, one of which runs regularly from Birmingham to Gadsden, and the other from Birmingham to Tuscaloosa.

We were indeed glad to have these visitors stop off and look around over our little city. We are glad the hearty welcome was extended them by Chief Curlee, and The Union-Banner further extends to them as well as all other visitors passing thru here a welcome to stop off and make themselves at home with us for a while.

MORE PEOPLE SHOULD PAY THEIR CENTRAL FEES TO PEOPLES TELEPHONE CO.

The management of the Peoples Telephone Company is seeking to impress upon the phoneholders of the company the necessity of more of them paying central fees. The service that is being rendered this year is goood, and there is no reason why the support of phoneholders should be withheld.

The expenses of operating the system makes it imperative that a sufficient number pay central fees to meet the total cost of expenses. Up to this time there have not been enough to pay.

Those who have paid and have found out that the service is all right should urge their neighbors to pay central fees. This is the only way the system can be kept in operation.

The people have said time and again that if the management of the system would put it in shape to give them service, they would pay. This has been done on the part of the management. Now it is up to the people to do their part by paying central fees.

JUDGE WEAVER, COLUMBIANA, HERE LAST FRIDAY

Hon. George W. Weaver of Columbiana, ex-probate judge of Shelby County, was a visitor to Clanton last Friday. He was accompanied by Mrs. Weaver and Mrs. Long.

Judge Weaver is now practicing law in Columbiana, where he has a partnership with Mr. H. T. Bailey, formerly of Fort Payne.

Judge Weaver has been away from Shelby County for the past five years, having practiced law at Fort Payne for two years. For two years he traveled over the South, as a representative of the legal department of the Veterans' Bureau. His many friends in this part of the country will be glad to know that he has come back home, this time to stay, it is hoped.

His law partner, Mr. Bailey, is a new man in this part of the state, but he is well known in northeast Alabama, where he has practiced law for several years. He is a fine fellow, a high-toned gentleman, and we predict that his success in his new field is assured.

WOULD HAVE BEEN CHEAPER TO SUBSCRIBE

A man who was too economical to take his home paper sent his little boy to borrow the copy taken by his neighbor. In haste the boy ran over a $4 stand of bees, and in 10 minutes looked like a warty summer squash. His cries reached his father, who ran to his assistance, and, failing to notice a barbed-wire fence, ran into it, breaking it down, cutting a handful of flesh from his anatomy, and ruining a $4 pair of pants. The cow took advantage of the gap in the fence and got into the cornfield, and killed herself eating green corn. Hearing the racket, the wife ran, upset a 4-gallon churn of rich cream into a bucket of kittens, drowning them; in the hurry she lost a $7 set of teeth. The baby, left alone, crawled through the cream into the parlor, ruining a brand-new $20 carpet. During the excitement the oldest daughter ran away with the hired man; the dog broke up 11 setting hens, and the calves got out and chewed the tails off of four fine shirts.—Exc.

Big Convention To Meet Here in April

B. Y. P. U. District Convention to Meet at Clanton Baptist Church in Annual Convention; 2-Days Session—April 28 and 29.

ELEVEN COUNTIES WILL HAVE DELEGATES AT THIS MEETING

The Western District, Baptist Young People's Union, composed of 11 counties, will meet with the Clanton Baptist Church April 28-29. Last May, when it became known that the convention would like to meet in our town, the request was received with misgivings as to whether we could entertain so large a gathering. However, after conferring with Dr. Wilkerson of the Methodist Church, and the Baptist churches of Verbena and Thorsby, and having their assurance of co-operation in entertaining the delegates, the Clanton Baptist Church invited the convention to our town.

It is expected that we will have 250 to 300 delegates attending the convention. Some of the outstanding Baptist leaders of Alabama and other states will be here.

It is a great privilege to have this great host of young Christian men and women come to our town. To see them, and to hear of their great work should increase our faith and be an inspiration to all of our splendid young folks of Clanton.

It is hoped that with the co-operation of Verbena and Thorsby we can put the convention over in a great way. But to do so worthy of our town we must all co-operate gladly and heartily. This, we believe, you will do.

The Committee on Homes is as follows: Mrs. J. Watts Moore, Mrs. J. P. Hayes, Mrs. L. F. Gerald, Mrs. Claude Jones, Mrs. W. W. Fox, Mrs. Wm. Billingsley of Thorsby, Mrs. Will Strock of Verbena. Please let one of the Committee know as soon as possible how many you can furnish beds for.—S. J. Ezell, General Chairman.

FIRE IN CLANTON

Last Thursday afternoon about 2 o'clock the fire alarm was given, and it was found that the home of Mr. Clay Marcus on South Sixth Street was in danger of being burned, his chicken house and garage beside the house being in vigorous flames. Before the fire wagon got there the dwelling caught and was burning almost all over one side, but when the hose was turned on the fire was soon extinguished. The fire was burning all in the shingles and some of them had to be knocked off to extinguish it. The house was damaged quite a bit.

This announcement is made by Superintendent Lawrence and Mr. D. O. Manning of Mulberry. Both extend a cordial welcome to the public to come out and hear what Mr. Ledbetter has to say.

RESOLUTIONS OF RESPECT FOR WILLIAM C. COTTON

To the Worshipful Master, Wardens, and Brethren of Clanton Lodge No. 423, A. F. & A. M.:

We, the undersigned Committee on Resolutions, beg leave to submit the following preambles and resolutions:

Our departed friend and brother, William C. Cotton, was born in Coosa County, Alabama, near Mt. Olive Church, about the year 1869. He was the son of the late William Cotton.

He married Miss Annie Kelly of Coosa County when he was about 20 years of age. She now survives him.

There was born to them one son and two daughters: Jim Cotton, Mrs. Emma Bussey, and Mrs. Carrie Nix.

Brother Cotton joined the New Site Baptist Church in Coosa County, Alabama, in early manhood.

The Great Giver of life saw fit to take the life of our much beloved friend and brother on February 7, 1927. He was laid to rest with Masonic honors in New Salem Baptist Church cemetery, Chilton County, Alabama, February 28, 1927.

Brother Cotton moved to this county from Coosa County about 20 years ago. He was initiated in this Lodge January 2, 1909; passed March 6, 1909; raised to the sublime degree of a Master Mason April 3, 1909. Since that time he has been a very loyal and devoted Mason. This, therefore, makes it befitting that we record our appreciation of him.

Therefore, Be it Resolved:

First: That the sudden removal of such a noble life from our midst leaves a vacancy and shadow that will be deeply realized by all the members and friends of this Lodge.

Second: That with the deepest sympathy with the bereaved relatives of the deceased brother, we express our hope that even so great a loss to us all may be overruled for good by Him who doeth all things well.

Third: That a copy of these resolutions be spread upon the records of this Lodge, a copy printed in the local papers, and a copy be forwarded to the beloved family.—Respectfully Submitted: W. I. Mullins, B. J. Sessions, J. D. Blankenship, Committee.

POULTRY BUSINESS IS BIG IN ALABAMA

Auburn, Ala., Mar. 22.—Based on statistical records, approximately 15,000,000 eggs have been or will be hatched by Alabama hens and incubators during the current hatching season which began in January and will continue through April, according to estimates of poultrymen of the college of agriculture at Auburn. Last year F. W. Gist, agricultural statistician, reported that a total of 10,986,000 chickens were raised in Alabama, and many more were hatched than were raised. From late February until early April the weekly hatching is estimated to run between 1,000,000 and 2,000,000 biddies.

While this huge development is under way, poultrymen at Auburn point out that the poultry industry in Alabama has advanced from a business of minor importance until it is now producing new wealth for the state at the rate of more than $2,000,000 a month. The value of chickens raised and eggs produced in Alabama in 1926 was $26,000,000. For 1925 it was $20,500,000, showing an increase of $5,500,000 in one year, this geing approximately a half million dollars per month.

Instead of being a minor product, poultry and eggs combined now rank fourth in Alabama, being exceeded only by cotton, milk, and corn. The cotton crop of last year was valued at $101,000,000; milk produced was valued at $57,000,000; and corn valued at $35,000,000. In the group below poultry, hogs sold and slaughtered led with $16,000,000; hay, $10,000,000; sweet potatoes, $5,500,000; cattle sold and slaughtered, $4,500,000; and Irish potatoes, $4,000,000.

It is pointed out that this development is due to favorable natural conditions, to low cost of production, to an economic demand for increasing the farm income, which poultry does, and to a stable market which has been working upward over a period of years.

LETTER FROM A BOY AWAY FROM HOME

The Union-Banner has been handed the following letter, which, as will be seen from the letter, was written to his sister by a boy away from home. The letter is self-explanatory so far as the sentiment is concerned, which explains the conditions surrounding the boy. It is hoped that this letter may be of benefit to other wayward young men, who probably have not stopped to think just as they should. The letter follows:

"January 19th, 1927.

Dear Sister:—I will answer your letter. Was glad to hear from you, and I am feeling fine tonight. Have been sick—just came in from the hospital this evening; was very sick yesterday, but maybe I will get straightened out right away—hope so at least. Hope this will find you all well; was sorry to learn that papa was in bad shape, and hope he will get up soon. Listen, sister, don't you all let papa do any more than you can help. Tell the two boys to do all they can and maybe I will get out some time so that I can help them; and when I get out I will come home to stay as long as my father and mother live, and I will try and make them a good living. They have gotten now so they need help, and I sure am going to do my part when I get out of this place. I hope it will not be long until I can come home and be with you all again.

Tell Brother to be a good boy and stay at home, for if he should ever get to be where I am, he could see his mistake. I now see where I missed it by not minding dad. Tell him to keep good company and he will be safe. You all should go to school and study and try to make something out of yourselves. Don't throw yourselves away because I did, for I now can see where I missed it. I hope you all will do the things that are right and stay out of such places as I am in. Tell Brother that I am coming to see him again, and that I want him to come to see me.

I just wish that I was as free as I was a year ago, but I guess that it will be another year before I get out of this place; but thank God, when another year passes, it will be close to my time, and you bet I will not care. Tell mama not to worry about me—that I am going to put my trust in the Lord and be a better boy the rest of my days. I am going to do my best to do right till I see her again.

Well, I will close for this time. From your Loving Brother."

PROHIBITION HAS RAISED THE LIVING STANDARDS

Westerville, O., Mar. 22.—Prohibition has raised the living standards of the poor man and has made possible many luxuries, including more self-owned homes, according to the statement issued here today by Dr. F. Scott McBride, general superintendent of the Anti-Saloon League of America.

"In proof of this assertion," said the statement, "Randolph F. Sellers, manager of the V. T. Taylor & Son Company of Cleveland, in a recent address before Ohio Association of Real Estate Boards, declared that the adoption of the Eighteenth Amendment 'has changed the channels thru which some two billion dollars of our national wealth flows annually'.

"Mr. Sellers pointed out that money formerly spent for intoxicating liquor now goes into homes and home improvements, and that as a result the living standards of the entire nation have been raised. He declared that 'along with the increased buying power of the working man, there has grown a need for more concentration on present land properties rather than the development of unused areas'.

"With such better economic conditions prevailing, the voters of the United States would not for a moment consider a return to the conditions experienced before prohibition. Prohibition is here to stay."

The farmer who gets on a safe plan this spring and stays with this plan year after year has a good chance to make money farming.

Vouched for by his neighbors

No matter where you are—at home or over in a neighboring state—you take no chances when you stop at the familiar cream-colored Pan-Am pump. ¶ Before this pump is placed, we ask a man's neighbors about his business character—people who have known him for years. ¶ Only when they speak highly of him, can he secure the Pan-Am franchise. ¶ For our constant aim is to give southern motorists a dependable supply of better gasoline and motor oils. ¶ Thousands are turning to Pan-Am—not only because they appreciate this better service—but because they have found that Pan-Am gasoline starts quicker, goes farther and pulls stronger.

Press dispatches tell of a rich man who gave his wife $1,000 to induce her to bob her hair. Now you tell one.

A good way to cultivate a nice dizziness is to try to keep up with the various phases of the war in China.

It is announced that in a test of strength in a Michigan county, Governor Al Smith's friends won out over the anti-Smith Democrats. However, these off-year tests of strength are a good deal like the spring practice games that the baseball teams put on in the South.

Police and burglars staged a battle on the roofs in the down town section of Berlin the other day. This shows what a marked effect the American movie films are having on Europe.

H. C. Crenshaw and H. M. Harton of Montgomery spent last Saturday fishing on Lake Mitchell.

With a view to making one litter of pigs weigh at least a ton when they are six months old, farmers in several counties of Alabama are enrolling in the ton-litter clubs, according to oreports from county agents.

The purchase of fertilizer for Alabama farmers continues to be far behind last year. Agricultural leaders at Auburn predicted as early as last December that there would be a substantial reduction in the use of fertilizer this year as compared with 1926.

President Coolidge and other high officials have been reminding veterans of the World War that they can re-instate their lapsed war risk insurance and converr it into United States government life insurance. This right expires July 2, and after this date war risk term insurance can not be re-instated.

Dipping a fountain pen in ammonia will remove old ink immediately.

Young children may be given apple if the pulp is scraped with a spoon.

It looks now as though Alabama will have a good peach and apple crop this year.

One way to make less cotton is to use less fertilizer, but it is an expensive way to reduce.

It is estimated that the equivalent of about 3,000,000,000 first grade pickles were consumed in the United States last year.

A prominent sociologist says the birth rate in America is higher than it is abroad. Next thing you know they will have the official stork before the World Court.

It is said that President Hindenburg has cut out the customary flourish to the capital H when he signs his name. Getting into politics will take the flourish out of anybody sooner or later.

NATIONAL AFFAIRS

The center of political interest nationally continues to be the Democratic National Convention of 1928. This is true in a large measure because the Democrats are out of power and their presidential nomination is more or less of a free for all affair. In case the Republican nomination should be some set of circumstances become a wide open matter the Republicans may expect to share some of the interest with their friendly enemies, the Democrats, but not unless some contingency arises.

Speculation still centers about what Governor Smith and William G. McAdoo are going to do. Both of these gentlemen are lusty fighters, and if they decide to stage a duel, the fight will be worth going some distance to witness. There are some political prophets in Washington who profess to believe that such a hair raising contest will not be staged. They declare that the wisest leaders of the Democratic party know that such a contest would spell defeat again in 1928, and that for this reason some compromise will be effected, and the mistakes of 1924 not repeated.

There are other prophets, and some of them good ones, who insist that the time has come for a show-down on the Smith candidacy and that the Democratic leaders will believe that there can be less permanent damage to the party if the matter of the Smith candidacy is settled at once and for all. Most of the gentlemen who make this prediction go a step further and say that Smith will be nominated, especially if the two-third rule is abolished by the Democratic convention. And they state further that he will be a formidable contender in the November election.

In answering the argument that Smith cannot be nominated or elected because the West and the South are against him, they point to the fact that Smith is the idol of the centers of population, and that he will get the delegates of enough of the populous states to put him over. To bear out their claim they point to the fact that Smith gets his support chiefly in the big centers even in his own state of New York. They show you by the figures that in the last election in New York, which was a Smith landslide, the governor winning the commonwealth by 247,000, Smith only carried nine of the counties of the state. The other 53 went to Ogden Mills, the Republican candidate. What Smith did in New York, these friendly prophets say he can do in the National Convention.

The prognosticators who think there will be a compromise in the convention are not quite ready to tell us who the compromise candidate will be. Some of them favor Gov. Ritchie, of Maryland. They say he is a striking figure, has made a good governor, and will be acceptable, especially to the Smith Democrats. Others favor a middle western candidate. Some of them find him in no less a personage than the Hon. Jim Reed, of Missouri, who is certainly one of the most prominent figures in the country just now. Reed's friends claim his Protestantism, together with his liberal views on religion and other subjects, make him an ideal Democratic compromise, although they admit that he might not be acceptable to the old Wilson Democrats who are still a force to be reckoned with. Others doubt if his reputation as a prosecutor and his activity as a scandal researcher will commend him to the public as a presidential candidate, pointing out that professional attackers have never searched the Presidency. There is doubt, too, that if Governor Smith fails, the Democrats will want to risk nominating any other violently "wet" partisan. Of course there are many other favorite sons, to say nothing of McAdoo himself, who may decide to become a contender, with opposition to "nullification of the Eighteenth Amendment" as his issue. Taken all in all, next year promises to be full of thrills and kaleidoscopic changes from a Democratic standpoint.

MINERAL SPRINGS NEWS

The weather for the past week has been fine for the farmers' work.

The Mineral Springs basket ball teams, both boys and girls, played the Collins Chapel teams last Friday. Both games were interesting. The Mineral Springs boys beat Collins Chapel 34 to 32. The girls lost by the score of 10 to 9, after an extra 5-minute period was allowed to untie the 7-7 score, which stood at the end of the game. This gave each team two games for the season. The last game will be played Friday, March 25. Come out and attend the final game.

The Mineral Springs boys have organized a club, with the help of Mr. Grady Jones, teacher, which gives a short program every two weeks. The next meeting will be on April 1. Be sure to come.

In spite of the fact that our school had a late start, it looks as if we would have a successful year. At present, the prospects are bright.

When you become thirsty for pure mineral water, don't forget to visit our spring, located about 200 yards north of the school building.

The Hilyer vat was blown up last Friday night; farmers around here must dip at some other vat.

INDIAN GRAVE

The United Singing Society met at this place Sunday afternoon with a large crowd present. Directors for the afternoon were Miss Alma Askins, Prof. H. G. Carter, Olen Williams, Alonza Askins, Rev. J. H. Limbrick, and Furniss Shepard. Organists were Mr. and Mrs. H. G. Carter and Hudson Williams. The quartets rendered by the Concord quartet were enjoyed very much. We were glad to have so many visitors, and invite them all back again every third Sunday.

We were also glad to see so many at Sunday school and preaching last Sunday. We had a mighty good sermon by our pastor, Rev. J. H. Roberts. People don't know what they miss when they stay away from church.

Don't forget the oyster supper at the home of Mrs. M. M. Billingsley, near Indian Grave church on Saturday night, March 26. Come one, come all, and bring your 1927 song books. Given by the W. M. S., of Indian Grave Church.

CONFEDERATE VETERANS TO BE ENROLLED

Atlanta, Ga., Mar. 18.—The enrollment of all living Confederate Veterans, numbering approximately 40,000, in a special "Gold Star" section of the Book of Memory, is being backed by two of the most extensive organizations in the South—the Sons of Confederate Veterans, and the Confederated Southern Memorial Association.

Lucius L. Moss, of Lake Charles, La., Commander-in-Chief, Sons of Veterans, and Mrs. A. McD. Wilson, president general of the Confederated Southern Memorials Association, of Atlanta, have both pledged the support and co-operation of their organizations in the enrollment.

Many counties of the South have already completed the enrollment of all living veterans, and it is hoped by sponsors of the movement that every living veteran will be enrolled by the first of April, at which time the annual convention will be held in Tampa, Fla.

A special medal, triple-plated in pure gold, and designed by Augustus Lukeman, sculptor of the Stone Mountain Memorial, will be given to each veteran as his name is enrolled in the Book of Memory. These names will also be preceeded by a gold star.

Mrs. Wilson has characterized the enrollment of veterans as "the most wonderful movement yet undertaken by the Stone Mountain Memorial Association."

PLEASANT VALLEY

We are beginning to make the fields look like farming time again.

Maybe some people are beginning to wonder why the singing society at this place went dead so quick after being organized. It is not dead! We take this means of telling you that it is very much alive. We called the singing off last fourth Sunday afternoon on account of the B. Y. P. U. convention held here that day. We also cordially invite all singers and lovers of music to meet with us next Sunday afternoon, promptly at 2:00 o'clock.

The play put on by the B. Y. P. U. last Sunday night was good, and enjoyed by many. Be sure and come to the singing next Sunday afternoon. —A. D. Huett.

IS THERE NO RELIEF FROM SKIN TORTURE?

Must I Continue to Suffer the Unbearable Itching?

Are you one of those unfortunates who are going through life suffering with a skin disease, making you uncomfortable, making you less efficient, interfering with your working hours, ruining your sleep? You may have tried many things without relief. Why not try S.S.S.? For more than 100 years it has been giving relief in many forms of skin disease. Thousands of letters of gratitude prove its worth.

"I feel so happy for what S. S. S. has done for me that I want others to know about it. I suffered twenty long years from eczema. At times the itching was unbearable. During that time, I used all kinds of salves without receiving any real benefit. After taking six bottles of S. S. S., I was cured of this dreadful disease. I recommend S. S. S. to anyone suffering from eczema, because I cannot praise it enough for what it has done for me." Cleophas Forte, Soldiers and Sailors Home, Quincy, Ill.

S.S.S. is purely vegetable. It is extracted from the fresh roots of medicinal plants and herbs and gives to Nature what she needs in building you up so that your system throws off the cause.

S.S.S. is sold at all good drug stores in two sizes. The larger size is more economical.

Everybody Invited

The Christian Life Conference for young people, which closed its sessions Sunday night, provided two days of inspiring meetings, under the direction of Miss Olive Pearson, Miss Marguerite Davison, Rev. Malcolm Dana, and Rev. Neil McQuarrie, who led in a way to stimulate thought and expression on questions pertaining to the various phases of Christian life that present themselves to Christian people of all ages, which were freely discussed by young people in meetings where maturity was not eligible. Questions had been prepared by the leaders, and one after another of them was presented on a blackboard, and the young people were not slow to give expression to their thoughts in trying to answer the questions plainly, evincing that they had ideas on many subjects worthy of consideration, but which, probably for the first time in their lives, most of them, had attempted to express in words. As the conference was drawing to a close, a committee was appointed to make a summary of the salient features that had been discussed and the impressions produced on the minds of the young people. These impressions were briefly given by four of the delegates, each having a subject growing out of the discussions. These four parts received constituted the principal feature of the closing session Sunday night. Officers of the conference for the ensuing year were elected as follows: Miss Isabell Gilbert, President; Doris Freeman, Secretary; Frances Wilson, Treasurer. Sandwiches in between the strictly religious meetings, were a social (to get acquainted), a banquet, and a picnic. True Christianity does not imply a doleful existence.

Rev. Malcolm Dana is director of Rural life Extension Work under the auspices of the Congregational Extension Board, with headquarters in New York City. Last Saturday night he gave a talk on his work in Colorado, illustrated by stereopticon views for which he made nearly all the pictures. The artistic merit of the collection proved him a master in picture making. The subject of his talk was "A Community Church," and the pictures helped greatly to emphasize the "before and after taking" where four or five struggling churches, none of them very efficient in meeting the needs of the community, had dropped their individuality for the common good, and together, had erected buildings suitable to accomodate the educational, religious, and social activities of an area as large as that covered by the trade in the small town. Consolidated school, church, and entertainment all in one group, and buildings adapted to use in one or other of community activities seven days a week. This thing can be put over in any rural community where people can be made to understand and then betterment of conditions by co-operation is of far more importance than denominational preferences and prejudices.

Rev. E. W. Butler is enjoying a vacation, visiting his sister, Mrs. Ducey, who has once or twice been a guest at the Butler home in Thorsby. He says in a letter to the writer: "I had the privilege last Sunday of standing in my old pulpit at Ormond, Fla., where I was pastor for seven years. Mr. Rockefeller was in the audiesce, also John D., Jr. I met the father and shook hands with him. He seemed very genial, but he did not ask me to play golf with him. I am having a great trip with my sister; expect to spend Monday at Melbourne and Tuesday at Orlando and Wednesday at Tampa and St. Petersburg. We took a drive on the wonderful Daytona Beach, on which, in the near future, an auto racer will try to run his machine at the rate of 200 miles and hour. Over 20 years ago I saw a race on that beach in which the speeder made more than two miles in less than a minute. We are content with slower speed."

Next Saturday night at 7:30, in the auditorium of Helen Jenkins Hall the Helen Keller Literary Society will give an open meeting. Rev. John C. Goddard, D. D., of Salisbury, Conn., a preacher and writer, will give a short lecture on "The Pinch Hit." Two short plays, entitled "Billy's Chorus Girl," and "Who's the Boss?" will be presented. The usual charge of 10c for admission will be made.

Rev. John S. Goddard will occupy the pulpit at the Congregational church next Sunday at the regular 11 o'clock service.

FOR the expectant mother's comfort and well being, there is nothing that equals Mother's Friend. Its highly refined oils and other wonderful ingredients quickly commends it to the thoughtful mother. Through the daily use of Mother's Friend the skin is made soft and pliable—thus aiding Nature to do her part without the unnecessary discomfort and pain. This is why Mother's Friend has proven such a blessing to expectant mothers for over three generations. Mother's Friend is the formula of an eminent physician. It is safe for you to use because it contains no harmful drugs and is applied externally.

"I will tell all my friends about Mother's Friend," writes Mrs. Ben Abraham, Princeton, Ill. "It is a wonderful help all through the period."

Mother! Insist on Mother's Friend—the same as used by our mothers and grandmothers—don't wait—start using tonight—and meanwhile write Bradfield Regulator Co., Dept. 35, Atlanta, Ga. for free valuable booklet "Motherhood and the Coming Baby" (sent in plain envelope). It tells how Mother's Friend can help you during expectancy and at childbirth. This booklet also tells you many other things you want to know. LEAGUE TO TRY TO STOP SALE BOOKS TEACHING DISTILLING

Westerville, O., Mar. 22.—National officials of the Anti-Saloon League, with headquarters here, are seeking to stop the sale in Alabama of a textbook which is reported to contain a paragraph showing how beer, wine, and absinthe is made.

O. G. Christgau, national educational secretary of the League, has sent the following letter to Bibb Mills, state superintendent of the League for Alabama:

"Our attention is called to the fact that some time ago a physiology, published by one of the book companies, was thrown out of the Alabama schools because it contained a paragraph showing how beer and wine could be made.

"Our attention is called to the fact that another textbook in use in Alabamo contains an even stronger paragraph on the subject of alcoholic drinks. This book is "Living Things" an elementary biology, by Arthur G. Clement, published by the Iroquois Publishing Company, Inc., of Syracuse, N. Y. The paragraph to which our attention has been called is on page 376, under the heading "Beverage Producing Plants."

"This paragraph reads as follows: 'Alcoholic drinks of various kinds are used to greater or less extent thruout the world. They are produced by making solutions of fruits, greens, and herbs, and allowing them to ferment. Examples of these are wines made from grapes, beers made from barley malt to which hops have been added, and absinthe, made by steeping wormwood in strong liquor'.

"Possibly you already have started action to have this book discontinued in Alabama. If not, we feel that you will appreciate having your attention called to it."

REFORESTATION ONLY HOPE FOR NAVAL STORES INDUSTRY

Montgomery, Ala., Mar. 22.—Reforestation was definitely recognized as the future basis of the naval stores industry by the Alabama-West Florida Turpentine Producers' Association, at its meeting in Pensacola, Fla., March 17. The position taken by the Association is of lively interest to the citizens of the South since it apparently indicates a trend toward scientific handling of the long leaf and slash pine areas from which the naval stores industry obtains its raw material.

That a very great deal remains to be done before the pine areas of the South will attain their highest degree of productiveness is conceded by all. However, individuals, firms, and associations are turning their attention toward this end. The general public is strongly behind the movement to restore and maintain this fundamental economic resource. It is regarded that the action of the Turpentine Producers' Association will lend material impetus to the movement.

A number of turpentine operators have already discontinued the promiscuous use of fire in the woods. It is said that this results in an increase of at least 10 barrels to the crop. Operators following the non-burning method thus far have reaped the advantage of this additional profit and have sustained none of the calamities that were formerly thought to accompany any attempt to do without burning. With the use of fire reduced to a minimum, the next step probably will be to adopt the modified French system of operating so that the same tree will produce a longer and much greater yield of resin, thus obviating to a large extent the necessity of working the smaller size trees in order to maintain the present rate of production.

NEW USE FOR A CHEVROLET

Faced with the necessity of making long trips through a territory frequently covered with snow drifts 20 feet deep and where temperatures often hover around 38 degrees below zero, Charles Surrell, of the firm of M. Surrell & Son, Chevrolet dealers at Newberry, Mich., has constructed a novel Chevrolet "snowmobile," utilizing a Chevrolet motor and chassis.

The front end of the queer looking vehicle, which attracts unusual attention wherever it appears in the snow-covered upper peninsula, is fitted at the front end with wooden skis, attached to the regulation Chevrolet axle and steering knuckles. The car is easily handled despite the heavy snow drifts and the average depth of 30 inches of snow encountered in his daily travels, Mr. Surrell says. The rear end of the car is fitted with two sets of Chevrolet wheels, set tandem style, over which an endless tractor belt equipped with flanges operates.

So powerful is the special tractor equipment when powered with the standard Chevrolet motor that Mr. Surrell has often been called upon to tow heavy cars out of snow drifts where they have become hopelessly stalled. The extensive alterations required to transform the Chevrolet into a snowmobile were all made in the service station of M. Surrell & Son. The Chevrolet motor had already put in four years of active service on a Chevrolet touring car before it was utilized for special winter service, Mr. Surrell says.

It Is Well, Then, to Learn the Importance of Good Elimination.

FUNCTIONAL inactivity of the kidneys permits a retention of waste poisons in the blood. Symptoms of this toxic condition are a dull, languid feeling, drowsy headaches and, sometimes, toxic backache and dizziness. That the kidneys are not functioning as they should is often shown by scanty or burning passage of secretions. NEW SALEM

The United Singing Society met with New Salem Sunday, and rendered a splendid program. All seemed to enjoy it, and we hope they receive a great blessing from the songs that were sung. We had a number of splendid directors on the program: E. L. Glasscock, J. R. Robinson of Verbena, T. E. Wyatt of Clanton, J. W. Cagle of Mitchell Dam, Akins Collins, A. H. Glasscock, W. G. Culp, Jasper Oaks, Harrison Hays, Arthur Robinson, T. A. Maddox, Leonard Glasscock, Horace Williams. A very interesting talk was made by Mr. J. M. Scott. Organists were Maud Cox and Jewell Bean. MOORE'S STORE TO HAVE NEW EQUIPMENT

We learn through Mr. G. W. Moore who recently purchased the stock of merchandise formerly in the hands of Hayes Drug Co., located on Second Avenue, in the Mullins Building, in Clanton, that he has just let a contract to the Georgia Show Case Co., of Montgomery, for a complete new set of store fixtures. These fixtures will be the very lastest innovation in the way of service to the public in the handling of merchandise for the drug trade, as well as music and musical merchandise.

Mr. Moore is a firm believer in the future of Clanton, and in taking this step forward he is only making headway for the future business outlook in our section. While new to the drug trade, we know that Mr. Moore has had over 20 years experience in the business world, and we are more than pleased to see him enter the retail field in our city for himself. Until recently Mr. Moore was manager of the Jesse French & Sons business in this section, and now that he has entered business on his own hook, as is said, we feel that this speaks well of his judgment in deciding to be a permanent resident of Clanton.

A new soda fount service will be one of the main features of the business. Mr. Moore stated that a Frigidaire System for keeping ice cream and fount drinks will be installed at once. We have seen the floor plans and blue print of the outlay in the new store, and know that the surrounding country will welcome this move on the part of the new firm.

A complete stock of drug sundries, toilet goods, stationery, magazines, candies, cigars and other smokes, as well as music, phonographs, records, pianos, and musical merchandise will be carried in stock at all times. An added line will be the agency for the well known portable "Corona" typewriter, and supplies for all other standard typewriters, such as ribbons, paper, etc.

Mr. Moore is a believer in the strength of printer's ink, as he has been a liberal user of space in our local papers. We are sure that the future is bright for him in our section, as his idea is to operate a somewhat different store, catering to the lovers of good merchandise on a cash basis at a lower price. A formal opening will be held when the new fixtures are installed, Mr. Moore said, and work will start at once on the painting and decorating of the store, inside and out. This work will not interfere with his business, however, but he will endeavor to serve the public all along. Further announcement will be made on the arrival of the new fixtures, and "It won't be long, now," Mr. Moore states.

REFUGE

The singing society met at this place Sunday afternoon and did some good singing. O. R. Robinson sang one song, followed by prayer, offered by M. Lockhart. A committee composed of T. N. Minor, J. W. Cleckler, and R. N. Connell arranged the following program: R. M. Robinson, J. W. Cleckler, J. E. Minor, E. L. Powell, C. H. Robinson, M. Lockhart, R. Robinson, singing two or three songs each. Closing song, by the chairman; dismission by R. M. Robinson. We were glad to have the cooperation of Providence and other societies, so come back again is our invitation to all.—M. Lockhart, Sec'y.

SHIPMENT OF EGGS FROM CLANTON EACH WEEK

Shipment of eggs from Clanton is an item of interest. Mr. McEathern of the Hill Grocery Company, during the past week shipped 70 cases away from here, for which he paid over $400 to the farmers who brought these eggs to his store.

Regular shipments from the Hill store average from 70 to 100 cases a week. This alone amounts to more than six bales of cotton a week, and something like 400 bales of cotton a year. If there were a concentrated, organized, and systematic method of producing, grading, and marketing eggs among our farmers, these figures could easily be increased a hundred fold.

The poultry business in Chilton County is in its infancy. But one by one and day by day our people are coming to realize the advantages that lie in wait for them, and they are beginning to push forward to a better future.

DR. YARBROUGH WILL BE IN CLANTON NEXT FRIDAY

U. leaders, and all the executive committees of both the Unity and Chilton Associations. We urge all such leaders to be present at the conference.—J. Z. Mims, Moderator of Unity Association; B. Lawrence, Moderator of Chilton Association.

NOTICE

The County Council of Parent-Teacher Associations will meet at the Courthouse on March 31, at 3:00 o'clock p. m. We hope to have every local P. T. A. represented at this meeting.—B. Lawrence, County Superintendent of Education.

Missing Word Contest Creates Much Interest

Papers Received From All Parts of the County, With Missing Words Marked.

The Missing Word Contest put on by The Union-Banner has created quite a senation among the readers of the paper. Folks everywhere are saying: "I may not get a prize, but it costs nothing, so I will try my luck." And the marked papers are pouring in constantly.

The game is not only attractive since there are valuable prizes to be won, but it is highly educational and entertaining as well. It does not take a high education for a person to win, but it takes careful and thoughtful reading. People have a habit of reading carelessly, not paying much attention to what they are reading. This contest will have a tendency to make people think about what they are reading. This makes the game an educational one, and the art of finding the missing words is good sport, too.

This contest is a fine scheme for the advertisers who have subscribed to this page. Merchants and business men want to place their advertisements where they get best results, and this comes from the place where their advertisements are read most. Any space in The Union-Banner is a good advertising medium, because many people read every word of it; but this contest page is exceptionally good. Everybody reads these advertisements, and they read them understandingly.

As was stated last week, the contest will last in all thirteen weeks. There are twelve more with this issue, and new advertisements with new missing words will be offered every week. We especially urge those who have already entered to keep marking and sending in your sheets every week. The prizes are well worth going after, and its lots of fun, too.

Many Thanks To Good Folks of Clanton for Aid

From the depths of a sorrowing heart I wish to express the fullest gratitude and thanks to the good people of Clanton for their kindiness and sympathy during the recent illness and death of my wife. My heart overflows with thankfulness to the many good friends and neighbors who were so good to her and to me, and words are inadequate for me to express my feelings. The kind hands that were reached out to me in my helplessness were the means of sustaining me in my misfortune, wherein I had nothing upon which I could rely, save the goodness that was in the hearts of my neighbors. May God bless and reward each of you is my prayer.

I can not refrain from saying here that I especially thank the women of the Ku Klux Klan of Clanton for their kindness and material assistance.—Thomas Mitchell Bates.

AN OLD TIMER BACK IN CLANTON A FEW DAYS

Mr. Evan B. Calloway, former citizen of Chilton County, who now lives at Nauvoo in Walker County, was a visitor to Clanton for a few days during the past week. He is the father of the well known Joe Calloway of the Alred Drug Company. Mr. Calloway is engaged in farming, and stated that he was making his visit here rather brief because he had to get back home and begin to turn the sod. Many of his old friends and acquaintances were delighted to see him on his visit here.

JOSEPH E. DRIVER DIED IN BIRMINGHAM THURSDAY

Shall We Support Peddlers Or Our Home Merchants

There are more peddlers going around over the country now than ever before. They come around with their little go-satchels and offer to sell us everything under the sun. Ladies silk hose and men's suits are the lines that seem to be pushed most by these transient agents.

While many of our people put out their money with the peddlers, we would like to ask them this question: What are you going to do with our home merchants?

Is there no moral obligation that binds you to buy your goods from the home merchant? We want you to think about this question. Ask your neighbor what he thinks about it, and see if he will tell you it is all right to leave the home merchant out and buy from the peddler.

It is the opinion of The Union-Banner that the citizen who buys silk hose and suits of clothing or anything else from the peddler is neglecting a moral duty which he owes to the support of the merchant at home who offers those things for sale in his store.

The home merchant is contributing to the support and upbuilding of our community by the payment of licenses and taxes. He is helping support the good institutions of our community and thereby paying for the privilege of doing business and making a living here. That is exactly what every citizen, farmer, or business man is doing in some way or other. Every time you buy something from a peddler or a mail order house which you could buy from the home merchant, you are therein violating a part of your moral obligation to pull for the development of home enterprise and home institutions.

There is infinitely more to be said on this big question than we can give space to here. But we want to ask those who read this to talk it over with your neighbors and friends and see if you can't reach a conclusion that it is best to let the peddlers and mail order houses alone and trade with the home merchants.

KINNEY LOWERY ARRESTED ON PROHIBITION CHARGE

Kinney Lowery, son of George Lowery of Stumps Hills, was arrested last Thursday by Sheriff Dudley Collins, on a charge of violating the prohibition law. The Sheriff and his deputies were on the watch in the neighborhood of Lowery's home when they saw him place a sack of malt in a stump hole. As he started away from the place where he hid the sack the officers interrupted him and put him under arrest. He later made bond and was released.

TWO NEGROES CAUGHT AT A CLEVER TRICK OF STEALING

Two negroes, William Mitchell and William Tucker, were caught at Maplesville Tuesday, as the mystery of a clever stealing scheme which they apparently had been operating for some time, was solved.

It is said that goods in the store of Cal Foshee had been coming up missing for quite a while, and every effort heretofore to locate how and where they went had failed.

In some way, we did not learn how, it was found out that the two negroes were in possession of some of the goods more recently stolen from the store. When the case was completed by those making the investigation, it was proven positively that the two negroes were the guilty ones. Thereupon they told how they managed their scheme:

There were iron bars on a back window of the store. They had sawed one of the bars at the place where it entered the window sill. When sawed in two the bar could be pushed upward so as to allow a man to crawl into the store and then down again to its original position.

They acknowledged to the whole program after they were caught with the goods.

To conceal their method of getting into the store they would tie a string around the iron bar where it was sawed, thus hiding the only possible evidence of how they had been entering the building. The two negroes are now in jail at Clanton.

Former Judge of This Judicial Circuit Died on Friday

Opelika, Ala., Mar. 25.—Judge N. D. Denson, of this city, lawyer, jurist, and Christian leader, died Friday morning at 11:15 o'clock at Columbus, Ga., at the home of his niece, Mrs. Lawrence Murray. Death came closely following a heart attack in a drug store in Columbus. He had only left Opelika a few hours before in his car, accompanied by his colored chauffeur. He had a slight attack on his way to Columbus, and another more serious one when he reached the city. When moved to the home of Mrs. Murray, he rallied somewhat, but soon expired.

His son, John, had driven hurriedly from Opelika, and reached him a few minutes after he died. Other members of the family arrived later. At the time of his death he was associate judge of the fifth judicial district, and had served on the supreme bench from which he resigned a few years ago. He was born in Lee County and began the practice of law in LaFayette. He was elected circuit judge and later elevated to the supreme bench.

During the '90's Judge Denson was circuit judge in the Nineteenth Judicial Circuit, of which Chilton County is a part. He was appointed and served as the presiding judge in 1923 to sit over the special Reynolds-Foshee mandamus contest case.

Judge Denson served as circuit judge in Chilton County with much credit to himself.

LISLEY ARRESTED SUNDAY

A man named Lisley, from Birmingham, was arrested by Deputy Loss Robinson, and Policeman Ernest Robinson, on the highway above Jemison last Sunday afternoon. Lisley was charged with disorderly conduct. It is said that he was drunk and was annoying motorists. The case was docketed in Mayor's court at Jemison and will be disposed of next Saturday.

FRIENDSHIP HAS BEST EVENING SINGING EVER HELD

It is no exaggeration to say that the best singing ever held at Friendship church was held there last Sunday afternoon. The house was jammed full, and fully two-thirds of them were singers—the kind that go to singings to get something out of it, and they got it too.

Singing was opened by T. E. Wyatt and a program committee appointed composed of O. R. Robinson, T. G. Wyatt, and G. C. Powell. The program turned in by the committee was composed of the following directors: Prof. L. T. Grant, Jasper Oaks, Prof. H. W. Lowery, Vester Miller, O. R. Robinson, J. W. Cleckler, G. C. Powell, J. W. Cagle, Jasper Robinson, Prof W. M. Devaughn, C. T. Miller, R. M. Robinson, W. F. Gilliland, and C. H. Robinson. Dismission was invoked with prayer by Mr. W. A. Calloway.

Before the last director Uncle Riley Robinson of Providence was called upon to come around and sing or talk or both. The good old gentleman responded by coming around and making a short talk and singing one good old song which everyone thoroughly enjoyed. In the midst of the directing two quartets were rendered —one arranged by Prof H. W. Lowery and the other arranged by Jesse Baker.

There were several directors who could not be used on account of the lack of time; but we hope they won't feel slighted, for we were more than glad to have everyone of them. We thank all visitors for their splendid help and ask them to come back as often as they can on fourth Sunday afternoons.

Sunday being regular preaching day, Rev. W. P. Lowery preached an excellent sermon at 11 o'clock following Sunday School. At 7:30 in the evening the pastor preached an exceptionally good sermon, using as his theme the Church Covenant.

OCIE WEBB GOING TO JASPER TO OPEN NEW STORE

Mr. Ocie Webb, the popular manager of Elmore's 5c, 10, and $1 Store in Clanton, left this week for Jasper, where he will have charge of the opening of a new store of the same character as that which he has been managing in Clanton.

The friends of Mr. Webb in Clanton regret to see him leave here, and wish him success in his new location.

STEVE DUTTON'S JUG FOUND IN STUMP HOLE

There are lots of stump holes in Stumps Hills, no doubt; and we dare say not all of them have a jug concealed therein. But what we would like to know is how in the world Sheriff Dudley Collins, among all of those stump holes, was able to tell which one of them Steve Dutton's jug was in. Be that as it may, he found it, and when Steve came by to get a little "shot" the Sheriff got Steve, jug, stump hole, and all.

Dutton was brought to jail last Thursday and was later released upon making bail bond.

Amos Grooms Stabbed At Dance in His Home

Amos Grooms, age 33 years, died in the Central Alabama Hospital last Saturday night about midnight, as a result of knife slashes said to have been inflicted by Talmadge Davis, age 22, a few hours before.

Reports have it that Grooms was giving a dance at his home two miles west of Thorsby. About nine o'clock Davis entered the room, partially drunk, and attempted to separate a couple that was dancing, expectorating on the floor between the couple. Grooms resented Davis' action, and asked him not to do that any more. It was reported that Davis apologized to Grooms for his misconduct and left the room. He returned a short while later and raised disturbance, spitting in the floor and attempting to spit in Grooms' face. Grooms slapped Davis and they clinched each other and went out of the room into the porch. Before those present could separate them Davis had cut Grooms' throat and had stabbed him three or four times in the chest and side. A doctor was called, and when he arrived Grooms was carried to the hospital in Clanton, where he died thirty minutes later.

Davis left the scene shortly after the cutting and was not seen until Sunday morning when he came to Clanton and surrendered to officers. He was placed in jail charged with first degree murder.

Grooms is the son of Wright Grooms of Birmingham, and is survived by a widow and three small children. For some time he served as a policeman at Thorsby. The remains were carried to Stanton and buried Monday afternoon.

Davis is the son of Alford Davis of Lock 18, near Wetumpka.

WILL BICE ARRESTED FOR HAVING A HALF GALLON

When Will Bice of Stumps Hills got up about sunrise last Friday morning and went out a piece from his house to get an eye opener he found his jug safely secured in the possession of Sheriff Dudley Collins. Bice hunted for his jug a while and Deputy George Murrah asked him if he were hunting for his liquor. "Yes," was his reply. "Is this it, Will?" asked Sheriff Collins, as he rose nearby with the jug in his hands. "Yes," replied Bice.

Bice was arrested and brought to jail, later making bond. This man is already under sentence for making whiskey and is expected to be sent to the penitentiary following this term of the circuit court.

GILMORE BOY ARRESTED CHARGED WITH DRINKING

A young man by the name of Gilmore was arrested last Saturday night a week ago by Sheriff Dudley Collins. He was at a dance at the home of Monroe Collins, near Mineral Springs, and was charged with drinking whiskey. He made bond after being brought to jail.

Interesting Auto Trip Through Mississippi

DEPUTY WILL CULP AND JESSE BAKER WENT 800 MILES WITHOUT A PUNCTURE

Deputy Sheriff Will Culp and Mr. Jesse Baker report a most interesting trip through the State of Mississippi last week, where they went to bring back Oscar Mims, who was wanted by authorities here on the charge of stealing.

The trip was made in Mr. Baker's car, and totaled 814 miles, which distance was covered without a single mishap of any kind, and without the loss of a minute's time with car trouble.

They left here at one p. m., last Wednesday, going by way of Selma, Uniontown, Demopolis, Livingston, York, and Cuba, arriving at Meridian to spend the night. Culp says they have a mighty nice hotel in Meridian, but the fellow who built it used mighty bad judgment in picking out a place to put it—right slam in the middle of the railroad switch yards.

Leaving Meridian Thursday morning they proceeded by way of Laurel, Hattiesburg, Columbia, Tylertown, and McComb to Liberty, where their prisoner was being held. They came back as far as Hattiesburg to spend Thursday night. They got to Clanton Friday night at six o'clock.

When asked about the roads they stated that the only difficulty they encountered in this respect was between here and Riderville, and between Demopolis and Livingston.

MALCOLM RATLIFF ARRESTED AT STILL TUESDAY

Malcolm Ratliff, son of Sebe Ratliff, was arrested while engaged in making whiskey at a still Tuesday morning near Antioch church in the southwestern part of the county. The arrest was made by Sheriff Dudley Collins and Deputy George Murrah.

The officers had the still located and went there with the purpose of determining when it would be ready to run. When they came in sight of the place they saw the boy had it all fired up and in operation. They took the lay of the land and decided to attempt the raid. Deputy Murrah was stationed in a selected spot and Sheriff Collins crawled some distance to gain close proximity before making himself known.

When the Sheriff had gotten close enough to the still he arose and made no effort to get away.

He was taken in charge, and after the still had been destroyed the young man was brought to jail, later being released on bond. Sheriff Collins says he believes when it comes to playing the game of crawling on the ground for some distance through briars and bushes, it is better to be a little sheriff than a big one.

FRIENDS OF CARY EASTERLING GIVE DAY'S WORK

Editor Union-Banner:

Please allow me space to say a few words in regard to the working at the home of Mr. Cary Easterling last Wednesday. Mr. Easterling has been sick for some time with pneumonia, and has had a recent operation at the Central Alabama Hospital, for an abscess. He is in bad shape at present, but improving slowly.

On Wednesday, March 23, there gathered at his home many of his friends and neighbors to give him a day's work. There were 36 plows, 38 mules, and 36 plow hands at work on the farm. Two of the number elected to cut the stalks ahead of the crowd, but they didn't have time to burn the grass off the terraces, much less cut the stalks. The plows ran only 6 hours, plowing 21 acres, including terraces.

Mr. Easterling wishes to thank all his friends for their help.—M. Lockhart.

NATION'S GREATEST MIGRATION TO BE MADE THIS SUMMER

According to figures furnished R. H. Grant, general sales manager of the Chevrolet Motor Company, by officials of the American Automobile Asociation, before the close of 1927, 40,000,000 people—a third of the country's population—will travel by motor car. Their wheeled flight over highways and byways, mountain and plain, constitute the most colossal peace time movement in the history of mankind.

These vast caravanseries will use between 9,900,000 and 10,000,000 automobiles in their wanderings—almost half the passenger cars in use in the nation. These figures are based on the situation which prevailed in 1926.

All indications point to an increase of about 10% in the number of tourists and the number of automobiles. The summer of 1926 found 36,000,000 people taking to the highways in approximately 9,000,000 cars.

A vast amount of money will be spent by the traveling hosts to enrich the innumerable cities and towns and the millions of stay-at-home servitors that cater to road-side wants. The traveler will spend at least three and a third billion dollars—a tremendous factor in the increased prosperity of thousands of comumnities throughout the nation.

Of the total of 10,000,000 cars which will be on the road, three and a third millions will carry camping equipment and tour for an average of 33 days each. The other two-thirds will patronize hotels and will spend an average of 10 days on tour. For the canvas brigade the daily expenditure is estimated at $10 per car, or $33,333,000 daily for them all, which in 33 days will total nearly $1,100,000,000. The hotel tourists will find their expenses running about even with the camping cohorts, although touring only about one-third as long, and will spend approximately $2,200,000,000. At the most conservative estimate it is safe to assume that the resorts, hotels, garages, filling stations, and other agencies catering to motor travel will benefit to the extent of at least $3,300,000,000 from this year's mighty host of motor vacationists.

The vanguard of the great migration is already upon the highways, the first hardy thousands setting out at the first signs of spring. Every touring area in the country is reporting substantial increases and these reports have been borne out by the demands for touring information at automobile clubs. The cult of the open road is in session.

Camping facilities have been greatly improved and extended, and their development seems certain to make this phase of touring much more popular—setting a new record in 1927 for the migratory travelers. There will be more people, young and old, on the road than ever before. There will be more cars, more money, more pleasure.

A few years ago vacation travel was considered an expensive luxury. Today it can be made almost as inexpensive as living at home for the family which wishes to spend their time in camps—and "Seeing America First" will have a deep meaning for millions of former stay-at-homes.

NATIVES OF RUBBER COUNTRY TURNING TO AUTOMOBILES

Out in Liberia, where natives, who have barely heard of motor cars, are toiling in humid heat to transform a jungle into a rubber plantation that the American motoring may have ample and low priced tires for its cars, the urge for automobile ownership is already being felt. And, naturally, America is being looked to to supply those cars.

Already one query has been received from this little republic on the African coast. The inquiry, just received by an Oldsmobile dealer, requests details on the price of an Oldsmobile two door sedan delivered at Cape Palms, Liberia, and resulted from an advertisement published in an Akron, Ohio, newspaper.

The writer is Adolph N. Ajavon, who is engaged with the Firstone Plantations Company in the stupendous task of creating a new source of crude rubber. He had a chance to read one of the Akron newspapers received by the company from its home office in this country, and was attracted by the automotive announcements which enhanced his desire to become an automobile owner.

Incidents similar to this show clearly the trend of the entire world to automobiles, and assure growth for the industry, according to A. J. Ackers of the Akron Oldsmobile company.

"The greater part of the world is, automotively speaking, in about the same condition as we were in this country in 1900," said Mr. Ackers. "Perhaps economic conditions will not permit of so rapid a development of the automobile business in these other countries, but the demand is gradually increasing, and the future export business of American automobile manufacturers will be of great importance to the industry."

MORE FEED CROPS AND LESS COTTON

Auburn, Ala., Mar. 30. There will be more acres in feed crops and fewer acres in cotton in Alabama this year. These are shown by an unofficial report on "intentions to plant." It does not cover cotton because such is prohibited by law, but a larger acreage in feed crops automatically results in fewer acres in cotton.

The report shows that Alabama farmers intend to increase their corn acreage this year by 9% over 1926. For the United States the increase is 1.8%. After considering probable production and demand, F. W. Gist, agricultural statistician, Auburn, has said that this corn acreage might be extended further in Alabama to supply home needs.

There is to be an increase of 20% in the hay acreage; and since Alabama farmers ordinarily fall short by 50% in supplying farm needs of hay, Mr. Gist advises more acres in hay also.

The biggest increase was indicated for peanuts, of which farmers of the state intend to plant 50% more acres than they planted last year. For all the states the increase is 38.3%. Mr. Gist says that this increase does not mean a very large acreage increase, because the acreage in peanuts in Alabama last year was small.

On the other hand, he says that the intention to increase the acreage of sweet potatoes by 50% is not wise. This is the Alabama figure, and the figure for the United States is 32.5%. If these intentions are carried out, Mr. Gist thinks that the sweet potato crop will very likely exceed normal demands and bring disappointment to the grower because of low prices.

NOTICE OF ELECTION

Notice is hereby given that an election will be held at the several polling places in Chilton County on Tuesday, the 12th day of April, 1927, by the qualified voters to determine whether or not the Constitution of the State of Alabama shall be amended in accordance with the proclamation of the Governor by the adoption of Article XXA providing for the issuance of additional public road and bridge bonds in the sum not to exceed $25,000,000.00

This, the 10th day of March, 1927.

FARMERS SHOWN PROFITS IN USE OF ELECTRICITY

Auburn, Ala., Mar. 6.—Three years of research and investigation work by the experiment station of the Alabama Polytechnic Institute and the Alabama Power Company, have revealed that four types of farmers can use hydro-electricity profitably, according to a summary of the work given out by Prof. M. L. Nichols and E. C. Easter, who have had charge of the work from the beginning. These four types of farmers are general farmers, dairymen, poultrymen, and truckers.

On cotton farms it has not been found profitable so far, but more investigational work is being done, with a view to making it profitable on cotton farms and also more profitable on dairy farms, truck farms, poultry farms, and general farms.

Except for convenience, the policy in Alabama is not to advise a farmer to add an electric project unless it is thought by those in charge of the work that it will pay.

Prof. Nichols and Mr. Easter have observed that there is a marked tendency among farmers to change their type of farming in order to use electricity profitably, which enabled them to have it in their homes and on their farms. They think that these changes will encourage the development of a better type of farming.

MR. KAHN ON THE LEAGUE

Otto Kahn, celebrated New York banker, told the members of the American Club in a recent address, that while he believed in the League of Nations, he did not believe America should join it under the existing covenant, and he gave one sound reason which is not often mentioned in the summaries of reasons why we ought to avoid European commitments.

That reason, he stated, is inherent in our Constitution, our traditions, and our political habits and methods of government.

The ministers of the foreign affairs of the various European nations go to Geneva every three or four months to attend the meetings of the League Council, Mr. Kahn stated. If America were in the League, our foreign minister, or Secretary of State, as he is called, could not attend in person, and if he went he would be at a serious disadvantage because he could not speak with the same personal authority as could the representatives of European nations present.

"In Europe," Mr. Kahn continued, "it is a tradition rarely departed from that when once a foreign minister with the approval of his cabinet has made a commitment, ratification by parliament may be taken for granted.

"In America, on the contrary, the power of the foreign minister and his chief, the President, to enter into a binding commitment is sharply limited by a Constitutional provision making the Senate a part of the treaty-making power, and enabling one-third of the Senate to reject a treaty or compel its modification.

"That provision, as it is known, is not theoretical right unobserved or little observed in practice. On the contrary the Senate is jealous of its prerogative in foreign affairs."

Europe does not understand this fundamental difference in the treaty making power, and for that reason to this day European politicians can not understand why America was not bound to the League covenant by President Wilson's commitments at Versailles.

"There can be no doubt that a similar situation would arise if America were officially connected with the League of Nations," Mr. Kahn concludes. "Our representative would inevitably express certain views and advocate or join in certain policies, which expression, however guarded and conditioned, would be looked upon by the European people as American commitments, while on the other hand the American Congress might take a differing attitude and the American Senate would consider itself perfectly free to disavow any such commitments, as would be subject to its control.

"Because of this and other reasons I feel convinced that the entrance of America into the League would be liable to lead to further difficulties between America and Europe.

"I can not see that it is either wise or proper for a nation to enter into a relationship which implies and involves commitments that it may not be able to fulfill, and, in the eyes of the other parties concerned, raises expectations it may not be able to live up to."

Here is something else for the internationalists to think about when they put on a drive to try to sell European entanglements to the American people.

Big Convention To Meet Here in April

The Western District, Baptist Young People's Union, composed of 11 counties, will meet with the Clanton Baptist Church April 28-29. Last May, when it became known that the convention would like to meet in our town, the request was received with misgivings as to whether we could entertain so large a gathering. However, after conferring with Dr. Wilkerson of the Methodist Church, and the Baptist churches of Verbena and Thorsby, and having their assurance of co-operation in entertaining the delegates, the Clanton Baptist Church invited the convention to our town.

It is expected that we will have 250 to 300 delegates attending the convention. Some of the outstanding Baptist leaders of Alabama and other states will be here.

It is a great privilege to have this great host of young Christian men and women come to our town. To see them, and to hear of their great work should increase our faith and be an inspiration to all of our splendid young folks of Clanton.

It is hoped that with the co-operation of Verbena and Thorsby we can put the convention over in a great way. But to do so worthy of our town we must all co-operate gladly and heartily. This, we believe, you will do.

The Committee on Homes is as follows: Mrs. J. Watts Moore, Mrs. J. P. Hayes, Mrs. L. F. Gerald, Mrs. Claude Jones, Mrs. W. W. Fox, Mrs. Wm. Billingsley of Thorsby, Mrs. Will Strock of Verbena. Please let one of the Committee know as soon as possible how many you can furnish beds for.—S. J. Ezell, General Chairman.

TOO MANY TONGUES IS ALWAYS TROUBLESOME

The story is told of the farmer and his wife who could not get along. But on one thing they agreed—there was always something to complain about. If the crops were no good, they were going to the poorhouse; if the crops were good it was too hard on the soil; if the farmer conceded to his wife's urging to clean up and wash his neck and ears, he was using too much soap; if he didn't, he was lazy; if he shined his shoes they would soon have to buy a new shoe brush and the blacking was going too fast; if he went to the barber shop and got a hair cut he was sprucing up to go out with other women; when the wife had her hair bobbed the farmer would not speak to her for three weeks; when she bought a pair of silk hose he declared she was breaking the family's finances.

One day they drove to town with a load of grain and in going through a particularly muddy stretch of road, the wife remarked: "John, see how well those horses pull together, they work together so systematically. Why can't we do that?" "Yes," agreed John, "that would be wonderful, and we could do it if we only had one tongue between us like the horses have."—Kelly's Magazine.

WHISKEY AND DANCING

"The wages of sin is death." These words are as old as the hills, and have been sounded into the ears of all generations down through the ages in every land where Christianity is known. Preachers use it in their text, good mothers repeat it to their children, and school teachers iterate the passage over to their pupils. The civilized world was not half as large when these words were first spoken as it is today, but it was true then and it is true today.

Last Saturday night a young and promising citizen of Chilton County gave a dance at his house, and no doubt, a fine time was anticipated by a large crowd of young people and probably some older ones. But the cloud which shone silver in the beginning soon changed to the blackness of death and horror. Whiskey, the most deadly and cursed thing known to the human race, was injected into the hilarity, and the result was so tragic that it will not be forgotten in a century. Amos Grooms is dead and his alleged assassin is in the hands of the law to be meted out the punishment justly coming to him. Two families of people are in trouble that is almost beyond expression, and which they will not outlive in a whole generation.

Is it sinful to dance? The question has been asked numbers of times. We will not answer the question, but will refer our readers to the above incident, and you may answer it as you see fit. But we will say that dancing most always leads to things that are dreadfully sinful, just as does whiskey. If this young man had announced a prayer meeting or some other social religious gathering at his home, it is very likely that drink would not have entered the scene, and hence the terrible tragedy would not have happened. On the other hand, if Talmage Davis had gone to the dance sober, no doubt things today would be different. But one bad thing added to another inevitably results in something very bad.

The above should be a lasting lesson to lots of people in Chilton County. We are taught that if there is no good in a thing, there is bound to be something bad, and this incident refreshes our confidence in an old adage. A gathering of people is only what those in attendance make it. The class of people who follow these break-down dances are not usually out for much good, and it is folly to look for any outcome other than something to bring a harvest of regret, sorrow and shame later on. "Whatsoever ye sow, that shall ye also reap." The seeds of sin may not have much appearance of badness, but when they spring up into foliage and produce their bitter fruits, it is easy to perceive the corruption and sinfulness of it all. So it is with the things in question — whiskey and dancing. They, within themselves, don't look so bad; but when all the dirty, horrid, and shameful things that are adjuncts to them come in and assume their places, the result is more than likely to be of a bad character.

The cost of the above mentioned incident in trouble and sorrow, to say nothing of the financial loss, is enormous, and it is to be greatly regretted. We give out our heartfelt sympathy both to the Groomses and Davises. But may the loss of these two families cause others to sense the danger in pursuing the paths which these two young men were leading, and turn their course to things that are high and noble, and try to live lives that are Christian, imposing, and elevating.

MR. MELLON'S LETTER

Not in a long time has there been a more complete flattening out than that which was administered recently by Secretary Mellon in his reply to the Princeton professors who advocated the cancellation or scaling down of the debts which European countries owe to the United States as a result of the war financing.

Secretary Mellon completely answered every argument brought to court by the educators, and his arguments are so concise and pointedly made that they ought even to penetrate the densest professional skull structure.

The reply is necessarily too long to be commented on in detail here, but a careful perusal of the entire letter will be worth any real American's time. It has been a familiar contention of debt cancellationists that we ought to forgive these obligations because the money borrowed from us by the Allies was spent in America and remained here. Mr. Mellon disposes of this contention by pointing out this was the financial program agreed to by the allied nations between themselves before we went into the war. He then reminds the professors that this spending of money was not altogether one-sided. During the war America expended hundreds of millions in Europe for supplies and other war expenses. We did not borrow the money to spend as the Allies did in America, but paid cash. That is why the Allies emerged owing us, and we emerged owing no other nation.

Then Mr. Mellon sums up: "We are now urged to cancel these (the allied debts) because it is alleged that they were incurred in a common cause, but neither abroad nor in this country has it been suggested that if this is to be done we are to be reimbursed the dollars actually expended by us in France and Great Britain so that the goods and services they sold us might constitute their contribution to the common cause."

Here is the logic of the situation, and it is well put. If the allies are to have back the money they spent in America because it was spent here for the common cause, why are we not entitled to a return of the hard cash we spent in France and England for a common cause?

To the contention that we ought to cancel the debts because we furnished money in lieu of men, and the Allies supplied the soldiers, Secretary Mellon well says: "I am not going to attempt a discussion of the military contribution made by the United States to the winning of the war, other than to remark that when the crucial period was reached in the spring and summer of 1918, our troops were there." There is no doubt about that.

To the cry of the cancellationists that we are enslaving Europe in order to collect the money Mr. Mellon replies with cold figures which show that "all of our principal debtors are already receiving from Germany more than enough to pay their debts to the United States, and France and Italy, with the exception of this year in the case of the latter, are receiving from the same source more than enough to pay their debts to Great Britain also."

In the case of Great Britain, whom the cancellationists picture to us as struggling under the burden of debt we have put on her, John Bull, the figures show, will receive from debt payments to her from her former enemy and her former allies this year, $2,000,000 more than enough to pay us without calling on the British taxpayers.

Secretary Mellon pays his respects to the efforts of the professors to solve the questions of international finance in the following delightful language:

"I am somewhat surprised that before giving the public the benefits of their conclusions, neither the gentlemen of the faculty of Columbia University, nor those of the faculty of Princeton University, saw fit to make a thorough anu first hand investigation of data available at the treasury, or sought by personal interview to ascertain the views of the American officials who negotiated the settlements.

"The training of these gentlemen, their standing as economists, historians, and teachers of government, would have led me to believe that they would have conceived it to be their first duty to present a dispassionate analysis of the facts based on original study rather than to submit their conclusions unsupported by facts."

There is a bit of fine irony here. Secretary Mellon, of course, knows that, unfortunately, a great many of our university professors, when they journey forth mentally, from the benign contemplation of Babylonian culture and the wisdom of Plato, into the world of reality, in order to solve for the poor uncultured statesmen of every day life some great problem of diplomacy or finance, do not wish to have their mental perspective shackled by such sordid things as facts. Facts are plain and unattractive. Sometimes they will not co-operate with the great theories spun out in the class rooms and when they will not so co-operate they must be cast into the corner wastebasket with the broken chalk and other discarded material.

WHY GARRARD HARRIS STOPPED KILLING BIRDS

Garrard Harris, associate editor of The Birmingham News, who died suddenly March 19th, was a brilliant, scholarly gentleman, whose kind and lovable nature was not known to all who knew him. It was this writer's privilege to have glimpses into his real nature at the last meeting of the Alabama Press Association in Montgomery, when he told why he quit hunting.

"I went dove hunting one afternoon," he said, "and wounded a bird. When I picked it up, it looked at me. I was fascinated by the dove's eyes, which seem to rebuke me with their silent suffering far more forcibly than if the thing had spoken audible would with its tongue. Its eyes seemed to say: 'You have shot me. I could not defend my self. Why did you hurt me? I would not have hurt you?' I broke the bird's neck and ended its misery, and swore to myself that I would never kill another living thing, and to this day I haven't."

This from a true sportsman who loved sport and the call of fields and streams. He kept his promise faithfully, and in later years devoted a large part of his time and energy in publishing the Alabama Sportsman, a magazine. He became interested in game conservation and his book, "Elements of Conservation," has been adopted as a text book in the schools of Alabama and several other Southern States.—Dothan Eagle.

PROVIDENCE—BEAT 16

Editor Union-Banner:

Please allow me space to say a few words in regard to the singings we are having.

The Providence class visited at Friendship Sunday afternoon and I think I can speak for the class—we enjoyed the singing very much.

We folks at Providence expect a singing as fine as can be had next Sunday afternoon, April 2, and we want everyone to come who can possibly do so. Everyone has a hearty welcome to come and help us sing praises to our Great Redeemer.

We thank Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Mims for the piece they wrote, and we especially invite them back again next Sunday.

So, all who like to hear good singing come and listen, and those who sing be sure to come and help us.

After the "Flu" is over —you need a Tonic

Help Is Needed to Restore Your Wasted Strength and Energy.

"Flu" leaves the body weakened and rundown. In such cases, a tonic is clearly indicated. Restore the appetite and rid yourself of that let-down feeling.

"Flu" is a very enervating disease. It leaves its victims so weak and debilitated that there is as much danger from the after-effects as from the disease itself. In other words, after an attack of the "flu," you need a selective tonic to rebuild the system so that you may have your old-time strength and energy restored.

S.S.S. is unequalled for restoring strength and vitality.

You owe it to yourself and family to give S.S.S. a trial. It helps Nature build up red blood corpuscles. It improves the processes by which the body is nourished. It is time-tried and reliable. S.S.S. is made from the roots of fresh herbs and plants, and is prepared in a scientific way in a modern laboratory.

S.S.S. is sold at all good drug stores in two sizes. The larger size is more economical.

I therefore believe it is my duty to my country to love it; to support its Constitution; to obey its laws; to respect its flag, and to defend it against all enemies." Use uniform typewriting paper, or paper about that size.

MORE HORSEPOWER FOR FARM RELIEF

All proposed plans have thus far failed to provide the farmer with farm relief by increasing his selling prices. Industry, however, met a somewhat similar situation by lowering the cost of production. A similar solution can be successfully applied to agriculture.

The increasing of production per worker on the farm is being met to a certain extent by using larger units of power, whether horse or mechanical. Where one man was using a single horse or team he is now using from 3 to 8 horses, thus increasing the ground covered from two to five times. By the use of larger power units hired labor can be reduced or eliminated.

An analysis of raising corn divides costs according to the following:

Land	50 percent
Labor	20 percent
Power	30 percent
Miscellaneous	10 percent

Of these items one can be considered stationary, namely, the land cost. Labor and power are variable and have been the main obstructions to lower production costs. Larger power units are doing much to decrease labor factors. Also, larger power units if used over larger farm areas can do much to lower the power percentage.

Professor J. B. Davidson, senior agricultural engineer, United States Department of Agriculture, summing up investigational work in 36 states, offers this equation for farming:

$$I = (S - C)Q$$

When "I" equals income
"S" is selling price
"C" is cost of production
"Q" is the quantity of production

Professor Davidson states: "Where quantity of production is held uppermost one finds prospereus farmers who plan to farm more acres without increasing the overhead."

Corn controls central western agriculture. In that area the acreage one man can farm is dependent on the number he can cultivate. With the single row cultivator he was unable to cultivate more than four to seven acres per day. The two row cultivator doubled this amount. Three and four row cultivators are now on the market—even six row were used this season. It cultivates fifty acres per day.

Culling Demonstrations Add Much Interest To the Poultry Business In Chilton County

Interest in poultry raising as a side line in the Chilton County Co-operative Association's diversified farming program for 1927 was given great impetus last week when poultry culling demonstrations were held in more than a dozen communities of the county.

In most instances large and interested crowds were at the designated places to learn from experts how this important phase of poultry raising was done. While no exact check of the number of chickens culled was kept, it was found that the farmers have a large number of chickens in their flocks that should be sold, because of their low production of eggs.

Realizing that such would likely be the case, the officials of the Co-operative Association has made ample provision for a profitable sale of these chickens. Arrangements have been made with produce men in Birmingham to buy the surplus in this county at very attractive prices and are now in position to begin shipments at once. In addition to these shipments of coop lots to the Birmingham market, negotiations are being completed this week to ship poultry from various points in the county to the Northern and eastern markets in car load lots. The officers of the association have pointed out however, that it is thought best not to undertake car load shipments until a more thorough survey of the available poultry can be made. This survey is now being made, according to a statement by C. E. Marcus, secretary of the association by filling out the poultry survey blank and either bring or mail it to the association.

The association receives quotations twice a week from the Birmingham market. The quotations received on Monday are good until Wednesday, when another quotation is received which lasts until and including Saturday. In order that those raising poultry may have an idea of the prevailing prices that the association is able to obtain for poultry in coop shipments to the Birmingham market, we are giving herewith, the quotations posted by the association for the period from March 28, to March 31. Fresh candled eggs, (loss off) 23c dozen. Friers 45c pound. Hens 21c per pound. Stags 22c per pound. Old Roosters, 10c per pound. These prices are delivered in Birmingham. The express on chickens from any shipping point on the L. & N. in Chilton County is 79c per hundred pounds. The express on empty coops is 20c each.

Any citizen desiring detailed information in regard to the poultry enterprise is cordially invited to call or write the Chilton County Co-operative Association, Upchurch building, Clanton. Or better still, make a trip to the association's office and confer with the secretary.

"Chicken Show" Night April 11 At High School

Through the co-operation of the Chilton County Co-operative Association, one of the Clanton chicken feed dealers and one of the large chicken feed manufacturers, a very entertaining, interesting and educational play, will be presented at the Chilton County high school, Monday night, April 11. This play, while primarily designed to stimulate interest in poultry raising, is written and presented in a comical manner which makes it very entertaining. Song, dance, romance, tragedy and comedy are combined by a troup of real artists employed by a Nationally known chicken feed manufacturer from St. Louis will put the play on and the citizenship of the entire county is cordially invited to attend.

There will be no admission charge and those who avail themselves of the invitation will be assured of an evening of real entertainment as well as an opportunity to become more familiar with poultry raising and its many profitable sides.

As the play is being presented strictly for educational purposes along poultry lines, and is intended to stimulate poultry raising those who are responsible for bringing the play to Clanton say that neither the manufacturer nor their product will be mentioned in presenting the play.

Remember! It is free and everybody is invited.

Martin Asks Alabamians To help Bring Industries

Birmingham, Ala., March 23.—A 1,000,000 kilowatt hour daily increase in the power output of the Alabama Power Company in 1927 over 1926 is the barometer by which Thomas W. Martin, President of Alabama Power Company measures the continued upward trend of business in Alabama, in a statement issued following his return to Birmingham over the week end, after a two months' stay in the East.

"If the daily increase in power output, and continued inquiries for large volumes of power are guages of advancement, Alabama is moving forward steadily in a material sense," Mr. Martin said. "We need only a true appreciation of our advancement by our people to make it an established fact, and to give added impetus to the improvement in the busines situation.

"Continued demands for electric energy during the remainder of the year," Mr. Martin continued, "on the same basis a the first 77 days, will show an increase of approximately 365,000,000 kilowatt hours in the output of our Company during this year oxer 1926 an average of 1,000,000 kwh a day. This will of course necessitate the constant building of power dams by us to keep pace with this growth, and has caused us to speed up construction schedules on projects now under way.

"As power is perhaps the first essential to modern civic development, inquiries for power invaribly come so far in advance of the expansion of existing or the location of new industries. It is therefore interesting to note as an indication of future developmet that we have recently had inquiries for larger volume of power than at any time in the past.

"That Alabama offers opportunities for many different classes of industrial development is being increasingly appreciated by the factors of other sections. This is indicated perhaps in no better way than by the diversity in the 9 industries established in Alabama by our New Industries Division in 1926. They include foundries, machine shops, textile mills, coal mines, gravel, lime, rock asphalt, ice and powder manufacturing plants. It is estimated that they will give employment to 4,000 workof $4,000,000 annually and utilize 6,500 horsepower of electric energy. This is of course in addition to the expansion of existing industries, and the increased use of electric energy for other purposes.

"The principal factors in national business improvements are the increasing volume of available capital and the lowering of interest rates, which are permitting the expansion of many of the nation's basic industries retarded so long by the shortage of new money except at higher rates. This new capital is in the main being put into improvements which have for their purpose the lowering of manufacturing costs and therefore in the prices of many basic commodities to the public. Competition is getting keener and these improvements are necessary to meet new conditions. This gradual lowering of prices is in turn making for a slow but sound improvement in national prosperity, in which the South and Alabama are sharing.

"Another favorable augury of prosperity in Alabama is the fact that our people are supplying an increasingly large amount of the capital necessary to the expansion of industry, and the establishment of new enterprises. We are matching the dollars of other sections that are constantly seeking Southern opportunities.

"Our Company is so impressed with the economic factors that are requiring the establishment in the South of industries heretofore located in other sections, that we are redoubling our efforts to attract these plants to Alabama. We are increasing the staff of our New Industrious Division and expansion our national advertising program, and increasingly larger results are anticipated.

"But the people of Alabama should bear in mind that in endeavoring to attract new industries to their State they are in competition with every state in the union, many of which are making very attractive inducements. I do not mean to advocate the enactment of additional legislation which has for its purpose the attraction of new enterprises, but I do wish to call attention to the fact that the economic factors that are necessitating this migration of certain industries will not last forever. If Alabama is to get her share of these plants she must bestir herself beyond the efforts of other Southern States. We are doing everything in our power and a number of civic organizations are cooperating with us, but even this is not enough. We would therefore welcome an active national advertising campaign, such as is being advocated in Birmingham, or one on behalf of the State as a whole.

"We are extending our lines not only to the larger centers but to the smaller communities in the rural sections. So that in addition to carrying to them the comforts and conveniences of electricity we are giving the people of these communities an equal opportunity with the larger centers to establish manufacturing enterprises. The resulting decentralization of industry will of course create local markets for the products of the farmer, and make for statewide prosperity.

"We are deeply appreciative of the cooperation of the people of Alabama in this program which has for its purpose the upbuilding of the State, and hope for their continued confidence in our undertakings," Mr. Martin concluded.

WOMEN FIGHT FIRE IN ESCAMBIA COUNTY

Montgomery, Ala., Mar. 29.—The school teachers and women citizens generally of Escambia County propose to keep fire out of the woods even if the men folks are away. Recently Miss Elsa Landquist, teacher of the Boutwell School, led 10 of her pupils to the fire line and fought five hours before the conflagration was under control. The State Commission of Forestry feels that such teachers in the schools will not allow the young America to lack for guidance in the protection of forests.

Reports from the dangerous points in Escambia County show that six other heroic women turned out to oppose the spread of forest fires in their communities. Most of the men were attending court at Brewton, leaving their homesteads and woodlands in charge of the women. The dry spell occurring about the middle of the month afforded a test of the latter's ability to make good as guardians of the farm and forest. That they did so is evidenced by the fact that largely through their efforts the spread of a number of dangerous fires was absolutely stopped.

Thus far over the state as a whole the forest fire situation has been fairly good. However, the present is a critical period and only exceptional alertness will prevent severe damage to valuable property. With the women and school pupils as well as the men citizens exerting every effort, Alabama should reap a decided benefit in forest and land values.

PROHIBITION HAS HELPED BUSINESS

Westerville, Ohio, March 30th — Claims of the wets that prohibition would ruin business in wet centers is refuted in the current issue of the Christian Union Herald, according to a statement isused here today by Dr. F. Scott McBride, general superintendent of the Anti-Saloon League of America.

Dr. McBride's statement quoted the following from the Christian Union Herald: "Before the days of prohibition, Peroia, Illinois, was famed for its whiskey. When prohibition came, the business men of the city said that ruin would follow. But their prediction has not been realized, reports the Methodist Episcopal Board of Temperance, Prohibition, and Public Morals. Peroia of today is far ahead of Peroia of whiskey days.

"A survey of conditions of this city, which was published in the Chicago Daily Tribune, states that there has been a sixty per cent increase in its factory payrolls in the last two years. The city has gained more population in the five years since 1920 than it gained in the ten years preceding.

"This growth in population has been brought about largely by realigning and adjusting the whisky industry. In former days, alcohol was used in the production of whisky. Today it goes into the manfuacture of paint and varnish solvents, photographic chemicals, lacquers, and livestock and poultry food.

"The breweries, following the example of the distilleries, have turned to other kinds of business. Some of the breweries now make yeast and falt syrup."

INSURANCE COMPANIES WILL HELP RETAIN THE DRY LAW

Columbus, O., March 30.—John J. Lentz, president of the American Insurance Union, one of the largest fraternal insurance organizations in the United States, with headquarters in this city, announced today that his company will take an active part in the fight against repeal or nullification of the 18th amendment, anu the Volstead Act, by giving time on the company's super-power radio station, WAIU, for the broadcasting of prohibition facts. The American Insurance Union serves approximately 175,000 policy holders.

Mr. Lentz announced that during the remainder of 1927, a 10 minute period each month will be given over WAIU to dry speakers. During the presidential campaign next year, he said, more time will be given. The time of the broadcasts this year will be from 7:15 to 7:25 p. m., eastern stanuard time, on the last Monday evening of each month.

The first of the series was given by Mr. Lentz on the night of March 28. In this initial talk Mr. Lentz explained the motives which induced his company to take an active interest in the fight for prohibition and presented statistics to show how prohibition has benefitted the insurance business as well as economics generally.

Dr. F. Scott McBride, general superintendent of the Anti-Saloon League of America, will reply to Mr. Lentz, thanking him for his interest in bringing the facts before the American people. Dr. McBride will ask that church members and friends of prohibition in all parts of the United States to listen in on these Columbus prohibition broaucasts and that they send letters and telegrams of congratulation to the American Insurance Union on its stand.

The American Insurance Union is just completing a new forty-eight story home office building in Columbus. Mr. Lentz, formerly a Congressman from this district, sponsored a bill in Congress for the abolition of liquor canteens in the Army and Navy, and has always been a strong advocate of prohibition and its enforcement.

WEST CHILTON

Died late Friday evening, the 18th, Mr. Elijah Bearden, one of the old citizens of West Chilton. He was more than 70 years old, and had lived in this community around 50 years. He died suddenly—just fell dead. He was a big hearted noble citizen, a hard working man, a splendid neighbor, a friend to the needy, was untiring in ministering to the needs of the sick; cheerful and energetic; kind to all, particularly kind to his children. All his children were present at the funeral. The remains were laid to rest at Macedonia Sunday, in the presence of a large gathering of his friends. We regret his passing.

Mr. T. J. Hubbard has been on an extended trip to his daughter, Mrs. Ward, at Hamburg, Ala.

Commissioner Maddox is having good road work done over in this part, which speaks well for Mr. Maddox.

The mumps are now in this section; several cases reported.

The family of Mr. Charlie Langston is reported to be sick with flu—all of them.

Hanson Headley, who has been attending to Mr. J. P. Gentry's store, became sick and returned to his home in Birmingham, temporarily we presume.

Lum Pate's little child has been sick; under the care of Dr. Johnson, it is reported better.

We notice the "New Menace," of Aurora, Mo., is boosting our Tom Heflin for president on account of his stand in the Senate against the Knights of Columbus for trying to push this country into war with Nicaragua and Mexico. This country has surely had war enough.

We note E. G. Cofer in his old age is doing a nice mercantile business.

THORSBY SECTION

(R. E. NORTON, Manager).

Thorsby community was shocked last Sunday morning when the news was spread of the tragedy at the home of Amos W. Grooms, a tenant on the farm of Dewey Collins, formerly the C. E. Lucas farm. Saturday night the family was giving a dancing party to several of their friends, when a stranger, uninvited, appeared among the guests. Nothing would have been thought of it if he had conducted himself according to common decency, but when he began spitting on the floor of the room used for dancing there was a protest from Mr. grooms and a request that he cease such conduct; his reply was a repetition of the act. Then Mr. Groom slapped him and ordered him from the house; when they got outside although Groom was unarmed, the stranger attacked him with a knife and cut his throat. He then jumped into his auto and left, but not before he was identified as young Talmadge Davis, son of a storekeeper, Alford Davis, who, after a struggle with his son at home, brought him to Clanton about noon Sunday and surrendered him to Sheriff Dudley Collins, who placed him in jail to await the action of the grand jury which met next day. Mr. Grooms was rushed to Central Alabama Hospital at Clanton, where he died about midnight. His funeral was held Monday at Stanton, where both he and his wife were born and raised. He leaves a widow, one son about 12 years old, and two daughters of about 10 and 6 years. Mr. Grooms served four years in the U. S. Marine Corps, 18 months of it in France during the World War; he had the usual amount of government insurance allowed to his class of service men. The family came to Thorsby about four years ago, and for a time Mr. Grooms was town marshal. Two years ago they moved to the farm; Mr. Groom was efficient as a farmer, and stood high in the opinions of his neighbors. The field of one and a half acres of strawberries he had planted and brought to bearing attests his skill and care in that line—any man might be proud of it. The widow, formerly Miss Ida Binion, with her children, will soon leave for Midway, in Bullock County, where she has a brother and two sisters.

Music recital of junior high school at Thorsby will be held Saturday evening, April 2, at 7:45, at the school auditorium. All patrons and friends of the school are cordially invited.

The regular morning service at the Congregational church will be omitted to permit co-operation in the service at the public school.

Congregational Ladies Aid meets with Mrs. S. C. Wood Thursday afternoon, April 7.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Petersen and children were Sunday visitors at the home of Mr. Petersen's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Carl C. Petersen. They left in the evening for their home at Oxmoor, where Harry is station agent for the L. & N. Railroad Co.

At 7:15 next Sunday night at the Congregational church there will be a song service; the title is "The Illuminated Cross." Everybody invited to come and help sing.

In preparation for a series of special services to begin at Thorsby Congregational church on Sunday night, April 10, and continue through the week closing Easter Sunday, there will be cottage prayer meetings on Friday nights this week and next at two places simultaneously. This week they will be at the Raybon and Steiner homes. It is hoped that people living in the vicinity of these homes, regardelss of denomination, will attend.

Thorsby people had a rare treat in the visit and public speaking of Rev. John C. Goddard last week end. His short lecture Saturday night at the Literary Society was a gem. "The Pinch Hit," as rescribed, means doing the seemingly impossible, which may be, and often is accomplished by putting all of one's self into solving the problem presented. His sermon Sunday was a fine address on "Individuality." Dr. Goddard expressed himself as delighted with much that he saw in Thorsby.

Things to Know Before Baby Comes

THE expectant mother's comfort and well being is very important. And one of the most important things for her to do is to use Mother's Friend to keep the skin and muscles soft and pliable—thus aiding the tissues and muscles to relax and adjust themselves to the changes during motherhood. Mother's Friend is the formula of an eminent physician and has been used by expectant mothers for over three generations. No woman awaiting the joy of motherhood should allow the days to pass without using Mother's Friend.

Mrs. Laura Hendrix, Gracemont, Okla., writes: "I used Mother's Friend with all my babies and I think it is the grandest help that has ever been discovered for expectant mothers. I can't say too much for it."

Mother's Friend is safe for you to use because it contains no harmful drugs and is applied externally.

Mother! Insist on Mother's Friend—the same as used by our mothers and grandmothers—don't wait—start using tonight—and meanwhile write Bradfield Regulator Co., Dept. 31, Atlanta, Ga., for free valuable booklet "Motherhood and the Coming Baby" (sent in plain envelope). It tells how Mother's Friend can help you during expectancy and at childbirth. This booklet also tells you many other things you want to know. "Mother's Friend" is sold by all druggists—everywhere.

Benefit Bridge Party—

A most enjoyable affair of the past week was a benefit bridge party, given at the home of Mrs. Lawrence Gerald, on Fifth Street, Friday afternoon by the members of the fifth grade committee of the Parent-Teachers Association. The home was beautifully decorated with honeysuckle, dogwood, crabapple, and other bright spring flowers. Nine tables for the games were arranged in the living, dining, and music rooms. Following the series of games, top score was held by Mrs. C. Fenn Jones. A pair of silk hose was presented to her. The consolation prize, a guest towel, was given to Mrs. Victor J. Heard.
